ECONOMICS (ECON)

Subject-area course lists indicate courses currently active for offering at the University of Louisville. Not all courses are scheduled in any given academic term. For class offerings in a specific semester, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm).

500-level courses generally are included in both the undergraduate- and graduate-level course listings; however, specific course/section offerings may vary between semesters. Students are responsible for ensuring that they enroll in courses that are applicable to their particular academic programs.

Course Fees

Some courses may carry fees beyond the standard tuition costs to cover additional support or materials. Program-, subject- and course-specific fee information can be found on the Office of the Bursar website (http://louisville.edu/bursar/tuitionfee/).

ECON 201. Principles of Microeconomics - SB

Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer

Description: An introduction to the supply and demand model of price determination. Includes a theoretical treatment of consumer and producer behavior, a study of industrial structures, and the economic foundation for public policy. Topics may include pricing decisions, entrepreneurship, labor markets, taxation, foreign exchange rates, and advertising.

Note: May be taken before ECON 202.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECON 202. Principles of Macroeconomics - SB

Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer

Description: An introduction to the U.S. economy, including long-term structural developments and short-term fluctuations. Theoretical models are presented to explain changes in national output, the price level, employment, and unemployment. Competing macroeconomic models are examined and contrasted. The models provide a framework for studying fiscal and monetary policy, and the effectiveness of macroeconomic policy during recent economic history is evaluated.

Note: May be taken before ECON 201.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECON 203. Money and Banking

Term Typically Offered: Fall Only

Prerequisite(s): ECON 201 and ECON 202.

Fee: An additional $45.00 is charged for this course.

Description: An introduction to the role of money and financial institutions in the economy. An emphasis is placed on the role of the central bank in money creation and the implementation of monetary policy. Analysis of impacts and developments of current financial regulations in a global financial world.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECON 204. Urban Economics

Term Typically Offered: Fall Only

Prerequisite(s): ECON 201 and ECON 202.

Fee: An additional $45.00 is charged for this course.

Description: Economic theory with a spatial dimension, as applied to urbanized regions. Topics include: land rents, population density, housing markets, distribution of office and manufacturing activity, labor markets, education, public safety, transportation, and economic development.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECON 301. Intermediate Microeconomics

Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer

Prerequisite(s): ECON 201 and ECON 202.

Fee: An additional $45.00 is charged for this course.

Description: A more advanced treatment of the foundations and applications of microeconomic theory. The standard model of consumer and producer behavior is presented, with a rigorous examination of assumptions and deductions. The model is used to describe market determination of price and quantity of goods and services. Different industrial structures are studied, and the analyses are used to evaluate government policies that affect economic behavior.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECON 302. Intermediate Macroeconomics

Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring, Summer

Prerequisite(s): ECON 201 and ECON 202.

Fee: An additional $45.00 is charged for this course.

Description: A survey of macroeconomic theory with emphasis given to the evolution of the various models that attempt to explain the growth in national output and the price level. Applications cover both historical and current macroeconomic problems for the United States and the world economy.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes (http://htmlaccess.louisville.edu/classSchedule/setupSearchClassSchedule.cfm)

ECON 312. Labor Economics

Term Typically Offered: Spring Only

Prerequisite(s): ECON 201 and ECON 202.

Fee: An additional $45.00 is charged for this course.

Description: Applies microeconomic theory to the labor market. Emphasis is on the effect of government policies such as minimum wages and welfare reform on individual welfare. Other topics include human capital investments, wage/non-wage trade-offs, and unemployment.

ECON 401. Mathematical Economics
3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): MATH 180 or MATH 205 and ECON 301; or faculty consent.
Fee: An additional $45.00 is charged for this course.
Description: The mathematical tools of modern economics, illustrated with economic applications. Topics include the calculus of optimization problems, linear algebra, equilibrium conditions for systems, dynamic models, difference and differential equations, and mathematical programming.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

ECON 402. Econometrics II
3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): ECON 301; ECON 380; and MATH 180 or MATH 205.
Fee: An additional $45.00 is charged for this course.
Description: This course reviews statistical inference using multiple regression (OLS) analysis and model specification. Additional topics include panel data methods, instrumental variables, two-stage least squares, IV methods, simultaneous equations models, limited dependent variable models using MLE and presentation of results in technical presentations.

For class offerings for a specific term, refer to the Schedule of Classes.

ECON 410. Advanced Price Theory
3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Occasionally Offered
Prerequisite(s): ECON 301 and MAT 180 or MAT 205; or faculty consent.
Fee: An additional $45.00 is charged for this course.
Description: This course extends the formal analysis of microeconomic theory to include market imperfections covering monopoly power, agents with limited information, externalities, and choice under uncertainty. Extensions also include an introduction to macroeconomic modeling relying on explicit microfoundations.
