Program Information

The Doctor of Philosophy in Counseling and Personnel Services encompasses four specialization areas:

• College Student Personnel
• Counseling Psychology
• Counselor Education and Supervision
• Educational Psychology, Measurement, and Evaluation

The doctoral degree is granted in recognition of scholarly proficiency and distinctive achievement in a specific field/discipline. All candidates for a doctoral degree in the College of Education and Human Development must successfully complete qualifying exams and a dissertation/professional portfolio that clearly indicates the candidate has mastered and can exhibit/articulate the content knowledge, skills, and dispositions specific to their discipline, and can utilize appropriate research methodologies to contribute to the body of knowledge in their field.

Distinctive Characteristics of Doctoral Programs in the College of Education and Human Development

• Social Justice and Equity
  Doctoral students in our program build experience and expertise in the issues of social justice and equity which aligns with our metropolitan mission and focus on student achievement.

• Leadership
  Our doctoral students gain expertise in supervising and leading others to achieve organizational goals and missions, managing complex systems, addressing administrative issues and procedures, conducting research to enhance leadership and teaching others about the art of organizational leadership.

• Practical Experience
  The doctoral program contains practicums, internships, or embedded field experience that aligns with program and career goals. These mentored experiences may include teaching, research, administration or other appropriate areas.

• Scholarship/Research
  An emphasis on scholarship includes experience and mentorship in ethics, publications, presentation, grantsmanship, and other forms of creative activity. The research component is characterized by the development of vertical research teams: senior faculty junior faculty, doctoral students, master’s students, and in some programs, undergraduate students, working together on research projects and research areas. These may be bolstered by partnerships with local school districts, businesses, or community agencies.

Admission Requirements

Prospective students must submit an online application for admission (http://louisville.edu/graduate/apply) to the Graduate School. Additional requirements are listed below:

• A master’s degree, or its equivalent in a related field, is typically required. However, highly motivated applicants with a strong undergraduate record and a Bachelor’s degree may also be considered for admission. Applicants are required to submit official transcripts from all higher education institutions attended.

• Three letters of recommendation from individuals who can speak to the applicant’s academic and/or professional capabilities and potential.

• Test scores from the Graduate Record Exam General Test – Verbal, Quantitative, and Analytical Writing – are required. Please note: When submitting GRE scores through ETS, have scores sent to the general University of Louisville code, 1383.

• The Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) is required of all students who completed a degree outside the United States from countries in which English is not the native language. Students holding a baccalaureate or advanced degree from an accredited institution in the United States are exempt from this requirement.

• A statement of professional goals appropriate to pursuing a PhD in the specific area of specialization is required. Applicants should submit a personal statement of approximately 1,500 words outlining their professional goals and how their research and professional interests might align with those of faculty in the department.

• An updated curriculum vitae (CV) or resume

Each application will be evaluated to determine the strength of all components (GRE, undergraduate and graduate GPAs, letters of recommendation, professional goal statement, and work experience) as predictors of successful completion of the program. Applicants are encouraged to visit the website of the specialization area (http://louisville.edu/education/degrees/phd-cps) of interest for further information about suggested GPA and GRE score requirements, application deadlines, and other specific information related to that specialization area.
