Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): ECPY 673 or ECPY 680.
Description: Provides experience in applied counseling psychology under the direct supervision of a licensed psychologist. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECPY 684. Internship in School Counseling  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ECPY 624 and ECPY 640.
Description: Provides experience in school counseling under the supervision of a Certified School Counselor. Six hundred hours of service are required and can be achieved either in one semester by serving 40 hours per week in a K-12 school setting or over several semesters by serving at least 300 hours in a school setting and the remaining hours in a setting serving K-12 school-aged children. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECPY 694. Graduate Seminar in Educational and Counseling Psychology  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Covers current issues in counseling and psychology. Course may be repeated. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECPY 695. Capstone Seminar in College Personnel Work  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): 30 hours in master’s program.
Description: Examines various topical areas in the field of student affairs in today’s university setting. Emphasis on synthesis of topical material covered in other courses in the curriculum. Primary focus will be the integration of the practical application in conjunction with developmental theory models. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECPY 696. Independent Study in Guidance  1-3 Units
Description: By arrangement with dean and advisor. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECPY 697. Topical Seminar in College Student Personnel Services 3 Units
Description: Selected topics such as legal problems, housing, and financial aid, determined by student needs and interests. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECPY 698. Supervised Readings  1-3 Units
Description: By arrangement with advisor and dean. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECPY 699. Thesis or Professional Paper  3-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): ELPF 660 or equivalent; consent of advisor. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECPY 700. Supervised Research in Educational and Counseling Psychology  1-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to doctoral study.
Description: An intensive research apprenticeship with a faculty member. Students assist in formulating research hypotheses, articulating the research design, developing the research method, making arrangements to conduct the study, entering and analyzing the data, and writing up the findings for publication. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECPY 701. Doctoral Professional Seminar in Educational Psychology, Measurement, and Evaluation  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to doctoral study.
Description: An orientation to doctoral work educational psychology and research, including professional strategies for success, skills, and cognitive orientations. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECPY 705. Adult Development Theories  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: A seminar examining physical, psychological, and social changes that occur during adulthood and how those changes affect learning. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECPY 710. Social Ecology & Social Behavior  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Doctoral student status or permission of instructor.
Description: The development of culture and the effects of social systems on individual and group behavior including the development and interaction of social systems with individual psychology, biological constraints on social behavior, and the effects of the interaction of different social systems. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECPY 711. Prevention of Mental Disorders: Theory, Research, and Practice  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ECPY 600.
Description: The course addresses the prevention of mental disorders, and problem behaviors including facilitation of healthy psychological development of youth. The latest research, theory, and practice in prevention are examined. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
ECPY 712. Advanced Issues in Human Development 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to doctoral study.
Description: Conceptualizes development as result of bi-directional or multidirectional interactions between individual and environment. Emphasis placed on research informing practice and policy with children in home and school settings.

ECPY 720. Workshop in Counseling 1-6 Units
Description: An intensive examination of some specific current or continuing issue or practice in counseling. Review of literature, current field practice, and student participation are stressed.

ECPY 721. Advanced Counseling Seminar 1-8 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: The topic of this seminar will vary from semester to semester. Written notice of the topic will be given prior to its being offered. The topics will be determined by the instructor and will be of current interest in the field.

ECPY 722. Advanced Theories of Counseling and Psychotherapy 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Master's degree in Guidance and Counseling or its equivalent and consent of instructor for non-majors.
Description: Covers advanced training in a specific area of counseling and psychotherapy. Topics will be determined by department faculty. Course may be repeated.

ECPY 730. Social, Legal & Ethical Issues in Counseling 3 Units
Description: Examination of current social developments that relate to counseling. Legal perspectives relevant to practice and principles of ethical practice in counseling.

ECPY 731. Counselor Education Seminar: Teaching and Ethics in Counselor Education 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to doctoral program.
Description: This course provides an introduction to teaching in counselor education programs. The course also addresses ethical, legal, and multicultural considerations in teaching in counselor education programs.

ECPY 732. Counselor Education Seminar: Promoting Social Change-Leadership 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to doctoral program.
Description: Leadership and advocacy as roles of the counselor educator in behalf of the counseling profession and diverse client populations are explored.

ECPY 740. Psychometrics and Affective Instrument Development 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to doctoral program or permission of instructor and ELFH 701 or equivalent.
Description: This course is intended to further students' understanding of psychometrics, with a focus on developing and validating attitudes, evaluation, and other affective instruments. This course is intended to teach students to evaluate the psychometric properties of instruments and to develop and validate affective instruments. The course will cover item development, scaling procedures, content validity, unidimensionality, construct validity, "factorial" validity, internal consistency reliability, and brief exposure to generalizability theory and IRT. Students will learn how to conduct exploratory factor analyses, and reliability analyses. Students will create and pilot an affective instrument for the final project.

ECPY 745. Systematic Reviewing and Meta-Analysis 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to doctoral study.
Description: Provides a general overview of all aspects of a scientific literature review, including formulating a problem, finding the relevant literature, coding studies, and meta-analysis.

ECPY 746. Secondary Data Analysis 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to doctoral study; ELFH 701 or 703; ECPY 789.
Description: Practical and methodological issues in secondary data analysis, such as accessing, managing, and preparing data, applying quasi-experimental techniques to large data sets, sampling and weighting issues, and identifying limitations of research.

ECPY 750. Group Counseling, Advanced Theory and Practice 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ECPY 650, master's degree in counseling and consent of instructor for non-majors.
Description: An examination of research theory and relevant literature for application to counseling in groups. Experience and practice are an essential part of the course.

ECPY 755. Counselor Supervision 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MS in counseling or related field, or consent of instructor for non-majors.
Description: Theory, techniques and research in the area of counselor supervision.

ECPY 795. Doctoral Research 1-15 Units
Prerequisite(s): Completion of coursework for PhD program or successful completion of comprehensive examinations.
Description: Doctoral students must register for the course by using the departmental prefix, corresponding to their dissertation chair.
Note: Cross-listed with EDSP 795 and ELFH 795.

ECPY 796. Research Literature 1-6 Units
Description: For advanced graduate students only. Consent of instructor and department chair required.

ECPY 797. Internship in Educational Psychology, Measurement, and Evaluation 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to doctoral study.
Description: This course will provide students with an opportunity to work in an applied educational research setting, conducting research on a variety of topics as needed by practicum site.

ECPY 798. Field Study 2 Units
Description: For Eds candidates only.

ECPY 799. Professional Paper 1-5 Units
Description: For Eds candidates only. To provide course credit for the EdS candidate in completing the required independent professional project.

Electrical and Computer Engineering (ECE)

ECE 500. Special Topics in Electrical Engineering 1-6 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Description: Exploration of one or more ECE topics not covered in the regular course offerings.

ECE 505. Graduate-Professional Project in Electrical Engineering 1-6 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): Approval of a faculty sponsor.

ECE 510. Computer Design 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): ECE 210 and ECE 211.
Corequisite(s): ECE 511.
Description: Review of logic design and elementary computer organization. Design of the central processing unit, memory, control, and input-output portions of a computer. The VHDL hardware design language will be used.
Note: Cross-listed with CECS 510.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 511. Computer Design Laboratory 1 Unit
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): ECE 210.
Corequisite(s): ECE 510 or CECS 510.
Description: Experiments in the design of the central processing unit, memory, control, and input-output portions of a computer using VHDL for software simulation.

ECE 514. Introduction to VLSI Systems Laboratory 1 Unit
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): ECE 510 (or concurrent) or CECS 510 (or concurrent) or consent of instructor.
Corequisite(s): ECE 515.
Description: Design of logic circuits and subsystems using CAD tools: layout, verification, parameter extraction, circuit- and logic-level simulation.

ECE 515. Introduction to VLSI Systems 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): ECE 510 (or concurrent) or CECS 510 (or concurrent) or consent of instructor.
Corequisite(s): ECE 514.
Description: MOS devices and circuits, electrical and logic design principles. Fabrication steps, design rules, electrical parameters, extraction, delays. Logic/switch arrays, dynamic precharge logic, precharge forms, finite state machines, registers, memories, subsystem design examples.

ECE 516. Microcomputer Design 4 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ECE 412 or CECS 412 or consent of instructor.
Description: Design and construction of microcomputers with microprocessors and digital integrated circuits. Breadboarding, hardware design and software design are emphasized. The class is separated into groups and each group designs, breadboards and tests a complete microcomputer system including interfaces to peripheral devices.
Note: Cross-listed with CECS 525.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
ECE 518. Fundamentals of Computer Communications and Networks 3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ECE 360 or IE 360; ECE 412.
Description: Data communications: The exchange of data between devices is covered. The key aspects of transmission interfacing, link control, and multiplexing are examined. Data communication networking: Examines the internal mechanisms by which communication networks provide a data transfer service for attached devices.

ECE 520. Digital Signal Processing 3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): ECE 420.
Corequisite(s): ECE 521.
Description: Discrete time signals and systems; Discrete Fourier Transforms, FFT algorithms, flow graph and the matrix representation of digital filters; FIR and IIR filter design techniques; quantization effects; spectral estimation; current applications of digital signal processing.

ECE 521. Digital Signal Processing Laboratory 1 Unit

Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): ECE 420.
Corequisite(s): ECE 520.
Description: Focuses on the implementation of common digital signal processing functions using state-of-the-art DSP devices and software. Introduction to fundamentals of discrete-time signal processing and digital signal processor architectures and applications. Emphasis on laboratory experience involving generation of deterministic and random signals; digital filter design; quantization effects; FFT computation; linear system analysis; speech processing.

ECE 523. Introduction to Biometrics 3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ECE 420 and Senior standing.
Description: Biometric approaches aim at identification based on a physical characteristic. Survey of biometric techniques with focus on non-intrusive approaches. Topics covered include image formation, sensors, motion tracking, and face recognition algorithms.

ECE 526. LabVIEW for Electrical Engineers 3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ECE 420 (or concurrent) or permission from the instructor.
Description: Introduction to capabilities of LabVIEW software for electrical engineers. Weekly labs build mastery of LabVIEW applications such as: data acquisition and analysis, instrumentation, and DSP programming.

ECE 530. Introduction to Random Processes and Estimation Theory 3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 330; ECE 360 or IE 360; and ECE 420.
Description: Introduction to the theory and applications of random processes, a nonmeasure-theoretic approach to the study of random variables, functions of random variables, least square estimation, convergence, stochastic representation, stationarity, ergodicity, Gaussian processes, Poisson processes, Markov chains, and random fields.

ECE 531. Power Electronics 3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ECE 333, ECE 334, and ECE 420.
Description: Topics in power electronics including: power semiconductor devices; converter topologies and their applications; switched-mode DC and uninterruptible power supplies; motor drives; EMI concerns and remedies for interfacing to electric utilities.

ECE 532. Electromechanical System Designs for Home Appliances 4.5 Units

Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Description: An integrated study of advanced electrical engineering and software engineering fundamentals and their application to technologies associated with the design, development, and production of modern major household appliances. This class is designed for GE Appliances Edison students or GE Appliances employees enrolled in the ECE program.

ECE 533. Integrated Circuit Design 3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): ECE 333.
Corequisite(s): ECE 534.
Description: Analysis and design of analog integrated circuits. Bipolar, JFET, and MOS-FET devices. The technology of IC fabrication. Transistor connections, current sources, active loads, and output stages. Integrated amplifier and MOS circuit design.

ECE 534. Integrated Circuit Design Laboratory 1 Unit

Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): ECE 333.
Corequisite(s): ECE 533.
Description: Laboratory to illustrate design principles in ECE 533. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
ECE 539. Industrial Software for Home Appliances  4.5 Units
Description: This course provides electrical engineering graduate students working in the major home appliance industry with an understanding of industrial software engineering fundamentals and their application to technologies associated with the design, development, and production of major household appliances such as refrigerators, washers, dryers, cooking products and dishwashers.

ECE 540. Fundamentals of Lasers  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 542 or ECE 473 and PHYS 355 or consent of instructor.
Description: Topics to be discussed include interaction of light with matter, optical amplifiers, laser resonators, Gaussian and higher order optical beams, non-linear optics, and ultra-fast laser pulses.
Note: Cross-listed with PHYS 547.

ECE 541. Engineering Optics Laboratory  1 Unit
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ECE 540 (or concurrent).
Description: Computer-aided design-oriented series of fundamental optics experiments ranging from thin lens experiments, diffraction, interference, laser coherence and birefringence. Abbe theory.

ECE 542. Physical Electronics  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 300 (or concurrent).
Description: Semiconductor fundamentals, energy bands, carrier transport theory, continuity equations, PN junction diodes, Zener diodes, Schottky Barrier diodes, metal-semiconductor contacts, bipolar junction transistors, MOS capacitors, field effect transistors, microelectronic fabrication.

ECE 543. Fundamentals of Microfabrication and MEMS  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): Senior standing.
Description: Microfabrication techniques including cleanroom technology, lithography, thermal oxidation, diffusion, ion implantation, film deposition, etching, micromachining, wafer-level bonding/polishing, and packaging yield. Microtechnology measurement and analysis techniques. Process simulation. CAD device-layout. MEMS (microelectromechanical systems) and microelectric technology and applications. Material issues for MEMS/microelectronics.

ECE 544. Microfabrications/MEMS Laboratory  1 Unit
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ECE 543 (or concurrent).
Description: Laboratory to illustrate microfabrication processes, semiconductor measurement techniques, MEMS microstructure fabrication, and MEMS testing. Cleanroom activity required.

ECE 545. Optical Signal Processing  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ECE 420 or consent of instructor.
Description: Scalar diffraction theory and equivalence to linear filtering. Fourier transform properties of lenses. The modulation transfer function.

ECE 546. Introduction to Medical Imaging  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 542 or ECE 473 and PHYS 355 or consent of instructor.
Cross-listed with PHYS 547.
Description: Focuses on the foundation of modern medical imaging at an introductory level with emphasis placed on concepts: X-ray, CT, MRI, PET, and Ultrasound will be discussed. Students interested in in-depth treatment of these topics should register for ECE 641.

ECE 550. Communication and Modulation  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): ECE 360 or IE 360, and ECE 420.
Corequisite(s): ECE 551.
Description: Modulations such as AM, FM, PAM, PPM, PDM, single sideband, vestigial sideband. Coherent and noncoherent detection, heterodyne action, performance and distortion, circuits for modulation and demodulation.

ECE 551. Communication Systems Laboratory  1 Unit
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): ECE 420.
Corequisite(s): ECE 550.
Description: Laboratory exercises involving the design and analysis of electronic communication systems for the transmission of analog and digital data at radio frequencies.

ECE 602. Graduate Internship in Electrical and Computer Engineering 2 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Student must be admitted for Graduate Study, and be a sponsored member of the Graduate Intern Program.
Description: Supervised professional experience in industry at the graduate level. This course provides the structure and focus for the graduate intern field assignment to ensure that the assignment is appropriate and consistent with the intern's graduate course of study and professional development. May be repeated for credit. Does not count toward credit for a degree.

ECE 605. Graduate Project in Electrical & Computer Engineering 1-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): Approval of a faculty sponsor.

ECE 611. Computer Architecture 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Any of the following: CECS 510, CECS 525, ECE 510, ECE 516 or equivalent.
Description: This course will provide in-depth exposure to advanced topics in computer architecture. The emphasis is on studying and analyzing fundamental issues in computer architecture design and their impact on performance. Course topics include performance measurements; ISA; memory hierarchy design and cache memory; advanced pipelining; and advanced computer structures for instruction-level parallelism, instruction scheduling, data-level parallelism, and thread-level parallelism.
Note: Cross-listed with CECS 611.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 613. Computational Intelligence Methods for Data Analysis 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate Standing.

ECE 614. Deep Learning 3 Units

ECE 619. Computer Vision 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): ECE 555 or ECE 618.
Corequisite(s): ECE 645.
Description: Introduction to the theory and applications of computer vision. Topics include: image representation, image segmentation, image analysis by mathematical morphology, texture, shape representation, shape analysis and 3D vision.

ECE 620. Pattern Recognition and Machine Intelligence 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): ECE 420 and ECE 360 or IE 360.
Corequisite(s): ECE 655.
Description: Fundamentals of statistical, structural, and syntactic pattern recognition approaches. Parametric and nonparametric classification, feature extraction, clustering, and formal languages representation. Applications include: Data classification, character recognition, speech recognition, and target tracking.

ECE 631. Advanced Electromechanical System Design for Home Appliances 4.5 Units
Description: Provides electrical engineering graduate students working in the major home appliance industry with an advanced, integrated summary of electrical engineering and computer engineering fundamentals presented in the context of technologies impacting appliance product lines and production methodologies. Curriculum materials and assignments emphasize the multi-disciplinary nature of these technologies, and critical role played by EE / CE in their realization. The course culminates in an end-of-semester project, which the students will work together to solve a real-world engineering problem from the major home appliance industry.

ECE 632. Semiconductor Principles 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ECE 542 and ECE 473.
Description: Fundamental principles of semiconductors necessary for a detailed understanding of the operation of transistors, including energy bands, carrier statistics, recombination-generation, carrier transport, and Boltzmann equation.

ECE 633. Microelectronics Design and Fabrication 4 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): ECE 542, ECE 543 and ECE 544.
Description: Design, layout, simulation and verification, fabrication, characterization, and extraction of model parameters for microelectronic devices (e.g., MOSFETs) and circuits.
ECE 636. MEMS Design and Fabrication
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): ECE 543 and ECE 544.
Description: Design, layout, simulation and verification, fabrication, characterization, and extraction of model parameters of MEMS devices.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 638. The MOSFET
Prerequisite(s): ECE 542.
Description: Fundamentals of MOSFET operation and fabrication, including long-channel MOSFET's, short-channel MOSFET's, sub-100nm gate-length MOSFET's, and novel MOSFET structures.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 639. Advanced Industrial Software for Home Appliances
Description: ECE 639 provides electrical engineering graduate students working in the major home appliance industry with an understanding of industrial software engineering fundamentals and their application to technologies associated with the design, development, and production of major household appliances such as refrigerators, washers, dryers, cooking products and dishwashers.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 640. Introduction to Biomedical Engineering
Prerequisite(s): ECE 420.
Description: Engineering modeling and simulation of biological systems, quantitative physiology of the cardiovascular, pulmonary, and circulation systems, fundamentals of biomechanics and human-machine interface, basics of medical instrumentation design, and artificial organs. Practical applications include biopotential amplifiers design, biological signal processing, and medical imaging.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 641. Medical Imaging Systems
Prerequisite(s): ECE 555 or ECE 618.
Description: Focuses on the foundations of modern medical imaging.
Topics include: X-ray generation and X-ray/tissue interactions, projection
X-ray imaging, image reconstruction from projections, X-ray CT, MRI, nuclear medicine, SPECT, PET, and Ultrasound.
Note: Cross-listed with CECS 641.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 642. Fiber Optics and Integrated Optical Systems
Description: Propagation of electromagnetic waves in dielectric media.
Phase and group velocity. Eikonal equation. Ray and wave theory of uniform and graded index planar and channel optical waveguides and optical fibers. Design and fabrication techniques for waveguides and integrated optical devices. Semiconductor laser and modulator design.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 643. Introduction to Biomedical Computing
Prerequisite(s): Graduate Standing.
Description: Covers various aspects of modern tools of biocomputing in its broad sense; hardware and software issues are covered. Topics include: Super and high performance computer architecture, high bandwidth networking, wireless computing, visualization, and software engineering in medicine. Topics also include computer-assisted interventions, imaging, parallel programming, and database design and query, as applied to life, medical and biomedical sciences.
Note: Formerly cross-listed with CECS 643.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 645. Computer Vision Laboratory
Prerequisite(s): ECE 555 or ECE 618.
Corequisite(s): ECE 619.
Description: Laboratory experiments in hardware and software forms are assigned to test the concepts covered in ECE 619, Computer Vision.
Projects include: Image formation and camera calibration, stereo vision, 3D object reconstruction from the sequence of images, active vision applications, surface registration, and motion estimation.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 647. Fundamentals of Optoelectronics and Photonics
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Introduction to fundamental properties, components, and theories used to build optical systems for broad bandwidth telecommunications, computing, sensing and information processing.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 651. Communication System Design
Prerequisite(s): ECE 550.
Description: Emphasis on the systems approach to digital communication systems design. Topics include communication link analysis, channel coding, modulation and coding trade-offs, synchronization, spread spectrum techniques, and data encryption and decryption.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 652. Information Theory and Coding
Prerequisite(s): ECE 550.
Description: Information theory, capacity, and measures of information; fixed and variable length block encoding, data compression; state transition and Markov source models for communication channels and methods of achieving maximum capacity; topics in abstract algebra including groups, rings and fields; block error correction codes such as Hamming codes, cyclic codes, BCH codes, Reed Soloman codes; convolutional codes and Viterbi decoding algorithm.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
ECE 653. Digital Communications 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ECE 550 and ECE 360.
Description: Review of random process theory, sampling and quantization, source coding, optimum receivers for AWGN channels, digital transmission through band-limited AWGN channels, inter-symbol interference, equalization, and spread spectrum systems. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 654. Advanced Voice/Data Networks 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ECE 518 or CEECS 516 or permission of the instructor.
Description: This course extends topics covered in ECE 518 to address advanced networking technologies that are used in corporate intranets and the Internet. Topics covered include: packet-voice technologies, Ethernet switching, IP version 6, digital subscriber loop technologies, dynamic routing, tagged packet switching technologies, and Quality of Service (QoS).

ECE 655. Pattern Recognition and Machine Intelligence Laboratory 1 Unit
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Corequisite(s): ECE 620.
Description: Laboratory experiments in hardware and software forms are assigned to test concepts covered in ECE 620, Pattern Recognition and Machine Intelligence. Projects include: Stochastic simulation, design of Bayesian classifiers, clustering, hyperspectral classifiers, digital train mapping, automatic target recognition, and biomedical applications.

ECE 660. Introduction to Robust Control 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ECE 560 and ECE 561.
Description: To provide students with the fundamentals of Robust Control Theory, with emphasis on stability and performance analysis in the time and frequency domains and design tools for robust performance and robust stability. It examines how a controller can be designed taking into account uncertainties in the model of the plant. The course will include a final design project which will be completed using MATLAB.

ECE 661. Sampled-Data Control Systems 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ECE 560.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 662. Introduction to Optimum Control 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ECE 560.
Description: Calculus of variations, dynamic programming, the minimum principle, and numerical optimization techniques applied to discrete-time and continuous-time deterministic control systems. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 664. Modern Adaptive Control 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ECE 560 and ECE 625.
Description: Methods of modern adaptive control, including the indirect and direct approaches. Discrete- and continuous-time controllers. Behavior of controllers under nonideal conditions, including stochastic disturbances and unmodeled dynamics. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 665. Theory of Nonlinear Systems 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ECE 560 and ECE 561.
Description: Modern theory of nonlinear systems including phase plane analysis, Lyapunov stability theory, perturbation theory, singular perturbations, describing functions, Lure problem, Popov circle criterion. Applications to closed-loop control systems.

ECE 667. Nanotechnology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing or instructor consent.
Description: A survey of the current state-of-the-art in Nanotechnology (e.g. nano-fabrication, electronics, self-assembly) through selected readings and special topic reports from the students.

ECE 668. Nanostructure Self-Assembly 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing or Instructor consent.
Description: Self-assembly results from energetically favorable thermodynamics and kinetics (e.g. phase transformations, nucleation, grain growth) will be covered and related to current local and world-wide research projects.

ECE 669. Foundations of Polymer MEMS 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing or instructor consent.
Description: An overview of the range of physical properties and applications of polymers, independent student readings and class reports on applications of polymers to the fabrication and operation of MEMS devices.

ECE 670. Advanced Power System Analysis 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ECE 582.
ECE 687. Platform Engineering Project 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ME 530, ME 531 and ECE 532.
Description: Major product development project involving a multidisciplinary team working on design and/or research problems associated with consumer appliance technologies. Concurrent topics on research methodologies, product realization, and project management. A proposal, activity reports and final report are required. Project results are presented for faculty and peer review.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECE 690. Master of Science Thesis or Paper in Electrical Engineering 1-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate or Professional standing.
Description: Performance of an engineering project or research activity under the direction of a faculty member, resulting in a thesis that demonstrates both mastery of the subject matter and a high level of communication skills. A written thesis must be presented and defended orally before a faculty committee for approval and be submitted to a referred conference or refereed journal for potential publication.

ECE 692. Master of Science Advanced Level Independent Project 3-4 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate Standing. Approval of the Department Chair.
Description: Students enrolled in this course will engage in an engineering project or research activity and produce a report that demonstrates both mastery of the subject matter and a high level of communication skills. Oral presentation of the report is required.

ECE 693. Independent Study in Electrical & Computer Engineering 1-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): Approval of a faculty sponsor.

ECE 695. Graduate Seminar in Electrical and Computer Engineering 1 Unit

ECE 696. Advanced Level Oral Presentation 0 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Graduate or Professional Standing and approval of the Department Chair.
Corequisite(s): Enrollment in an approved ECE companion course for the Advanced-Level Project/Research/Communication requirement.
Description: Oral presentation before a faculty committee, of the results of an engineering project or research activity.

ECE 697. Master of Engineering Thesis or Paper in Electrical Engineering 1-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): ECE 497 and Graduate or Professional standing.
Description: Performance of a study, design, or investigation under the direction of a faculty member. A written thesis or technical paper must be presented and defended orally before a faculty committee for approval. A paper must be submitted to a referred conference or refereed journal for potential publication.

ECE 700. Dissertation Research in Electrical Engineering 1-18 Units
Prerequisite(s): Completion of doctoral core program and consent of dissertation director.
Description: Original research activity in an appropriate electrical engineering discipline, under the direction of an Electrical and Computer Engineering graduate faculty member.

Engineering Management (EM)

EM 525. Project Management 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission into the Industrial Engineering or Engineering Management program or instructor permission.
Description: Use of CPM, PERT, precedence diagramming, resource allocation heuristics, and other techniques for planning, managing, and controlling engineering projects involving research and development, production, maintenance, and construction. Computer procedures and codes for analyzing complex project networks will be covered.
Note: Cross-listed with IE 525.

EM 560. Construction Management 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission into the Engineering Management program or instructor permission.
Description: An investigation of the engineer's role in the construction process. Study of the many variables influencing the project and associated methods of managing variables. Includes a practical demonstration of student's understanding of schedule and cost estimate for a project of the student's choosing.

EM 561. Engineering Statistics I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission into the Engineering Management program or instructor permission.
Description: Study of the laws of probability, discrete and continuous probability distributions, point and interval estimation, tests of hypothesis, simple linear regression, and the single factor analysis of variance.
EM 582. Management of Human Systems  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission into the Engineering Management program or instructor permission.
Description: Computer-aided, quantitative application of human performance capabilities and limitations to the planning, design, development, and evaluation of complex human-machine/industrial systems.

EM 613. Operations Management  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission in EM program or instructor permission.
Description: Concepts in strategic planning, quality management, operations research, facility design, supply chain and logistics, forecasting, inventory control, resource planning, and scheduling. Emphasis is on appropriate analytical and computer-based techniques.

EM 615. Management Science  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission in EM program or instructor permission.
Description: Students will gain knowledge in the application of management science processes and models used in decision making. Emphasis will be placed on the mathematical tools and will cover the following topics: Decision Analysis, Regression Models, Forecasting, Inventory, Control Models, Linear Programming, Queuing Theory, and Discrete Event Simulation.

EM 624. Human Resource Management  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission in EM program or instructor permission.
Description: This course will present HR management various activities including hiring, training, performance review, motivation, and employee satisfaction.

EM 627. Information Technology Management  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission in EM program or instructor permission.
Description: This course will present concepts in information technology including basic hardware/software technologies, telecommunications and networks, data management/database technologies, and security/ethics.

EM 628. Engineering Management  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission in EM program or instructor permission.
Description: The principles and practices of administration of the engineering function, including management, organization, planning, controlling and measuring results, management of human resources, communication and decision-making.

EM 632. Quality Management  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): EM 661; admission in EM program or instructor permission.
Description: In this course, students will gain knowledge in the application of quality improvement methodology in both manufacturing and service environments. Emphasis will be placed on philosophical approaches to quality improvement and quantitative methods of quality control. The following topics will be included: Corporate Quality Programs, Applications for Quality Improvement, Measurement Systems Analysis, Statistical Process Control, Experimental Design, Root Cause Analysis, and Design for Quality.

EM 640. Applied Systems Analysis  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): IE 360 or equivalent; admission into the EM program or instructor permission.
Description: Methods of engineering management applied to case studies so as to define the problems, analyze the data, and recommend solutions or decisions.

EM 645. Decision and Risk Analysis  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): Admission in EM program or instructor permission.
Description: In this course students will gain knowledge in the process of decision-making. Emphasis will be placed on quantitative and qualitative tools and will cover the following topics: Introduction to Decision Analysis, Elements of Decision Problems, Structuring Decisions, Making Choices, Sensitivity Analysis, and Organizational Use of Decision Analysis.

GEOG 520. Geography and Nutrition Among African and African-American Populations
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

Description: Comparison of geographical conditions, food culture, technology and socioeconomic factors among Africans and African-Americans affecting health and nutrition.

Note: Previously cross-listed with PAS 560.

GEOG 521. Medical Geography
Prerequisite(s): Faculty consent.

Description: Introduction to concepts, methods and tools used to investigate geographic aspects of health and disease. Application of concepts and methods through analysis of health, population and environmental data.

GEOG 522. GIS and Public Health
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

Description: Application of tools and methods of analysis in geographic information systems (GIS) to public health. Use of ArcGIS software to manage and analyze health, census and spatial data.

GEOG 524. Food and Race
Description: This course will serve as a critical analysis of the intersection between race and food/agriculture. Topics covered include: 1) production, preparation and consumption patterns; 2) food production during slavery and sharecropping; 3) modern day agricultural labor; 4) food and health; 5) food and borders; and 6) food and national identity.

Note: Cross-listed with PAS 605.

GEOG 529. Geography of Urban Issues
Term Typically Offered: Fall Odd Years

Prerequisite(s): GEOG 328, GEOG 558 or comparable Urban Geography and GIS course.

Description: Advanced urban geography course with unique geographic perspective for integration of socioeconomic problems in America's metropolitan areas.

GEOG 530. Transportation Geography
Term Typically Offered: Fall Odd Years

Prerequisite(s): GEOG 200 or consent of instructor.

Description: An analysis of distribution and transportation systems as functional entities capable of introducing and reacting to change within the economic region.

GEOG 531. GIS & Urban Demographic Analysis
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only

Prerequisite(s): GIS knowledge or concurrent tutorial.

Description: Demographic analysis through the use of GIS technology. Emphasis placed on metropolitan area characteristics including population change, segregation, ethnic settlement, social and economic stratification and commuting.

GEOG 535. GIS and Retail Site Analysis  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): GIS knowledge or concurrent tutorial.
Description: Retail site analysis through use of GIS technology. Emphasis placed on market demand and supply characteristics. Physical site analysis, demographics, and competitive environment will be examined.

GEOG 536. Sustainable Transportation  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Even Years
Prerequisite(s): GEOG 200 or permission of instructor.
Description: The course looks into the problems of developing sustainable transportation systems. We will examine the environmental and human problems associated with transportation; including climate change, air quality, consumption of non-renewable resources, safety, congestion and social equity. We will also explore possible solutions to these problems, including pricing, planning, policy, technology and education.

GEOG 540. Geography and Human-Environment Interactions  3 Units
Description: The study of interactions between humans and the environment is inherently interdisciplinary and multi-scaler, two of the hallmarks of contemporary geographic research. Students taking this course will be exposed to the theoretical underpinnings of both social and ecological aspects of research. Through in-class discussions of both seminal and contemporary peer-reviewed literature, students will be expected to engage in an interdisciplinary exploration of how studies of human-environment interactions have evolved from disciplinary roots into the large, complex and transdisciplinary projects commonly funded today and expected in the future.

GEOG 555. Remote Sensing  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): GEOS 200 or GEOS 301; PHYS 111 or equivalent (recommended).
Description: This course provides an introduction to the theory and application of remote sensing data with weekly lab reports for hands-on-experience in the acquisition and utilization of remotely-sensed data in geographical/environmental research. This course prepares for GEOG 556.

GEOG 556. Advanced Remote Sensing  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): GEOG 555 or consent of instructor.
Description: Application of advanced techniques involved in the collection of digital imagery data from aircraft and spacecraft instruments.

GEOG 558. Introduction to Geographic Information Systems  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Description: Introduction to geographic information systems using ArcGIS software, management of relational databases, and manipulation and graphical output of digital geo-spatial data.
Note: May not be taken for credit if credit has been earned in GEOG 357 or GEOG 557.

GEOG 559. Advanced Geographic Information Systems  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): GEOG 558.
Description: Application of advanced GIS concepts to real-world projects. An emphasis will be placed on the development of a digital spatial database.
Note: Graduate students must arrange for an additional project for graduate credit.

GEOG 561. Urban Environmental Quality  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: A study of environmental aspects of urban areas and analysis of inter- and intra-city variations in environmental quality.

GEOG 590. Special Topics  3 Units
Description: Investigation of topics not offered in regular courses. Topic will be announced in Schedule of Courses.
Note: Offered as needed.
Note: May be repeated for different topics up to a limit of 12 hours.

GEOG 599. Directed Readings in Geography  1-4 Units
Prerequisite(s): Advanced courses in geography or related fields; permission of major department.
Description: Supervised readings centered around a specific region or topical field for advanced work.

GEOG 600. History and Philosophy of Geography  3 Units
Description: An explanation of the history of geographic thought and the paradigms that have shaped geography since the late nineteenth century.
GEOG 620. Geography & Nutrition Among African and African-American Populations  3 Units
Description: An in-depth examination of the nutritional status of Africans, African Americans and persons of African descent. The course will focus on comparison of epidemiological transition, political economy of nutrition, politics of food welfare programs, food aid, over-nutrition (obesity), under-nutrition and dietary-related diseases among African Americans, Africans and persons including blacks in the Diaspora.
Note: Cross-listed with PAS 660.

GEOG 628. Planning History and Issues  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: The history of planning and contemporary issues with an emphasis on roles of planners, zoning and law.
Note: Cross-listed with PLAN 600.

GEOG 631. Urban Demography  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.
Description: Spatial analysis of the distribution, characteristics, growth, and change of the population of a metropolitan area.
Note: Cross-listed with PLAN 618.

GEOG 635. Real Estate Market Analysis  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): GEOG 327 or Urban Economics or consent of the instructor.
Description: Covers concepts, methodologies and analytical tools used in urban real estate market analysis, with a particular emphasis on site selection using GIS applications.
Note: Cross-listed with PLAN 614.

GEOG 640. Approaches & Methods in Applied Geography  3 Units
Description: Examination of concepts and methods used by applied geographers.

GEOG 641. Research Design and Proposal Development in Applied Geography  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): GEOG 600, GEOG 640, GEOG 656, GEOG 660.
Description: Provides students with the background needed to design a research study and develop a research proposal and culminates in development of thesis proposal.

GEOG 656. Advanced Spatial Statistics in Applied Geography  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Statistics course.
Description: The analysis of spatial patterns and processes through the use of spatially-based statistics.
Note: Cross-listed with PLAN 615.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

GEOG 660. Qualitative Methods in Applied Geography  3 Units
Description: An examination of the philosophical underpinnings of the qualitative approach with practical experience in conducting qualitative research.

GEOG 685. Introduction to Programming for GIS and Spatial Data Analysis for Graduate Students  3 Units
Description: There are two primary goals for this course. First, students will learn introductory computer programming concepts and features. Students will deconstruct examples from a variety of programming and scripting languages (primarily Python, R, VBA, and IDL), learning how to identify common logic, flow control and syntactic features. Students will learn the purpose of these structures and how to start using the programming and scripting environments of common statistics, geographic information systems (GIS) and remote sensing (RS) platforms.

GEOG 690. Special Topics  1-3 Units
Description: Investigation of topics not offered in regular courses. Topic will be announced in Schedule of Courses. Offered as needed.
Note: May be repeated for different topics up to a limit of 12 hours.

GEOG 691. Research and Independent Study  1-5 Units

GEOG 698. Thesis  1-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): Permission of instructor.
Description: Reading, research, and writing of thesis under the supervision of a faculty member.
Geosciences (GEOS)

GEOS 564. Hydrology 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): GEOS 200 or GEOS 301.
Description: Advanced study of the hydrologic cycle, drainage basin analysis, stream flow and flooding, pollution and utilization of water resources.

GEOS 565. Natural Hazards 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): GEOS 200 or GEOS 301.

GEOS 570. Water Resource Management 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Water resources form a critical component of any socioeconomic or environmental system. This course provides an analysis of water resource issues impacting these systems including flood and drought hazards, surface and groundwater quantity/quality issues, and energy development. Water legislation and policy aspects are further integrated with these issues at various spatial scales, including case studies from within the US and across international boundaries that lead to conflict. At the outcome of this course students will develop a basic water resource management plan for a watershed in Kentucky.

GEOS 571. GIS and Water Resources 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: A study of the application of Geographic Information Science techniques in water resources research and management including: digital mapping of water resources, watershed delineation and modeling atmospheric, surface and groundwater processes.

GEOS 590. Selected Topics in Geosciences 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: A detailed investigation of some restricted topic of geology or related discipline. Topic to be announced in Schedule of Courses.

GEOS 663. Climate and Environmental Change 3 Units
Description: Global and regional climate change is one of the most pressing issues of our time. In its evolution, the science of climate change has employed a great diversity of techniques to unravel the Earth's climate history on multiple time scales. To this end there now exists a considerable body of knowledge as to the magnitudes and rates of climate and environmental change. However, while the physical basis of the global climate system and its variation are well resolved, there is debate as to the nature of human intervention in the global climate system and consequences of climate change on the natural and human-made environment. As time moves forward toward issues connected to all facets of climate change will become increasingly important particularly in terms of human occupancy and the sustainability of the planet. What is currently missing from debates connected to climate change is an agreed upon understanding the linkages between the physical basis of the global climate system and its connection to human affairs. This deficiency is consequential as the debate has how moved squarely into the public consciousness as a political, economic and social agenda the outcome of which will have a profound effect upon climate policy.

German (GERM)

GERM 500. German Study Abroad 1-15 Units
Prerequisite(s): Membership in a University of Louisville Language Study Abroad Program or a program approved by the department.
Description: Credit awarded upon demonstration of successful completion of program undertaken with prior approval of the department, including a paper or project and an oral or written examination in the language and culture, administered under the supervision of a faculty member.

GERM 561. Independent Study 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Permission of instructor and department.
Description: Independent study in German language, literature, and culture.

GERM 599. Special Topics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Permission of instructor and department.
Description: Topics of a unique or specialized nature in German language, literature or culture.
GERM 680. Seminar
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Selected topics in German language, literature, or culture. Topics chosen will reflect the needs of the students and the background of the instructor.
Note: May be repeated under different subtitles.

GERM 690. Thesis
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

Graduate Interdisciplinary (GS)

GS 601. Academic Communication in English
1-3 Units
Description: Classes and a range of interactive activities are designed to help international graduate students gain confidence in both academic and conversational English in authentic settings and contexts. Course outcomes include that students will acquire a sophisticated vocabulary and facility with idiomatic language; improve pronunciation, improve understanding of English in academic and nonacademic contexts, improve ability to discuss academic and non-academic topics, current events, and cultural issues; be able to give short presentations and execute small public speaking tasks with greater fluency, accuracy, and confidence.

GS 611. Seminar: Cultural Resource Management
3 Units
Description: Cultural Resource Management Seminar. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

GS 612. Cultural Resource Management: Field Methods
3 Units
Description: Field Methods in Cultural Resource Management. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

GS 650. Directed Readings: Cultural Resource Management
3 Units
Description: Directed Readings on the topic of Cultural Resource Management. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

GS 683. College Teaching
3 Units
Description: Analysis of the elements of effective college teaching; observation and evaluation of teaching; opportunities for microteaching; and investigation of rights and responsibilities of faculty members.
Note: Cross-listed with ELFH 683.

GS 699. Interdisciplinary Research
1-12 Units
Prerequisite(s): Major in Interdisciplinary Studies.

GS 700. Administrative Enrollment
0 Units
Description: Administrative Enrollment. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

GS 799. Doctoral Exam Prep
0 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Description: Students preparing for qualifying/comprehensive exams require special permission from both the director of the program of study and the Dean of SIGS to enroll in the course. Counts as full-time just as enrollment in candidacy counts as full time; students who are enrolled in this course are expected to be studying and preparing full time for their exams, just as students enrolled in candidacy are expected to be working on their research and dissertation full-time.
Note: 0-hour course; cannot be repeated more than two times; permission of program director and Dean of SIGS required; course is considered full-time and may not be taken with more than one additional 3-hour course.

Health and Sport Sciences (HSS)

HSS 501. Stress and Tension Control
3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): HSS 202 or equivalent.
Description: A study of the physiological, sociological, and psychological stresses and their underlying mechanisms of action. Emphasis on modification of stress via developed proficiency in relaxation techniques. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 503. Obesity: Causes, Control
3 Units
Prerequisite(s): HSS 202 or equivalent.
Description: A study of the physiological, psychological, and sociological factors in the development and modification of obesity. Laboratory experiences in the assessment of obesity will be provided. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 504. Physical Activity and Health
3 Units
Description: A study of the positive and negative influences of physical activity on diseases and infirmities that affect a healthy lifestyle. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 505. Stress and Disease
3 Units
Prerequisite(s): HSS 202 or equivalent.
Description: Relationship of stress to acute and chronic disease and the effects of contemporary stressors on psychophysiological responses. Examination of mechanisms of adaptation, treatment, and prevention. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
HSS 530. Nutrition and Athletic Performance
Prerequisite(s): HSS 302 and HSS 303, or consent of instructor.
Description: Principles of nutrition with special emphasis on nutrient and energy needs of athletes of optimal performance.

HSS 564. Women's Health Issues
Description: This course will identify a broad range of health issues that can be unique to women or of special importance to women throughout the world. The course will examine the roles women play as both providers and consumers of health care nationally and internationally.

HSS 565. Nutrition for Children and Adolescents
Description: Nutritional needs during childhood are covered with emphasis on diet evaluation, menu planning and disease prevention. Nutrition units will be developed using the curriculum planning map.

HSS 567. Healthy Sexuality and AIDS Education
Description: A study of the basic competencies required for AIDS/STD education and prevention within the framework of healthy sexual functioning.

HSS 575. Administration of Physical Education Program and Athletics
Description: Administration of the total physical education program on the secondary school level, including units on budget, staff, facilities, programs, equipment, public relations, and evaluation.

HSS 589. Prevention and Care of Athletic Injuries II
Prerequisite(s): HSS 389 or equivalent or consent of instructor.
Description: Focuses on basic anatomy and its relationship in sports-induced injuries. Provides framework for adapting prevention, evaluation, management and rehabilitation techniques to aid in the treatment of athletic injuries.

HSS 597. Special Topics in Health and Sport Science
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Examination of well-defined topics not studied in regular courses. Topics will be announced in Schedule of Courses.

HSS 598. Independent Study in HSS
Description: Opportunity for the student, under the supervision of a sponsoring faculty member, to pursue individualized study related to research or practice that is not included in regular courses in the curriculum.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 601. Philosophy of Sport and Physical Education
Description: Study of sport from various philosophical positions. Relation of theories and thoughts about what constitutes sport to particular time periods. Offered as needed.

HSS 602. Instructional Technology in Health and Sport Sciences
Description: The course is designed to develop students' technology skills in order to support their activities in K-12 classrooms and other health and wellness settings.

HSS 604. Research Methods in HSS
Description: Development of outline for action research project.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 605. Teaching and Learning for Elementary Physical Education
Description: Philosophy, objectives, curriculum and methods of teaching physical education to elementary students. Must be taken prior to student teaching.

HSS 606. Teaching and Learning for Secondary Physical Education
Description: Philosophy, objectives, curriculum and methods of teaching physical education to secondary students. Content-area literacy strategies for physical education will be covered. Must be taken prior to student teaching.

HSS 607. Methods of Supervision in Physical Education
Description: Covers various models of supervision. Several systematic observational data collection systems will be used to develop skills for supervision in physical education.
HSS 608. Curriculum: An Achievement Based Approach 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to MAT in Physical Education Program.
Description: Presents a variety of curricular approaches to physical education along with activities to help the teacher deliver the content. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 609. Methods in Practical Living: Health 4 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the MAT.
Description: Designed to cover strategies and methods for delivering health education related to practical living skills. Content-area literacy strategies for health education will be covered. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 610. Experiential Outdoor Education Leadership 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to MAT in Physical Education Program.
Description: Teaches necessary skills to lead outdoor experiential education programs. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 611. Seminar in Student Teaching in Health and Physical Education 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to MAT in Health Physical Education P-12 Program.
Corequisite(s): HSS 612, HSS 613 and HSS 615.
Description: Designed as analysis of student teaching activities for the purpose of improving instructional competence, developing professionalism and reflective teaching skills, and understanding the learner within the instructional context. Each graduate student must complete an action research project during student teaching experience. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 612. Student Teaching: Elementary Physical Education 4 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to MAT in Physical Education Program.
Corequisite(s): HSS 611 Provides supervised observation, participation and teaching in physical education at the elementary and secondary school levels. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 613. Student Teaching: Middle/Secondary Physical Education 4 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to MAT in Physical Education Program.
Corequisite(s): HSS 611 Provides supervised observation, participation and teaching in physical education at the elementary and secondary school level. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 614. Action Research Project 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to MAT in Physical Education Program.
Corequisite(s): HSS 611 and HSS 612.
Description: Each graduate student must complete an action research project during the student teaching experience. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 615. Student Teaching: Health Education 4 Units
Description: Five weeks of supervised observation, participation, and teaching health education in middle and high schools. Must be taken concurrently with HSS 612 and HSS 613. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 618. Diverse Populations in Physical Activity and Health 3 Units
Description: The study of social and cultural system of diverse groups, related to physical activity and health. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 619. Practicum: Psychomotor Assessment of Dysfunctions in Adapted Physical Activity 3 Units
Description: Administration of tests of psychomotor functioning; interpretation of findings; writing the educational diagnosis; participation in multidisciplinary settings. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 620. Instructional Design in Adapted Physical Activity 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Background in physical education and/or special education, or consent of instructor.
Description: Designed to provide knowledge and understanding which will enable students to plan and conduct diversified programs of developmental activities, games, sports, and rhythms suited to the interests, capabilities, and limitations of typical students. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 621. Diagnostic/Assessment in Adapted Physical Activity 3 Units
Description: Instructional intervention applied to the physical education setting; emphasis on design, implementation and evaluation of assessment tools and procedures in programs for the disabled. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 625. Instructional Leadership in Physical Education 3 Units
Description: A critical examination of the current knowledge base and best practices in K-12 physical education instruction, programming, assessment and professional development. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
HSS 629. Introduction to Health Consultation 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): HSS 501 and HSS 503.
Description: Study of the basic skills required for health behavior change using a health counseling approach with emphasis on the development of skills needed to design and facilitate health counseling programs. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 630. Nutrition and Athletic Performance 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): College nutrition course or consent of instructor.
Description: Principles of nutrition with special emphasis on nutrient and energy needs of athletes for optimal performance. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 631. Leadership in Health Promotion 3 Units
Description: Analysis of administrative and organizational factors of health education and promotion from within the program, within the organization, and between organizations. Emphasis will be placed on policy making, administration, and functional issues such as collaboration and consultation at the organizational level.
Note: Cross-listed with HSS 531.

HSS 649. Psychological Aspects of Physical Education and Sport 3 Units
Description: Analysis of the interaction among personality, motor ability, group dynamics, and environment in physical education and sports performance. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 650. Personality and Social Development in Sport 3 Units
Description: Systematic study of man’s behavior in sport in relation to his social environment. Emphasis on the relationship between physical activity and interpersonal competence, attitudes, personality and aggression. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 655. Current Trends and Studies in Health and Sport Sciences 3 Units
Description: Examination of current literature, research and trends in HSS. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 659. Motor Control and Learning: Lab 3 Units
Description: Experiments in motor learning that promote the use of basic apparatus and practical applications of research. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 660. Motor Control & Learning 3 Units
Description: Analysis and critical review of literature on selected topics relating to motor control and learning. Emphasis on research in the area of motor learning. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 663. Sexuality Education 3 Units
Description: Survey of the dynamics of family life and parenting skills. Scope of family life education, methods, source materials and current issues. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 669. Administering Health Promotion and Disease Prevention Programs 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): A year of sport management or consent of instructor.
Description: Special problems in administration of health promotion and disease prevention programs in a variety of community organizations. Program planning and organization; financing and budgeting; measuring program effectiveness; integration of health promotion and disease prevention programs and strategies with existing healthcare delivery systems. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 675. Health Promotion and Disease Prevention at the Individual Level 3 Units
Description: Techniques for identifying patterns of health-negative behaviors and life-style patterns on the part of an individual and health-negative circumstances in an individual’s immediate environment. Development, implementation, and evaluation of person-focused changed strategies designed to eliminate, offset, and/or minimize the effects of health-negative behaviors and microenvironmental factors. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 676. Community Health Promotion and Disease Prevention 3 Units
Description: Analytic techniques for identifying health-negative factors in the organizational and community setting; developing, implementing, and evaluating strategic plans and programs for health promotion and disease prevention at the organizational and community level. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HSS 684. Program Planning in Health Education and Promotion 3 Units
Description: Effective design, implementation, and evaluation of health instruction within the school and community setting. Emphasis on the development of sequential learning opportunities designed to meet individual and societal health needs and interests. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HUM 663. Global Perspectives on Arts & Culture 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.
Description: Advanced exploration of contributions to thought and the arts from those sectors of global society often overlooked: indigenous peoples and peoples of the conceptual East and South. Rather than progressing through historical periods, the course materials are arranged analytically, by theme, such as "Difference," "Empire," "Migration," and "Adaptation."

HUM 671. Interdisciplinary Seminar I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.
Description: Advanced interdisciplinary research and analysis of selected issues in the Arts and Humanities. Content to be indicated in the Schedule of Courses.
Note: May be repeated up to three times.

HUM 672. Interdisciplinary Seminar 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.
Description: Advanced interdisciplinary research and analysis of selected issues in the Arts and Humanities. Content to be indicated in the Schedule of Courses.
Note: May be repeated up to three times.

HUM 673. Topics in Cultural Theory 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.
Description: Exploration of advanced theory regarding the formation and maintenance of, and issues in, culture from a social perspective.

HUM 674. Topics in Aesthetic Theory 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.
Description: Exploration of advanced theory regarding the formation and maintenance of, and issues in, aesthetics and aesthetic approaches to culture.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
HUM 681. Topics in Aesthetics and Creativity 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.
Description: Topics to be co-listed with selected departmental offerings.
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.
Description: Topics to be co-listed with selected departmental offerings.
Note: May be repeated up to a maximum of five times.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HUM 682. Topics in Studies in Culture 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.
Description: Topics to be co-listed with selected departmental offerings.
Note: May be repeated up to a maximum of five times.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

HUM 683. Exercises in Interdisciplinary Research 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.
Description: Intensive workshop on the pursuit of research between divergent disciplines, with coverage of theories and methodologies of such work and an individual project drawn from the students’ own areas of interest.

HUM 689. Reading for Comprehensive Examinations 3 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Restricted to students who are completing or have completed course work and are preparing for exams.
Description: Directed reading on topics of student’s comprehensive exams; reading lists are negotiated between student and directors of examination areas.
Note: May not be repeated for credit.

HUM 699. Interdisciplinary Capstone Symposium 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.
Description: Symposium for candidates completing their content course work during the current academic year.

HUM 700. Dissertation Research 1-9 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing and approval of chair or graduate advisor.
Description: Dissertation research

Industrial Engineering (IE)

IE 515. Operations Research Methods 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 330.
Description: Formulation and solution of basic models in operations research. Topics to be covered include applications of linear, integer and nonlinear programming; transportation and assignment problems, and network flows models.

IE 516. Stochastic Operations Research 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): IE 360 or equivalent.
Description: A selection of the probabilistic topics of operations research are included: queuing, renewal and Markov processes, simulation, decision analysis.

IE 525. Project Management 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): Admission in IE or EM program or instructor permission.
Description: Use of CPM, PERT, precedence diagramming, resource allocation heuristics, and other techniques for planning, managing, and controlling engineering projects involving research and development, production, maintenance, and construction. Computer procedures and codes for analyzing complex project networks will be covered.
Note: Cross-listed with EM 525.

IE 540. Robots and Manufacturing Automation 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): IE 360.
Description: Computer aided manufacturing; robot programming, implementation, application, and computer control; research trends; social impacts.

IE 541. Simulation 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): IE 240, IE 250, and IE 360.
Description: The use of discrete event simulation to analyze systems. Topics include Monte Carlo techniques, sampling from and identifying stochastic distributions, estimating performance measures from simulation outputs, validation methods, and SIMIO simulation language.
IE 561. Developing Decision Support Systems with Excel
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): IE 250.
Description: This course teaches the fundamentals of computer programming using Excel’s macro language, Visual Basic for Applications (VBA), as the language of instruction. The course starts by teaching students to simplify and extend code generated by Excels macro recorder and then builds on that base toward developing applications that analyze information and enhance decision making. This course also provides an introduction to the concepts and methods of Decision Science, which involves the application of mathematical modeling and analysis to management problems. It also provides a foundation for modeling with VBA in Excel.
IE 563. Experimental Design in Engineering
Term Typically Offered: Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): IE 360.
Description: Design of engineering experiments and projects using theory of least squares, analysis of variance, randomized blocks, factorial experiments, nested designs, split plot designs and logistic regression techniques. Covers a combination of analysis by hand and using Minitab statistical software.
Note: Cross-listed with CECS 563.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
IE 580. Introduction to Human Factors Engineering and Ergonomics
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Description: The main goal of this course is to introduce students to the study of human cognitive and physical abilities and limitations, and application of that knowledge to engineering design. This course will demonstrate how the application of the human factors and ergonomics principles can improve the design of systems involving the interaction of humans with tools, technology, and the work environment.
IE 581. Advanced Topics in Human Factors Engineering
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): IE 580.
Description: The main goal of this course is to learn and apply advanced methods in human factors engineering, as well as newer models, theories, and frameworks related to the field.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
IE 590. Special Topics in Industrial Engineering
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Description: A theoretical and/or experimental investigation of an industrial engineering design topic.
IE 600. Additive Manufacturing Processes
Prerequisite(s): IE 320 or Graduate Standing.
Description: This course introduces students to additive manufacturing, also known as rapid prototyping or 3D printing, processes. An overview of all additive manufacturing processes is provided. Projects are used to develop in-depth knowledge in key applications of additive manufacturing. Design project gives students an opportunity to apply their knowledge to the design and/or re-design of a component.
IE 601. Additive Manufacturing Structure Design
Prerequisite(s): Instructor Permission required.
Description: This course focuses on the overview of design issues in additive manufacturing (AM), including the design of structures, materials and processes. The students are expected to gain in-depth understanding of the design issues with current AM technologies. Hands-on projects will be assigned that gives the students the opportunity of understanding the design issues and applying the knowledge to the design of functional parts and assemblies.
IE 602. Graduate Internship in Industrial Engineering
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Instructor Permission required.
Description: Supervised professional experience in industry at the graduate level. This course provides the structure and focus for the graduate intern field assignment to ensure that the assignment is appropriate and consistent with the intern’s graduate course of study and professional development. May be repeated for credit.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
IE 610. Foundations of Optimization I
Prerequisite(s): IE 515.
Description: Formulation and solution of applicable optimization models for linear, integer, and network problems. Efficient algorithmic methods and use of computer modeling languages and systems.
IE 611. Discrete Optimization
Prerequisite(s): IE 515.
Description: A study of the techniques and applications of discrete optimization, especially as related to integer and dynamic programming.
IE 614. Foundations of Optimization II
Prerequisite(s): ENGR 330 and IE 610.
Description: Formulation and solution of applicable optimization models for nonlinear, stochastic programming, robust optimization and convex problems. Efficient algorithmic methods and use of computer modeling languages and systems.
IE 621. Facilities Planning 3 Units
Description: Techniques for planning and design of facilities found in both manufacturing and service industries. Emphasis is placed on location, layout and analysis of facilities, material handling systems, warehouses, and logistic operations.

IE 630. Advanced Production Systems Design 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): IE 421, IE 425, IE 430.
Description: This course is organized around the principles of Lean Manufacturing Engineering. Topics include lean manufacturing, including value, value stream, flow, pull and continuous improvement. Improvement and efficiency are facilitated through a study of factory dynamics, the influence of variability, and "Push and Pull" production systems.

IE 631. Advanced Quality Control 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): IE 425, IE 515, IE 541.
Description: Advanced techniques for quality improvement and process control are investigated; these include advanced techniques of SPC, trouble shooting and diagnostics and Taguchi methods of experimental design.

IE 634. Case Studies in Production and Industrial Engineering 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): IE 425, IE 515, IE 541.
Description: Case studies illustrate the application of industrial engineering techniques to the design of production systems, the control of construction projects, and health care delivery systems.

IE 640. Applied Systems Analysis 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): IE 360, IE 370, IE 515.
Description: Problem formulation, data collection, alternative design generation, design evaluation, specification, and implementation for large scale systems.

IE 642. Statistical Methodology in Simulation 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): IE 360 and IE 541.
Description: Discrete simulation modeling, input probability distributions, random variate generators, output data analysis, validation, variance reduction, experimental design and optimization.

IE 643. Analysis for Decision Making 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): IE 360 and IE 515.
Description: The role of decision analysis in design; techniques for multicriteria decision analysis; systematic creativity in design.

IE 650. Material Flow Systems Design 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): IE 515.
Description: Material handling and equipment concepts; computerized plant layout; problem formulation; requirements definition; queueing; location analysis; conveyor theory; simulation; developing and evaluating alternative systems; systems implementation.

IE 657. Models for Design and Analysis of Logistical Systems 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): IE 425, IE 515.
Description: This modeling oriented course for the design, analysis and operation of logistical systems includes topics such as inventory control, transportation, distribution network design, and supply chain management. Both deterministic as well as stochastic models are studied.

IE 660. Reliability and Maintainability 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): IE 360.
Description: Design, development, and test techniques required to assure the reliability and maintainability of new systems. Design of maintenance programs for new and existing systems.

IE 670. Advanced Engineering Economy 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): IE 370.
Description: Inflation; cost of capital; revenue requirements; uncertainty and risk; propagation of errors; Hillier's results; simulation; capital budgeting.

IE 680. Usability Engineering 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Description: This course exposes students to the constructs of usability, usefulness, user-centered design, and user-experience (UX) and their relation to engineering design. The course covers an interactive evaluation-centered user experience (UX) lifecycle as a template intended to be instantiated in many different ways to match the constraints of a particular development project. The UX lifecycle, sketching, conceptual design, and formative UX evaluation.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

IE 690. Master of Science Thesis in Industrial Engineering 1-6 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Department Chair permission required.
Description: Research on MS thesis project. Grade shall be deferred by the major professor until evaluation of the thesis by the student's committee. Grade on pass-fail basis by the examining committee.
IE 693. Independent Study in Industrial Engineering 1-12 Units
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

IE 694. Advanced Topics in IE 1-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: An advanced course in Industrial Engineering topics not covered by regularly scheduled courses.

IE 697. MEng Thesis in Industrial Engineering 1-8 Units
Prerequisite(s): Instructor permission required.
Description: The Industrial Engineering MEng or MS student carries out an engineering project under the supervision of a faculty mentor, prepares an acceptable written report, and presents a seminar on the project.

IE 699. Industrial Engineering Master's Degree Project 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Instructor permission required.
Description: The Industrial Engineering MS student is required to perform a study, design, or investigation under the direction of a faculty member. A written thesis is required to be presented orally and submitted to the faculty for approval.

IE 700. Dissertation Research in Industrial Engineering 1-18 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Dept Chair permission required.
Description: Research on dissertation project. Grade shall be deferred by the major professor until evaluation of the dissertation by the student’s committee. Graded on a Pass/Fail basis by the examining committee.

Integrative Master of Business Administration (IMBA)

IMBA 600. IMBA-Entrepreneurial Thinking 0 Units
Description: IMBA-Entrepreneurial Thinking
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

IMBA 611. Accounting 1.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the IMBA program.
Description: The format, understanding and interaction of elements of financial statements, effects of business transactions, accounting cycle and understanding of accounting areas, including tax, audit managerial accounting, etc.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

IMBA 612. Economics of Strategy 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in IMBA program.
Description: This course explores how various economic concepts and tools are used in strategy. Topics include the horizontal and vertical boundaries of the firm, market structure and competition, and strategic positioning.

IMBA 613. Finance 1.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the IMBA program.
Description: Introduction to financial concepts. Topics include the time value of money, analysis of risk and return, valuation of stocks and bonds and related concepts.

IMBA 614. Marketing 1.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the IMBA program.
Description: Examines the concepts and principles involved in marketing analysis and implementation of marketing strategy in consumer, business to business, and service organizations.

IMBA 615. Opportunity Discovery 1.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the IMBA program.
Description: This course acquaints students with the dynamic changes in our economic system and the business opportunities fostered by these changes. The course consists of readings, discussion, and exploration of the opportunity discovery process.

IMBA 620. Leadership 1.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in IMBA program.
Description: Theories of influence, leader behaviors, situation, fellowship, work teams, and transformational leadership. Practical development of self-knowledge, self-confidence and choosing to lead.

IMBA 621. Lean Launchpad I 1.5 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the IMBA program; IMBA 615.
Description: This experiential course introduces Lean LaunchPad and Value Proposition Canvas. Student teams identify an initial entrepreneurial concept, and use techniques of customer discovery to get out of the classroom and talk to users in order to validate product-market fit.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.
IMBA 622. Venture Strategic Analysis  1.5 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the IMBA program; IMBA 615.
Description: Strategic analysis consists of analyzing information from the internal and external environments to recognize and assess organizations strengths, weaknesses, opportunities & threats. Strategic analysis in existing firms and new ventures is compared and contrasted. Student teams will conduct and present an industry and competitive analysis of their new venture opportunity.

IMBA 624. Organizational Behavior  1.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in IMBA program.
Description: Concepts and techniques of individuals and groups including personality, motivation, power and politics, decision-making, group dynamics, job satisfaction, cultural influences and organizational development.

IMBA 626. Team Dynamics I  1.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the IMBA program.
Description: This course introduces and reinforces successful team processes as well as skills necessary for team success as an individual and as a colleague on a work team.

IMBA 630. Project Management  1.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in IMBA program.
Description: This course is to help students plan appropriately, think critically and document a project and to provide instruction and practice in critical thinking in regards to project management.

IMBA 631. Lean LaunchPad II  1.5 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the IMBA program; IMBA 621.
Description: This experiential course builds on earlier courses by expanding Lean LaunchPad methodology and introducing the Business Model Canvas. Student teams continue to get out of the classroom and talk with individuals representing all components of their product/service value chain in order to validate all components of their Business Model Canvas.

IMBA 632. Venture Finance  1.5 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the IMBA program; IMBA 622.
Description: By focusing on entrepreneurship from the investor’s perspective, this course teaches funding strategies with a particular focus on equity investments. Students will build on material learned in previous courses and culminate with a written business plan, complete with a finance model, and a presentation to a panel of venture investors.

IMBA 634. Financial Strategy  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to IMBA program.
Description: The microeconomics, markets, and financial strategies of the firm. Topics include market structure, pricing, revenue forecasting, cash flows, capital budgeting and structure decisions, agency, risk management.

IMBA 644. Information Technology Strategy  1.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission in the IMBA program.
Description: Exploration of information technology concepts and tools as used in strategy. Emphasis on assessing information technology tools for competitiveness in a digital economy.

IMBA 646. Operations Management  1.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to IMBA program.
Description: Exploration of the major concepts and issues in the field of operations management. Topics include standard terms, basic models, and new concepts to describe service and manufacturing delivery systems.

IMBA 652. Venture Accelerator I  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the IMBA program.
Description: Support for the development and growth of early stage teams through coverage of advanced entrepreneurship topics, mentoring by venture experts, identification of and application for non-dilutive seed funding, and connections with business mentors.

IMBA 654. Venture Accelerator II  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the IMBA program; IMBA 652.
Description: Support for the development and growth of early stage teams through coverage of advanced entrepreneurship topics, mentoring by venture experts, identification of an application for non-dilutive seed funding, and connections with business mentors. Opportunity to participate in the regional and national new venture competitions.

IMBA 656. Managerial Accounting  1.5 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the IMBA program and permission of instructor.
Description: This course covers managerial accounting methods and techniques and how they are used to assist organizations to achieve their strategic objectives. Managerial accounting topics include product costing, activity-based costing, planning and controlling costs, budgeting, standard cost systems, new production philosophies, and analytical techniques for decision making.

IMBA 657. Venture Sales Management 1.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in IMBA program.
Description: Coverage of the fundamental topics and subject matter related to the business and practice of selling in a startup venture environment.

IMBA 658. Brand Building 1.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in IMBA program.
Description: This course is intended for those interested in learning how brands are managed and employed as strategic assets. In addition to those pursuing a career in marketing, the course may be of interest to those contemplating careers in consulting.

IMBA 660. Corporate Entrepreneurship 1.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to IMBA program.
Description: This course introduces entrepreneurship in the corporate setting and how it differs from the activities of the individual entrepreneur. Course activities include the development of a team model to support entrepreneurial activities in an established organization.

IMBA 662. Corporate and Global Strategy 1.5 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in IMBA program.
Description: Corporate and global strategy consists of top management decision-making regarding business, corporate & global strategies as well as issues influencing the implementation of those strategies.

IMBA 664. Venture Accelerator III 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the IMBA program; IMBA 654.
Description: Support for the development and growth of early stage teams through coverage of advanced entrepreneurship topics, mentoring by venture experts, identification of an application for non-dilutive seed funding, and connections with business mentors. Opportunity to participate in the regional and national new venture competitions.

IMBA 668. Business Consulting 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission in IMBA program and permission of instructor.
Description: Assist a start-up or existing business in addressing key business needs or problems with a focus on growth opportunities.

IMBA 680. Special Topics 1-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission in IMBA program and permission of instructor.
Description: An advanced study of one or more selected topics related to business, including a single or combination of business subjects such as management, accountancy or finance.

IMBA 698. IMBA Independent Study 1-3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission in IMBA program and permission of associate dean for master’s programs.
Description: Students will work independently on a program of study and/or research approved and supervised by a member of the faculty.

IMBA 699. IMBA Internship 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission in IMBA program, second-year standing, and permission of instructor.
Description: Students will work with a selected organization and apply expertise learned in the IMBA program to a significant research problem or project.

Latin American and Latino Studies (LALS)

LALS 510. Urbanism in the Global South: Cities and Space 3 Units
Description: This course is a reading-based seminar. We learn about the processes and practices within the Latin American and African city from a spatial, cultural, economic and political perspective.
Note: Cross-listed with GEOG 510 and UPA 652.

LALS 680. Issues in Latin American and Latino Studies 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Students must be accepted into the UofL Graduate School.

MBA 611. Managerial Accounting I
Description: The use of accounting information to support managerial decision-making and business planning. Topics include cost-volume-profit analysis, budgeting and direct costing versus absorption costing. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 612. Finance I
Description: Introduction to financial concepts. Topics include the time value of money, analysis of risk and return, valuation of stocks and bonds and related concepts. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 613. Managerial Accounting II
Description: The use of accounting information in business planning, performance evaluation, integrating activity-based costing and the theory of constraints to guide business decisions. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 614. Operations Management
Description: Application of operations strategies and decisions, including process selection, capacity planning, lead time management and process improvement. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 615. Business Valuation & Analysis
Prerequisite(s): ECON 500 (or ECON 201 and 202); ACCT 500 (or ACCT 201); FIN 500 (or FIN 301); MGMT 201.
Description: The course will familiarize students with financial statements to assist in evaluating past, current, and future firm performance. Topics may include financial statement and ratio analysis, articulation of financial statements on a pro forma basis, and alternative firm valuation models. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 616. Finance II
Description: Examines the capital investment decision-making process, cost of capital, financing (capital structure) decisions and related topics. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 617. Marketing I
Description: Introduction to, and application of, the fundamentals of marketing management. Topics include consumer and business decision-making, segmentation, positioning and pricing decisions. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 618. Finance III
Description: Examines working capital management, financing with derivatives, risk management, complex financial decision-making and other topics. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 619. Marketing II
Description: Introduction to, and application of, the fundamentals of supply chain management. Topics include inventory management, transportation, customer service, warehousing, network design and integrated analysis. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 620. Global Economics
Prerequisite(s): MBA 605, MBA 610.
Description: The course objective is to familiarize students with the macroeconomic foundations of the global economy. Topics may include monetary and fiscal policy in an open economy, output determination, trade flows, exchange rates, technology transfer, immigration, emerging markets, and trade blocs. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 621. Global Business
Description: Foundations of the global economy, current trends in the global business environment and issues facing international organizations. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 622. Project Management
Description: Project management methodologies and utilization from a business management perspective. Relevant knowledge and skills including project initiation, planning, execution, reporting, controls and termination. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 623. Global Learning
Description: Study of businesses, practices, cultures and experiences in foreign domains. The course includes an international research trip visiting foreign businesses, operating plants and cultural sites. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 624. Strategic Management
Description: Strategic management consists of top management decision-making regarding business, corporate & international strategies, as well as issues influencing the implementation of those strategies. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

MBA 625. Managerial Accounting
Prerequisite(s): MBA 605, MBA 610, and MBA 615.
Description: The course is devoted to structuring accounting information for use by managers in making decisions. Topics may include cost-volume-profit analysis, product costing, capital budgeting, activity-based costing, theory of constraints, balanced scorecard, and economic value added. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.
MBA 630. Operations: Design and Analysis
Prerequisite(s): MBA 605, MBA 610, and MBA 615.
Description: The course introduces standard terminology, basic models, and new concepts of operations management as applied to manufacturing and service firms. Topics may include systems planning, product quality and process capability, capacity planning, facility location and layout, material management, scheduling and process improvement. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 635. Managerial Finance
Prerequisite(s): MBA 620, MBA 625, and MBA 630.
Description: Students are exposed to investments, decisions facing the firm through analysis of valuation and risk management. Topics may include valuing securities, project valuation, capital asset pricing and risk adjusted discount rates, decision trees and real options, leasing, acquisitions and divestitures, and new venture finance. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 640. Marketing and Distribution Management
Prerequisite(s): MBA 620, MBA 625, and MBA 630.
Description: An integrative approach to the study of modern marketing theory and practice utilized to familiarize students with the fundamentals of demand creation and fulfillment. Topics may include market decisions, positioning, differentiation, segmentation, corporate communications, customer service, marketing logistics, and supply chain management. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 641. Professional Development Module-Team Building
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in Professional MBA program.
Description: Various professional development topics such as Communications, Negotiation & Conflict Resolution, Creativity, Team-Building, Governance, Planning and Introduction to Regional Industries. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 642. Managerial Communications 1
Prerequisite(s): Admission to MBA program.
Description: Course objective to improve the quality/effectiveness/efficiency of managerial communication (verbal/written/listening) skills. Identify and address many barriers/challenges encountered in organizational settings; explore theoretical and practical solutions. In-class exercises will be evaluated with feedback provided by instructor and classmates. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 643. Professional Development Module III
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in MBA program.
Description: Various professional development topics such as communications, negotiation & conflict resolution, creativity, team-building, governance, planning and introduction to regional industries.
Note: May be repeated for credit. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 644. Professional Development Module-Business Etiquette
Prerequisite(s): MBA 605, MBA 610, and MBA 615.
Description: The course introduces standard terminology, basic models, and new concepts of operations management as applied to manufacturing and service firms. Topics may include systems planning, product quality and process capability, capacity planning, facility location and layout, material management, scheduling and process improvement. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 645. Leadership & Ethics
Prerequisite(s): MBA 620, MBA 625, and MBA 630.
Description: Theory and application of leadership and ethical issues including leadership as influence process, followership, developing effective leader behaviors, stewardship affirming ethical organizational culture. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 646. The Economics of Health and Medical Care
Prerequisite(s): MBA 635, MBA 640, and MBA 645.
Description: Applied economics in the health service sector and service delivery models of managed care systems. Evaluate models of care and service, considering efficiency, insurance, incentives, quality, and supply and demand. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 648. Managerial Communications 2
Prerequisite(s): Admission to MBA program.
Description: Course objective to improve the quality/effectiveness/efficiency of managerial communication abilities. Using interactive exercises in addition to lecture, course will cover oral and written skills essential for managers/leadership team members in communicating with a hostile group, leading meetings/groups, listening, serving/contributing in a team-oriented atmosphere, etc. In-class exercises will be evaluated with feedback provided by instructor and classmates. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 649. Professional Development Module-Inclusive Leadership
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): Admission into the MBA program.
Description: Upon completion of the course, students should possess a greater understanding of the connection between leadership/workforce inclusiveness in the business environment. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 650. Global Business
Prerequisite(s): MBA 635, MBA 640.
Description: The course will familiarize students with international finance and global business environment. Topics may include international financial markets, multinational corporations, overseas expansion, organization of international business, global management, marketing, and R&D, and the economic, political, and moral issues associated with globalization. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
MBA 655. Strategic Management 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBA 635, MBA 640, and MBA 645; must be taken in the final semester of the degree.
Description: The MBA capstone course is broad in scope and integrative of all required courses. The focus is on the strategic analysis, formulation, and implementation issues facing top management. Topics may include competition, core competencies, gaining and sustaining a competitive advantage at the business, corporate, and international levels, and corporate governance, structure, and entrepreneurship. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 660. Executive Effectiveness and Influence 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBA 635, MBA 640.
Description: Provides an experiential approach to leadership effectiveness. Discussions focus on classical and contemporary readings. Special emphasis is placed upon communication skills, self-knowledge, critical and creative thinking, and ethical issues in leadership. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 661. Developing Entrepreneurial Competency 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBA 635, MBA 640, and MBA 645.
Description: Skills building approach to improving effectiveness in making discoveries that maximize one's profit and minimize risk. Discussions focus on a variety of classic and contemporary readings. Experimental activities build self-knowledge and development of information processing and decision-making skills. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 662. Consulting to Entrepreneurial Organizations 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBA 635, MBA 640, and MBA 645.
Description: Assist an existing small to medium sized enterprise in addressing some key business needs or problems with a focus upon growth opportunities. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 663. Introduction to the Business of Healthcare Systems 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBA 635, MBA 640, and MBA 645.
Description: Examines topics from various business areas. Possible topics include cost-benefit analysis, managed care issues, information systems and medical informatics; cost concepts and decision making; product costing and accounting systems; operations management-TQM; and healthcare marketing. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 664. Healthcare Policy 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBA 635, MBA 640, and MBA 645.
Description: Elucidates theories of public policy and applies them to health issues. The course covers the evolution of healthcare and discusses policy options. Major issues of health delivery and finance are also covered within this context. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 665. The Free Enterprise System: Ethics, Governance, and Regulation 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBA 635, MBA 640, and MBA 645.
Description: An examination of the checks and balances and interaction between corporate shareholders, boards of directors, the CEO, investment bankers, federal and state regulators, and the political and judicial system. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 667. Healthcare Law 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBA 635, MBA 640, and MBA 645.
Description: Covers the legal aspects of healthcare. This includes the structure of the judicial system, legal procedures, torts, criminal aspects, contracts and corporate liability. Other legal aspects include malpractice, patient rights and the nature of the nursing profession. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 668. Information Technology Management in a Digital Economy 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBA 635, MBA 640, and MBA 645.
Description: Provides students with an understanding of the effects of the digital environment on business models and how firms have to adapt to be competitive in a digital economy. Focuses on the management of technology in such an environment, with emphasis on management activities (e.g., planning, organizing, coordinating, assimilating new technologies, evaluating information technology investments, etc.) that will enable firms to make the most effective use of their information technology resources. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 670. Capstone Project I 1.5 Units
Description: The first of two courses designed to provide a team-based experience in identifying, planning, initiating and completing a significant project within a business entity. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 671. Capstone Project II 1.5 Units
Description: The second of two courses designed to provide a team-based experience in identifying, planning, initiating and completing a significant project within a business entity. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBA 680. Special Topics in Business 1-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBA 635, MBA 640, and MBA 645.
Description: An advanced study of one or more selected topics or issues related to the study of business. Topics or issues could be from a single business discipline such as management or from a combination of business disciplines, such as accountancy and finance. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
MBA 690. MBA Fundamentals
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Term Typically Offered: Summer Only
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the College of Business (Global) MBA degree program.
Description: Course is designed to introduce students to the fundamentals of business in the areas of team building, marketing, finance and quantitative methods. Course will utilize a combination of various student engagement activities including lectures, group discussions, active team-building challenges, completion of online refresher modules, and pre-course assignments.

MBA 695. PDM-Crisis Management
0.25-0.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Must be enrolled in MBA degree program
Description: A crisis can strike organizations at any time. Whether the organization is crippled or is able to bounce back depends heavily on how well the crisis is managed. This course will expose students to the basics of crisis management: crisis planning, stakeholder analysis, and crisis response strategies. Course will feature a range of crisis activities including team and individual tasks.
Note: Range of activities will vary depending on classroom contact hours.
Note: The whole day session (7 classroom hours) will be valued at 1/2 credit; the one-half day session (3 1/2 classroom hours) will be valued at 1/4 credit.

MBA 696. PDM-Negotiation
0.25-0.5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Must be enrolled in MBA degree program
Description: The purpose of this PDM course is to learn about Negotiations and how to become effective negotiators. It focuses on both concepts and skills, alternating between class discussions and increasingly complex negotiation exercises.
Note: More extensive in-class readings, cases, and role-play opportunities will be featured as part of the whole day session (7 classroom hours valued at 1/2 credit); a reduced number of in-class activities will be utilized for the one-half day session (3 1/2 classroom hours valued at 1/4 credit).

MBA 698. Independent Study
0.5-3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBA 645.
Description: An advanced independent study of one or more related topics or issues related to the study of business. Topics or issues could be from a single business discipline such as management or from a combination of business disciplines, such as accounting and finance.

MBA 699. MBA Internship
1-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): 24 credit hours at the 600 level or above; approval of MBA Director or Dean, College of Business.
Description: The experience will provide the student the opportunity to work with a selected organization. The student will apply expertise learned in the MBA Core courses to a significant research problem or project. The student will write a synopsis of the work experience detailing the application of knowledge to the project and the outcomes achieved.

Master of Engineering Residency (MENG)

MENG 600. Master of Engineering Residency
0 Units
Grading Basis: Credit/No Credit

Master's Candidacy (MAST)

MAST 600. Master's Degree Candidacy
0 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Completion of all course work, qualifying exams, required research credit hours and other co-curricular requirements.
Description: Students who are enrolled in degree candidacy are considered full-time students. While in Degree Candidacy, it is the responsibility of both student and mentor to maintain contact to ensure continuous progress towards the completion of the degree.

Mathematics (MATH)

MATH 501. Introduction to Analysis I - CUE
3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): MATH 301, MATH 311 and MATH 325.
Description: Foundations of the real number system, sequences and series, topology of the line, continuity, differentiation of functions of one variable.
Course Attribute(s): CUE - This course fulfills the Culminating Undergraduate Experience (CUE) requirement for certain degree programs. CUE courses are advanced-level courses intended for majors with at least 90 earned credits/senior-level status.

MATH 502. Introduction to Analysis II
3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): MATH 501.
Description: Riemann integration on the line, sequences and series of functions, uniform convergence, metric spaces.
MATH 505. Introduction to Partial Differential Equations 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Summer
Prerequisite(s): MATH 301 and MATH 405.
Description: Techniques for solving standard heat, wave, and potential equations, including discussion of Fourier analysis techniques. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 507. Fourier Analysis 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): MATH 301 and MATH 405.
Description: Introduction to Fourier series and transforms. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 520. Theory of Numbers 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 206 or ENGR 102; MATH 311; MATH 325 or consent of instructor.
Description: A study of the integers and their divisibility properties. Particular emphasis on the theory of congruencies, partitions, prime numbers, Diophantine analysis and quadratic residues.
Note: Credit may be applied towards the MAT but not toward any other graduate degree in mathematics.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 521. Modern Algebra I - CUE 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 206 or ENGR 102; MATH 311; MATH 325; or consent of instructor.
Description: An introduction to the theory of groups, rings, integral domains, and fields.
Course Attribute(s): CUE - This course fulfills the Culminating Undergraduate Experience (CUE) requirement for certain degree programs. CUE courses are advanced-level courses intended for majors with at least 90 earned credits/senior-level status.

MATH 522. Modern Algebra II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 521.
Description: Continuation in greater depth of topics introduced in MATH 521; introduction to theory of ideals, field extensions, and abstract vector spaces.

MATH 535. Modeling I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 325 or MATH 405 or equivalent.
Description: Introduction to mathematical modeling of discrete and continuous dynamical systems.

MATH 536. Modeling II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 535.
Description: Advanced mathematical modeling of discrete and continuous dynamical systems.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 545. Introduction to Fractal Geometry 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 301 and MATH 325; MATH 501 recommended.
Description: Recursively defined sets and self-similarity; metric spaces and iterated function systems; topological, fractal, and Hausdorff dimensions.

MATH 550. Advanced Euclidean Geometry 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): A year of high school geometry; MATH 206 or ENGR 102; MATH 311; MATH 325 or consent of instructor.
Description: Theory of Euclidean geometry contrasted with non-Euclidean from both the axiomatic and algebraic approach. Of special value to secondary teachers.
Note: Credit may be applied toward the MAT but not toward any other graduate degree in mathematics.

MATH 551. Geometry 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): MATH 206 or ENGR 102; MATH 311; MATH 325 or consent of instructor.
Description: Study of projective spaces, transformations and invariants. Introduction to related geometries, such as affine, elliptic, and hyperbolic.

MATH 555. Advanced Geometry 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): MATH 206 or ENGR 102; MATH 311; MATH 325 or consent of instructor.
Description: Study of projective spaces, transformations and invariants. Introduction to related geometries, such as affine, elliptic, and hyperbolic.

MATH 560. Statistical Data Analysis - WR 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 205 or ENGR 101.
Description: Descriptive techniques, inferential techniques, simple and multiple linear regression. Frequent use of statistical computer packages. No previous knowledge of the computer required.
Note: Credit may be applied towards the MAT but not toward any other graduate degree in mathematics.
Note: Approved for the Arts and Sciences upper-level requirement in written communication (WR).
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
MATH 561. Probability 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 301.
Description: Probability spaces, probability distributions, moments, moment-generating functions, independence, transformation of variables, sampling distributions, laws of large numbers, central limit theorem, applications.
Note: Credit will not be granted for both MATH 561 and IE 360.

MATH 562. Mathematical Statistics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 561.
Description: Random samples and statistics, point estimation, sufficiency and completeness, confidence regions, classical theory of hypothesis testing, linear regression, nonclassical procedures.

MATH 564. Probability Models 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 561.
Description: Finite probability models, Markov chains, renewal and reliability theory, Brownian motion, stochastic differential equations.

MATH 568. Mathematical Models in Molecular Biology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 205 or instructor consent.

Note: Cross-listed with BIOC 568.

MATH 570. Foundations of Actuarial Science 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 561.
Description: Fundamental mathematical tools for quantitatively assessing risk. Application of these tools to problems encountered in actuarial science is emphasized. Covers the material of Examination 1 of the Society of Actuaries and Casualty Actuarial Society.

Note: Credit may not be applied toward a graduate degree in mathematics.

MATH 574. Actuarial Models II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 573.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 581. Introduction to Graph Theory 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): MATH 206 or ENGR 102; MATH 311; MATH 325 or consent of instructor.
Description: Provides an overview of graph theory. Topics include blocks, trees, connectivity, Hamiltonian and Eulerian graphs; topological problems, matrices and groups.

Note: Does not count towards the mathematics major or minor.
Note: Credit may be applied toward the MAT degree but not towards any other graduate degree in mathematics.
Note: Credit not allowed for both MATH 387 and MATH 587.

MATH 590. History of Mathematics - WR 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): 500-level course in math (except MATH 560).
Description: Mathematical history from Mesopotamia to present. Emphasis on doing mathematics, identifying the growth of mathematical concepts and studying prominent mathematicians.
Note: Approved for the Arts and Sciences upper-level requirement in written communication (WR).

MATH 591. Selected Topics in Mathematics 1-3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Announced in Schedule of Courses.
Description: An examination of one or more topics in mathematics not usually treated in a regularly offered course.

MATH 601. Real Analysis I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 502.
Description: Basic set theory and real topology, Lebesgue measure and integration on the real line, differentiation of integrals, L(p) spaces.

MATH 602. Real Analysis II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 601.
Description: Elementary Hilbert space theory, abstract measure spaces and integration, product spaces. Applications to other areas.

MATH 605. Functional Equations I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 601.
Description: Introduction to the theory and application of functional equations in several variables, including Cauchy equations, d’Alembert equation, quadratic functions. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 606. Functional Equations II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 605 or consent of department.
Description: It extends further the theory of functional equations to applications in various branches of mathematics, information theory, and the natural and social sciences.
Note: Continuation of MATH 605.

MATH 607. Seminar on Applied Analysis 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 605 or consent of department.
Description: Advanced topics in applied analysis. Topics will be determined by the research interests of the students and those of the instructor.

MATH 611. Complex Variables I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 502.
Description: Geometry of the complex plane and complex analysis. Topics include analytic and meromorphic functions, linear fractional transformations, Cauchy’s Theorem and the Residue Theorem. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 612. Complex Variables II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 611.
Description: Including deeper properties of the space of meromorphic functions, harmonic functions and conformal mappings.
Note: Continuation of MATH 611.

MATH 621. Algebra I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 522.
Description: Advanced theory of Groups, Rings, Integral Domains and Fields. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 622. Algebra II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 621.
Description: Including Polynomial Rings, Modules, Vector Spaces, Structure of Fields, Galois Theory, Advanced Linear Algebra.
Note: A continuation of MATH 621.

MATH 631. Group Theory 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 522.
Description: Abstract Groups, Homomorphisms, Permutation Groups, Abelian Groups, Simple Groups, Sylow Theory, Series, Extensions.

MATH 633. Rings and Ideals 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 522.
Description: Ideals and Homomorphisms, Prime Ideals and the Prime Radical, Rings of Endomorphisms, the Jacobson Radical.

MATH 635. Mathematical Modeling I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 325, MATH 405 or equivalent.
Description: Introduction to mathematical modeling of continuous and discrete dynamical systems.

MATH 636. Mathematical Modeling II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 635.
Description: Advanced mathematical modeling of discrete and continuous dynamical systems.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 641. Topology I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 502 or MATH 541.
Description: Continuous functions, connectedness, compactness, countability, separation, metrizability, and completeness in the context of topological spaces.

MATH 642. Topology II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 641.
Description: Introduction to algebraic topology, including the Fundamental Group and Covering Spaces. Note: A continuation of MATH 641

MATH 663. Theory of Probability I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): MATH 501 and MATH 561 or consent of department.
Description: Advanced topics in probability theory such as probability measures, random variables, laws of large numbers, large deviations, expected values, and distributions.
MATH 664. Theory of Probability II
Prerequisite(s): MATH 663 or consent of department.
Description: Advanced topics in probability theory such as types of convergence, central limit theorems, conditional probabilities and expectations, stochastic processes, martingales, and Brownian motion. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 667. Statistical Inference
Prerequisite(s): MATH 561 or consent of department.
Description: Advanced topics in mathematical statistics such as sampling distributions, exponential families, sufficiency, point and interval estimation, likelihood-based inference, hypothesis testing, Bayesian inference, statistical decision theory, and asymptotic theory. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 668. Linear Statistical Modeling
Prerequisite(s): MATH 667 or consent of department.
Description: This course covers linear and related models including a discussion of fixed, mixed, and random effects models as well as regression and ANOVA models. The discussion will include estimation, hypothesis testing, confidence intervals, model fitting, and model diagnostics. Violations of the assumptions of the linear model will be examined. Statistical software will be used frequently. A strong background in linear algebra is needed. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 670. Introduction to the Stochastic Calculus
Prerequisite(s): MATH 660 or consent of the department.
Description: Levy Process, local martingale, stochastic integrals, quadratic variation, Ito’s formula, existence and uniqueness of stochastic differential equation. Applications to financial engineering, no arbitrage and martingale measure, Black-Scholes model, edging. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 673. Actuarial Models I
Prerequisite(s): MATH 570 and MATH 572.
Description: Theoretical basis of actuarial models and the application of those models to insurance and other financial risks. The following specific models are introduced: Contingent Payment Models, Survival Models, Frequency and Severity Models, Compound Distribution Models, Stochastic Process Models, Ruin Models. Together with its continuation, Mathematics 674, covers the material on the Examination 3 of the Society of Actuaries and the Casualty Actuarial Society. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 674. Actuarial Models II
Prerequisite(s): MATH 673.
Description: It further develops knowledge of the theoretical basis of actuarial models and the application of those models to insurance and other financial risks. The following specific models are introduced: Contingent Payment Models, Survival Models, Frequency and Severity Models, Compound Distribution Models, Stochastic Process Models, Ruin Models. Together with its predecessor, Mathematics 673, covers material on the Examination 3 of the Society of Actuaries and the Casualty Actuarial Society.
Note: Continuation of Math 573/MATH 673.

MATH 676. Actuarial Modeling I
Prerequisite(s): MATH 673 and MATH 674.
Description: Approximately half of the material on the Society of Actuaries/Casualty Actuarial Society examination 4, Actuarial Modeling. Topics include: statistical analysis of simulated data, statistical validation techniques, actuarial credibility, empirical estimation, loss distributions, and introduction to estimation of survival functions. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 677. Actuarial Modeling II
Prerequisite(s): MATH 676.

MATH 681. Combinatorics and Graph Theory I
Prerequisite(s): MATH 521, or MATH 580, or MATH 581, or consent of department.
Description: Fundamental topics in Graph Theory and Combinatorics through Ramsey theory and Polya’s theorem respectively. Motivation will be through appropriate applications. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 682. Combinatorics and Graph Theory II
Prerequisite(s): MATH 681.
Description: Fundamental topics in Graph Theory and Combinatorics through Ramsey theory and Polya’s theorem respectively. Motivation will be through appropriate applications. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
MATH 683. Advanced Combinatorics and Graph Theory I
Prerequisite(s): MATH 681.
Description: Advanced topics in Combinatorics and Graph Theory, including finite planes, coding theory, combinatorial optimization, groups, and graphs on manifolds.

MATH 684. Advanced Combinatorics and Graph Theory II
Prerequisite(s): MATH 681 and MATH 682.
Description: Course extends the study of advanced topics in Combinatorics and Graph Theory, including Extremal Graph Theory and Algebraic Combinatorics.

MATH 687. Seminar on Discrete Mathematics
Prerequisite(s): MATH 683 or consent of department.
Description: Advanced topics in discrete mathematics.

MATH 690. An Overview of Mathematics
Prerequisite(s): Undergraduate mathematics major or at least four mathematics courses in the graduate program or consent of instructor.
Description: History of mathematics, survey of the major content areas of modern mathematics, discernment of current directions in various mathematical fields.

MATH 691. Independent Study

MATH 693. Seminar in Teaching Mathematics
Prerequisite(s): Must be admitted to a graduate program in the Department of Mathematics and consent of instructor.
Description: Topics in teaching mathematics to college students.
Note: Does not count as part of the 18-hour minimum in mathematics for the MA in Mathematics.

MATH 694. Graduate Internship
Description: Students participating in a graduate internship must be registered for this course.

MATH 695. Thesis Guidance
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MATH 696. Computer in Teaching Science and Mathematics
Prerequisite(s): One year of teaching experience or consent of instructor (no previous computer experience needed).
Description: Introductory programming and use of computers in a wide range of topics in secondary school science and mathematics.
Note: Does not count as part of 15-hour minimum in 600-level mathematics courses for the MA in Mathematics.

MATH 699. Seminar

MATH 700. Doctoral Research
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Student must have passed all qualifying examinations and have a dissertation committee.
Description: Research while enrolled for a doctoral degree under the direction of faculty members.

MATH 710. Doctoral Dissertation
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Previous enrollment in MATH 700.
Description: Dissertation writing under the direction of the major professor.
Note: Grade to be deferred until evaluation of the dissertation by the student’s committee.
Note: Graded pass-fail, depending on the evaluation by the student’s committee.

Mathematics for Education (MTED)

MTED 591. Topics in Mathematics for In-Service Teachers
Prerequisite(s): MATH 152 or permission of department.
Description: Course is intended for professional development of in-service mathematics teachers and will typically be taught off campus. Mathematical topics will be mixed with strategies for presenting them to students and with applications and technology as needed.
Note: Course does not count toward any degree in A&S.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
ME 510. Thermal Design of Internal Combustion Engines 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ME 310.
Description: Thermodynamics and fluid mechanics of internal combustion engine design. Combustion stoichiometry, thermochemistry, and properties of working fluids. Ideal and real engine cycles. Fluid flow processes, combustion processes, pollutant formation and control. Engine operating characteristics.

ME 512. Finite Element Methods for Mechanical Design I 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): ME 422.
Description: Matrix analysis of static and dynamic structural systems and steady-state heat transfer. Computer aided design of trusses, frames, plane stress structures, as well as one- and two-dimensional thermal systems including conduction and convection.

ME 513. Energy Conversion 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ME 310.
Description: A study of nuclear and fossil-fueled steam generators, plus internal combustion prime movers and alternate energy sources. A computerized design project will be required.

ME 521. Mechanical Vibrations 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ME 422.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 523. Intermediate Dynamics 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ME 206 and ME 422.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 526. Vehicle Dynamics and Handling 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ME 380.
Description: Design of passenger and commercial vehicles for optimal dynamic performance with a focus on architecture layout, characterization of critical subsystems, and CAE-based kinematic and kinetic modeling.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 530. Mechanical Design of Consumer Appliances 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Description: Application of classical, computational, and experimental methods and analyses to the design of mechanical systems characteristic of consumer appliances. Topics include component analysis and design, failure mechanisms, and organization with respect to life, reliability, performance, and cost.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 531. Consumer Appliance Energy Systems 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Description: Analysis and design of energy systems in home appliances. Topics include thermal-fluid process fundamentals, energy transport, storage, use, and conversion, energy system components and materials, and the affect of extreme environments on components and finishes.

ME 532. Experimental Stress Analysis 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): ME 323, ME 414 and ME 415 or graduate standing in Mechanical Engineering.
Description: Fundamentals of experimental stress analysis. Brittle coating methods, photoelastic coating and electrical strain gage techniques, strain measurements under static and dynamic loading.

ME 534. Experimental Vibrations 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Summer Odd Years
Prerequisite(s): ME 435.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 585. Design and Energy Analysis of Consumer Appliances
Description: Application of classical, computational, and experimental methods and analysis to the design of mechanical and energy systems. Topics include material impacts on design, structural component design, and design and analysis of thermal fluid, and acoustic systems. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

ME 588. Independent Study in Mechanical Engineering
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): Faculty consent.
Description: A theoretical or experimental investigation of a problem area related to mechanical engineering. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

ME 595. Measurement, Reliability, and Thermal Design of Electromechanical Systems
Prerequisite(s): ME 585.
Description: Application of classical, computational, and experimental methods and analyses to the design of electromechanical systems. Topics include reliability and failure analysis, measurement and control of electromechanical systems, and analysis and design optimization of thermal systems. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

ME 602. Graduate Internship in Mechanical Engineering
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Students must be admitted for Graduate study, and a sponsored member of the Graduate Intern Program.
Description: Supervised professional experience in industry at the graduate level. This course provides the structure and focus for the graduate intern field assignment to ensure that the assignment is appropriate and consistent with the intern’s graduate course of study and professional development. May be repeated for credit. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

ME 606. Continuum Mechanics
Prerequisite(s): Graduate School Standing, ME 311 and ME 323.
Description: Emphasizes the basic principles of continuum mechanics and the central role these principles play in the formulation of the fundamental equations of fluids and solid mechanics. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

ME 610. Data Acquisition and Signal Analysis
Prerequisite(s): Graduate/Graduate Professional standing in Mechanical Engineering or instructor permission.
Description: Implementation of PC-based data acquisition systems for dynamic signal analysis. The LabView graphical programming language will be used to design virtual instruments for data collection and signal analysis. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

ME 612. Finite Element Methods for Mechanical Design II
Prerequisite(s): ME 512.
Description: Use of general purpose software for practical structural, thermal, and fluid design applications, including nonlinear and transient effects. Advanced modeling techniques, and analysis guideline with emphasis on interpretation of results. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

ME 614. Heating, Ventilating, and Air Conditioning
Prerequisite(s): ME 440.
Description: Psychometric principles. Detailed calculation of heat losses and heat gain for both heating and cooling of buildings. Basic concepts of refrigeration. Design of actual systems and selection of equipment. Automatic controls. Codes and standards. A design project will be required. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

ME 618. Heat Exchanger Design
Prerequisite(s): ME 401 and ME 440.
Description: Thermal and hydraulic design of heat exchangers. Selection and optimum design of heat exchangers. Cost and construction of heat exchangers. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

ME 620. Advanced Mechanics of Solids
Prerequisite(s): ME 432 or equivalent.
Description: Analysis of stress and strain. Topics include failure theories, unsymmetric bending, curved beams, shear center, torsion, beams on elastic foundations, beams with combined axial and lateral loads, thick-wall cylinders, rotating disc, introduction to elastic stability.
Note: Cross-listed with CE 620.

ME 621. Noise and Vibration Control
Prerequisite(s): ME 422 and ME 414.
Description: Practical aspects of noise and vibration control are studied. Methods for measuring and analyzing noise and vibration. Methods for selecting design criteria. Methods for quieting a product. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

ME 625. Mechanical Design of Internal Combustion Engines
Prerequisite(s): ME 310, ME 380, and ME 442, or equivalents.
Description: Principles and procedures for the mechanical design of internal combustion engine components and systems for strength, endurance, and optimal performance. Design projects and computer applications are emphasized. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.
ME 626. Vehicle Body Structure Design 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ME 380 and ME 442, or equivalent.

ME 630. Turbomachinery 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ME 310 and ME 401.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 638. Computational Methods in Fluid Flow and Heat Transfer 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate School or Professional School Standing.

ME 639. Injury Biomechanics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ME 649 or BE 354 or equivalent or permission of the instructor.
Note: Cross-listed with BE 639.

ME 640. Optimum Design Methods 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ME 422 or equivalent.
Description: Methods and applications of engineering design optimization. Strategies for problem formulation. Transformation methods, search techniques, linearization methods and quadratic approximation methods. Solution evaluation.

ME 641. Advanced Mechanics of Machinery 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ME 442 and ME 521.
Description: Machine analysis and design for high speed, high performance applications. Rigid-body kinematics and dynamics of mechanisms, balancing of machinery. Cam-follower mechanisms. Mathematical modeling of mechanisms composed of elastically deformable elements such as gears, bearings, linkages and actuators. Transient and steady-state dynamic response. Failure modes and prevention. A design project is required.

ME 644. Mechatronics 3 Units
Description: Introduction to multi-domain systems. Mechanical, electrical, electronic, electromechanical system dynamics. Emphasis on modeling and simulation of hybrid systems using modern computer-aided tools.

ME 645. Mechanical Engineering Structured Research Project 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate/professional school standing.
Description: Structured research in a mechanical engineering discipline. A proposal, activity reports and final report are required. Research results are presented for faculty and peer review, and must also be documented in a scholarly paper targeted toward a journal or technical conference. Intended for candidates for the Master of Engineering degree choosing the non-thesis curriculum alternative.

ME 646. Design for Manufacturability and Reliability 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ME 442 and IE 360.
Description: Introduction to manufacturing concerns such as efficient assembly, producibility, and quality that should be considered early in the design process. Topics include the product development cycle, manufacturing process selection, tolerancing, design for assembly, quality control techniques, Taguchi’s robust design methodology, quality function deployment, value engineering and reliability-based design. Lifecycle optimization.

ME 647. Advanced Design Methods 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ME 442 and ME 497.
Description: Practical techniques for product definition, concept generation and selection, value analysis, parameter design, design for manufacture, life cycle design and product structuring.

ME 650. Biofluid Mechanics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ME 401.
Description: Application of the Navier-Stokes equation to flow in the human body and to other biological systems.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
ME 651. Kinematics and Kinetics of Human Movement
Prerequisite(s): ME 206.
Description: Development of analytical tools for evaluating three-dimensional kinematics and kinetics of human motion. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 652. Advanced Human Biodynamics
Prerequisite(s): ME 651.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 661. Advanced Thermodynamics
Prerequisite(s): Graduate School or Professional School Standing.
Description: Review of thermodynamic fundamentals, with application to selected topics. Irreversible, non-equilibrium thermodynamics. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 662. Intermediate Heat Transfer
Prerequisite(s): ME 440.
Description: Classical heat conduction solutions and numerical techniques. Intermediate convection and radiative heat transfer topics. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 667. Solar Energy Applications
Prerequisite(s): ME 401 and ME 440.
Description: Theory of solar radiation transmission, absorption and reflectance. Heat transfer in solar energy devices. Design methods for heating of buildings by solar energy. Active and passive solar applications. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 668. Advanced Mechanical Vibrations
Prerequisite(s): ME 521.
Description: Analytical and computational methods for mechanical vibration problems. Formulation and solution techniques. Modeling and applications. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 669. Advanced Dynamics
Prerequisite(s): Graduate School or Professional School Standing.
Description: Kinematics and dynamics of rigid-body motion. An introduction to variational mechanics, including generalized coordinates and Lagrange's equations of motion. Stability of motion, including the Routh-Hurwitz criterion and the Liapounov direct method. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 671. Advanced Fluid Mechanics
Prerequisite(s): ME 401.
Description: A study of the Navier-Stokes equation, with application to laminar and turbulent-flow fields for various geometries. Computer applications. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 675. Advanced Topics in Mechanical Engineering
Prerequisite(s): Faculty consent.
Description: An advanced course in mechanical engineering topics not covered by regularly scheduled courses. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 688. Independent Study in Mechanical Engineering
Prerequisite(s): Graduate/professional school standing.
Description: Presentations on research projects and current literature. Course begins in the fall semester and concludes in the spring semester. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 690. Master of Science Thesis in Mechanical Engineering
Prerequisite(s): ME 530, ME 531, and ECE 532.
Description: Experimental and/or theoretical thesis research performed as part of Master of Science degree requirements. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 694. Mechanical Engineering Seminar
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Graduate/professional school standing.
Description: Presentations on research projects and current literature. Course begins in the fall semester and concludes in the spring semester. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 695. Platform Engineering Project
Prerequisite(s): ME 530, ME 531, and ECE 532.
Description: Major product development project involving a multidisciplinary team working on design and/or research problems associated with consumer appliance technologies. Concurrent topics on project realization and management. A proposal, activity reports and final report are required. Project results are presented for faculty and peer review. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ME 697. Master of Engineering Thesis in Mechanical Engineering
Prerequisite(s): Graduate/Professional School standing.
Description: Original design or research activity in a mechanical engineering discipline, under the direction of a faculty member. A written thesis must be presented to a faculty committee and defended. Intended for candidates for the Master of Engineering degree choosing the thesis curriculum alternative. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
ME 700. Dissertation Research in Mechanical Engineering 1-18 Units
Prerequisite(s): Completion of doctoral program core and permission of dissertation director.
Description: Original research activity in an appropriate mechanical engineering discipline, under the direction of a Mechanical Engineering graduate faculty member.

Microbiology & Immunology (MBIO)

MBIO 606. Seminar 1 Unit
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Pass/Fail grading.

MBIO 610. Methods and Analysis in the Biomedical Sciences 2 Units
Description: The primary goal of the Methods and Analysis course is to provide first year graduate students with the conceptual framework to become familiar with key tools and techniques used in biomedical science research. We will examine the kind of information the methodology can provide, the strengths and weaknesses of the approach and how data obtained can be judged and used to address scientific problems.
Note: Cross-listed with ASNB 610, BIOC 610, PHTX 610, PHZB 610.

MBIO 618. Topics in Advanced Microbiology 1-3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

MBIO 619. Research 1-12 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Pass/Fail grading.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBIO 620. Thesis 1-6 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Pass/Fail grading.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MBIO 621. Advanced Immunology: Innate and Adaptive Immunity 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBIO 602 or consent of instructor.
Description: This is an advanced interdisciplinary graduate level course focused on acquiring deeper knowledge about cells and associated concepts involved in innate and acquired immunity. The cells include dendritic cells, macrophages, neutrophils, innate lymphoid cells, NK cells and T cells. Concepts such as cell differentiation, development, activation and function, antigen presentation, thymic selection, and cell cross-talk will be discussed. Format: short lectures, analysis of pertinent high-profile papers. Graded.
MBIO 622. Advanced Immunology of Disease 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBIO 602 or consent of instructor.
Description: The course focuses on the immune system in the context of disease with particular emphasis on Autoimmunity, Cancer, and Transplantation, and in particular, the cellular and molecular components of immune responses that perpetuate or protect against graft rejection, autoimmunity, and cancer. Format: short lectures, analysis of pertinent high-profile papers. Graded.

MBIO 623. Scientific Writing and Hypothesis Testing 1 Unit
Term Typically Offered: Summer Only
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): None
Description: This course will teach students writing and presentation skills necessary to compete successfully for grant funding, and more generally to succeed as a scientist. Topics covered in this course include how to write Abstract, Specific aims, Significance and Approach sections, and how to prepare an effective biosketch. Didactic lectures on these topics will be combined with in class presentations by students.

MBIO 631. Basic Microbiology and Immunology 5 Units
Term Typically Offered: Summer Only
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: A general course in infectious diseases and immunology. Special emphasis is placed on oral infections, immune phenomena, and natural resistance mechanisms. Specific topics include the human immune response, pathogenesis of microbial infections, molecular and microbiological basis of periodontal diseases, pulp and periapical infections and cariogenesis. Graded Summer semester only.

MBIO 637. Microbial Pathogenesis 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): MBIO 601, BIOS 645, or consent of instructor.
Description: A detailed discussion of host-parasite interactions, focusing on the characteristics (i.e., virulence factors) of bacteria that enable them to cause disease. Exotoxins, capsules, adherence mechanisms, intracellular replication, and iron metabolism will be described in detail. Specific bacterial diseases will be examined to illustrate how each virulence factor is required in the infectious process. The use of animals and other model systems will be discussed. Graded Every year, spring semester only.

MBIO 689. Microbiota in Health and Disease 2 Units
Description: This is an advanced interdisciplinary graduate level class focused on composition of the microbiota and its role in health and various diseases from birth through death. These diseases include allergies, irritable bowel disease, metabolic diseases and cancer. Factors that influence composition of the microbiota, such as breast vs formula feeding infants, antibiotic treatment, diet in adulthood, hygiene, and the consequences on various diseases, such as obesity and metabolic diseases, will be discussed. The role of fecal transplants, probiotics and prebiotics in alleviating the harmful effects of imbalance of the microbiota will be discussed. Format: short lectures, analysis of pertinent high-profile papers. Graded.

MBIO 690. Research Methods in Microbiology and Immunology 2 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Description: A series of lectures and laboratory demonstrations emphasizing current research techniques used in areas of immunology, virology, microbiology, biochemistry and molecular biology. A limited amount of hands-on experience may be utilized in some areas. Fall semester only. Pass/fail grading.

Modern Languages (M L)

M L 500. Study Abroad 1-15 Units
Prerequisite(s): Membership in a University of Louisville Language Study Abroad Program or a program approved by the department.
Description: Credit awarded upon demonstration of successful completion of program undertaken with prior approval of the department, including a paper or project and an oral or written examination in the language and culture, administered under the supervision of a faculty member.

M L 506. Francophone Women Writers - WR 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Junior standing or faculty consent.
Description: Readings of literary and non-literary texts by women of the French-speaking world.
Note: Cross-listed with WGST 571.
Note: Approved for the Arts & Sciences upper-level requirement in written communication (WR).
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

M L 519. German Intellectual History 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Consideration of German thought and sensibility from the Middle Ages to the present.
ML 521. Teaching Techniques in Foreign Languages 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Current status as a foreign language teacher or consent of instructor.
Description: Teaching methods in foreign languages. Recommended for those teaching or preparing to teach languages.
Note: Cross-listed with LING 521.

ML 551. Special Topics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Special themes and issues of particular significance as reflected in selected works of foreign language, literature or culture. Topics vary.

ML 552. Special Topics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Special themes and issues of particular significance as reflected in selected works of foreign language, literature or culture. Topics vary.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ML 553. Selected Authors in Foreign Literature 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: The life and works of significant authors chosen from the panorama of foreign literature; their literary and/or cultural impact on society. Authors will vary from semester to semester.
Note: Approved for the Arts and Sciences upper-level requirement in written communication (WR).

ML 561. Masterpieces of Russian Literature 3 Units
Description: Reading and discussion of the three greatest masterpieces of Russian literature: Tolstoy's "War and Peace," Dostoevsky's "Brothers Karamazov," and Pushkin's "Eugene Onegin".

ML 605. Summer Workshop for Foreign Language Teachers 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Intensive, two-to-three-week workshop exploring a pedagogical topic.
Note: Cross-listed with LING 605.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

M L 640. Graduate Reading Knowledge of Foreign Language 3 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing and approval of the chair.
Description: Intensive language course designed for graduate students who are preparing for language reading examinations, providing reading knowledge of a foreign language by focusing on fundamentals of translation.
Note: Cross-listed with HUM 640.
Note: The credits may not be used as part of a graduate program.
Note: May be repeated up to 3 times for different languages.

Music (MUS)

MUS 500. Music History Review 0 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Description: The purpose of the course is to provide the student with a reasonable method of removing deficiencies revealed by the Graduate Entrance Examination. No graduate student will be allowed to enroll in any graduate course in a historical period in which he has failed to pass the corresponding section of the Graduate Entrance Examination until he has removed his deficiency in the history of the subject. Areas covered are: deficiencies within the period from the Middle Ages to 1530; deficiencies within the period between 1530 and 1750; deficiencies within the period between 1750 and 1850; and deficiencies within the period from 1850 to the present.

MUS 501. Major Applied Study 2 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Description: One-hour private lesson for performance majors.

MUS 502. Major Applied Study 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): Faculty consent.
Description: One-hour private lesson for performance majors. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
MUS 503. Major Applied Study
Prerequisite(s): Faculty Consent.
Description: PIANO: First year: Student will study scales and arpeggios, Bach 2-Part Inventions, Sonatas by Haydn or Mozart, and compositions by such composers as Beethoven, Schubert, Chopin, Mendelssohn, Grieg. Second Year: Student will study scales and arpeggios, and literature equivalent to Bach 3-Part Inventions or French Suites, Sonatas by Beethoven or Schubert, Mozart Fantasia or Rondo, Scarlatti Sonatas, compositions by Chopin, Schumann, Brahms, Debussy. Third Year: Student will study technical materials and such materials as Bach English Suites or Preludes and Fugues, Sonatas by Mozart of Beethoven, Haydn Variations, Mozart Concertos or compositions by Chopin, Liszt, Rachmaninoff, Debussy. Fourth Year: Student will study technical materials and such materials as Bach Partitas and Preludes and Fugues, Sonatas by Beethoven, Schumann, or Chopin, Mozart or Beethoven

MUS 504. Major Applied Study
Prerequisite(s): Faculty Consent.
Description: PIANO: First year: Student will study scales and arpeggios, Bach 2-Part Inventions, Sonatas by Haydn or Mozart, and compositions by such composers as Beethoven, Schubert, Chopin, Mendelssohn, Grieg. Second Year: Student will study scales and arpeggios, and literature equivalent to Bach 3-Part Inventions or French Suites, Sonatas by Beethoven or Schubert, Mozart Fantasia or Rondo, Scarlatti Sonatas, compositions by Chopin, Schumann, Brahms, Debussy. MUS 509. Major Ensembles
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing in music or by permission of instructor.
Description: Symphony Orchestra; Symphonic Band; Early Music Ensemble; Opera Theater; Jazz Ensemble; Jazz Repertory Ensemble, Concert Band; Pep Band; Wind Ensemble; Wind Symphony, New Music Ensemble; Marching Band; University Chorus; Collegiate Chorale, Vocal Jazz Ensemble, Singing Cardsmen

MUS 511. Principal Applied Study
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): Faculty consent.
Description: One-hour private lesson for students majoring in composition, music education, music history, music therapy, or theory. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MUS 512. Principal Applied Study
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): Faculty consent.
Description: One-hour private lesson for students majoring in composition, music education, music history, music therapy, or theory. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MUS 513. Principal Applied Study
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): Faculty consent.
Description: One-hour private lesson for piano pedagogy majors. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MUS 514. Principal Applied Study
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): Faculty consent.
Description: One-hour private lesson for piano pedagogy majors. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MUS 519. Minor Ensembles
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing in music or by permission of instructor.
Description: Study and performance of works for small ensembles: Piano; String; Woodwind; Brass or Percussion Ensemble; Improvisation; Guitar; Jazz Combo (Instrumental); Jazz Ensemble; Brass Chamber Music; Historical Brass Ensemble, Trombone, Tuba or Tuba/Euphonium; Saxophone Ensemble; Opera Workshop; Clarinet, Flute, Harp Ensemble; Community Band; Historical Instruments and Techla.

MUS 521. Secondary Applied Study
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): Faculty consent.
Description: A secondary applied music course carried in addition to the student’s major or principal field. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MUS 522. Secondary Applied Study
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Prerequisite(s): Faculty consent.
Description: A secondary applied music course carried in addition to the student’s major or principal field. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

MUS 527. Choral Music in the Modern Secondary School
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Description: Procedures and techniques for use with the high school chorus including such topics as selection of repertoire, voice production, diction, rehearsal psychology, and performance practice. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

<td>Focus on aural skills, transcription methods, and advanced jazz harmony topics. Extended functional harmony and advanced rhythmic concepts. Examples will focus on transcribed solos by established jazz masters. Sections include: (01) Jazz Style Analysis, Prereq: Theory IV and MUS 138 and permission of instructor. Explores jazz style through analysis of historically significant transcribed solos as played by jazz masters (02) Advanced Jazz Theory, Prereq: Jazz Theory I or passing grade on Jazz Theory Entrance Exam. (03) Standard Jazz Repertoire Prereq: MUS 138 and permission of instructor. Focuses on learning compositions from standard jazz repertoire. While improvisation is stressed as an important part of the learning process, the main objective will be to learn and memorize melodies and chord progressions of selected pieces from a number of musical styles. Each class session will concentrate on a specific style, composer, and/or type of composition tune. A variety of tempos and keys will be chosen. NURS 609. Research Design and Professional Writing 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the MSN program or consent of Instructor.
Description: This course is an overview of nursing research using multiple designs and methods. Ethical issues, data management and analysis of findings are included. Instruction in scientific writing is integrated.

NURS 610. Nurse Educator Clinical/Practicum 2 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): NURS 605 and NURS 652; NURS 657 (or concurrent), ELHF 661 (or concurrent), and ELFH 683 (or concurrent).

Description: This course is designed so that students gain clinical expertise with a population of interest and apply that knowledge to the nurse educator role. The integration of evidence based nursing practice and educational concepts in the clinical and classroom settings is emphasized.

NURS 611. Graduate Pharmacology for Advanced Practice Nurses 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Entrance to the Graduate Program in the School of Nursing.

Description: This course will provide the nurse practitioner student with a sound basis for clinical application of pharmacology. Emphasis is placed on learning drug classifications by clinical indication or body symptoms.

NURS 612. Philosophy of Science 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the doctoral program.

Description: Overview and critical analysis of science as a way of knowing, including epistemological and ontological implications of differing approaches to knowledge generation.

NURS 613. Introduction to Health Care Policy 3 Units
Description: This course provides the student with the understanding of the role of the nurse as leader and advocate in health policy at the local, state, regional, national and global level. Students will analyze and evaluate how policy influences health care delivery in the context of stakeholders, politics and economics.

NURS 615. Advanced Clinical Practice: Women's Health Nurse Practitioner, Clinical I 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 660 and NURS 661.

Corequisite(s): NURS 602, NURS 604, NURS 616, and NURS 619.

Description: This clinical course places an emphasis on advanced psychomotor skills used by Women's Health Nurse Practitioners across a variety of obstetric and gynecologic settings. The clinical experience focuses on comprehensive patient assessment, diagnosis and management of acute health problems for women and their families.

NURS 616. Women's Health Nurse Practitioner I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 601, NURS 660, and NURS 661.

Corequisite(s): NURS 602, NURS 604, NURS 615, and NURS 619.

Description: This is the first in a series of four courses (two didactic; two clinical) which assist students to develop the role of the Women's Health Nurse Practitioner. The focus of the initial course is on the health and well being of girls and women across the life-span. It emphasizes the application of concepts, principles and skills needed to provide care for common, well-defined obstetric and gynecologic health processes and problems of adolescents and adults frequently encountered by Women's Health Nurse Practitioners. The focus of this course is identifying between normal and abnormal, and in making beginning differential diagnoses.

NURS 617. Advanced Clinical Practice: Women's Health Nurse Practitioner (WHNP), Clinical II 1 Unit
Prerequisite(s): NURS 604, NURS 615, NURS 616, and NURS 619.

Corequisite(s): NURS 618.

Description: This clinical course places an emphasis on the role of the advanced practice nurse as a member of the health care team in obstetric settings. The clinical experience focuses on comprehensive patient assessment, diagnosis and management of obstetric health problems for women and their families.

NURS 618. Women's Health Nurse Practitioner II 4 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 604, NURS 615, and NURS 616.

Corequisite(s): NURS 617.

Description: This is the second in a series of four courses (two didactic; two clinical) which assist students to develop the role of Women's Health Nurse Practitioner. The focus of this course is on the diagnosis and management of complex health issues affecting multicultural women across the life-span. It emphasizes the application of concepts, principles and skills needed to provide care for more complex obstetric and gynecologic health processes and problems of adolescents and adults frequently encountered by Women's Health Nurse Practitioners (WHNP’s). The focus of this course is developing differential diagnoses for abnormal conditions, recognizing those issues within the scope of practice for WHNP’s, and when referral to other health care providers is warranted.

NURS 619. Advanced Skills Laboratory: Women's Health Nurse Practitioner 1 Unit
Prerequisite(s): NURS 602, NURS 660, and NURS 661.

Corequisite(s): NURS 604, NURS 615, and NURS 616.

Description: This laboratory course places an emphasis on advanced psychomotor skills used by Women's Health Nurse Practitioners across a variety of obstetric and gynecologic settings. These skills are learned and practiced in the classroom setting before application in the clinical setting.

NURS 622. Advanced Clinical Practice: Adult Clinical Nurse Specialist I 6 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 600, NURS 605, NURS 611, NURS 651, NURS 655, NURS 657.
Corequisite(s): NURS 653.
Description: Explores the theoretical and practice applications of the Adult CNS in a variety of clinical settings. The clinical practicum is designed by faculty and students to promote CNS competencies in the sphere of influence; patient/client.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 623. Advanced Clinical Practice: Adult Clinical Nurse Specialist II 7 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 622.
Description: Explores the theoretical and practice applications of the Adult CNS in a variety of clinical settings. The clinical practicum is designed by faculty and students to promote CNS competencies in the sphere of influence: nursing personnel and organization/network.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 624. Advanced Clinical Practice: Adult-Gerontology Primary Care Nurse Practitioner I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 656.
Description: The purpose of this course is to provide clinical experience in comprehensive patient assessment, diagnosis and management of common primary health problems in adolescent, adult, geriatric patient populations. Students will begin practicing the role of an APRN under preceptor supervision.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 625. Advanced Clinical Practice: Adult-Gerontology Primary Care Nurse Practitioner II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 624.
Description: The purpose of this course is to provide advanced clinical experience in comprehensive patient assessment, diagnosis and management of common and complex primary health problems in adolescent, adult, and geriatric patient populations. Students will strengthen and enhance their advanced practice skills with preceptor supervision.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 626. Advanced Clinical Practice: Adult Nurse Practitioner 3 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 602, NURS 604, NURS 624, and NURS 625.
Description: The focus of this clinical course is the synthesis of theoretical and evidence-based practice skills necessary to implement the nurse practitioner role in a holistic manner that will advance nursing knowledge and the health of patients.

NURS 629. Advanced Health Assessment of the Neonate 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 605, NURS 607, NURS 608, NURS 613, NURS 652, and NURS 655.
Corequisite(s): NURS 658.
Description: This course is an in-depth study of neonatal assessment techniques and normal versus abnormal variations seen in the newborn. Emphasis is on the clinical presentation of the newborn, utilizing concepts from development anatomy and physiology as well as intrauterine factors that may alter findings. Students will learn advanced physical examination, gestational age, and neurobehavioral assessment skills specific to the neonate.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 630. Neonatal Pathophysiology 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the MSN program, Neonatal Nurse Practitioner track.
Description: Advanced neonatal pathophysiology serves as a basis for clinical management of the neonate.

NURS 633. Advanced Neonatal Pathophysiology and Clinical Management I 4 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 605, NURS 607, NURS 608, NURS 613, NURS 629, NURS 652, NURS 655, NURS 658, and NURS 657.
Corequisite(s): NURS 637.
Description: This course provides a foundation in the cellular processes upon which neonatal pathophysiology occurs. Synthesis of topics in human embryology is the foundation for understanding specific neonatal pathophysiologic processes. Common pathophysiologic neonatal diseases and how they deviate from normal physiology are presented using a systems approach. Integrated into the course are diagnostic reasoning skills needed to manage the care of a critically ill neonate. Students will evaluate presenting clinical signs in the neonate requiring intensive care, determine the appropriate diagnosis and differential diagnoses, identify appropriate diagnostic tests and exams to determine the appropriate diagnosis in neonates with a variety of problems.

NURS 634. Advanced Clinical Practice: Neonatal NP II 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 629, NURS 633, and NURS 600.
Description: This course provides a theoretical foundation for evidence based neonatal nurse practitioner practice. Clinical management of cardiovascular, gastrointestinal, integumentary and hematologic systems will be the focus.
NURS 635. Advanced Neonatal Pathophysiology and Clinical Management II 4 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 605, NURS 607, NURS 608, NURS 613, NURS 629, NURS 636, NURS 652, NURS 655, NURS 657, and NURS 658.
Corequisite(s): NURS 637.
Description: This course is the second of two courses that provides the student with didactic preparation in the concepts of advanced neonatal pathophysiology based upon normal neonatal physiology. Synthesis of topics in human embryology, genetics, and advanced neonatal pathophysiology and clinical management provides the foundation for understanding complex neonatal pathophysiologic processes. Complex pathophysiologic neonatal diseases and how they deviate from normal physiology are presented using a systems approach. Integrated into the course is the diagnostic reasoning needed to manage the care of the critically ill neonate. Topics addressed in course include those recommended to prepare the student for national certification as a neonatal nurse practitioner.

NURS 636. Neonatal Nurse Practitioner Residency I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 605, NURS 607, NURS 608, NURS 613, NURS 629, NURS 636, NURS 652, NURS 655, NURS 657, and NURS 658 (or concurrent).
Description: The purpose of the NNP Residency is to provide neonatal nurse practitioner students with learning opportunities that facilitate continued development in the Neonatal Nurse Practitioner role. Students will work with preceptors in a Level III-IV NICU’s to advance the knowledge and skills acquired in previous coursework. This course provides the student with an immersion into the Neonatal Nurse Practitioner (NNP) role that allows development of increased skill and independence in decision-making as a NNP. Students are expected to identify, interpret, and apply current evidence to their practice and clinical decision-making in the care of critically ill infants.

NURS 637. Neonatal Nurse Practitioner Residency II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 604, NURS 605, NURS 607, NURS 608, NURS 613, NURS 629, NURS 633, NURS 636, NURS 652, NURS 655, NURS 657, and NURS 658.
Corequisite(s): NURS 635.
Description: This is the second and final residency course for NNP students. The purpose of the NNP Residency is to provide students with learning opportunities that facilitate continued development in the Neonatal Nurse Practitioner role. Students will work with preceptors in a Level III-IV NICU’s to advance the knowledge and skills acquired in previous coursework. This course provides the student with an immersion into the Neonatal Nurse Practitioner (NNP) role that allows development of increased skill and independence in decision-making as a NNP working with infants with increasingly complex medical problems. Students are expected to identify, interpret, and apply current evidence to their practice and clinical decision-making in the care of critically ill infants.

NURS 638. Advanced Psychiatric Assessment and Clinical Interviewing Techniques 1 Unit
Description: The focus this course is the use of clinical interviewing techniques and psychiatric assessment of in determining the mental health status of clients throughout the lifespan.

NURS 639. Advanced Psych Nurse Practitioner Mental Health Assessment Clinical 1 Unit
Prerequisite(s): NURS 638 and NURS 647.
Description: Course focuses on Initial Implementation of the APPMHN role: psychiatric assessment and interviewing strategies utilizing the current Diagnostic and Statistical Manual for diagnosing psychopathology. The practicum focuses on a lifespan approach with select clients in multicultural contexts who are at risk for or are experiencing dysfunction in the area of mental health.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 641. Advanced Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner I: Theory 3 Units
Description: Course introduces the advanced practice role with a focus on at least 3 modes of therapy across the lifespan and in multicultural contexts. Relevant literature, professional practice guidelines and current best practice standards will guide the selection of intervention models across the continuum of care.

NURS 642. Advanced Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner II: Theory 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 638, NURS 641, and NURS 645.
Corequisite(s): NURS 646.
Description: Course provides in-depth study of PMH interventions for clients with complex or co-morbid diagnoses. A lifespan approach encompassing diverse and multicultural contexts will be utilized. Relevant literature, professional practice guidelines and current best practice standards will guide the selection of intervention models across the continuum of care.

NURS 645. Advanced Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner I: Clinical 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 638, NURS 647, and NURS 649.
Corequisite(s): NURS 641.
Description: Course focuses on initial implementation of the APPMHN role: psychiatric assessment, diagnosis and intervention strategies including psychopharmacology. The practicum focuses on a life span approach with select clients in multicultural contexts who are at risk for or are experiencing dysfunction in the area of mental health.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
NURS 646. Advanced Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner II: Clinical 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 638, NURS 641, NURS 647, and NURS 649.
Corequisite(s): NURS 642.
Description: Course continues focus on implementation of APPMHN role. The practicum focuses on PMH interventions using a lifespan approach with individuals, families, and/or groups in diverse multi-cultural contexts who are experiencing co-morbid of complex psychiatric diagnoses. A variety of relevant intervention models will be utilized across the continuum of care.

NURS 647. Advanced Psychopathology Across the Lifespan 2 Units
Description: This course is a comprehensive study of essential developmental and psychopathology across the lifespan. Clinical theory, standards of practice, neurobiology, genomic, genetic, and environmental influences will be examined in multicultural contexts.

NURS 648. Advanced Clinical Assessment: Psych/Mental Health Nursing 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Basic physical/health assessment skills are necessary; Formal basic courses or continuing education courses in physical health assessment are acceptable.
Description: Builds upon basic assessment skills. The nurse's knowledge will be expanded to enable the development of the advanced practice role. Critical thinking and communication skills will be enriched by an accurate interpretation of a holistic approach to advanced clinical assessment of the adult.

NURS 649. Advanced Psychopharmacology Across the Lifespan 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 611 (or concurrent).
Description: This course is a comprehensive study of essential psychopharmacology used across the lifespan. Clinical theory, standards of practice, neurobiology, genomic, genetic, and environmental influences will be examined in multicultural contexts.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 651. Evidence Based Nursing for Advanced Practice 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 652 and graduate-level Statistics (applied descriptive & inferential statistics); NURS 605 (or concurrent).
Description: Analysis of the value of research in advanced nursing practice. Focus is on the research theory and process, ethics, critique of the literature, and dissemination of findings.

NURS 652. Advanced Statistical Application 3 Units
Description: This course will expose the student to basic and advanced concepts and practical applications of statistics. The student will learn to analyze data sets to address hypotheses and make inferences to populations.

NURS 653. Advanced Practice Roles 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the Graduate Program in Nursing.
Description: This web-enhanced course focuses on the advanced practice roles of educator, consultant, researcher, leader, and expert practitioner. Scope of practice, credentialing, reimbursement and future issues are also addressed.

NURS 654. Informatics in Health Care 3 Units
Description: National Nursing Informatics (NI) competencies will be covered as well as core NI principles, knowledge acquisition, process, generation and dissemination. Students will be prepared at the level of informatics innovators.

NURS 655. Advanced Pathophysiology: Clinical Decision Making 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Understanding of normal anatomy and physiology as well as basic pathophysiology.
Description: The focus of this foundational course is on understanding pathological processes common among individuals of all ages.

NURS 656. Advanced Clinical Assessment 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 655.
Description: This course builds upon the basic critical thinking and psychomotor skills that professional nurses use in client care. Emphasis is on the physical, psychosocial, and cultural assessment of individuals and families.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 657. Health Promotion and Disease Prevention in Culturally Diverse and Vulnerable Populations. 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in master's degree program.
Description: This course provides an overview of health behavior at the level of the individual family, community and clinical/aggregate populations. The effects of individual health beliefs, cultural variables, readiness for change, community environment, and health disparities will be discussed.

NURS 658. Advanced Neonatal Pharmacology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 605, NURS 607, NURS 608, NURS 613, NURS 633, NURS 636, NURS 652, and NURS 655.
Corequisite(s): NURS 629.
Description: This course provides a basis for understanding the pharmacokinetics and actions of specific groups of drugs commonly used in neonatal advanced nursing practice. Emphasis is placed on pharmacological action of drugs, side effects, appropriate dosing, monitoring, drug interactions and guidelines for use of drugs in the critically ill neonate from admission to the NICU to discharge. Legal and ethical considerations of prescriptive practice are also addressed.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
NURS 659. Life-Span Issues in Pathophysiology for Clinical Decision Making
Description: Will provide the student with an opportunity to examine and apply pathophysiological concepts across the lifespan utilizing critical thinking and decision-making by the graduate level nurse.

NURS 660. Family Nursing
Prerequisite(s): NURS 605, NURS 655, NURS 656, and NURS 611.
Description: This course is an introduction to Advanced Family Practice Nursing. It provides a theoretical and practical base for the health care management of childbearing and childrearing families.

NURS 661. Advanced Clinical Practice: Family Nurse Practitioner Clinical I
Prerequisite(s): NURS 656 and NURS 611.
Description: The clinical experience focuses on comprehensive patient assessment, diagnosis and management of acute health problems for individuals and their families.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 662. Advanced Clinical Practice: Family Nurse Practitioner Clinical II
Prerequisite(s): NURS 601 and NURS 661.
Description: The clinical experience focuses on comprehensive patient assessment, diagnosis and management of chronic health problems for individuals and their families.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 663. Advanced Clinical Practice: Family Nurse Practitioner
Prerequisite(s): NURS 601, NURS 602, and NURS 661.
Description: This clinical experience focuses on synthesis of theoretical, scientific, and clinical knowledge as well as practice-based skills in the diagnosis and management of existing and potential health problems.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 664. Common Health Problems of the Pediatric Client
Prerequisite(s): NURS 601, NURS 605, NURS 655, NURS 656, NURS 657, and NURS 611.
Description: Focus is on the Family Nurse Practitioner’s role in the identification and management of selected acute, chronic and emergent health problems of the pediatric client.

NURS 665. Primary Care of the Aged: Leadership and Practice
Prerequisite(s): NURS 600, NURS 650, NURS 611, NURS 651, NURS 655, NURS 656, and NURS 657; or National Certification as FNP or ANP.
Description: Develop health assessment and health promotion skills to determine age-related changes in older adults.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 666. Primary Care of Older Adults
Prerequisite(s): NURS 611, NURS 655, and NURS 656.
Description: This course provides an in-depth analysis of primary care of the older adult. Emphasis is on assessment, interpretation, and management of age-related functional and cognitive changes. The advanced practice nurse’s role will be examined both as an individual practitioner and as a member of a collaborative inter-professional healthcare team.

NURS 667. Applied Geriatric Pharmacology in Nursing Practice
Description: This course builds principles and content of advanced nursing pharmacology. It is designed to provide the adult gerontology nurse practitioner student with knowledge of pharmacokinetics, pharmacodynamics, and polypharmacy as related to the older adult.

NURS 668. Primary Care of Older Adults
Prerequisite(s): NURS 600, NURS 650, NURS 611, NURS 651, NURS 655, NURS 656, and NURS 657; or National Certification as FNP or ANP.
Description: Develop health assessment and health promotion skills to determine age-related changes in older adults.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 670. Cancer Epidemiology and Pathophysiology
Prerequisite(s): NURS 550 or NURS 605, NURS 611, NURS 651, NURS 655, and NURS 656 (or concurrent).
Description: This course provides an opportunity to synthesize cancer-specific epidemiology and pathophysiology concepts for critical thinking and decision-making by the nurse in an advanced practice role in caring for patients with cancer and their families across the cancer-care continuum.

NURS 671. Evidence-Based Cancer Treatment
Description: This course provides the student an opportunity to integrate knowledge and principles of cancer treatment, associated responses and symptom management, and the late-effects of cancer treatment. Emphasis is placed on current theory and research in examining evidence-based nursing interventions to improve outcomes for clients with cancer and their families.

NURS 672. Advanced Oncology Clinical Practice I
Prerequisite(s): NURS 605, NURS 611, NURS 651, NURS 655, and NURS 656; or NURS 656 (or concurrent) and NURS 671 (or concurrent).
Description: This course entails didactic classroom instruction and a mentored clinical practicum, which will provide students an opportunity to synthesize and apply knowledge in the clinical management of complex physical, cognitive, and psychosocial responses to cancer and its treatment.
NURS 673. Advanced Oncology Clinical Practice II

Prerequisite(s): NURS 605, NURS 611, NURS 651, NURS 655, and NURS 656; NURS 653 (or concurrent), NURS 671 (or concurrent), and NURS 672 (or concurrent).

Description: This didactic and clinical course will provide the student with an opportunity to develop expertise in clinical judgment and consultation, facilitation of learning; intra-and inter-disciplinary collaboration; systems thinking and care-delivery models; and advocacy and moral agency. A case-study approach will be used to analyze and systematically evaluate the multiple roles of the advanced oncology nurse. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes here.

Units: 7

NURS 674. Adult-Gerontology Acute Care Nurse Practitioner I

Prerequisite(s): NURS 611, NURS 655, and NURS 656.

Description: This course is an introduction to the acute care of adult-gerontology patients. Emphasis is placed on health promotion, health protection, problem identification, and management of complex health problems. The advanced practice nurse's role will be examined both as an individual practitioner and as a member of a collaborative interprofessional healthcare team. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes here.

Units: 4

NURS 675. Advanced Clinical Practice: Adult-Gerontology Acute Care Practitioner, Clinical I

Prerequisite(s): NURS 611, NURS 655, and NURS 656.

Description: This clinical course places an emphasis on the assessment, diagnosis and collaborative management of adult clients who are acutely/critically ill or experiencing an exacerbation of a chronic health problem. The clinical focus is on the Adult-Gerontology Acute Care Nurse Practitioner performing health assessments, interpretation of data and the implementation of a collaborative plan of care. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes here.

Units: 3

NURS 676. Adult-Gerontology Acute Care Practitioner II

Prerequisite(s): NURS 674.

Description: This course provides an in-depth analysis of adult acute-gerontology care. Emphasis is placed on differentiating signs and symptoms, formulating diagnoses, and developing culturally competent plans of care for acute complex health problems. The advanced practice nurse's role will be examined both as an individual practitioner and as a member of a collaborative interprofessional healthcare team. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes here.

Units: 4

NURS 677. Advanced Clinical Practice: Adult-Gerontology Acute Care Practitioner, Clinical II

Prerequisite(s): NURS 675.

Description: This clinical course emphasizes advanced assessment, advanced diagnosis, and collaborative management of adult clients who are acutely/critically ill or experiencing an exacerbation of a chronic health problem. The clinical focus is on the Adult-Gerontology Acute Care Nurse Practitioner in performing complex health assessments, interpretation of data, and the implementation of a collaborative plan of care. This course builds on the clinical experiences in NURS 675. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes here.

Units: 3
NURS 702. Philosophy of Science 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission to PhD Nursing; BSN-PhD students must have 18 credits of required MSN courses completed.
Description: This course examines philosophies of science and epistemologies and their influence on knowledge development of nursing.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 710. Research Methodology I: Qualitative Research Methods 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 700 and NURS 702
Description: This course examines qualitative methods as a scientific approach for building nursing knowledge. Qualitative research methods will be analyzed and applied. Ethical issues in conducting qualitative research will be discussed.

NURS 711. Research Methodology II: Quantitative Design 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 700 and NURS 702; one doctoral-level stats course; second doctoral-level stats course (or concurrent).
Description: This course examines quantitative methods as a scientific approach for building nursing knowledge. Quantitative research methods will be analyzed and applied. Ethical issues in conducting quantitative research will be discussed.

NURS 712. Research Methodology III: Nursing Measurement 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 711; two doctoral-level statistics courses.
Description: This course focuses on measurement of health-related phenomena. Measurement methods and instrument development are discussed. The psychometric and biometric properties of instruments used in research are evaluated.

NURS 713. Research Methods Practicum 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 710 and NURS 711; NURS 712 (or concurrent).
Description: This guided practicum in the area of research methodology will allow students to gain mastery of a specific methodology that a PhD prepared nurse scientist may be expected to employ.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 714. Research Methodology IV: Analysis of Existing Data 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 712; two doctoral-level statistics courses.
Description: This course focuses on the analysis, interpretation, and presentation of existing quantitative data. Students will develop skills in the application of a variety of quantitative analysis strategies using existing data. Students will identify hypotheses and/or research question, test them using statistical methods, and interpret the results.

NURS 720. Seminar in Advanced Leadership 3 Units
Description: Students will synthesize leadership concepts and theories with personal, professional, and organizational values within the changing political, ethical and sociocultural context in which leadership is practiced.

NURS 721. Leadership Practicum 1 Unit
Prerequisite(s): NURS 720.
Description: This guided practicum in the area of research methodology will allow students to gain mastery of a leadership role PhD prepared nurse scientists may be expected to fulfill.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 725. Leadership and Health Policy for the Doctorally Prepared Nurse 3 Units
Description: This guided practicum in the area of research methodology will allow students to gain mastery of a leadership role PhD prepared nurse scientists may be expected to fulfill.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 730. Health Policy: An Evidence-Based Approach 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 700 or by permission of the instructor.
Description: This course will examine the role of the nurse scientist in analyzing and developing health policy using an evidence-based framework.
Note: Foundational to NURS 731.

NURS 731. Health Policy Practicum 1 Unit
Prerequisite(s): NURS 730.
Description: This guided practicum in the area of nursing health policy will allow students to gain mastery of a role a PhD nurse scientist may be expected to fulfill.

NURS 735. PhD Seminar I 1-3 Units
Description: This is the first of four courses that examine issues critical to socialization into the role of a nurse scientist.

NURS 736. PhD Seminar II 1 Unit
Prerequisite(s): NURS 735.
Description: This is the second of four courses that examine issues critical to socialization into the role of a nurse scientist.
NURS 737. PhD Seminar III
Prerequisite(s): NURS 736.
Description: This is the third of four courses that examine issues critical to socialization into the role of a nurse scientist. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 738. PhD Seminar IV
Prerequisite(s): NURS 737.
Description: This is the last of four courses that examine issues critical to socialization into the role of a nurse scientist. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 740. Advanced Pharmacology
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the doctoral program.
Description: This course is designed to provide advanced practice nursing students with a sound basis for the clinical application of pharmacology. Core drug knowledge, including pharmacotherapeutics, pharmacodynamics and pharmacokinetics are discussed. Emphasis is placed on learning drug classifications by clinical indication with an advanced understanding of potential drug interactions, side effects, and goals of pharmacologic therapy. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 741. Advanced Pathophysiology
Description: This course provides the student an opportunity to synthesize pathophysiological concepts essential for critical thinking and clinical decision-making by the nurse in an advanced practice role. The focus of this foundational course is on understanding pathological processes common among individuals of all ages by using knowledge from genetics, the biophysical and psychosocial sciences, and current research. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 742. Advanced Physical Assessment
Description: This advanced health assessment course will focus on both normal and normal variant finding in the population of patients from adolescence to geriatrics. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 743. Epidemiology
Description: This course will focus on the theory and concepts of epidemiology and social determinants of health, and how they can be applied to the field of nursing. This course will apply and integrate the principles and tools of epidemiology to the decision-making in a health care environment. The student will identify the different study designs and how each of them can be applied to answer specific questions related to population-based health care. Emphasis will also be placed on the application of appropriate analytic methods for these different designs and questions. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 744. Synthesis and Evaluation of Evidence in Practice
Description: In this advanced course, students will critically evaluate, translate, and apply to practice evidence from a variety of sources. An emphasis is placed on the synthesis and dissemination of evidence. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 745. Health Information Technology
Description: This course provides an introduction to the use of information technology in health care and health care systems. Factors that facilitate or prevent successful use of health care technology will be examined. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 746. Program Development & Evaluation
Prerequisite(s): NURS 743 and NURS 744.
Description: This course explores techniques and strategies used for designing, implementing and evaluating programs. Students will assess population needs, develop appropriate goals, determine intervention strategies and resource needs, and implement evaluation mechanisms. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 747. Finance Management
Description: This course focuses on the financial and business aspects of health care delivery. An emphasis is on the instruments and concepts used for analysis of practice initiatives and the development and implementation of effective plans to improve health outcomes. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 748. Transformational Leadership
Description: This advanced course focuses on the application of leadership and political theories in health care delivery. Students will apply transformational leadership skills to influence health policy change and serve as an advocate. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 750. DNP Project 1: Project Inception
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Description: In this course students will identify an area of interest and develop a DNP Project. The DNP Project will require the student to synthesize the evidence and apply the competencies learned throughout the curriculum to improve outcomes in health care systems. Students will have their completed proposal approved and will submit the proposal to the IRB as applicable. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 761. Pediatric & Adolescent Well Child Theory 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 740.
Description: This course is an introduction to advanced practice nursing. It provides a theoretical and practical base for the health care management of pediatric and adolescent clients. Emphasis is on the analysis and the implementation of the advanced practice nurses role in the identification, prevention, and management of common pediatric health concerns.

NURS 762. Diagnosis & Management of Pediatrics in Primary Care 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 741.
Description: This course provides in depth analysis of primary care of the child. Emphasis is on differentiating signs and symptoms, formulating diagnoses, and management of acute and chronic conditions commonly encountered in primary care. The advanced practice nurses role will be examined both as an individual practitioner and as a member of a collaborative interprofessional healthcare team.

NURS 763. Advanced Neonatal Physiology & Pathophysiology I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 785.
Description: This course provides a foundation in the cellular processes upon which neonatal pathophysiology occurs. Synthesis of topics in human embryology is the foundation for understanding specific neonatal pathophysiologic processes. Common pathophysiologic neonatal disease and how they deviate from normal physiology are presented using a systems approach.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 764. Neonatal Diagnostic Reasoning I 1 Unit
Prerequisite(s): NURS 785.
Description: An advanced health assessment class emphasizing the processes and techniques of diagnostic reasoning with critically-ill neonates. Students will evaluate presenting clinical signs in the neonate requiring intensive care, determine the differential diagnosis, identify appropriate diagnostic tests and exams, and determine the appropriate diagnosis and treatment in neonates with a variety of problems.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 765. Advance Neonatal Physiology & Pathophysiology II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 763.
Description: This course is the second of two courses that provides the student with didactic preparation in the concepts of advanced neonatal pathophysiology based upon normal neonatal physiology. Synthesis of topics in human embryology, genetics, and advanced neonatal pathophysiology and clinical management provides the foundation for understanding complex neonatal pathophysiologic processes. Complex pathophysiologic neonatal diseases and how they deviate from normal physiology are presented using a systems approach. Integrated into the course is the diagnostic reasoning needed to manage the care of a critically ill neonate. Topics addressed in this course include those recommended to prepare the student for national certification as a neonatal nurse practitioner.

NURS 766. Neonatal Diagnostic Reasoning II 1 Unit
Prerequisite(s): NURS 765.
Description: An advanced health assessment class emphasizing the processes and techniques of diagnostic reasoning with critically-ill neonates with diagnoses of advanced complexity and builds upon skills learned and applied Neonatal DDX I. Students will evaluate presenting clinical signs in the neonate requiring intensive care, determine the differential diagnosis, identify appropriate diagnostic tests and exams, and determine the appropriate diagnosis and treatment in neonates with a variety of problems.

NURS 767. Neonatal Residency I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 765.
Description: The purpose of the NNP Residency is to provide neonatal nurse practitioner students with learning opportunities that facilitate continued development in the Neonatal Nurse Practitioner role. Students will work with preceptors in a Level III-IV NICUs to advance the knowledge and skills acquired in previous coursework. This course provides the student with an immersion into the Neonatal Nurse Practitioner (NNP) role that allows development of increased skill and independence in decision-making as a NNP. Students are expected to identify, interpret, and apply current evidence to their practice and clinical decision-making in the care of critically ill infants.
NURS 768. Neonatal Residency II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 767.
Description: This is the second clinical residency course for the NNP students. The purpose of the NNP Residency is to provide students with learning opportunities that facilitate continued development in the Neonatal Nurse Practitioner role. Students will work with preceptors in a Level III-IV NICUs to advance the knowledge and skills acquired in previous coursework. This course provides the student with an immersion into the Neonatal Nurse Practitioner (NNP) role that allows them to advance their skills and independence in decision-making as a NNP working with infants with increasingly complex medical problems. Students are expected to identify, interpret, and apply current evidence to their practice and clinical decision-making in the care of critically ill infants.

NURS 769. Neonatal Residency III 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 768.
Description: This is the third and final clinical residency course for NNP students. The purpose of the NNP Residency is to provide students with learning opportunities that facilitate continued development in the Neonatal Nurse Practitioner role. Students will work with preceptors in a Level III-IV NICUs to apply the knowledge and skills acquired in previous residency semesters and coursework. This course provides the student with an immersion into the Neonatal Nurse Practitioner (NNP) role that allows them to advance their skills and independence in decision-making as a NNP working with infants with increasingly complex medical problems. Students are expected to identify, interpret, and apply current evidence to their practice and clinical decision-making in the care of critically ill infants.

NURS 770. Advanced Psych Assessment & Clinical Interview 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 742.
Description: The focus of this course is the use of clinical interviewing techniques and psychiatric assessment of determining the mental health status of clients throughout the lifespan.

NURS 771. Psychopathology 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 740 and NURS 741.
Description: This course is a comprehensive study of essential developmental and psychopathology across the lifespan. Clinical theory, standards of practice, neurobiology, genomic, genetic and environmental influences will be examined in multicultural contexts.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 772. Psychopharmacology 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 740 and NURS 741.
Description: This course is a comprehensive study of essential psychopharmacology used across the lifespan. Clinical theory, standards of practice, neurobiology, genomic, generic, and environmental influences will be examined in multicultural contexts.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 773. Management of Psychiatric/Mental Health Conditions: Foundation of Individual Psychotherapy 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 771 and NURS 772.
Description: This course will introduce the role and foundational concepts for effective practice of the psychiatric-mental health nurse practitioner (PMH-NP). The focus of the PMH-NP relates to the delivery of evidence-based care to persons with psychiatric-mental health concerns. Students are expected to identify, interpret, and apply current evidence to their practice and clinical decision-making in the care of critically ill infants.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 774. Diagnosis and Management in Psych/Mental Health: Group Psychotherapy and Care of Special Populations 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 773.
Description: This course will expand on the role and foundational concepts for effective practice of the psychiatric-mental health nurse practitioner (PMH-NP). The role of the PMH-NP in the delivery of evidence-based care to persons with psychiatric-mental health concerns will be examined. Students are expected to identify, interpret, and apply current evidence to their practice and clinical decision-making in the care of critically ill infants.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 775. Diagnosis and Management of Psychiatric/Mental Health Conditions 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 774.
Description: This course will expand on the role and foundational concepts for effective practice of the psychiatric-mental health nurse practitioner (PMH-NP). The role of the PMH-NP will be examined in multicultural contexts. The focus of the PMH-NP relates to the delivery of evidence-based care to persons with psychiatric-mental health concerns. NURS 776. Neonatal Residency II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 767.
Description: This is the second clinical residency course for the NNP students. The purpose of the NNP Residency is to provide students with learning opportunities that facilitate continued development in the Neonatal Nurse Practitioner role. Students will work with preceptors in a Level III-IV NICUs to advance the knowledge and skills acquired in previous coursework. This course provides the student with an immersion into the Neonatal Nurse Practitioner (NNP) role that allows them to advance their skills and independence in decision-making as a NNP working with infants with increasingly complex medical problems. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 777. Neonatal Residency III 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 768.
Description: This is the third and final clinical residency course for NNP students. The purpose of the NNP Residency is to provide students with learning opportunities that facilitate continued development in the Neonatal Nurse Practitioner role. Students will work with preceptors in a Level III-IV NICUs to apply the knowledge and skills acquired in previous residency semesters and coursework. NURS 778. Procedures & Diagnostics for Acute Care 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 740 and NURS 741.
Description: This course introduces the advanced psychomotor and diagnostic skills used to procedures that are commonly performed in the acute care setting. Emphasis is placed on differentiating signs and symptoms, formulating diagnoses, and developing culturally competent plans of care for acute, complex and/or critical health problems of critically ill adolescents and adults. The advanced practice nurse's role will be examined both as an individual practitioner and as a member of a collaborative healthcare team.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
NURS 781. Diagnosis & Management in Acute Care II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 779.
Description: This course provides an in-depth analysis of adult-gerontology care. Emphasis is placed on differentiating signs and symptoms, formulating diagnoses, and developing culturally competent plans of care for acute complex health problems. The advanced practice nurses role will be examined both as an individual practitioner and as a member of a collaborative interprofessional healthcare team.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 783. Diagnosis & Management in Acute Care III 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 781.
Description: This course provides an in-depth analysis of adult-gerontology acute care. Emphasis is placed on differentiating signs and symptoms, formulating diagnoses, and developing culturally competent plans of care for acute, complex, and/or critical health problems of critically ill adolescents and adults. The advanced practice nurse's role will be examined both as an individual practitioner and as a member of a collaborative healthcare team.

NURS 784. Advanced Neonatal Pharmacology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 741.
Description: This course provides a basis for understanding the pharmacokinetics and actions of specific groups of drugs commonly used in neonatal advanced nursing practice. Emphasis is placed on pharmacological action of drugs, side effects, appropriate dosing, monitoring, drug interactions and guidelines for use of drugs. Legal and ethical considerations of prescriptive practice are also addressed.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 785. Advanced Neonatal Assessment 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): NURS 741.
Description: This course is an in-depth study of neonatal assessment techniques and normal versus abnormal variations seen in the newborn. Emphasis is on the clinical presentation of the newborn utilizing concepts from developmental anatomy and physiology as well as intrauterine factors that may alter findings. Students will learn advanced physical examination, gestational age, and neurobehavioral assessment skills specific to the neonate.

NURS 786. Human Embryology and Genetics 3 Units
Description: This course provides the student with basic knowledge of the principles of human embryology and genetics. The genetic and embryological basis for congenital malformations in the high risk neonate will be discussed. Associated fetal physiologic principles will be correlated with embryological development.

NURS 787. Clinical Practicum I 2 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): NURS 740 and NURS 741.
Description: The purpose of this course is to provide clinical experience in comprehensive patient assessment, diagnosis and management of common health problems among select patient populations. Students will begin practicing the role of an APRN under preceptor supervision.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 788. Clinical Practicum II 3 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): NURS 787.
Description: The purpose of this course is to provide advanced clinical experience in comprehensive patient assessment, diagnosis and management of common and complex problems among select patient populations. Students will strengthen and enhance their advanced practice skills with preceptor supervision.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 789. Clinical Practicum III 3 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): NURS 787.
Description: This course is an opportunity for Doctoral Students to focus study in an area of interest germane to their dissertation work. Students will strengthen and enhance their advanced practice skills with preceptor supervision.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 790. Special Topics: Research, Theory, Policy, Leadership or Educational Concepts for doctoral students 1-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admitted to the Doctoral Program; Completion of all coursework at the master's degree level.
Description: This clinical experience focuses on synthesis of theoretical, scientific, and clinical knowledge as well as practice-based skills in the diagnosis and management of existing and potential health problems based on appropriate standards of care. Emphasis will be placed on the collaborative and leadership roles of the advanced practice nurse in health care delivery.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

NURS 796. Independent Study for Doctoral Students 1-9 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admitted to the Doctoral Program; Completion of all coursework at the master's degree level.
Description: Allows doctoral students to work with targeted faculty on a directed project with mutually identified objectives.
Oral Biology (OBIO)

OBIO 602. Bone and Calcium Physiology
3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Not Offered
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Contemporary concepts and literature in bone and calcium physiology. Lectures and student-led discussions. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

OBIO 611. Craniofacial Osteology
1-3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): OPGD 801 and OPGD 805 or equivalents.
Description: Explores the hard tissue interrelationships of the craniofacial complex. Includes the mechanical properties, origins and maturation of facial bones. Complements the cephalometric course; designed to link clinical applications to anatomic locations. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

OBIO 612. Craniomaxillofacial Diagnostic Imaging
2-4 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

OBIO 613. The Diagnosis & Treatment of Temporomandibular Disorders
1 Unit
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): OPGD 801 and OPGD 805 or equivalents.
Description: Will present the basic concepts of Temporomandibular Disorders. Emphasis is on Etiology, Examination, Recognition, Diagnosis and Treatment of Facial Pain/TMJ Disorders and Occlusal Abnormalities. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

OBIO 614. Advanced Oral Diagnosis and Oral Medicine
1 Unit
Term Typically Offered: Not Offered
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the MS Oral Biology program, a DDS or DMD degree or its foreign equivalent, or consent of the instructor.
Description: Will present advanced topics on diagnostic methods and therapy relative to oral-maxillofacial and systematic diseases, and the inter-relationships between oral and systemic disease. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

OBIO 615. Advanced Clinical Pharmacology
1 Unit
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): One of the following: Admission to the MS Oral Biology program, a DDS or DMD degree or its foreign equivalent; consent of the instructor.
Description: To present advanced topics in clinical pharmacology with specific emphasis on antibiotics, analgesics, local anesthetics, anti-inflammatory and antiviral drugs. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

OBIO 616. Overview of Medical Genetics in Oro-Facial Disease
1.5 Units
Term Typically Offered: Not Offered
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: The student will study the medical genetic influence on development and growth as well as dysmorphology and disease of the human body. Risk factors, probabilities and clinical outcomes are emphasized. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

OBIO 617. Advanced Oral Pathology
1 Unit
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Introduction to the clinical and radiographic manifestations of diseases of the oral cavity and para-oral region. Also included will be the clinical differential diagnosis oral lesions and the etiology and histology of common oral lesions. Clinical evaluation and management of oral lesions will be discussed as well. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

OBIO 622. Multiple-Disciplinary Seminars
1 Unit
Term Typically Offered: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the MS in Dentistry, GPR, OMFS programs, or MD in Oral Biology programs.
Description: Case-based multi-disciplinary seminar where topics of clinical interest are presented by postgraduate students/residents in the Master of Science in Dentistry program, as well as OMFS and GPR residents. Discussion is facilitated by faculty. The course is continuous for both the Fall and Spring semesters and students must enroll in both semesters to receive credit. The course provides interdisciplinary discussion of diagnosis and treatment of oral pathologies. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.
OBIO 623. Advanced Implantology  1 Unit
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Term Typically Offered: Not Offered
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the MS in Dentistry program or MS in Oral Biology program.
Description: Seminar review of the fundamental concepts of implantology including both surgical and restorative phases, the biologic basis of implantology, the advantages and disadvantages of different implant systems, and practice sessions placing implants and complete preparation for the clinical use of implants.

OBIO 624. Advanced Maxillofacial Imaging Practicum  0.5-1.5 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Must be enrolled in dental advanced education program.
Description: The practicum provides individualized in-depth discipline specific instructions and clinical training to postgraduate students in advanced education programs so that they are competent in the practical aspects associated with prescribing, performing, accessing and interpreting CBCT imaging in an enterprise PACS environment. The student will develop skills in the use of software for discipline specific applications and familiarity and experience with 3-D printing in the course of providing care for their patients.
Note: Instruction and credit hours vary by specific advanced education program and course section.

OBIO 631. General Pathology  5 Units
Term Typically Offered: Not Offered
Description: General principles and concepts of systemic disease taught in a lecture seminar and laboratory format. The etiology, pathogenesis, sequelae, and prognosis of specific diseases are discussed. In addition, recognizable signs and symptoms of general and specific diseases and treatment for these diseases are presented. 3 hrs. lect., 3 hrs. lab.

Oral Immunology and Infectious Diseases (OID)

OID 501. Biomedical Data Analysis: Experimental Design and Statistics  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Acceptance to a graduate program or permission of course director.
Description: OID 501 is designed for graduate and professional students in health sciences who require a working knowledge of the experimental design and statistical methods most often utilized in the biomedical sciences. The focus is upon the initial evaluation of scientific literature, the formulation of research protocols, and the interpretation of data. Special attention is given to those areas of data interpretation most common in the health sciences. Fall semesters.

OID 600. Concepts in Oral Immunology  2 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): Students should have previously taken a basic immunology course or consent of instructor.
Description: To provide an in-depth analysis of how the host’s immune system within the oral cavity is involved in mediating host immunity against periodontal pathogens, as well as defining the immunological events underlying the initiation and progression of periodontal diseases. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

OID 601. Introduction to Oral Biology Research  2 Units
Prerequisite(s): Acceptance to an Oral Biology degree program or consent of course director.
Description: OID 601 is an introduction to modern research methodology in oral biology. Designed to acquaint the student with a broad spectrum of experimental techniques and concepts which will help prepare for successful design of a research project. Major emphasis is placed on research design, research methodology, critical evaluation of basic research literature, and scientific writing.

OID 604. Oral Microbiology  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): Acceptance to an Oral Biology degree program or consent of course director.
Description: An in-depth study of the microbiota and host defense mechanisms with an emphasis on the ecology, nutrition, and biochemistry of the indigenous bacteria.

OID 605. Oral Health Seminars  0.5 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Acceptance to the MSOB program or consent of course director.
Description: OID 605 comprises biomedical research seminars describing basic and clinical research by internal and external faculty and postdoctoral research associates. Students will learn about the breadth of faculty biomedical research, providing context for their own research. The seminars are at least monthly, and the course is continuous through the fall and spring semesters. OID 605 is a required course for most students in the Masters in Oral Biology (MSOB) program. Students must enroll in both Fall and Spring semesters to receive full credit.
OIID 606. Oral Biology Communication 2 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): OIID 601.
Description: OIID 606 is provided to MS and PhD students, and to dental residents. The goal of this course is for students to develop their research plan and to become familiar with presenting and defending research findings in a scientific setting. The students will: prepare a scientific abstract in the style of the Journal of the American Dental Association; give a 15 minute seminar describing their research project; answer questions on their talk; and contribute to discussions and feedback on the research of classmates.

OIID 610. Advanced Topics in Oral Biology 1-4 Units
Prerequisite(s): OIID 601 or OBIO 601; consent of Graduate Program Director.
Description: This course allows graduate credit to be obtained for guided readings or other specialized studies needed to enhance the student's understanding of their thesis research project. This course can be used for a student to read and discuss a series of advanced publications with a faculty guide other than their primary mentor, in order to build expertise in a specialized area relevant to their research project. Guided readings with a Thesis Committee faculty (other than the mentor) can be particularly important for an interdisciplinary project. This course is intended for specialized in depth studies beyond what is appropriate in a classroom setting. The faculty and student must obtain approval from the Graduate Program Director for this course prior to registering. The faculty guide should send an email to the Graduate Director at the beginning of the semester describing the goals and expected effort and number of credits. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

OIID 619. Graduate Research 1-8 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Acceptance to a graduate degree program or consent of course director.
Description: OIID 619 allows graduate credit to be obtained for performing biomedical research. The student will perform research under the supervision of a primary mentor who is specifically named in the Thesis Committee Form that is required to be completed by all students during their first semester and signed by student, committee members, and the Program Director. Research hours and duties are as defined by the mentor in conjunction with the student.

OIID 620. Thesis 1-8 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): Acceptance to an Oral Biology degree program or consent of course director.
Description: This course allows graduate credit to be obtained for all aspects of writing the students thesis or writing a research article suitable for publication.

OIID 800. Correlated Sciences 1 Unit
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Acceptance to the DMD program.
Description: OIID 800 is provided in the first semester of the DMD program. The diverse range of didactic lectures in OIID 800 is intended to introduce the concept of the need to maintain a holistic scientific view of the body when providing dental care. The course will introduce anatomical, historical, immunological, biochemical, physiological, microbiological, pharmacological and pathological research concepts that will ultimately, lead to improvements in the examination, evaluation, diagnosis and/or treatment of dental patients. OIID 800 will introduce the wide range of clinical, basic and transnational research that currently takes place in the School of Dentistry and how you can become actively involved.

OIID 804. DMD Research 2-8 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Acceptance to the DMD program and to a research program.
Description: OIID 804 gives credit to DMD students participating in a research program such as the ULSD Summer Research Program. Students should apply for a Summer Research Program during the spring semester, participate in research during the summer, and present at Research Louisville in the Fall semester. Applications are through the ULSD Associate Dean for Research + Enterprise. Students receive 2 credits for each semester doing research.

Pan-African Studies (PAS)

PAS 500. Cooperative Internship in Pan-African Studies 3-6 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): 12 hours PAS above introductory level.
Description: Assignment with a public agency or organization. Written report and periodic consultation with a professor may be required.
Note: May be repeated for credit but only 3 hours apply towards major or minor.

PAS 505. The Black Atlantic 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): 12 hours PAS credit or consent of instructor.
Description: Examination of the intercultural and transnational linkage of Africans in England, North and South America, the Caribbean and the African continent. (Social Sciences)

PAS 506. Service Learning 3 Units
Description: Placement of students in nonprofit organizations in the Louisville metropolitan region to provide research or programmatic assistance to local community groups. Written reports and frequent consultation with a professor may be required.
PAS 508. Independent Study 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): Overall GPA of 3.0, a GPA of 3.5 in the department and at least 18 semester hours credit in the department.
Description: Independent study on a topic related to the African Diaspora. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PAS 509. Advanced Contemporary Trends in African-American Art 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): 300-level Art History course.
Description: Survey of contemporary African-American art since the 1960s into current trends today. Examination of contemporary paintings, sculpture, fabric art, folk art, public art, and installation art. (Humanities)
Note: Undergraduate credit may not be earned for this course and PAS 308 or ARTH 349.
Note: Cross-listed with ARTH 549.

PAS 510. Advanced Topics in Afro-American and African Studies 3 Units
Description: Advanced study of a particular topic, issue or area in African-American culture or history, to be announced in Schedule of Courses.
Note: May be repeated as topics vary, but no more than six hours will be accepted in the major.

PAS 513. U.S. Social Justice Movements 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Junior-level standing.
Description: Course will begin with abolitionism, then concentrate on social justice upsurges of the 20th century, with emphasis on women in the civil rights and Black liberation movements. (Social Sciences)
Note: Cross-listed with WGST 513, HIST 513, and SCHG 513.

PAS 514. History of Pan-African Social Thought 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Contributions of African and African-American social theorists from Marcus Garvey to Cornell West; role of ideology in relations of domination and oppression. (Social Sciences)

PAS 520. The Black Family - WR 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Senior standing.
Description: Nature and function of African-American familial systems from the slave era to the present. Emphasis on impact of public policy on socioeconomic and political status of Black family structures. (Social Sciences)
Note: Approved for the Arts and Sciences upper-level requirement in written communication (WR).

PAS 529. Teacher Institute on African-American Issues 3 Units
Description: An introduction to Pan-African Studies focusing on multicultural educational strategies for public school educators. (Social Sciences)
Note: Cross-listed with EDAP 590.

PAS 531. Survey of African-American History and Culture for Teachers 3 Units
Description: An intensive survey of the history and culture of African Americans for teachers. (Social Sciences)
Note: Cross-listed with EDAP 592.

PAS 532. Slave Trade and Slavery in the African World 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Senior or graduate standing.
Description: An in-depth examination of the evolution and characteristics in the western world, the mechanics and organization of the African slave trade, the nature and types of slave societies established in Europe and the Americas, and the impact of slave trade in Africa. (Social Sciences)

PAS 533. The History and Popular Culture of the African Diaspora 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Senior or graduate standing.
Description: An intensive, comparative examination of selected topics linking the history and culture of persons of African ancestry in the United States, the Caribbean region, Latin America and Africa. (Social Sciences)

PAS 535. History of African Americans in Kentucky 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Senior standing or faculty consent.
Description: The history of African Americans in Kentucky from the settlement of the trans-Appalachian region to the present. Special attention to the history of African Americans in Louisville and Jefferson County. The use of primary, secondary, and oral historical sources will be emphasized. (Social Sciences)

PAS 540. Pedagogy of African Studies 3 Units
Description: Designed for teachers preparing to introduce African Studies materials to primary and secondary school students. (Social Sciences)
PAS 541. Cultural Heritage, Tourism, and Globalization 3 Units
Description: This course is designed to familiarize you with the anthropological literature on the origins, nature, and character of tourism. It will analyze the way cultural heritage sites become contested spaces, representative of memory, nationhood, history, and culture with particular emphasis on Jewish history and culture in Europe and African Americans in the U.S. (Social Sciences)
Note: Cross-listed with ANTH 532.

PAS 542. Black Women's Voices - WR 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): At least 6 (six) credit hours in SS or HU or consent from faculty.
Description: Global synopsis of black women's studies and social thoughts. Highlights roadblocks and bridges experienced. Captures race, gender, class and spatial dimensions. (Social Sciences)
Note: Cross-listed with WGST 543.
Note: Approved for the Arts & Sciences upper-level requirement in written communication (WR).
Note: Credit may not be earned for both PAS 542/WGST 543 and PAS 643/WGST 643.

PAS 546. African Languages in the Diaspora 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): junior standing.
Description: Course investigates the intersections of linguistic behavior from the perspective of the global African Diaspora. Explores the many manifestations of African and other linguistic influences as seen through an analysis of various media. (Humanities)
Note: Credit may not be earned for this course and PAS 346.

PAS 547. Language, Race, Class and Gender 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Junior standing.
Description: Course investigates the intersections of linguistic behavior with questions of race, class and gender. Students will gain an understanding of the multiple characteristics of communication. (Humanities)
Note: Credit may not be earned for this course and WGST 547.
Note: Cross-listed with WGST 547.

PAS 548. Black Museums and Cultural Heritage 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): 6 credit hours completed in Anthropology or Pan African Studies.
Description: Examination of historical and cultural dimensions of museums and heritage sites in Africa and Africa Diaspora. Representation of Africana ethnic groups depicted in museum setting and public culture. (Social Sciences)
Note: Graduate credit may not be earned for both PAS 548 and PAS 648.

PAS 550. African Popular Culture 3 Units
Description: Examination of the popular arts of Africa, focusing on the variety of aesthetic forms, performance styles, and the sociocultural and political contexts in which they are found. (Humanities)

PAS 551. Studies in African-American Literature 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or ENGL 105 and junior standing.
Description: In-depth study of selected movements, topics, or groupings of African-American writers. (Humanities)
Note: Cross-listed with ENGL 550.

PAS 556. Race and Gender in Psychological Research 3 Units
Description: Critical review of psychology with respect to issues of race and gender. Examines theory and research paradigms, modern, postmodern and Afrocentric methodologies. (Social Sciences)
Note: Cross-listed with PSYC 566.

PAS 566. Post-Colonial Voices: Writing "Experience" in African Literature - WR 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102, or ENGL 105, or junior standing.

PAS 575. Genre Studies in African-American Literature 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or ENGL 105, and junior standing.
Description: In-depth study of a selected genre of African-American literature. (Humanities)
Note: Cross-listed with ENGL 575.

PAS 577. The Harlem Renaissance 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or ENGL 105; and Junior standing.
Description: In-depth study of the literature of the Harlem Renaissance in relation to other literary and artistic productions of the period and to cultural and historical contexts. (Humanities)
Note: Cross-listed with ENGL 577.

PAS 578. The Music of the Black Church 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Description: This course is designed for the upper division or graduate student in music or Pan-African studies and explores the historical and musical development of African-American sacred music from slavery to the present; from Spirituals to traditional and contemporary Gospel music. Special emphasis is given to the impact that this music has had on African-American culture in the United States, which represents a synthesis of African and European cultures into a unique hybrid with its own tradition of development.
Note: Cross-listed with MUS 578.

PAS 581. Pan-African Art: Form and Content 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Similarities and differences in African-American folk art, Caribbean folk art and traditional African art. (Humanities)
Note: Cross-listed with ARTH 544.

PAS 586. Field Research 3-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): 12 hours PAS credit or consent of instructor.
Description: On-site field study of a particular aspect of society in the African Diaspora.
Note: Maximum of 6 credit hours, depending upon project.

Pharmacology and Toxicology (PHTX)

PHTX 606. Seminar 1 Unit
Description: The Fall semester of Pharmacology seminar is graded on a Pass-Fail basis and is designed to introduce first and second year graduate students to the formal organization of a scientific presentation. Prerequisite(s): Department majors only.

PHTX 616. Advanced Pharmacology 1-12 Units
Description: Work conducted outside the thesis area and with a preceptor other than the thesis director. By special arrangement. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

PHTX 617. Laboratory Rotation Research 1 Unit
Description: The purpose of this course is to provide students in search of a laboratory in which to perform thesis/dissertation research the opportunity to become acquainted with the research of particular faculty and the techniques used in that faculty's laboratory. Students will approximately 10-15 hours per week conducting literature surveys and conducting experiments under the direction of graduate faculty mentor. They will function as a member of the laboratory for the duration of the rotation. Rotations are for one-half semester each. Students will do two rotations in a semester. Course may be retaken once. Prerequisite(s): Permission of the department’s graduate studies director.

PHTX 618. Topics in Pharmacology & Toxicology 1-12 Units
Prerequisite(s): Department majors only.
Description: Topics of current interest in Pharmacology and Toxicology. By special arrangement. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

PHTX 606. Seminar 1 Unit
Description: The Fall semester of Pharmacology seminar is graded on a Pass-Fail basis and is designed to introduce first and second year graduate students to the formal organization of a scientific presentation. Prerequisite(s): Department majors only.

PHTX 616. Advanced Pharmacology 1-12 Units
Description: Work conducted outside the thesis area and with a preceptor other than the thesis director. By special arrangement. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

PHTX 644. Toxicology II
3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Spring Only

Description: This course will present the Principles of Toxicity Testing, DNA Damage and Repair, and Environmental Toxicology.

PHTX 652. Geriatric Pharmacology
1 Unit

Prerequisite(s): PHTX 395 or equivalent.

Description: This course will be offered to senior graduate students and nursing students wishing to expand their knowledge on the pharmacokinetics, drug metabolism, toxicities, distribution and drug dosages and interaction in the elderly.

PHTX 661. Molecular Mechanisms of Toxiology
3 Units

Prerequisite(s): BIOC 668.

Description: Molecular interactions of drugs and toxicants on cellular processes; including foreign compound metabolism, signal transduction, cell cycle, DNA repair/DNA replication are covered and put in context topics in molecular epidemiology.

Note: Cross-listed with BIOC 661.

PHTX 667. Advanced Cell Biology
3 Units

Prerequisite(s): One quarter of graduate-level Biochemistry or consent of instructor.

Description: Advanced treatment of contemporary cell biology including membrane structure and function, cytoskeleton, signal transduction, regulation of cell cycle, apoptosis, and molecular mechanisms of cellular differentiation. Spring semester.

Note: Cross-listed with BIOC 667, ASNB 667, BIOL 667 and MBIO 667.

Note: Credit may not be earned for both PHIL 575 and PHIL 675.

PHIL 580. Foundations of Bioethics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): One Philosophy course at 300-level or above, or consent of instructor.
Description: Grounding in the major theories and methods of bioethical decision-making, including contemporary controversies about the role of theory, principles, cases, narrative, and virtues.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHIL 581. Current Controversies in Health Care Ethics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): One Philosophy course at 300-level or above, or consent of instructor.
Description: Topics in health care ethics currently attracting the most attention in both professional and public discussions. A variety of viewpoints on these topics will be considered.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHIL 582. Gender, Race, and Culture in Health Care 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): One Philosophy course at 300-level or above, or consent of instructor.
Description: Examines ways social groupings and systems affect the kind of health care needed and the kind people receive. Addresses both biases and stereotypes, and empirical claims about biologically-based differences.
Note: Cross-listed with WGST 582.

PHIL 583. Health Care, Justice & Community 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): One Philosophy course at 300-level or above, or consent of instructor.
Description: Examines theories of justice and equality as they apply to issues in health care delivery, considers explanations for why disparities exist, and the practical ways that communities have addressed inequalities.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHIL 590. Fundamentals of Diversity 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Description: This course will provide an overview of the theory and practice of diversity. This course will be offered as a way to understand diversity, privilege, social identity, the role of the body in diversity, stereotypes, and the personal experiences of both those who are oppressed and those who are privileged. Students will also have a substantial opportunity to examine how these general themes impact their particular area of study, work, or interest.

PHIL 601. Independent Study 1-3 Units
Description: Directed study and research.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHIL 602. Independent Study 1-3 Units
Description: Directed study and research.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
PHIL 603. Philosophical Writing and Research 3 Units
Description: Development of analytical abilities in philosophical reading and writing; argument analysis and construction in various modes and styles.

PHIL 605. Special Topics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): To be determined by instructor, in the light of the topic chosen for that semester.

PHIL 608. Aquinas 3 Units
Description: The works of Thomas Aquinas studied from historical and systematic viewpoints.

PHIL 610. Descartes 3 Units
Description: The works of Rene Descartes, studied from historical and systematic viewpoints.

PHIL 616. African-American Philosophy 3 Units
Description: Analysis of works and theories of major recent and contemporary African-American philosophers within the themes of Pan-African debates.

Note: Cross-listed with PAS 616.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHIL 619. Topics in Philosophy of Race and Racism 3 Units
Description: Focused examination of philosophical issues involved in interdisciplinary inquiries into the nature and functioning of race and racism.

PHIL 620. Kant 3 Units
Description: The works of Immanuel Kant, studied from historical and systematic viewpoints.

PHIL 621. Ethical Theory 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): One course in ethics, or consent of instructor.

Description: Recent developments in ethical theory, such as examination of the status of moral facts; moral realism; impartiality and personal attachments; or moral agency.

Note: Cross-listed with BETH 521.

PHIL 623. Applied Philosophy 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): One course in Philosophy or consent of instructor.

Description: Intensive study of one or more philosophical problems of individual or collective behavior in institutions, professions, or community affairs.

PHIL 624. Philosophies of Peace 3 Units
Description: History of peace movements; analysis of concepts of nonviolence pacifism, positive and negative peace; approaches to conflict resolution and negotiation for global and local conflicts. Multi-disciplinary.

Note: Credit may not be earned for PHIL 524 and PHIL 624.

PHIL 625. Hegel 3 Units
Description: The works of Hegel, studied from historical and systematic viewpoints.

PHIL 629. Philosophy of Emotions 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): One course in philosophy or consent of instructor.

Description: Philosophical studies in the nature, interrelations, and moral and aesthetic value of specific emotions, such as pride, shame, guilt, regret, jealousy, envy, resentment, anger, hate, contempt, love, joy, happiness, contentment.

Note: Cross-listed with PHIL 529.

PHIL 631. Aesthetics 3 Units
Description: An examination of philosophical theories of art, works of art, creative activity, and aesthetic experience, from Plato to the present.

Note: Credit may not be earned for both PHIL 531 and PHIL 631.

PHIL 635. Political Philosophy 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Two courses in philosophy and political science.

Description: The main concepts of contemporary political thought: rights, law, power, ideology, legitimacy, democracy, tyranny, the state, and justice, with the focus on the topic of political action in both its individual and collective forms.

Note: Credit cannot be earned for both PHIL 535 and PHIL 635.

PHIL 637. Philosophy of the Social Sciences 3 Units
Description: Critical analysis of methodological, valuational, and metaphysical problems in the social sciences.

PHIL 638. Critical Social Theory 3 Units
Description: A critical examination of interdisciplinary theories that seek to understand and explain social formations while at the same time uncovering ways that such formations can be unjust and irrational.

PHIL 640. Epistemology 3 Units
Description: Conceptual and historical background to analysis of knowledge claims; intensive study of theoretical approaches to knowledge, such as naturalized epistemology, socialized epistemology, feminist epistemology, postmodern critiques of normative conceptions of knowledge.
Note: Credit may not be earned for both PHIL 540 and PHIL 640.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHIL 641. Recent Philosophy of Language 3 Units
Description: Intensive study of current theory and research in the philosophy of language.
Note: Cross-listed with LING 641.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHIL 657. African Philosophy 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.
Description: Descriptive and analytical introduction to the ideas and themes in African philosophy through careful readings of texts which address a cluster of topics.
Note: Cross-listed with PAS 657.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHIL 660. Wittgenstein 3 Units
Description: The works of Wittgenstein, studied from historical and systematic viewpoints.

PHIL 671. Heidegger 3 Units
Description: The works of Martin Heidegger, studied from historical and systematic viewpoints.

PHIL 675. Postmodernism 3 Units
Description: A multi-disciplinary examination of challenges to ideals, norms, and beliefs of modernity, and identifying characteristics of postmodern thought, as they appear in various disciplines and in culture.
Note: Credit may not be earned for PHIL 575 and PHIL 675.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHIL 680. Foundations of Bioethics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Restricted to graduate students.
Description: Grounding in the major theories and methods of bioethical decision-making, including contemporary controversies about the role of theory, principles, cases, narrative, and virtues.
Note: Cross-listed with BETH 680 and PHIL 580.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHIL 681. Current Controversies in Health Care Ethics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Restricted to graduate students.
Description: Topics in health care ethics currently attracting the most attention in both professional and public discussions. A variety of viewpoints on these topics will be considered.
Note: Cross-listed with BETH 681, PHIL 581.

PHIL 682. Gender, Race, and Culture in Health Care 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Restricted to graduate students.
Description: Examines ways social groupings and systems affect the kind of health care needed and the kind people receive. Addresses both biases and stereotypes, and empirical claims about biologically-based differences.
Note: Cross-listed with BETH 682/PHIL 582/WGST 682/WGST 582.

PHIL 683. Health Care, Justice, and Community 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Restricted to graduate students.
Description: Examines theories of justice and equality as they apply to issues in health care delivery, considers explanations for why disparities exist, and explores practical ways that communities have addressed inequalities.
Note: Cross-listed with BETH 683 and PHIL 583.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHIL 684. Clinical Ethics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admission into the Bioethics MA program or consent of instructor.
Description: Application of ethical principles, virtues, and cases in the context of clinical care, with a practical approach toward ethics consultation and conflict resolution.
Note: Cross-listed with BETH 684.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
PHIL 685. Integrative Bioethics: Self and Other in Theory and Practice 3 Units

Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the Bioethics MA program or consent of instructor.
Description: Capstone seminar for Bioethics MA program in form of collaborative seminar. Students produce culminating project, whose development and final formal presentation they share with others in seminar format.
Note: Cross-listed with BETH 685.

PHIL 690. Fundamentals of Diversity 3 Units

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHIL 691. Capstone in Diversity Literacy 3 Units

Prerequisite: Admission to the Diversity Literacy program or consent of instructor; PHIL 690.
Description: Students will build upon their prior coursework to conceive and develop a culminating project that advances diversity in each student's chosen field.

PHIL 695. Thesis Guidance 3 Units

PHIL 696. Thesis Guidance 3 Units

Physics and Astronomy (PHYS)

PHYS 501. Independent Study 1-3 Units

PHYS 502. Independent Study 1-3 Units

PHYS 507. Solar System Astronomy 3 Units

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 298, PHYS 299, PHYS 300; MATH 205 and MATH 206.
Description: This is an advanced course in solar system astrophysics, and will cover orbital mechanics, the nature of light, astronomical instrumentation, solar physics, planetary atmospheres/geophysics, comets/asteroids, interplanetary dust and exo-planets.

PHYS 520. Vibrations and Sound 3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 298, PHYS 299 and MATH 206.
Description: Vibrating bodies, propagation of sound waves, physical acoustics, and ultrasonics.

PHYS 530. Thermal Physics 3 Units

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 299 and MATH 301.
Description: The laws of thermodynamics, thermodynamic reasoning, and elements of statistical mechanics.

PHYS 531. Introductory Statistical Physics 3 Units

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 530.
Description: Elementary probability theory applied to the understanding of properties of macroscopic matter in terms of their microscopic constituents. Kinetic theory of gases, transport phenomena. Equations of state derived from ensemble theory.

PHYS 542. Electromagnetic Radiation 3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 541.
Description: Poisson's equation and LaPlace's Equation, propagation of electromagnetic fields with applications to optics and microwave physics.

PHYS 545. Advanced Optics 3 Units

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 355 and PHYS 542; or consent of instructor.
Description: Topics in optical physics including optical system design, lasers, and quantum optics.

PHYS 546. Advanced Optics Lab 1 Unit

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 355 or equivalent.
Description: Laboratory experiments illustrating fundamental optical phenomena, the interaction of light and matter, lasers, and quantum optics.
PHYS 547. Fundamentals of Lasers 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 355, and PHYS 542 or ECE 473; or consent of instructor.
Description: Topics to be discussed include interaction of light with matter, optical amplifiers, laser resonators, Gaussian and higher order optical beams, non-linear optics, and ultra-fast laser pulses.
Note: Cross-listed with ECE 540.

PHYS 555. Elementary Quantum Mechanics 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 300, PHYS 350, and PHYS 460.
Description: Selected mathematical techniques and their applications to various fields of physics.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHYS 556. Quantum Theory of Matter 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 555.
Description: Spin and general angular momentum, perturbation theory, variational principle, applications, identical particles, and scattering.

PHYS 561. Mathematical Physics I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 350.
Description: Selected mathematical techniques and their applications to various fields of physics.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHYS 562. Mathematical Physics II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 350.
Description: Selected mathematical techniques and their applications to various fields of physics.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHYS 565. Computational Physics 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 390, and PHYS 555 or PHYS 561 taken concurrently; familiarity with a programming language.
Description: Introduction to modern computational methods in physics with application to problems in different branches of physics.

PHYS 570. Atomic and Molecular Physics 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 541 and PHYS 555; or consent of instructor.
Description: The structure of atoms and diatomic molecules, the production of coherent radiation and its interaction with matter.

PHYS 575. Solid State Physics 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 541 and PHYS 555, or consent of instructor.
Description: Crystal structure, elastic waves, lattice dynamics, phonons, band theory of solids and conductivity phenomena.

PHYS 580. Nuclear Physics 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 541 and PHYS 555; or consent of instructor.
Description: Phenomenological study of nuclear properties. Nuclear structure and reactions, radioactive decay, interaction of charged particles with matter.

PHYS 585. Elementary Particle Physics 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Even Years
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 541 and PHYS 555, or consent of instructor.
Description: Properties of elementary particles. Detectors and accelerators. Weak and electromagnetic interactions. Quark model of hadrons, strong interactions.

PHYS 589. General Relativity 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Even Years
Prerequisite(s): MATH 301 and PHYS 460.
Description: Review of classical gravitational and special relativity. Riemannian geometry, Einstein field equations, exact solutions, tests of the theory, gravitational collapse and black holes, gravitational waves, cosmology.

PHYS 590. Astrophysics 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 307 and PHYS 350, or equivalent.
Description: Physics applied to the interstellar medium; the atmospheres, structure, and evolution of stars; galaxies.

PHYS 595. Special Topics 1-3 Units
Description: Introduction to an advanced topic or elaboration of an intermediate topic not treated comprehensively in a regular course.
PHYS 601. Quantum Mechanics Laboratory 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 621 or PHYS 555 (may be taken concurrently).
Description: Laboratory exercises demonstrating the principles of Quantum Mechanics.

PHYS 605. Theoretical Mechanics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 460, PHYS 561 and PHYS 562, and consent of instructor.
Description: Analytical dynamics of systems of particles and rigid bodies. Hamiltonian and Lagrangian formulations, special relativity, canonical transformations, Hamilton-Jacobi theory and action-angle variables.

PHYS 611. Electromagnetic Theory I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 542 and PHYS 561, and consent of instructor.
Description: Microscopic and macroscopic Maxwell's equations; The energy-momentum tensor; multipole radiation; radiation from accelerated charges; scattering and dispersion; and covariant formulation.

PHYS 612. Electromagnetic Theory II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 542 and PHYS 561, and consent of instructor.
Description: Microscopic and macroscopic Maxwell's equations; The energy-momentum tensor; multipole radiation; radiation from accelerated charges; scattering and dispersion; and covariant formulation.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHYS 621. Quantum Mechanics I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 556 and PHYS 605, and consent of instructor.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHYS 622. Quantum Mechanics II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 556 and PHYS 605, and consent of instructor.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHYS 625. Statistical Mechanics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 530 and PHYS 555, and consent of instructor.
Description: Application of ensemble or information theory to derivation of the laws of thermodynamics for classical or quantum systems. Properties of perfect and imperfect gases, magnetic phenomena, fluctuation phenomena, and the Onsager equations.

PHYS 640. Solid State Physics I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 575, and concurrent registration in Quantum Mechanics, and consent of instructor.
Description: Quantum mechanical foundation of the theory of solids, the many-body problem, the band approximation, and other approximate methods. Electron-photon interaction, theory of superconductivity, electronic transport processes.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHYS 641. Solid State Physics II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHYS 575, and concurrent registration in Quantum Mechanics, and consent of instructor.
Description: Quantum mechanical foundation of the theory of solids, the many-body problem, the band approximation, and other approximate methods. Electron-photon interaction, theory of superconductivity, electronic transport processes.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHYS 650. Research Methods in Physics & Astronomy 3 Units
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Description: A survey of research methodologies. Topics may include modeling and simulation, experimental, theoretical, and computational techniques used in any branch of Physics and Astronomy, particle detector technologies, advanced handling of data statistics, data mining, laboratory safety, and research ethics.

PHYS 670. Special Topics 1-12 Units
Prerequisite(s): Concurrent or previous registration in PHYS 605, PHYS 611, or PHYS 621; and consent of instructor.
Description: One or more advanced topics not treated comprehensively in the regular courses.

PHYS 690. Independent Study 1-12 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Advanced study conducted under the direction of a faculty member.

PHYS 695. Research Seminar 1-12 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Regular but informal meetings of faculty members and graduate students active in an area of research to discuss problems of mutual interest, and to review the current literature.

PHYS 699. Research 1-12 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
Physiology and Biophysics (PHZB)

PHZB 602. Physiological Concepts for General Life Sciences  2 Units
Description: This course covers the fundamental function of membranes; autonomic (ANS), hypothalamic, and central (CNS) neural control; and for integrated function of muscle, heart, circulatory, renal, endocrine, reproduction, and gastrointestinal organ systems. Emphasis is placed on physiological mechanisms for integrated feedback control of organ and tissue function in humans. Overall, this course offers a solid basis in physiological concepts for post-baccalaureate life-science graduate students to enhance their advanced studies of life sciences. This course teaches by combined didactic lecture and student problem-solving class sessions, and by concept-problem reviews. This course is offered only on a letter-grade basis. The Course Faculty reserves the right to make changes in this syllabus when necessary to meet learning objectives and course management.

PHZB 604. Stem Cell Biology and Regenerative Medicine  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Permission from course director.
Description: This course will provide a comprehensive overview on this intriguing and highly debated topic. The course will focus on the biology of stem cells and their role in health and disease with emphasis on development, carcinogenesis and tissue engineering. Lectures on various aspects of stem cells from renowned experts will cover both embryonic, induced pluripotent and adult stem cells. Specific lectures will include stem cell types present in the blood, liver, brain, muscle, kidney, pancreas, prostate, lung, gut, skin, and eye. Fellows/graduate students will also be educated on therapeutic cloning as well as bio-ethical issues and existing laws governing stem cell research.

PHZB 605. Systemic Physiology I  5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admitted into SIGS.
Description: The first of two human physiology courses that are offered the first year of the graduate programs in the Department of Physiology and Biophysics and other basic science departments at the SOM. This course contains four lectures and one hour of recitation/application of the preceding four lectures per week. Mandatory attendance is required for all class sessions.

PHZB 606. Systemic Physiology II  5 Units
Prerequisite(s): Admitted into SIGS.
Description: The second of two human physiology courses that are offered the first year of the graduate programs in the Department of Physiology and Biophysics. This course contains four lectures and one hour of recitation/application of the preceding four lectures per week. Mandatory attendance is required for all class sessions.

PHZB 607. Principles of Presentations: Self, Science, Interviews  3 Units
Description: This course will provide instruction in best practices for oral-based presentations. There will be multiple oral presentation topics covered, including: Basic Presentations; Using Visual Aids, Charts and Figures; Distilling and Presenting a Clear and Understandable Hypothesis and Specific Aims; Interviews; and Scientific Poster Presentations. Students will attend lectures, participate in small group discussions and present five different types of oral-based presentations. A mid-term and final exam (each 50% of overall grade) will be used to assess student understanding of the knowledge centered on making clear, concise and purposeful oral presentations.

PHZB 609. Integrated Systemic Physiology  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHY 601 or PHZB 601 and consent of instructor.
Description: Designed to provide reinforcement, expansion and integration of basic physiologic concepts of human organ systems.

PHZB 611. Advanced Human Cardiovascular Physiology  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHZB 605 or consent of instructor.
Description: PHZB 611 utilizes lectures on the physiological and biochemical processes in the heart, blood vessels and blood elements to provide more detailed mechanisms from molecular to systematic levels and normal to pathological states.

PHZB 615. Clinical Physiology  6 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHZB 605 & PHZB 606.
Description: This is a 6-credit hour course that uses clinical situations to examine and reinforce mechanisms important to understanding systemic physiology. There are six areas covered: 1) electrical functioning of the heart, 2) blood pressure and circulatory control mechanisms, 3) ventilation and perfusion of the lungs, 4) gastrointestinal blood flow and acid production, 5) blood flow and oxygen utilization by the heart, and 6) control of the many endocrine functions. This course utilizes a combination of faculty-lead teaching techniques that include: team based learning (TBL), problem based learning (PBL), and in-class exercises. All course materials have been prepared by the supervising faculty and will be available to students online as needed.

PHZB 616. Selected Topics in Physiology and Biophysics  1-12 Units
Description: Detailed discussion of physiological and biophysical problems of particular interest to students and staff. Topics will be announced in the schedule.

Psychology (PSYC)

PSYC 516. Introductory Mathematical Psychology  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 201.
Description: Survey of basic applications of probability and mathematics to models and theories in learning, perception, and social psychology.

PSYC 524. Psycholinguistics  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 322 or LING 518.
Description: Survey and analysis of current theory, research and application in a specialized topic of current interest.
Note: Undergraduate, Psychology Honors, or graduate credit available with consent of instructor.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 556. Race and Gender in Psychological Research  3 Units
Description: Critical review of psychology with respect to issues of race and gender. Examines theory and research paradigms, modern, postmodern and Afrocentric methodologies.
Note: Cross-listed with PAS 556.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 571. Special Topics in Psychology  3-4 Units
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Survey and analysis of current theory, research and application in a specialized topic of current interest.
Note: Undergraduate, Psychology Honors, or graduate credit available with consent of instructor.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 581. Introduction to Health Psychology  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 201 or consent of instructor.
Description: Survey of theory and research on psychological factors which contribute to health and well-being, and to the occurrence, severity, and remediation of illness and disease.
PSYC 582. Introduction to Clinical Psychology
Prerequisite(s): Junior, Senior, or master's-level student with 9 or more credit hours in Psychology beyond PSYC 201.
Description: Examines the history, theoretical foundations, and methods of clinical psychology. Emphasis on areas of clinical practice, along with understanding how basic research methods are employed to explore clinical questions and support clinical practice.

PSYC 600. Research in Cognition
Prerequisite(s): Consent of area coordinator.
Description: Supervised research on topics in cognition.
Note: May be repeated.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 601. History of Modern Psychology
Description: An advanced course in the history and development of theories and systems of modern psychology.

PSYC 602. Research in Experimental Psychology
Prerequisite(s): Restricted to doctoral students in Psychological & Brain Sciences.
Description: Covers topics related to research in Experimental Psychology.
Note: May be repeated.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 603. Master's Degree Research
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Research leading to master's degree, to be planned and carried out under the guidance and direction of a committee of faculty members. This research can take the form of either a master's thesis project or a research portfolio as specified by the student's program.

PSYC 604. Independent Study (Reading)
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Opportunity for the student, under the supervision of a sponsoring faculty member, to pursue individualized study. Pass/Fail grading.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 605. Independent Study (Research)
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Opportunity for the student, under the supervision of a sponsoring faculty member, to pursue individualized study/research.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 606. Professional Development Lab
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Clinical psychology program.
Description: An orientation course for newly-enrolled graduate students in clinical psychology. Covers tools needed to succeed in graduate school (e.g., computer technology and library skills), introduces faculty research areas, provides discussion of issues related to clinical supervision and ethical behavior, and provides students with assistance in developing and implementing research ideas for their thesis projects.

PSYC 607. Statistics
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 301 or equivalent or consent of instructor.
Description: Analysis of psychological data for masters students. Topics surveyed include analysis of variance and multiple regression. Use of statistical computer packages is emphasized.

PSYC 609. Topical Seminar in Psychology
Prerequisite(s): Major in psychology or related area and consent of instructor.
Description: Seminars dealing with interdisciplinary issues of modern psychology. Subject matter to be indicated in semester schedules.

PSYC 610. Advanced Statistics I
Prerequisite(s): Admission to the doctoral program or consent of instructor.
Description: Review of elementary statistics from a theoretical point of view; probability theory including sample spaces, random variables, density and distribution functions, expectations, and moments; estimation and properties of estimators; hypothesis testing, regression and correlation, and nonparametric methods.

PSYC 611. Advanced Statistics II
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 610.
Description: A second course for graduate students in experimental design and statistical analysis.

PSYC 612. Advanced Statistics III
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 610 and PSYC 611.
Description: Develops a facility on the part of the student in the application of the techniques of multivariate analysis of variance, regression analysis, multidimensional scaling.
PSYC 613. Research Methods in Vision and Hearing Science  3 Units
Description: Survey of basic research methods in vision and hearing science. Includes signal detection theory; information theory, psychophysics, analysis techniques; measurement of light and sound; recording and imaging techniques, and clinical methods. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 614. Advanced Multivariate Modeling  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): SOC 610, or PSYC 612, or equivalent.
Description: Multivariate statistical techniques in both theoretical and applied sociological research settings.
Note: Cross-listed with SOC 616.

PSYC 620. Human Learning  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Analysis of basic concepts of conditioning and discussion of major theoretical issues.

PSYC 621. Cognitive Processes  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Discussion of attention, memory, thinking, and concept learning; language; and problem solving.

PSYC 622. Proseminar in Cognition  1-3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of area coordinator.
Description: Critical study of theory and research in cognitive psychology.
Note: May be repeated.

PSYC 624. Language and Cognition  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 524/LING 524.
Description: Examination of theory and research on the relationship between fundamental processes of cognition and linguistic processes, e.g., organization of thought, memory, discourse, and text. Note: Cross-listed with LING 624

PSYC 631. Sensation and Perception  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Graduate doctoral program standing or permission of instructor.
Description: An introductory course to human perception. Course covers perception from neurophysiological encoding and processing of physical stimulation to conscious perception.

PSYC 632. Principles of Visual Science  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 631, or PSYC 642, or PSYC 643, or consent of instructor.
Description: An introduction to the structure and functioning of the visual system including normal and disrupted visual performance. Surveys and integrates findings from neuroanatomical, electrophysiological, psychophysical and clinical research.

PSYC 633. Visual Processes  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in doctoral program or consent of instructor.
Description: A consideration of the low-level processes and mechanisms of seeing, including: 1) the sampling and filtering of the image in the eye, 2) the neural representation of the image, and 3) the interpretation of this representation. Emphasis is on form, color and motion abilities.

PSYC 634. Intermediate-Level Vision  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in doctoral program or consent of instructor.
Description: The following topics covered in this course will emphasize the integration of the various approaches such as psychophysics, cognition, neuroscience, computational theory, etc: Stereopsis and 3-D Space Perception; Texture Segregation and Visual Search; Visual Surface Perception; Structure from Motion.

PSYC 635. Sensory Neuroscience  3 Units
Description: Consideration of sensory systems, towards the goal of understanding how multisensory input is integrated to form perceptions. Major topics include transduction and neuron coding principles; development, plasticity, and cross-modal plasticity; visual-motor interactions; eye movements, attention and consciousness.

PSYC 636. Human Memory  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Two semesters of cognitive psychology.
Description: Survey of major theories and research pertaining to memory, including memory disorders, memory development, and related cognitive processes.

PSYC 637. Thinking and Problem Solving  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Analysis of major research and theory pertaining to concept learning, deductive reasoning, and problem solving.

PSYC 638. Decision Making and Reasoning  3 Units
Description: Study of information processing and cognitive theories of decision making and reasoning.
PSYC 641. Psychopharmacology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 542 and consent of instructor.
Description: The effects of various classes of chemical compounds on experience and behavior.

PSYC 642. Behavioral Neuroscience 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in doctoral program or consent of instructor.
Description: Survey of the neural and physiological factors which influence behavior.

PSYC 643. Principles of Neuroscience 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 642 and PSYC 531, or consent of instructor.
Description: A survey of the processes underlying the functioning of neurons and neural systems.

PSYC 645. Cognitive Neuroscience 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Neuroanatomical basis of cognitive and motor functions, including attention, memory, and language. Primary focus on brain imaging studies of cognition in normal adults.

PSYC 646. Principles of Hearing Science I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Permission of instructor.
Description: The first in a two-course sequence in Hearing Science. It will survey contemporary theory and research in audition, with emphasis on modern mathematical and psychological methods. Major topics will include the anatomy and physiology of the auditory system, measurement and control of sound, auditory signal analysis, and basic auditory abilities such as detection, discrimination, and masking.
Note: Cross-listed with AUDI 648.

PSYC 647. Principles of Hearing Science II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 646 or consent of instructor.
Description: This is the second course in a two-course sequence in Hearing Science. It will survey research on phenomena in audition that are thought to result from high-level processing in the brain and auditory pathway. Topics will include loudness perception, pitch perception, space perception, auditory object and pattern perception, music perception, and speech perception.

PSYC 648. Methods of Psychopharmacology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Survey of behavioral techniques for assessing the effects of various classes of chemical compounds on behavior, with emphasis on experimental design, hypothesis testing, data collection, and statistical analysis.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 651. Introduction to Computer Programming for Psychology 3 Units
Description: The objective of this course is a broad introduction to how the MATLAB programming language is used in psychology. No prior knowledge of programming languages will be assumed.

PSYC 655. Law and Psychology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: The course emphasis is on seminar discussions of the mutual concerns of law and psychology (insanity defense, involuntary civil commitment, etc.).
Note: Cross-listed with LAW 399.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 656. Legal, Professional, and Ethical Issues in Clinical Psychology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Clinical Psychology program or consent of instructor.
Description: An examination of the ethical principles and professional issues in the field of clinical psychology, including aspects related to clinical research. Particular attention is paid to legal problems related to these issues.

PSYC 661. Advanced Developmental Psychology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Survey of the major areas of developmental psychology and of special problems encountered in research with infants and children.

PSYC 670. Advanced Social Psychology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 372 or consent of instructor.
Description: Advanced study of major areas in social psychology: social learning, person perception, attitudes and attitude change, group dynamics, social structure, and change.

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 375 and consent of instructor.
Description: A selective and critical examination of current theory and research in the area of personality.
PSYC 674. Organizational Psychology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: Structure and process in organizational development, internal communications, intraorganizational conflicts. Organization theory, consideration of various types of organizational setting: educational, military, institutional, business, and industrial. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 675. Social Psychology Methods 1-3 Units
Description: Presentation and use of current methods in the field of social psychology. Emphasis on developing professional skills.
Note: May be repeated.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 676. Psychology of Sex Differences 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.
Description: An analysis of the interaction of psychosocial and biogenetic factors in the determination of differences in the behavior of the sexes. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 679. Introduction to Assessment and Clinical Skills 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in psychology doctoral program or permission of director of training.
Description: A general introduction to psychological assessment, test development, psychometric theory, basic interviewing, legal considerations, theories of prediction and clinical judgment. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 680. Intellectual and Cognitive Assessment 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 679 and clinical psychology program, or permission of director of clinical training.
Description: Administration, scoring, and interpretation of intelligence, aptitude, and academic achievement tests. Psychometric properties and applications are considered. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 681. Behavioral and Personality Assessment 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Clinical psychology program or permission of Director of Clinical Training.
Description: Covers administration, scoring, and interpretation of the MMPI/Rorschach (Exner system), and principles of cognitive and behavioral assessment techniques. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 683. Psychological Interventions I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in clinical doctoral program or permission of director of clinical training.
Description: Presents theory and techniques in one or more major therapeutic intervention orientations, along with considerations in applying these interventions such as special populations and varying modalities. Integrated laboratory allows students to apply techniques. Emphasis is on empirically validated techniques. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PSYC 684. Psychological Interventions II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PSYC 683 or consent of director of clinical training.
Description: Presents theory and techniques in one or more major therapeutic intervention orientations, along with considerations in applying these interventions such as special populations and varying modalities. Integrated laboratory allows students to apply techniques. Emphasis on empirically validated techniques.

Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Corequisite(s): Concurrent enrollment in PHEP 607.
Description: This course provides students with an opportunity to expand the content of epidemiology of cancer with a site-specific, directed research experience.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEP 609. Epidemiology of Cardiovascular Disease 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course provides an opportunity for students to address the epidemiology and prevention of cardiovascular disease.

PHEP 610. Research in Cardiovascular Disease 1 Unit
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Corequisite(s): Concurrent enrollment in PHEP 609.
Description: This course provides students with an opportunity to expand the content of epidemiology of cardiovascular disease with a research project.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEP 611. Nutritional Epidemiology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course examines epidemiologic methodology in relation to nutritional measures and the epidemiology of nutritional diseases and disorders.

PHEP 613. Epidemiology of Aging and Disability 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course covers the principles and methods of epidemiology as applied to the study of aging. Major research issues in aging epidemiology and methods to study them will be presented.
PHEP 614. Introduction to Clinical Epidemiology 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course introduces the student to the basic concepts of clinical epidemiology, including epidemiological study designs and methods applied in clinical research for determining the sensitivity and specificity of diagnostic criteria, efficacy of treatments and interventions, and evaluating prognosis and outcomes. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEP 615. Foundations of Global Maternal and Child Heath 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course provides an overview of global maternal and child health (MCH), including both international and U.S. contexts. The course introduce the main components of MCH, MCH history, programs and policies, data sources, epidemiologic issues, and specific MCH challenges for the future. PHEP 616. Disease Surveillance and Health Statistics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHEP 501 and enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course reviews the basic concepts and terminology of disease surveillance and covers the spectrum of health statistics, including population censuses, health surveys and disease reporting systems. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEP 617. Field Epidemiology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHEP 501 and enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course focuses on the practical aspects of doing field epidemiology. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEP 618. Epidemiologic Methods II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course reviews epidemiological methods including stratified and logistic regression analysis, survival and proportional hazards modeling and strategies for model building in multivariate analysis. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEP 619. Biology of Disease in Populations 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course provides an overview of the biology and basic pathophysiology of common acute and chronic diseases and conditions from the epidemiologic perspective. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEP 620. Environmental and Occupational Epidemiology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHEP 621 and enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course offers an overview of selected topics in environmental and occupational epidemiology and methods for studying environmental and occupational determinants of disease. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEP 621. Statistical Foundations for Epidemiology 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the MS program in Epidemiology or the Public Health Sciences PhD program with specialization in Epidemiology.
Description: This course introduces essential statistical concepts and foundations for epidemiology students to exercise statistical theory as applied to epidemiologic problem-solving. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEP 622. Population Pathology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the MS program in Epidemiology or the Public Health Sciences PhD program with specialization in Epidemiology.
Description: This course introduces students to the physiologic measures and biomarkers that are used by public health researchers and practitioners to assess the health status of populations. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEP 623. Theoretical Foundations of Epidemiology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the MS program in Epidemiology or the Public Health Sciences PhD program specialization in Epidemiology.
Description: This course provides an overview of the history of epidemiology, the development of theory, study designs and methods, and ethical and legal issues in the translation of epidemiologic findings into public health policy. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEP 624. Methods in Reproductive and Perinatal Epidemiology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Successful completion of, or concurrent enrollment in, PHEP 501.
Description: This course allows students to pursue foundational studies in the epidemiology of reproduction and maternal/child health with an emphasis on the biology of reproduction, epidemiological studies, and maternal and perinatal health. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEP 625. Child Health & Development 3 Units

Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.

Description: This course focuses on the core processes of human health and development from infancy through adolescence in global contexts covering the developed and developing worlds. This course covers developmental theories, issues and research findings related to physical growth and cognitive, emotional, and social development. This course also covers evaluation and efficacy of popular early intervention programs and policies designed to enhance development in at risk populations of children. Cross-cutting themes will include socioeconomic and cultural aspects of growth and development, epidemiology of disease, data sources, and policy considerations.

PHEP 626. Introduction to Social Epidemiology 3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered

Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.

Description: This course is an introduction to Social Epidemiology, with an emphasis on the theoretical underpinning of social epidemiology and methodologic issues, including definition/measurement of social constructs, appropriate research designs, and analytic approaches. Topics used as lens for understanding social epidemiologic theory and methods focus on global and domestic maternal and child health.

PHEP 627. Survey Research Methods 3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Fall Only

Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the MPH program in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences and PHEP 501.

Description: This course will provide students with a comprehensive understanding of survey research methods. It will focus on all aspects of the survey research process, from sampling, design of instruments prior to data collection, including online instruments, and including analysis of survey data and reporting. Students will learn about sources of bias, psychometrics (assessing validity and reliability), measurement theory, and ethical issues. They will also gain first-hand experience of survey analysis using applied techniques.

PHEP 647. Epidemiology Data Management & Analytics Lab 2 Units

Term Typically Offered: Spring Only

Prerequisite(s): PHEP 602 or concurrently.

Description: Graduate student in public health services will learn to analyze epidemiologic data using the Epi info and SAS statistical packages for Windows.

PHEP 648. Data Management and Analysis for Epidemiology I 1 Unit

Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.

Description: Students learn how to capture, recode, transform, store, and retrieve epidemiologic data, and generate descriptive statistics, using Microsoft Access and Base Statistical Analysis System (SAS/BASE) for Windows.

PHEP 649. Data Management and Analysis for Epidemiology II 1 Unit

Prerequisite(s): PHEP 648 and enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.

Description: Public health science students learn how to analyze epidemiologic data using the statistical package of Statistical Analysis System (SAS/STAT) for Windows.

PHEP 650. Advanced Topics in Epidemiology 1-3 Units

Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.

Description: The purpose of this course is to provide an opportunity to address issues in Epidemiology not covered in the regularly offered curriculum.

PHEP 655. Emerging Issues in Epidemiology 3 Units

Prerequisite(s): PHEP 501 and enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.

Description: This course is an overview of emerging topics in epidemiology. Emphasis is on the role that practicing epidemiologists have played or are playing in current public health events.

PHEP 666. Masters Independent Study in Epidemiology and Population Health 1-6 Units

Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer

Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the MS in Epidemiology or the MPH concentration in Epidemiology and Population Health.

Description: Course allows masters students to pursue advanced study with faculty guidance on a topic related to epidemiology and population health.

PHEP 701. Advanced Epidemiologic Methods 3 Units

Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the MS program in Epidemiology or the Public Health Sciences PhD program with specialization in Epidemiology.

Description: This course covers advanced statistical methods used in epidemiologic research including: multivariable logistic regression, Cox Proportional Hazards, multivariate analysis, meta-analysis, longitudinal data analysis, and structural equation models.

PHEP 702. Epidemiologic Research Management 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the Public Health Sciences PhD program with specialization in Epidemiology.
Description: This course provides a comprehensive introduction to the practical methods necessary for conducting epidemiologic research including study design, regulations, databases, sampling, recruitment and tracking, instrument design, and data quality control.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

PHEP 703. Computational Epidemiology 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): PHEP 621, PHEP 623, PHEP 618, and PHEP 701; Instructor permission is required for MS Epidemiology students.
Description: This course provides an intensive review of common and statistical and machine learning techniques used in computational epidemiology with hands-on application to existing or simulated datasets under a variety of study designs.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

PHEP 750. Seminars in Epidemiology 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the Public Health Sciences PhD program with specialization in Epidemiology.
Description: Doctoral students engage with faculty as junior-peers to develop skills such as research proposal writing, grant budgeting, peer review, manuscript preparation, oral and poster presentation.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

PHEP 777. Dissertation Research 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Completion of Doctoral Qualifying Examination for Public Health Sciences PhD program with specialization in Epidemiology.
Description: This course is for mentored dissertation research in the PhD Program in Epidemiology.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

PHEP 778. Doctoral Independent Study in Epidemiology and Population Health 1-6 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the PhD program in Public Health Sciences with specialization in Epidemiology.
Description: Course allows doctoral students to pursue advanced study with faculty guidance on a topic related to epidemiology and population health.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

Public Health - Biostatistics (PHST)

PHST 500. Introduction to Biostatistics for Health Sciences I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled as a student in the PH MPH, MSc or Certificate in Clinical Investigation Sciences program.
Description: This course is a graduate level introduction to descriptive and inferential statistical methods including confidence intervals and hypothesis tests for 1- and 2-samples, power and sample size calculation, one-way analysis of variance, and simple linear regression. Requisite background material on basic probability, distributions, and sampling is covered. A statistical software package will be used to execute the descriptive, graphical, and inferential statistical techniques on real data sets.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

PHST 501. Introduction to Biostatistics for Health Sciences II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 500 and enrolled in the PH MPH, MSc or Certificate in Clinical Investigation Sciences program.
Description: This course is a continued graduate level introduction to inferential statistical methods, covering multi-way analysis of variance, multiple regression, the chi-square analysis of frequencies and logistic regression, survival analysis, and nonparametric statistical methods. A statistical software package will be used to execute the descriptive, graphical, and inferential statistical techniques on real data sets.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

PHST 602. Biostatistics Seminar 1 Unit
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the PhD or MS in Biostatistics, PH MPH, Math major in Graduate School.
Description: Weekly seminar series for MS and PhD Biostatistics students. Students will hear speakers present their current research in bioinformatics and biostatistics and report on the work.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

PHST 603. Biostatistics Public Health Practicum I 1-2 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in MS in Biostatistics, PH MPH or Math major in Graduate School.
Description: Practical experience in biostatistical collaboration at the Master’s level, in which a student works with one or more investigators in the health sciences. Students typically engage in the statistical analysis of investigator data sets and are required to generate and present a report to the collaborating investigators.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

PHST 604. Biostatistics 1-2 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 603; Enrolled as a student in the MS in Biostatistics, PH MPH, or Math major in Graduate School.
Description: Practical experience in biostatistical collaboration at the Master’s level, in which a student works with one or more investigators in the health sciences. Students typically engage in the statistical analysis of investigator data sets and are required to generate and present a report to the collaborating investigators.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.
PHST 620. Introduction to Statistical Computing 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in MPH program and PHST 500.
Description: This course provides an introduction to SAS. It will give students an overview of the SAS system under MS Windows and provide fundamental grounding in the environment for accessing, structuring, formatting and manipulating data. Students will learn how to summarize and display data, and the inference between data steps and procedures to get information out of data.

PHST 624. Clinical Trials I: Planning and Design 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the MS in Biostatistics or the MSc or Certificate in Clinical Investigation Sciences.
Description: Phases of Trials, Ethical Issues, Basic Design, Inclusion and Exclusion criteria, Randomization and Blinding, Sample Size, Monitoring Response Variables, and Issues in Data Analysis

PHST 625. Clinical Trials II 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 624 and enrolled in the MS in Biostatistics or the MSc or Certificate in Clinical Investigation Sciences.
Description: Sample Size and Power Analysis, Survival Analysis, Sequential Design, Meta Analysis, Reporting and Interpreting of Results, Multicenter Trials. SPSS will be used.

PHST 631. Data Collection for Clinical Research 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 500 (or equivalent) completed or concurrent.
Description: Identification and selection or design and analysis of instruments for collecting data used in clinical research. Includes psychometric properties of data collected. REDCap and SPSS will be used extensively.

PHST 640. Statistical Methods for Research Design in Health Sciences 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled MPH program and PHST 500.
Description: Statistical methods for clinical research and interpretation of the literature.

PHST 645. Health Sciences Data Collection Instrumentation 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 500.
Description: This course covers the identification and selection or design and analysis of instruments for collecting data used in health sciences research and evaluation. Psychometric/biometric properties of data collected using instruments are addressed extensively. Epi info 7 will be used to develop data collection instruments and SPSS will be used for data management and analysis. This will be taught as a hybrid course.

PHST 650. Advanced Topics in Biostatistics 1-3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in MS in Biostatistics and permission from the instructor.
Description: A treatment of one or more topics in advanced biostatistics not usually covered in a regularly offered course.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHST 655. Basic Statistical Methods for Bioinformatics 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): PHST 681 and enrolled in graduate studies in the School of Public and Information Sciences.
Description: This course provides an introduction to some core topics in bioinformatics. Topics will include-pairwise and multiple sequence alignment algorithms; gene expression profiling using microarrays; introduction to next generation sequencing; analyzing RNA-Seq data and phylogenetics. Students are expected to be familiar with some elementary statistics and probability concepts.

PHST 660. Mathematical Tools 4 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in MS in Biostatistics and MATH 190 or equivalent.
Description: This course focuses on the basic techniques of differential and integral calculus, and matrix algebra. Topics include the chain rule, higher-order derivatives, partial derivatives, improper integrals, multiple integrals, sequences and series, vector and matrix arithmetic, and eigenvalues.

PHST 661. Probability 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in MS in Biostatistics or Math major in Graduate School.
Description: Introduction to probability theory. Topics include axioms of probability, conditional probability, discrete and continuous random variables, probability distributions and joint distributions, moments, moment generating functions, mathematical expectation, transformations of random variables, limit theorems (Law of Large Numbers and Central Limit Theory).

PHST 662. Mathematical Statistics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 661, enrolled in MS in Biostatistics, or Math major in Graduate School.
Description: A first course in statistical theory. Topics include limiting distributions, maximum likelihood estimation, least squares, sufficiency and completeness, confidence intervals, Bayesian estimation, Neyman-Pearson Lemma, uniformly most powerful tests, likelihood ratio tests and asymptotic distributions.
PHST 666. Master's Thesis Research 1-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the MS in Biostatistics or Math major in Graduate School; accumulation of at least 18 hours of PHST credit hours.
Description: Mentored research; Thesis Preparation.

PHST 671. Special Topics in Biostatistics 1-3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the MS in Biostatistics or Math major in Graduate School.
Description: A treatment of one or more topics in advanced Biostatistics not usually covered in a regularly offered course. May be repeated under different subtitles.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHST 675. Independent Study in Biostatistics 1-3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 661 and enrolled in the MS in Biostatistics or Math major in Graduate School.
Description: Course allows students to pursue advanced study with faculty guidance on a topic related to biostatistics.

PHST 680. Biostatistical Methods I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 501, enrolled in the MS Biostatistics, PH MPH, or Math major in Graduate School.
Description: A mathematically sophisticated presentation of statistical principles and methods. Topics include exploratory data analysis, graphical methods, point and interval estimation, hypothesis testing, and categorical data analysis Matrix algebra is required. Data sets drawn from biomedical and public health literature will be analyzed using statistical computer packages.

PHST 681. Biostatistical Methods II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 680, enrolled in the MS Biostatistics, PH MPH, or Math major in Graduate School.
Description: This course offers a mathematically sophisticated introduction to simple regression models and analysis of variance. Matrix algebra is required and data analysis will be illustrated drawing examples from biomedical and public health literature.

PHST 682. Multivariate Statistical Analysis 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 681 and enrolled in the MS in Biostatistics or Math major in Graduate School.
Description: The topics covered in this course include the multivariate normal distribution, inference for mean vectors, inference for covariance and correlation matrices, analysis of covariance structure, analysis of serial measurements, factor analysis, and discriminant analysis. Statistical methods and models that are most useful in multivariate data analysis will be introduced. Instruction will also be given in the proper use of R to carry out these analyses.

PHST 683. Survival Analysis 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 681 and enrolled in the MS in Biostatistics or MPH program.
Description: Statistical methods for analyzing survival data. Parametric and nonparametric methods for complete and incomplete data, life-table, KM estimator, accelerated lifetime models, proportional hazard models, log-rank tests, and goodness-of-fit tests.

PHST 684. Categorical Data Analysis 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 501 and enrolled in the MS Biostatistics or MPH program.
Description: Topics include inference for two-way contingency tables, models for binary response variables, log-linear models, models for ordinal data, multinomial response data, Poisson regression analysis and analysis of repeated categorical response data. Emphasis will be placed on methods and models most useful in biomedical and public health research.

PHST 691. Bayesian Inference and Decision 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 681 and enrolled in the PhD or MS in Biostatistics or Math major in Graduate School.
Description: Focuses on the use of Bayesian probability and statistics in both scientific inference and formal decision analysis. The frequency and subjective interpretations of probability are explored, as well as probability and decision making. The course will explore inference for both single-parameter, multiple-parameter, and hierarchical models. A significant amount of time will be devoted to Bayesian computational methods.

PHST 703. Biostatistical Consulting Practicum 1-3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the PhD in Biostatistics program and completion of PHST 710, PHST 762, PHST 781, and PHST 691.
Description: In depth practical experience in biostatistical collaboration at the doctoral level, in which a student works with one or more investigators in the health sciences. Students typically engage in the statistical analysis of investigator data sets and are required to generate and present a report to the collaborating investigators.

PHST 704. Mixed Effect Models and Longitudinal Data Analysis 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the PhD in Biostatistics program and PHST 781.
Description: The course focuses on theory and application of linear and nonlinear mixed effect models, particularly, the application of mixed models to longitudinal data analyses.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
PHST 710. Advanced Statistical Computing I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the MS or PhD in Biostatistics and PHST 681.
Description: The intent of this course is to develop knowledge of a statistical programming language and computational methods that are essential to statistics. The course primarily focuses on the R programming language and covers a variety of programming topics related to R (vectorization, data I/O, object-oriented programming, and building R packages). Statistical and computational methods that are covered include visualization (basic and lattice graphics), data smoothing, optimization (Newton-Raphson and EM-algorithm), matrix factorization, simulation (inverse transform and acceptance-rejection methods, power and size of a test), numerical integration, resampling (bootstrap and permutation tests), and other modern statistical methods. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHST 711. Advanced Statistical Computing II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the MS or PhD in Biostatistics and PHST 710.
Description: This is a continuation of the statistical programming techniques, skills, and theory covered in PHST 710. The intent of this course is to further develop your ability to perform statistical programming. This includes carrying out computational tasks, interferring with diverse data types and formats, and writing functions to implement statistical methods. Potential topics include multivariate optimization, C++ programming in R, statistical learning methods, non-parametric smoothing, dimension reduction/variable selection, and Markov Chain Monte Carlo (MCMC) methods. Additionally, the course may cover computing concepts such as cross-validation/resampling, regular expressions, and computing on the R language.

PHST 724. Advanced Clinical Trials 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the PhD in Biostatistics and PHST 624 and PHST 681 or equivalent.
Description: Advanced statistical methods for design and analysis of clinical trials are explored. Content includes design and analysis of complex clinical studies, including phases I, II, and III clinical trials for dichotomous, normally distributed and time-to-event outcomes. SAS, R and EAST will be extensively used.

PHST 725. Design of Experiments 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the PhD in Biostatistics and PHST 681 or equivalent.
Description: The course introduces experimental design principles and covers specific designs in detail. Concepts will be illustrated using examples from the health services and engineering. SAS in R will be extensively used.

PHST 750. Statistics for Bioinformatics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the PhD in Biostatistics and PHST 661.
Description: This course focuses on the statistical methods and computational tools for analyzing data generated from DNA and protein sequences, genetic maps, and polymorphic marker data. This course will review the basics of genetics/molecular biology and statistical inference and probability needed for analyzing DNA and protein sequences. Covered topics include introduction to stochastic processes, analysis and motif discovery within a single DNA/protein sequence, comparison and alignment of two or more DNA/protein sequences, the foundations of substitution matrices, the statistical underpinnings of BLAST, hidden Markov models, evolutionary models, and phylogenetic trees. This course is developed for individuals interested in pursuing research in computational biology, genomics, and bioinformatics. Students are expected to be familiar with some elementary statistics and probability concepts.

PHST 751. High-throughput Data Analysis 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the PhD in Biostatistics and PHST 661.
Description: The array of high speed, high dimension and highly automated biotechnical equipment including next generation DNA sequencers (NGS), microarray, and metabolomics and proteomic analyzers (mass spectrometers) are all designed to capture and process vast amounts of biological data. All these data generation platforms require customized statistical analyses dealing with high dimensional data. In this course we will introduce the statistical methodologies needed to analyze the data generated by these high-throughput technologies. Covered statistical topics include modern methods for classification, dimension reduction/variable selection methods, and clustering. The course will also cover practical aspects of high-throughput data analysis including microarray data, NGS data, and proteomic mass-spectrometer data.

PHST 752. Statistical Genetics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the PhD in Biostatistics and PHST 681.
Description: This course covers the principles of Mendelian genetics, linkage analysis, association analysis, and quantitative trait models. The main goal is to provide the students a foundation of the statistical theory of inheritance and enough expertise to analyze and interpret genetic association studies.

PHST 762. Advanced Statistical Inference 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the PhD in Biostatistics and PHST 662.
Description: This course is a mathematically sophisticated introduction to the theory and methods of statistical inference, including point and interval estimation and hypotheses testing. Students will learn fundamental technical tools that are essential to carry out methodological research in the field of Biostatistics. Emphasis will be placed on how to correctly propose statistical methods with desirable properties in a general setting including asymptotic unbiasedness, robust variance estimation and efficiency.
PHST 777. Dissertation Research  1-12 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the PhD in Biostatistics, satisfactory completion of PhD qualifying examination, and permission of dissertation director.
Description: The PhD student may take a total of up to 24 hours credit for the planning, data collection, analysis, and writing of the research project that results in the doctoral dissertation. PHST 777 must be taken under the direction of the student’s major professor. Dissertation research hours are seen as a major component of the doctoral program. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHST 780. Advanced Nonparametrics  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the PhD in Biostatistics and PHST 662.
Description: This course is a mathematically advanced introduction to theory and methods of nonparametric statistics. The first part of the course covers topics including theory of distribution-free statistics based on ranking, U-statistics, Kolmogorov-Smirnov one-sample statistics, Chi-square goodness-of-fit test, asymptotic relative efficiency. The second part of the course covers nonparametric density and regression estimation based on kernel, splines, local polynomial and wavelet methods.

PHST 781. Advanced Linear Models  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the PhD in Biostatistics and PHST 662.
Description: An introduction to the theory of linear models, with an emphasis on health sciences applications. Topics include projections, distributions of quadratic forms under normality, estimation procedures, general linear hypotheses, estimating and testing linear parametric functions, simultaneous inference, multifactor ANOVA models, and covariance.

PHST 782. Generalized Linear Models  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the PhD in Biostatistics and PHST 781.
Description: The course covers the advanced statistical methods and inferences based on the exponential family of distributions, with linear model, logistic regression model, and log-linear as its special cases. Generalized estimating equations for correlated responses are also covered.

PHST 783. Advanced Survival Analysis  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the PhD in Biostatistics; PHST 662 and PHST 683.
Description: This course is a mathematically advanced introduction to the theory and methods of survival analysis. It offers an in-depth analysis of parametric and non-parametric models for general event-time data. It also provides a brief overview of complex models like multi-state models and competing risks.

PHST 785. Nonlinear Regression  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the PhD in Biostatistics and PHST 781.
Description: The course covers advanced statistical methods for nonlinear regressions. Linear models, generalized linear models, and least squares estimates will be reviewed. The least squares estimates, algorithm for obtaining the estimates, statistical inferences, and model diagnostic tests for nonlinear regression models will be covered.

Public Health - Health Promotion & Behavioral Sci (PHPB)

PHPB 501. Introduction to Public Health Behavior  3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course reviews theoretical constructs of the causation of health-related behavior, including preventive, early diagnosis, treatment and rehabilitative behavior.

PHPB 604. Health Decision and Risk Analysis  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course is a study of how patients, practitioners, researchers, educators and policy makers understand risk and approach complex decisions problems in health.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 611. Community Organization and Assessment  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: Students in this course apply the knowledge, skills, and methods for conducting community health assessments to identify factors that affect the health of a population and utilize the assessment process as a tool for community organizing. This course reviews the goals of population health and the role of community in facilitating health improvement. It also introduces students to the theory and practice of community assessment in public health. Students will gain a practical understanding of what is involved in the assessment process, the time and resources necessary to undertake an assessment, and sufficient integration of the results into planning and commissioning of local services.

PHPB 612. Health Communications Campaigns: Theory and Practice  3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course will review principles and concepts of health communication campaigns, both from the patient/consumer side and the practitioner side.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
PHPB 614. Critical Thinking, Programming Planning, and Implementation 3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Admission to graduate study in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: The course establishes basic skills for public health program planning and implementation. Students develop critical thinking skills regarding purpose, procedures, terminology, and specific techniques, in program planning and implementation and links to evaluation. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 615. Advanced Program Evaluation 3 Units

Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Completion of MPH Year 1 program requirements.
Description: This course presents advanced concepts in program evaluation and builds on Year 1 evaluation course, Critical Thinking and Program Evaluation. Students who enroll in this seminar oriented course will complete a program evaluation project and apply program theory, principles and methods in program evaluation. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 620. Emerging Infectious Diseases: Impacts and Control 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHEH 525.
Description: This course will provide an overview of the public health threats posed by emerging infectious diseases and consider options for mitigating the risks they pose. The most important new and re-emerging pathogenic organisms from the past century will be discussed in detail. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 630. Social Determinants of Health 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the MPH program in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: The purpose of this course is to provide an introduction to social factors that impact health. Theories and evidence supporting multiple underlying determinants of health in populations are presented. This course will explore how social influences such as socioeconomic status, environment, policy, gender, race, sexual orientation, and neighborhood quality affect population health. This course will study intervention approaches to improve population health outcomes. This course examines structural factors that impact population health in the US as well as structural interventions to address health inequities. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 635. Health Promotion Policy Development and Advocacy 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in graduate studies in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This seminar and lab-structured course will provide a review of social justice as a foundation of public health and the core principles of Health in All Policies (HiAP) as a mechanism to achieve health equity. Students will also have the opportunity to learn by doing field-based research with Louisville Metro government to help drive change in current issues within the local setting. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 640. Public Health Planning, Implementing and Evaluating 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in graduate studies in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: Public Health interventions are traditionally organized by community assessment, leading to objectives and program implementation, followed by evaluation of the results of the intervention. This course will present the components of that planning cycle, providing students with basic competencies in organizing public health programming. There will be intentional applications to global settings.
Note: This course is specifically designed for students in the MPH Global Health concentration.

PHPB 650. Advanced Topics in Health Promotion and Behavioral Sciences 1-3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: An in-depth treatment of one or more advanced topics in health promotion and behavioral sciences, designed to advance the student's understanding in the field and not covered in other courses. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 701. Theoretical Basis of Health Promotion 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Doctoral student in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences PhD in Public Health Sciences, Health Promotion Specialization program.
Description: Explores historical developments in the health promotion, current state of the health promotion discipline and main emphases are PRECEDE/PROCEED and other planning models, and research issues for the future.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
PHPB 702. Health Care Law and Politics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Doctoral Student in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences PhD in Public Health Sciences, Health Promotion Specialization program.
Description: Course includes history, methods, results, and evaluation of health care related policy and politics. Major foci and course coverage include government health policy formulation, implementation, and evaluation. The course should enhance sensitivity, not only to people needing health care, but also for the contributions, problems, and limitations of the disciplines and professions that manage medical care. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 703. Health Promotion Research Methods and Design 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Doctoral student in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences PhD in Public Health Sciences, Health Promotion Specialization program.
Description: Behavioral sciences, such as health promotion are dependent on rigorous studies carried out by well-trained researchers. In this course, we will explore the commonly used research designs. Students will learn how the validity of information and data gathered is limited by, among other factors, the research methods chosen, the carefulness and attentiveness of the researcher, the willingness of the participant, and the selection of statistical analyses. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 704. Psycho-Social Foundations of Health Decision Making 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Doctoral student in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences PhD in Public Health Sciences, Health Promotion Specialization program.
Description: This course is a study of the psychological and social factors that influence health-related judgement and decision making. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 705. Community Organizing and Health Policy Advocacy 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Doctoral student in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences PhD in Public Health Sciences, Health Promotion Specialization program.
Description: This seminar-structured course provides a review of the extent and nature of community health problems requiring community-based solutions, as opposed to solutions for individuals. Included in the course will be concepts of community organizing, empowerment and processes of policy advocacy and formation. The course will develop practitioner competencies as well as an agenda for addressing the problem. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 710. Community Based Participatory Research 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Doctoral student in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences PhD in Public Health Sciences, Health Promotion Specialization program.
Description: This course presents concepts and approaches in community-based participatory research. Students will complete a needs assessment and design a project applying theory, principles, and methods in participatory research. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 711. Qualitative Research Methods in Public Health 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Doctoral student in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences PhD in Public Health Sciences, Health Promotion Specialization program.
Description: This course presents theories and methods in qualitative research design and inquiry. Students will apply qualitative data collection, coding, and analysis skills to public health problems. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 722. Health Risk Communication 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Doctoral student in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences PhD in Public Health Sciences, Health Promotion Specialization program.
Description: This course presents the principles and theories of health risk communication and promotes an understanding of the psychological responses to risk and risk messages. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 724. Dissertation Methods Seminar 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Doctoral student in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences PhD in Public Health Sciences, Health Promotion Specialization program.
Description: The course is an interactive seminar on the processes and strategies of dissertation research and writing, usually taken in the semester prior to sitting for the candidacy qualifying exam. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHPB 727. Culture and Public Health 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Doctoral student in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences PhD in Public Health Sciences, Health Promotion Specialization program.
Description: This course focuses on U.S. and international perspectives on culture and health and intercultural communication, with opportunities for building cultural competency skills. For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
PHPB 753. Independent Study in Health Promotion and Behavioral Sciences 1-3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Doctoral student in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences PhD in Public Health Sciences, Health Promotion Specialization program.
Description: Provides students an opportunity to develop a research project or investigation of a health promotion and behavioral health topic under the supervision of a faculty mentor.

Public Health - Environmental Health (PHEH)

PHEH 500. Introduction to Environmental and Occupational Health Sciences 2 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course provides students with the basic concepts and principles of environmental health and occupational health including environmental agents in water, air and soil, such as chemicals, biological and physical agents, and other important factors that may constitute a risk to humans. It also provides an overview of the basic principles and methods of risk assessment and risk management. This course is designed for all public health practitioners and meets the core environmental health requirement for the MPH degree program.

PHEH 525. Biological Basis for Parasitic and Infectious Diseases 1 Unit
Prerequisite(s): PHEH 500 (or concurrently).
Description: This course will provide an overview of key biological concepts related to the pathogenic responses of humans to infectious and parasitic agents. The central questions addressed by the course include: What strategies are used by different types of pathogens to interact with host cells and what physical/cellular barriers impact host infectious/parasite interactions; and how do host cells/organisms respond to different types of pathogens through innate and adaptive immune responses to infectious/parasitic diseases.

PHEH 526. Nutrition and Maternal and Child Health 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Description: This course covers the scientific foundations of human nutrition and digestion, methodologies for nutritional assessment in at-risk populations, and the impact of food scarcity/nutritional inadequacy on maternal/child.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEH 527. Global Issues in Environmental and Occupational Health 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHEH 500 and PHEP 501 (or equivalent courses); student must also be enrolled in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course will focus on the nature, impact and determinants of health problems among disadvantaged populations in developing countries.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEH 528. Introduction to Quantitative Risk Assessment 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHEH 500 and enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course will introduce students to the nomenclature, concepts, and basic skills of quantitative environmental risk assessment (QRA). The goal is to provide an understanding necessary to read and critically evaluate QRA. Emphasis is on the intellectual and conceptual basis of risk assessment, particularly its dependence on toxicology and epidemiology, rather than its mathematical constructs and statistical models. Specific cases consider the use of risk assessment for setting environmental exposure limits and quantifying the hazards of environmental exposures to chemicals in air and drinking water.

PHEH 530. Advanced Topics in Environmental and Occupational Health 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHEH 500 and enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course will build upon principles acquired in the introductory course by presenting advanced concepts on environmental and occupational health as novel factors that may constitute a risk to humans in developed and industrialized countries.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEH 610. Occupational Health and Safety 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHEH 500 and enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course will focus on the prevention of work-related injuries and illnesses as well as the management and control of work place hazards. Information on the identification of workplace hazards, governmental regulations and issues pertaining to specific industries, and safety management programs will also be presented. The course will also include discussion of principles of ergonomics, including the role of job design in maximizing productivity and injury prevention.

PHEH 620. Global Issues in Environmental and Occupational Health 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHEH 500 and enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course will focus on the nature, impact and determinants of health problems among disadvantaged populations in developing countries.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEH 640. Environmental Risk Assessment 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHEH 500 and PHEP 501 (or equivalent courses); student must also be enrolled in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course introduces students to the nomenclature, concepts, and basic skills of quantitative environmental risk assessment (QRA). The goal is to provide an understanding necessary to read and critically evaluate QRA. Emphasis is on the intellectual and conceptual basis of risk assessment, particularly its dependence on toxicology and epidemiology, rather than its mathematical constructs and statistical models. Specific cases consider the use of risk assessment for setting environmental exposure limits and quantifying the hazards of environmental exposures to chemicals in air and drinking water.

PHEH 650. Advanced Topics in Environmental and Occupational Health 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHEH 500 and enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course will build upon principles acquired in the introductory course by presenting advanced concepts on environmental and occupational health as novel factors that may constitute a risk to humans in developed and industrialized countries.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
PHEH 651. Advanced Environmental Health Services 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHEH 500 and enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course is an in-depth examination of current topics in environmental health issues and practice and builds on principles presented in the prerequisite introductory course. Current topics within the broad category of environmental health will be explored with emphasis on environmental toxicology and nutrition. Specific topics include introduction to toxicological concepts, pulmonary toxicology, air pollution, susceptible populations, biosafety, public health nutrition including malnutrition and the environmental impact of agriculture. The course includes a traditional lecture format as well as in-class and online discussion groups for selected topics.

PHEH 750. Seminar 1 in Environmental Health 1 Unit
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in PhD in Public Health Sciences, Environmental Health Specialization Program in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: In a series of seminar courses over four semesters, doctoral students engage as junior peers with faculty to: 1) critically review the current environmental health literature, 2) develop skills in preparing and making oral and poster presentations, 3) prepare at least one publication quality manuscript, and 4) develop an NIH-formatted R01 style research proposal.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEH 751. Seminar 2 in Environmental Health 1 Unit
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): PHEH 750 and enrollment in PhD in Public Health Sciences, Environmental Health Specialization program in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: In a series of seminar courses over four semesters, doctoral students engage as junior peers with faculty to: 1) critically review the current environmental health literature, 2) develop skills in preparing and making oral and poster presentations, 3) prepare at least one publication quality manuscript, and 4) develop an NIH-formatted R01 style research proposal.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEH 752. Seminar 3 in Environmental Health 1 Unit
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): PHEH 750, PHEH 751, and enrollment in PhD in Public Health Sciences, Environmental Health Specialization program in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: In a series of seminar courses over four semesters, doctoral students engage as junior peers with faculty to: 1) critically review the current environmental health literature, 2) develop skills in preparing and making oral and poster presentations, 3) prepare at least one publication quality manuscript, and 4) develop a NIH-formatted R01 style research proposal.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHEH 753. Independent Study in Environmental and Occupational Health 1-6 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the PhD program in Public Health Sciences, Environmental Health Specialization in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course provides students with the opportunity to develop a research project or investigation of an environmental or occupational health topic under the supervision of a faculty mentor. The student identifies an academic advisor and develops a proposal that includes a detailed syllabus with methods to evaluate the proposed work and criteria for assigning a grade. Both student and advisor sign documents describing their respective duties, and the proposed study is to be completed within 90 days after approval of the proposal.

PHEH 754. Seminar 4 in Environmental Health 1 Unit
Grading Basis: Pass/Fail
Prerequisite(s): PHEH 750, PHEH 751, PHEH 752 and enrollment in PhD in Public Health Sciences, Environmental Health Specialization program in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: In a series of seminar courses over four semesters, doctoral students engage as junior peers with faculty to: 1) critically review the current environmental health literature, 2) develop skills in preparing and making oral and poster presentations, 3) prepare at least one publication quality manuscript, and 4) develop a NIH-formatted R01 style research proposal.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

Public Health, Management Systems Sciences (PHMS)

PHMS 501. Introduction to Public Health Practice and Administration 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrolled in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course emphasizes the practical application of the principles of health care organizations to public health at the national, state and local levels.
Note: Taught only at the graduate level.

PHMS 530. Comparative Health Systems 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Description: This course examines health delivery and public health systems from a global perspective. The course focuses on teaching students to describe elements of these systems, the environment in which the systems exist, and the internal and external forces through which systems change. Although the structure of different health systems varies, most also have substantial similarities especially in the areas of improving access and quality, while minimizing costs. The course focuses on health systems, using examples of health systems in different countries to demonstrate system similarities and differences. The course will provide a framework for analyzing different models of organizing health care and public health in settings around the world. The course will engage students in examining health systems outside the United States, focusing specifically on how a country's history, geography, government, and economy influence the delivery of health services. Students will apply these skills in a semester-long group project involving the analysis of a selected country's health system, its performance factors affecting performance and structure, and opportunities for reform.

PHMS 603. Legal and Bioethical Aspects of Public Health 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This introductory course will focus on the legal and bioethical principles and constraints that are applicable to public health services and public health professionals.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHMS 605. Governance and Management of Healthcare Organizations 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Description: This course seeks to provide the student with an understanding of organizations and leadership from dominant ways of thinking about them to ways informed by a complexity perspective. Course participants will read about and discuss a broad range of perspectives about what constitutes an organization and leadership of it. Particular attention will be given to the organizational experiences of the student and the class.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHMS 609. Health Finance and Financial Management 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course is designed to provide an overview of health finance and financial management, including context of health finance and the approaches and processes involved in managing the health enterprise.

PHMS 610. Health Policy & Analysis 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Description: This course is designed to introduce students to key concepts and issues surrounding the adoption and use of information systems and the quality assessment processes within health care organizations.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHMS 612. Quality Assessment and Information Management 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Description: This course seeks to provide the student with an ecological perspective. The course covers historical, socioeconomic, political and environmental forces influencing the organization, financing and delivery of personal and public health services.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHMS 615. Introduction to Health Systems 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the MPH concentration in Population Health Management or the MS in Health Administration in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course offers an introduction to strategic management within contemporary healthcare organizations and markets. Lectures and assignments will focus on various topics including organizational strategy formulation, implementation, and evaluation.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHMS 620. Healthcare Strategic Management 2 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the MPH concentration in Population Health Management or the MS in Health Administration in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course offers an introduction to strategic management within contemporary healthcare organizations and markets. Lectures and assignments will focus on various topics including organizational strategy formulation, implementation, and evaluation.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHMS 625. Population Health Management 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Spring Only
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the MPH concentration in Population Health Management or the MS in Health Administration in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course seeks to provide the student with an understanding of organizations and leadership from dominant ways of thinking about them to ways informed by a complexity perspective. Course participants will read about and discuss a broad range of perspectives about what constitutes an organization and leadership of it. Particular attention will be given to the organizational experiences of the student and the class.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)
PHMS 630. Human Resource Management in the Public Health Sector 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: The purpose of this course is to provide the master's degree/PhD student in public health and health care fields an overview of Human Resources Management. This will include looking at the framework of human resources management in various settings; planning and developing a competent workforce in various settings; and practice in techniques for training, mentoring and evaluating employees as well as a range of disciplinary actions.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHMS 635. Health Law and Ethics 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHMS 501, PHST 501, PHEP 501, PHPB 501, and PHEH 500.
Description: This course provides an overview of major contemporary legal and ethical issues related to administrative decision making in health care and population health.

PHMS 641. Data Mining I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: The course is first in a two semester sequence graduate level introduction to data mining/big data analytics. It focuses on practical implementation and interpretation of the most commonly used techniques in analysis of very large datasets.

PHMS 642. Data Mining II 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHMS 641.
Description: This is the second of a two semester graduate level course on data mining/big data analytics. It focuses on practical implementation and interpretation of the most commonly used techniques in analysis of very large datasets.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHMS 643. Data Management in Health Service Research 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: Course allows students to pursue study with faculty guidance on data management in health service research.
For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

PHMS 645. Health Services Research Methods I 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): PHST 501.
Description: The course is designed to introduce students to quantitative techniques and considerations appropriate for observational studies in Health Services Research.

PHMS 646. Health Services Research Methods II 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall Only
Prerequisite(s): PHMS 645 and PHST 501.
Description: This course is designed to prepare students to answer and critically examine questions regarding casual inference in Health Services and Health Policy Research as well as other research settings using observational data.

PHMS 650. Advanced Topics in Health Management and Systems Science 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in the School of Public Health and Information Sciences.
Description: This course will usually focus on one topic in advanced health management and systems sciences, not usually covered in a regularly offered course (or if offered in a regularly offered course, not covered in depth).

PHMS 655. Systems Thinking and Dynamic Modeling in Public Health 3 Units

WGST 625. Art and Trauma
Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.
Description: Representations of Trauma in the Visual Arts is an advanced exploratory seminar examining the changing relationships between trauma and its representation in the twentieth century. Beginning with the Holocaust, the course charts a trajectory from this most profound of collective traumas, to the refinement of clinical definitions of trauma (e.g., PTSD) in the wake of the Vietnam War, the development of trauma studies in the humanities in the 1990s, to the recent “pictorial turn” within scholarship on trauma. This historical framework will be brought to bear upon the dynamics of how trauma and visuality have been approached by scientists, scholars, and artists. Each week’s reading and viewing materials will offer students an example of historical or clinical account of trauma, a secondary or applied analysis, and an artist’s original work that responds to the particular traumatic event under consideration. In this regard, students will be encouraged to negotiate the discursive relationships between history, theory, and practice.
Note: Cross-listed with ARTH 625.
