

MUSIC (MUS)

Subject-area course lists indicate courses currently active for offering at the University of Louisville. Not all courses are scheduled in any given academic term. For class offerings in a specific semester, refer to the Schedule of Classes (https://csprd.louisville.edu/psft/ps_class/EMPLOYEE/PSFT_CS/c/COMMUNITY_ACCESS.CLASS_SEARCH./x/?state=62dab551a0d600a5e8237359c50704e59007&duo_code=sjUx20STJ21)

500-level courses generally are included in both the undergraduate- and graduate-level course listings; however, specific course/section offerings may vary between semesters. Students are responsible for ensuring that they enroll in courses that are applicable to their particular academic programs.

Course Fees

Some courses may carry fees beyond the standard tuition costs to cover additional support or materials. Program-, subject- and course-specific fee information can be found on the Office of the Bursar website (<https://louisville.edu/bursar/tuitionfee/university-fees/>).

- MUS 361. Introduction to Musicologies 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): MUS 141; permission of instructor required for non-majors.
Description: This course introduces students to foundational concepts, perspectives, and skills related to the musicological study of music. Students will develop critical thinking skills about music historiography, research and writing. The course emphasizes music as a communal, embodied, and contingent practice.

- MUS 362. Applying Musicologies 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): MUS 141 and MUS 361; permission of instructor required for non-music majors.
Description: In this class, we study artistic materials and music history through 21st-century lenses such as participation, pluricultural interaction, compassion, space, embodiment, and listening to trace how musical and artistic expressions enhance and interact with human experiences - then and now. Therefore, this class aims to empower us to become agents in an artistic world, capable of creating and interpreting works through a critical and empathetic lens and through processes that honor a multiplicity of voices and perspectives. In other words, we will gain the tools to ask what it means to question sources, authorities, and prevalent narratives in music studies to experience and narrate music (studies/history) in unexpected ways. Throughout the class, we will apply the study lenses to our everyday communities to understand how our musical practices relate to historical ones, which creates spaces for participatory 'sense-making'.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (<http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm>)
- MUS 363. Engaging Musicologies 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): MUS 141 and MUS 361; permission of instructor required for non-music majors.
Description: In this course, students will continue to gain familiarity with the various forms of musicology as a multi-faceted discipline, exploring both past and contemporary issues and examining how musicians use their historical and cultural knowledge in the professional world. This course is designed to help students make artistic connections through a socio-cultural lens: who has made music, where, how, and why? What factors have shaped the experiences of musicians? Students will also consider the place of musicological study in our communities and the world, applying the knowledge learned to a variety of modes and media.
