

PRINTING

Effective August 1, 2022, Brandeis School of Law students must use UofL Print powered by Canon. UofL Print powered by Canon is a cloud-based printing management system. Instead of traditional network printing, in which one sends a print job to a specific printer, cloud-based printing provides a queue from which one may retrieve one's print jobs at any connected device. In the School of Law, Canon multi-function devices are located in the Law Library main reading room and outside room 175 in the Classroom Wing.

In order to use Canon printing and copying services, one must have Cardinal Cash on one's Cardinal Card. The student cost for black-and-white printing and copying is 10¢ per impression, and color printing and copying is 15¢ per impression. Note: There are no color printers available to students in the School of Law building, but others are located around campus. Scanning is free.

For printing support, students must contact the University ITS Help Desk at helpdesk@louisville.edu or 502-852-7997.
