About the University of Louisville

Founded in 1798 as one of the nation's first city-owned, public universities, the University of Louisville (UofL) is a vital ecosystem that creates thriving futures for students, the community and society. UofL is one of only 69 universities in the United States to earn recognition by the Carnegie Foundation as both a Research I and a Community Engaged university and is proud to be ranked among the nation's best institutions for African American and LGBT+ students, as well as a designated Military Friendly school. The institution is a producer of top scholars, including 148 Fulbright Scholarships awarded since 2003 - more than all other Kentucky public institutions combined - and has earned international acclaim for groundbreaking discoveries in areas including transplantation, cancer research, cardiac care and spinal cord research. This dynamic tapestry of diverse perspectives makes UofL a place where potential is unleashed and positive change for humankind is fueled.

UofL enrolls more than 22,000 students and offers undergraduate degrees in more than 50 fields of study, master's degrees in over 75 areas, and doctoral degrees in over 35 disciplines. The university also is accredited to grant professional degrees in medicine, dentistry, and law.

UofL contributes significantly to the economic, cultural and intellectual life of the Louisville community. The city itself also serves as a classroom for UofL students, who benefit from internships and partnerships with Fortune 500 companies, as well as a wide range of community service opportunities. The magnitude of UofL's achievements reach beyond Louisville into every corner of Kentucky and across the nation. Our alumni network is over 150,000 strong, with Cardinals living all over the Commonwealth of Kentucky, the United States, and around the world.

UofL has educated about 30 percent of Kentucky's physicians and attorneys and over 40 percent of its dentists.

At UofL, students learn from faculty members who are experts in their subject areas. Nearly 90 percent of full-time instructional faculty hold the highest degrees in their field. In addition to their classroom duties, UofL faculty are leading research projects funded at nearly $161 million in federal, local, and private grants for Fiscal Year 2020.

Those same professors share the latest research, techniques, and knowledge with students in the classroom. Faculty and student researchers are aided by leading-edge computer systems and laboratories, including one of the nation's top academic clean rooms where work in bioengineering, nanotechnology and other high-demand fields takes place. They may also gather information from across the ages and around the world through the University Libraries system that offers more than 1.6 million volumes, 100,000 print and electronic journal titles, journal subscriptions, and unique resources through its special collections and archives.

A diverse and active student body enriches the educational experience at UofL. Students of color represent over 25% of student enrollment and international students represent 4.2 percent of total enrollment. While Kentucky students account for the majority of the student population, with over 40 percent coming from Jefferson County, over 20 percent of UofL students are from more than 50 other U.S. states and territories. More than 400 campus organizations help students meet new friends, develop leadership skills and explore new interests. Sports fans are able to enjoy Division I men's and women's athletics; UofL is a proud member of the Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC).

UofL's Belknap Campus is home to eight of its twelve academic schools and colleges: the College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Business, the College of Education and Human Development, the J.B. Speed School of Engineering, the Graduate School, the Brandeis School of Law, the School of Music, and the Kent School of Social Work. The Health Sciences Center, is located in downtown Louisville's medical complex, and is home to the schools of Medicine, Nursing, Dentistry, and Public Health and Information Sciences, along with University of Louisville Hospital and UofL Health - Jewish Hospital. The UofL Health enterprise includes an additional three hospitals, four medical centers, the Frazier Rehab Institute, Brown Cancer Center and nearly 200 physician practice locations.

Policy on Work-Restricted Religious Holy Days

Federal law and University policy prohibit discrimination on the basis of religious belief. It is the policy of the University of Louisville to accommodate students, faculty, and staff who observe religious work-restricted holy days. Students who observe work-restricted religious holy days must be allowed to do so without jeopardizing their academic standing in any course. Faculty are obliged to accommodate students' request(s) for adjustments in course work on the grounds of religious observance, provided that the student(s) make such request(s) in writing during the first two (2) weeks of term.

Deans and department chairs must investigate and resolve student complaints arising from alleged faculty failure to make reasonable accommodation under these guidelines.

A calendar of typical work-restricted holy days is available through the Office of Diversity & Equity (<http://louisville.edu/provost/diversity/policies.html>). Information about specific holidays is also available by phone from the Office of the Provost at (502) 852-6153.

Academic Freedom

Academic institutions in a democratic society exist for the pursuit of truth, the development and conservation of knowledge, the transmission of learning, and the enhancement of the general well-being of such society. Free inquiry and free expression are indispensable to the attainment of these goals. The University of Louisville is, therefore, committed to protecting the academic freedom of all members of the University community.

Freedom to learn and freedom to teach are inseparable facets of academic freedom. Students have a right to their own views on matters of opinion, rather than fact, and a right to express those views in appropriate ways without fear of arbitrary reaction or improper disclosure of such opinions outside the classroom.

Teachers are entitled to full freedom in research, publication, academic evaluation, and classroom expression. Academic freedom carries the corresponding responsibilities to be thoroughly prepared and well informed in their fields of knowledge and to be scrupulous in distinguishing between personal and professional judgments and between fact and opinion.

Membership in the academic community imposes on students, faculty, staff, administrators, and trustees of the University an obligation to adhere to standards of academic honesty, to respect the dignity of others, to acknowledge their right to express differing opinions, and to foster and defend intellectual honesty, freedom of inquiry and instruction, and free expression both on and off the campus.

Americans with Disabilities Act

Americans with Disabilities Act

The University of Louisville (UofL) is committed to providing equal opportunity for persons with disabilities. This commitment includes complying with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA) and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. UofL strives to maintain a barrier-free, welcoming environment for all qualified persons with disabilities.

The university's ADA Coordinator oversees the University's compliance with the ADA and Section 504, and assists unit heads in meeting their equal opportunity obligations. The ADA coordinator is located in the Dean of Students suite in the SAC:

The Disability Resource Center staff (502-852-6938) will assist the University community by serving as an information resource center and coordinating support services for students with disabilities. No otherwise qualified individual with a disability shall, solely by reason of such disability, be excluded from participation in, be denied benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination in university programs. The President, Board of Trustees, Student Government, Faculty and Staff Senates affirm UofL's long standing and continuing commitment to Equal Opportunity for persons with disabilities.

Formal Student ADA Complaint Procedure

The university has a continuing responsibility to monitor and maintain its compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA) and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 504) and their implementing regulations. Internal student complaints alleging non-compliance with the ADA and/or Section 504 should follow the university's complaint procedure (<https://louisville.edu/disability/students/formal-complaint-procedure/>).

The university's formal complaint procedure provides for prompt and equitable resolution of complaints.

Complaints should be directed to the UofL ADA Coordinator at (502) 852-8757 or titleix@louisville.edu.

Filing a Formal Complaint of Disability Discrimination

A complaint must be filed in writing with the Coordinator. The complaint should contain the name and address of the person filing it and a brief description of the alleged violation. Upon receipt of the written complaint, the Coordinator or his designee shall acknowledge receipt within five workdays.

A complaint should be filed within 180 days after the complainant becomes aware of the alleged violation; however, a complaint filed after that point may be investigated in accordance with this procedure as necessary, in the judgment of the ADA Coordinator, to ensure the university's compliance with the ADA and/or Section 504.

An investigation, as may be appropriate, shall follow a filing of complaint. The Coordinator's office shall conduct the investigation. This University complaint procedure involves an informal but thorough investigation, affording all interested persons and their representatives, if any, an opportunity to submit information relevant to a complaint.

Following completion of the investigation, a written determination as to the validity of the complaint and a description of the resolution, if any, shall be issued by the Coordinator's office and a copy forwarded to the complainant and any individually-named respondent within 60 days of the date the complaint was filed. Should extenuating circumstances (e.g., unavailability of key witnesses, family emergency of investigative staff, etc.) prevent completion of the investigation and determination process within 60 days, the complainant and any individually-named respondents will be timely notified in writing, and will be kept apprised of the status of the Coordinator's handling of the complaint through resolution. In all disputes arising under Section 504 or the ADA the proper standard of proof is preponderance of the information (i.e., more likely than not that the violation alleged in the complaint is true).

The Coordinator's Office shall maintain the files and records relating to the complaints filed.

Requesting Reconsideration of a Determination

The complainant (and any individually named respondent, as appropriate) may request a reconsideration if dissatisfied with the Coordinator's determination. The request for reconsideration should be made in written or electronic form within 15 workdays to the Coordinator's Office.

Requests for reconsideration must present information showing that:

- The original determination applied the incorrect standard or applied the applicable standard incorrectly to the facts of the case; or
- New information that might affect the outcome of the determination but was not available to the Coordinator at the time of the original determination is now available and should be considered.

The Coordinator shall, barring extenuating circumstances that preclude a more timely response (in which case the complainant shall be updated as to the status of the reconsideration request), rule upon the request for reconsideration within 15 workdays after receipt of the request.

An Internal ADA complaint does not preclude other remedies.

The right of a person to a prompt and equitable resolution of the complaint filed hereunder shall not be impaired by the person's pursuit of other remedies such as the filing of a discrimination complaint with the responsible federal department or agency. Use of this complaint procedure is not a prerequisite to the pursuit of other remedies, nor does one's pursuit of outside remedies preclude one's filing a complaint pursuant to this procedure.

These rules shall be construed to protect interested persons, to meet appropriate due process standards, and to assure that the university complies with the ADA, Section 504, and their implementing regulations.

Drug-Free Schools and Campuses

Drug-Free Schools and Campuses

Drug-Free Schools and Crime Awareness, Campus Security Information Report 1993, and Communities Act Amendments of 1989

Purpose and Goal

The University of Louisville is committed to protecting the safety, health and wellbeing of all students, faculty, and staff and other individuals in our workplace. As a recipient of federal grants and contracts, the university gives this notice to students, faculty, and staff that it is in compliance with the Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988 (Pub. L. 100-690, Title V Subtitle D) and the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Amendment of 1989. Students, faculty and staff are herein notified of the standards of conduct that will be applicable while on university property, business, and/or at university-sponsored activities. This policy is incorporated and is a part of the official University of Louisville Policies and Procedures.

This policy recognizes that student, faculty, and staff involvement with alcohol and other drugs can be very disruptive, adversely affect the quality of work or academic performance of student, faculty, and staff, pose serious health risks to users and others, and have a negative impact on productivity and morale.

As a condition of employment or enrollment, the university requires that students, faculty, and staff adhere to a strict policy regarding the use and possession of drugs and alcohol. The university encourages students, faculty, and staff to voluntarily seek help with drug and alcohol problems.

Prohibited Behaviors

Under university regulations, federal law, state law, and, in some instances, local ordinance, students, faculty, and staff are prohibited from the unlawful possession, use, dispensation, distribution, or manufacture of illicit drugs on university property, on university business and/or at university-sponsored activities. Under this policy, students, faculty and staff are required to abide by state laws concerning alcoholic beverages.

Kentucky law (<https://apps.legislature.ky.gov/>) (KRS 244.085 (<https://apps.legislature.ky.gov/law/statutes/statute.aspx?id=45137>)) states that, if one is under the age of 21, it is unlawful to:

- Possess or consume alcoholic beverages,
- Misrepresent one's age for the purpose of purchasing alcoholic beverages, or
- Use a fake ID in an attempt to purchase alcoholic beverages.

It is unlawful for anyone of any age to:

- Procure any alcoholic beverages for anyone under 21 years of age,
- Drink or be intoxicated in a public place (Public Intoxication KRS 525.100 (<https://apps.legislature.ky.gov/law/statutes/statute.aspx?id=19929>))

University campuses and buildings are considered as public places for purposes of these laws, except for a facility licensed to serve alcoholic beverages, and a facility used as a private residence, unless university regulations state otherwise. Ordinances of the Greater Louisville area parallel the state laws.

The specifically defined standards of conduct, the disciplinary procedures, and the appropriate sanctions are detailed in the Code of Student Conduct (p. 82), Personnel Policies and Procedures (PER-5.01), Staff Handbook (Disciplinary Action, page 8.2) and The Redbook.

In addition, it is a violation of state law to operate a motor vehicle while under the influence of any substance that may impair one's driving ability (drugs or alcoholic beverages).

Prescription and over-the-counter drugs are not prohibited when taken in standard dosage and/or according to a physician's prescription. Any student, faculty, and staff taking prescribed or over-the-counter medications will be responsible for consulting the prescribing physician and/or pharmacist to ascertain whether the medication may interfere with job or academic performance.

The illegal or unauthorized use of prescription drugs is prohibited. It is a violation of our drug-free workplace to intentionally misuse and/or abuse prescription medications. Appropriate disciplinary action will be taken if job or academic performance deterioration and/or other accidents occur.

Consequences for Violating This Policy

Under university regulation, students who violate this standard of conduct are subject to student conduct action from a warning to expulsion from the University. Students who reside in university housing are subject to further conduct action that may vary from a warning to termination of their housing contract.

Notice of Drug-Related Conviction

In compliance with the Federal Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988, any employee shall notify the immediate supervisor if the employee is convicted of a criminal drug offense occurring in the workplace or while on university business within five days of the conviction. The university shall take appropriate sanction and remedies in accordance within its policies. The provisions of this section are applicable to students who are employees of the university. If the employee is under a federal contract or grant, the university shall notify the contracting or granting agency of the conviction and of its actions. This section of this policy is also applicable to students who receive a Pell grant (federal grant).

Health Risks

The scope and impact of health risks from alcohol and drug use are both alarming and well documented, ranging from mood-altering to life-threatening, with consequences that extend beyond the individual to family, organizations and society at large. The university, therefore, conducts regular programs to educate its students, faculty, and staff that consumption and use of drugs may alter behavior, distort perception, impair thinking, impede judgment, and lead to physical or psychological dependence.

Alcohol and/or drug use may lead to the deterioration of physical health by causing or contributing to various health conditions including but not limited to fatigue, nausea, personal injury, insomnia, pathological organ damage, some forms of cancer, pancreatitis, heart attack, respiratory depression, birth defects, convulsions, coma, and even death. Alcohol and drug use may also result in deterioration of mental health by causing or contributing to various conditions such as increased aggression, hallucinations, depression, disorientation, and psychosis.

Alcohol consumption causes a number of marked changes in behavior. Even low doses significantly impair the judgment and coordination required to drive a car safely, increasing the likelihood that the driver will be involved in an accident. Low to moderate doses of alcohol also increases the incidence of a variety of aggressive acts, including spouse and child abuse.

Moderate to high doses of alcohol cause marked impairments in higher mental functions, severely altering a person's ability to learn and remember information. Very high doses cause respiratory depression and death. If combined with other depressants of the central nervous system, much lower doses of alcohol will produce the effects just described. Repeated use of alcohol can lead to dependence. Sudden cessation of alcohol intake is likely to produce withdrawal symptoms, including severe anxiety, tremors, hallucinations, and convulsions. Alcohol withdrawal can be life-threatening. Long-term consumption of large quantities of alcohol, particularly when combined with poor nutrition, can also lead to permanent damage to vital organs such as the brain and the liver.

Mothers who drink alcohol during pregnancy may give birth to infants with fetal alcohol syndrome. These infants have irreversible physical abnormalities and intellectual disabilities. In addition, research indicates that children of alcoholic parents are at greater risk than other children of becoming alcoholics.

Training, Counseling, and Resources

The University of Louisville is committed to the overall health and well-being of students, faculty, and staff and encourages a compassionate university.

Required online sexual assault prevention and alcohol awareness training programs

Consistent with federal law, UofL requires, as a condition of course registration, that all incoming students complete online sexual assault prevention training and, for students who will be under the age of 21 on the "add" deadline in the semester they matriculate at UofL, alcohol awareness training. Emails are sent to each student's UofL email account (beginning about 5 weeks before their first semester begins) to provide specific directions for accessing the training programs.

The sexual assault prevention course and alcohol awareness course are two separate programs. There is no fee for either program.

Visit the Title IX (<https://louisville.edu/titleix/>) website for more information.

Kentucky Medical Amnesty Law

KRS 244.992 (<https://apps.legislature.ky.gov/law/statutes/statute.aspx?id=42516>) Medical amnesty for persons reporting an alcohol overdose:

(1) A person shall be immune from prosecution for the criminal offenses identified in subsection (2) of this section if:

(a) A law enforcement officer has contact with the person because the person:

1. Requests emergency medical assistance for himself or herself or another person;
2. Acts in concert with another person who requests emergency medical assistance; or
3. Appears to be in need of emergency medical assistance and is the individual for whom the request is made

See KRS 244.992 for full text.

Good Samaritan Consideration

The health and safety of our students is of the highest priority. At times, students may need immediate medical or other professional assistance. However, students may be reluctant to get help because of concerns that their own behavior may be a violation of the Code of Student Conduct (p. 82). Although policy violations cannot be overlooked, the University will consider the positive impact of reporting an incident when determining the appropriate response for policy violations.

Continuous efforts are made to make students, faculty, and staff aware of programs that provide information and professional services on matters related to the abuse of alcohol and drugs.

The Building Resilience In Campus Community (BRICC) Coalition, Counseling Center, Health Promotion Office, The PEACC Center, and the University of Louisville Police Department provide a number of programs and workshops using a tiered approach: a) primary prevention in the form of awareness, skill-building, and risk-reduction for all students and b) targeted presentations for specific high-risk populations.

The University Counseling Center is committed to assisting students with their mental health, personal development, and academic development. Because substance use is often connected to other personal/psychological issues, students coming to the Counseling Center with alcohol and substance use concerns are provided with support, appropriate therapeutic interventions, and referrals when necessary.

History of the University

The University of Louisville can trace its history back to the establishment of the Jefferson Seminary in 1798.

During the early 19th century, the growing importance of water transportation, coupled with a strategic location at the falls of the Ohio River, made Louisville a commercial hub for the South and West. As the city's population and economy advanced, so did its institutions. In 1837 the Louisville Medical Institute opened for its first class, and the next year, the city created the Louisville Collegiate Institute. The two schools had no official connection, but they both manifested the city's dream of intellectual as well as mercantile leadership. In 1844 the Collegiate Institute inherited property from the now-defunct Seminary.

The Louisville Medical Institute attracted large enrollments and prospered financially, but the Collegiate Institute struggled to remain open.

Proponents of grassroots democracy wanted to combine the schools and divert a portion of the medical school's resources to the college. They won a partial victory in 1846 when the General Assembly merged the Medical and Collegiate Institutes as the University of Louisville, but the new charter offered complete vindication to neither interest. It created a common board of trustees, but each division retained financial autonomy. The medical school continued to prosper, but as the liberal arts division struggled and failed to remain open, the newly added law school brought in a respectable number of students.

Most of the professors in the medical and law schools were drawn from the ranks of local physicians and attorneys who considered teaching a part-time vocation. By the 1880s and 1890s, however, the University felt some pressure from the educational reformers who not only believed schools should employ full-time instructors, but also advocated for well-enforced, national standards for academic training. In 1907, this trend contributed to the revival of the College of Arts and Sciences, which had been all but forgotten for most of the 19th century. As the university added new programs such as the Graduate School (1915), School of Dentistry (1918), Speed Scientific School (1925), Louisville Municipal College (1931), School of Music (1932), and Kent School of Social Work (1936), conformity to accreditation guidelines became increasingly important. Expanded academic programs and the adherence to higher educational standards led to the appointment of full-time administrators early in the 20th century.

World War II and the postwar era brought major changes to the University of Louisville. Shortly after the war, a movement began to close the all-black Louisville Municipal College and desegregate the University on all levels. This was accomplished in 1950 and 1951. The School of Business was established in 1953. Perhaps the most dramatic development of the postwar period was the movement of taxpaying citizens from the city to the suburbs. Since the University of Louisville was municipally-funded, this caused a damaging drain on the school's revenue. As early as 1965, a governor's task force suggested the possibility of the University of Louisville joining the state system of higher education, which it did in 1970.

Another major development occurred in 1994, when the Kentucky Council on Postsecondary Education designated University of Louisville as a research university, assigning it a statewide mission in medicine, dentistry, law and urban affairs.

In 1997, the state legislature revised the university's mission statement. University of Louisville was charged with becoming a "premier, nationally recognized metropolitan research university." The state also established the Research Challenge Trust Fund, which pumped more than $118 million into research at University of Louisville, helping the university attract and retain a number of nationally recognized researchers and their teams. The fund, also known as "Bucks for Brains," has helped University of Louisville attract almost $400 million in extramural funding, created 1,500 new jobs and had an economic impact of almost $850 million.

One of the oldest metropolitan universities in the United States, University of Louisville has a long history of dedication to the needs of the Louisville urban area. In 2007, the university reaffirmed that mission through implementation of its Signature Partnership initiative, which formalizes its commitment to improving the lives of residents of some of Louisville's most disadvantaged neighborhoods. University of Louisville faculty, staff and students now support the city through hundreds of programs and partnerships in the areas of health, economic development, education and social and human services. In 2019, the university's presence in West Louisville was expanded to include a newly remodeled building in the Portland neighborhood, dedicated to additional space for the College of Arts & Sciences' Fine Art and Anthropology programs.

Recent years have seen the university set new marks for total degrees awarded, graduation rates, minority enrollments, and average ACT score for entering students. UofL is regularly recognized for its commitments to social justice, diversity and inclusivity, with the university named a national leader for its programs to support and promote veterans, LGBTQ students, minority students, environmental sustainability, and more. The university is the state and national leader in producing Fulbright scholars, with over 120 UofL student-winners since 2003.

The university continues to grow and innovate to meet the changing needs of the Commonwealth. New academic programs and innovative forms of instruction further UofL's place in helping meet the needs of students and of the 21st-century economy. Expanded and improved campus facilities include new housing options, the Student Rec Center, updates to the Floyd Street corridor, expansion and remodeling of the Student Activity Center, expanded and updated facilities on the Health Sciences Campus, and the Belknap Academic Building—over 150,000 square feet of new space including new state-of-the-art classrooms and laboratories, group study areas, gathering spaces, and a Student Success Center—which opened in fall 2018.

2018 also saw the inauguration of Dr. Neeli Bendapudi as university president. Dr. Bendapudi is the university's 18th president and first female permanent president. She leads a university community made up of over 2,500 faculty, 4,400 staff, and 22,000 students, all working together to make UofL a great place to learn, work, and invest.

Disclosures

State Authorization for Distance Education Activities

The University of Louisville seeks to deliver all of our online programs in every state. We work through the State Authorization Reciprocity Agreement (SARA) process and with states directly to ensure that when authorization or licensure is necessary, required approvals are obtained.

SARA is a voluntary agreement that allows states and institutions to offer distance education in other participating states so long as the institution adheres to certain quality and consumer protection standards. More information on SARA can be found at nc-sara.org (<http://www.nc-sara.org>).

The Commonwealth of Kentucky is a member of SARA and UofL is an approved SARA institution. Though SARA authorizes the University to offer its programs in member states, there is the possibility that other state requirements not covered by SARA (such as requirements from state licensing boards) could necessitate the restriction of selected programs in certain states. Please note that should you choose to enroll in a restricted program in a particular state, there may be restrictions that could affect you.

Examples could include:

- You may be unable to sit for local licensing in that state
- You may be ineligible for consumer protection in that state
- You may not be able to complete field placements (practicum, internship, clerkship, etc.) in that state. This could affect licensure or recognition of the degree to meet particular requirements in that state.

Therefore, if you decide to enroll in any of the University of Louisville's restricted programs, or if you move during the course of your studies to a state where your program is restricted, please be aware that you are taking a risk that you may not be able to complete that program or use any of the credit earned in that program should you decide to pursue licensing in that field in that state. Please note that the risks listed above are not exhaustive. Please verify with your state's professional licensing board that your plans are not impacted by these risks before enrolling in an online program.

For more information on online program availability in your state, please visit the State Authorization Regulations (<http://louisville.edu/online/About-Us/state-authorization-regulations/>) page of the UofL online programs website.

Professional Licensure Notifications & Disclosures for Online Programs

Depending on your program, you may be interested in pursuing professional licensure or certification following graduation. Universities are required to disclose professional licensure information to students, and the University of Louisville makes this information publicly available on the Uofl Online website: louisville.edu/online/About-US?tab=disclosures (<https://louisville.edu/online/About-US/?tab=disclosures>).

The University of Louisville strongly recommends that you inquire with your applicable licensing board to determine all of the educational and other requirements for licensure before enrolling in the program. Additionally, you should note that licensing requirements vary by state and relocating could impact whether you will meet eligibility requirements for licensure. Check with the state licensing board where you desire licensure before relocating to ensure that you will be eligible for licensure or reciprocity.

1. teaching diverse undergraduate, graduate, and professional students in order to develop engaged citizens, leaders, and scholars;

Admission to the University of Louisville

Admission Standards

The University of Louisville subscribes to a selective admission policy. Admission for freshman applicants is based on:

1. High school grades,
2. ACT or SAT scores, and
3. Successful completion of the required pre-college curriculum.

Enrollment in the freshman class is limited. Within the limits of space availability, the University will endeavor to accommodate all eligible applicants. However, the number of freshman applications exceeds the number of spaces available in the entering class. For this reason, the selective and competitive admission requirements may exceed the minimum eligibility requirement.

The University of Louisville's minimum eligibility admission policy requires any applicant to have graduated from an accredited high school or received a high school equivalency certificate, have completed the pre-college curriculum, possess a grade point average (GPA) of 2.5, and have achieved at least one of the following:

- The applicant has earned a composite ACT score of not less than 20 or an SAT-I score of not less than 940 (CR+M); or
- The applicant has completed the UofL enhanced pre-college curriculum (PCC) with a minimum GPA of 2.5 on a 4.0 scale. The enhanced PCC consists of an additional two pre-college courses in mathematics, social studies, or science. These two courses may be taken in any combination within the three disciplines. The courses must be at or above the level of prescribed PCC; or
- The applicant ranks in the top 15% of the applicant's high school graduating class upon completing seven or eight semesters in high school.

Freshman applicants who do not meet the selection requirements may have their admission decisions deferred. Admission will be offered first to those applicants with the strongest records and offers will continue until the class is filled. Some factors that are considered during this review are: number and scope of college preparatory, honors and AP classes; strength of senior year schedule; and evidence of marked improvement over time in applicant's academic career. The overriding concern will always be for the student's potential to be successful in meeting the academic expectations at the University.

Students should refer to the individual academic unit admission policies, included in this catalog, for additional admission requirements. Students should be cautioned about the distinction between undergraduate and graduate classifications when applying for admission to the University. For fee purposes, determination of "undergraduate" or "graduate" is based on the school or enrollment unit to which a student is admitted, and not on the level of courses taken.

Minimum Admission Standards for Public Universities in Kentucky (Pre-College Curriculum)

Students who enter one of Kentucky's public universities are required to have completed high school or high school equivalency certificate, and the pre-college curriculum (PCC). These are minimum standards and each university may require additional preparation of its students. The pre-college curriculum is a total of 22 approved units or courses including four units of English, three units of social studies, three units of mathematics (algebra I and II and geometry), two units of foreign language (same language), one half unit of physical education and health, one unit of history and appreciation of visual, performing arts, and 5 credits (3 rigorous) electives.

Students who are non-resident, 21 years of age or older or international are exempt from the PCC requirements.

The University may grant admission by exception to a limited number of the applicants admitted as first-time freshmen. Students admitted by exception will be required to enroll in courses to immediately remedy pre-college curriculum deficiencies.

Additional information and the definition of approved units is available from the Office of Admissions or from guidance counselors or principals in Kentucky high schools.

Applying for Admission

Listed below are the admissions procedures for the various populations and classifications of students.

All admissions credentials for undergraduate students should be mailed to this address:

Department-AO
University of Louisville
Louisville, KY 40292

Entering Freshman Students

Application deadlines are as follows:

- Fall Term: February 15
- Spring Term: November 1
- Summer Term: April 1

First-time freshmen applications and credentials received after the application deadlines listed above will be reviewed on a space available basis.

Students who have never attended any college should seek admission by the following steps:

1. Submit the application online (<http://louisville.edu/admissions/apply/>).
2. Pay the application fee (payable by credit card or electronic check).

3. Mail the university a copy of the high school transcript.
4. Request that test scores from ACT (the American College Testing Program) or SAT (College Board) be sent to the university if they are not posted on the high school transcript.

Students will be notified of their admissibility to the university after receipt of this information.

Early Admissions

Students who apply for admission as a regular student, but do not plan to graduate from high school prior to enrolling in college, are considered early admissions applicants. In addition to submitting an application, high school transcript and ACT or SAT scores, early admissions applicants must submit a statement of motivation for beginning college prior to high school graduation, a letter of recommendation from their high school counselor, and a letter of endorsement from their parent/guardian. Early admissions applicants must also complete an interview with an admissions counselor. Students admitted under this status should be aware that they are not eligible to receive federal or state aid without high school diploma or GED.

Transfer Students

Transfer students are encouraged to apply earlier to allow ample time for evaluation of transcripts, advising, orientation, and registration.

Application Deadline: Transfer applications received at least six weeks prior to the beginning of a term will be given priority. Students transferring from another institution should take the following steps in seeking admission to the university:

1. Submit the application online (<http://louisville.edu/admissions/apply/>) and pay the application fee (payable by credit card or electronic check).
2. Request that the registrar of each institution previously attended forward to the university an official transcript of all work completed or in progress. Failure to declare previous attendance at another institution may result in disciplinary action.
3. Students transferring with fewer than 24 transferable semester hours are required to take the ACT or SAT test if they have not done so previously, and submit a high school transcript. Students with fewer than 24 transferable semester hours must meet the admissions requirements for both new freshmen and transfer students.

All transfer students to the University of Louisville are required to participate in the Transfer Orientation Program. There is a fee for the Transfer Program.

For further Orientation Program information, go to louisville.edu/newcards.

Evaluation of Transfer Credit

For admission as a transfer student, applicants must submit official transcripts from all regionally accredited post-secondary institutions previously attended. The University of Louisville will determine a transfer GPA based upon the coursework completed at previous institutions. The University of Louisville does not transfer in technical or developmental coursework. Courses completed on a quarter system (or another system not based on semester hours) will be converted to semester hours. A student is required to complete 30 of his/her last 36 semester hours at the University of Louisville.

Official transcripts showing all undergraduate work and degrees awarded at every regionally accredited college/university previously attended must be furnished by the degree-seeking applicant. Credits earned at another regionally accredited institution of higher education may be transferred to the University of Louisville. The Transfer Credit Practices report published by the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers (AACRAO) will be the reference used for the evaluation of such credits.

Regional accrediting agencies include: Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools (MSA), North Central Association of Colleges and Schools (NCA-HLC), Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities (NWCCU), New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC-CIHE), Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS), The Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC-ACSCU), and The Western Association of Schools and Colleges – Community and Junior Colleges (WASC-ACCJC).

Applicants with transfer credit from non-regionally accredited institutions may be considered for credit by petitioning for recognition of that credit. Applicants may petition for non-regionally accredited credit by completing the Undergraduate Transfer Credit Appeal Form form (<http://louisville.edu/admissions/apply/transfer/services/course-credit/undergraduate-transfer-credit-appeal-form/>).

Undergraduate applicants who have attended post-secondary schools, colleges, universities, or professional institutions outside the United States must submit their academic records to Educational Credentials Evaluators, Inc. (ECE) or World Education Services, Inc. (WES) for a course-by-course evaluation. It is the applicant's responsibility to submit credentials to ECE or WES and to pay all charges for the evaluation. Only evaluations submitted directly from ECE or WES are accepted.

Additional information regarding transfer credit can be located on the Admissions website. (<https://louisville.edu/admissions/apply/transfer/services/course-credit/>)

ULtra: The University of Louisville Transfer Program

The ULtra program (<http://louisville.edu/ultra/>) combines the commitment and resources of the University of Louisville (UofL), Jefferson Community and Technical Colleges (JCTC), the Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS) and Jefferson County Public Schools (JCPS) so that all Kentucky students have access to a baccalaureate degree.

ULtra is a service for students who choose, or who are advised by UofL Admissions, to begin their academic career at JCTC (or any KCTCS institution) before transferring to UofL to complete a Bachelor's degree. These students are encouraged to complete an Associates' degree before transfer, but may transfer after completing 24 college credit hours with a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.0 (GPA requirements for some degree programs may be higher). ULtra is located on the JCTC Downtown campus and provides transfer-specific advising and admissions for UofL degree programs, connections to UofL, mentoring and assistance with the transfer process. Students interested in ULtra can learn more about programs, transfer coursework and opportunities by visiting louisville.edu/ultra (<http://louisville.edu/ultra/>) or by calling (502) 213-4538.

Re-enrolling Students

If a student has a break in enrollment of two or more calendar years, that student must apply for readmission to an enrollment unit, and if admitted, will be subject to catalog requirements in effect at the time of readmission. Students who were not enrolled during the immediate past semester, but were enrolled within the last two calendar years, and who wish to continue in the school and program in which they were last registered are eligible to re-enroll. They need to complete the request to re-enroll form at the advising center of their academic unit or at the Registrar's Office. Students completing the re-enrollment process are eligible for early registration for the term in which they wish to return. Students whose last enrollment status was visitor, high school visitor, suspended or who were dismissed, must reapply. Students last enrolled in University College, Allied Health or Transitional Studies must also reapply through the Office of Admissions since these units are no longer in existence.

Visitors

Visiting students are those individuals who are pursuing a degree from another institution, but who plan to enroll at the University of Louisville for one semester. Submit the application online (<http://louisville.edu/admissions/apply/>) and pay the application fee (payable by credit card or electronic check) for each semester you plan to attend.

Applicants to the Speed School of Engineering or College of Business must also include transcripts.

High School Visitors

A senior student who is presently enrolled in high school and who wants to take one or more college courses prior to graduating from high school will be considered a high school visitor. These students must submit an application, application fee, high school transcript, test scores (ACT, PSAT, or SAT), and a letter of recommendation from their high school counselor. Students who have not completed the first part of their junior year should contact the Office of Admissions for information concerning additional requirements for admission.

International Student Applicants

There are essentially three areas of concern for international applicants. They are:

1. Successful completion of a strong, quality academic program.
2. Proficiency in the English language.
3. Ability to demonstrate financial resources.

Students who are not U.S. citizens or immigrants will need to submit an admissions application to the Office of Admissions and financial documents to the International Center. The application provides information concerning the student's academic background and educational goals. First-time freshmen applicants and transfer applicants with less than 24 hours are not required to submit ACT or SAT scores, unless applying to the School of Music or Speed School of Engineering. Applications should be received by the Office of Admissions well in advance of the desired enrollment date in order to allow adequate time for processing. International student applicants should refer to the following list of application priority deadlines:

- Fall Semester: May 1
Term begins late August
- Spring Semester: November 1

Term begins early January

- Summer Semester: April 1
Various terms begin in May, June and July

When all required credentials have been submitted, the application will be reviewed by the Office of Admissions. Once an admissions decision has been made, the student will be notified.

International students applying to undergraduate programs will need to submit official transcripts of records from all secondary schools, universities, colleges, or professional schools attended. If official transcripts are not in English, you will also need to submit notarized English translations of your records. All post-secondary work must be submitted to Educational Credentials Evaluators, Inc. (ECE) or World Education Services, Inc. (WES) for a course-by-course evaluation. It is the applicant's responsibility to pay all charges for the evaluation. An application for evaluation and a brochure describing ECE's or WES's procedures, services and fees is available upon request from the Office of Admissions.

Continuing Studies

Continuing Studies is a non-degree granting unit that admits adult students who want to take courses on a part-time basis for personal enrichment or professional development. Students can earn college credit, but are not admitted into a degree program. In order to be eligible to apply to Continuing Studies, students must be at least 22 years old and have a high school diploma or high school equivalency certificate issued by a state department of education.

Continuing Studies students may enroll for a maximum of 8 hours in any semester or summer session. Students are required to maintain a 2.0 grade point average. Continuing Studies students are not eligible to receive state or federal financial aid.

Students may remain in Continuing Studies until they accumulate 24 credit hours. Students with 24 credit hours must apply for admission and be accepted by a degree-granting unit of the University if they wish to continue their course work.

University Orientation Programs

All new freshmen to the University of Louisville are required to participate in the Summer Orientation program during the months of May, June and July. Orientation is a two-day overnight program where new students will have the opportunity to interact with other new and current students, meet with an academic advisor for one-on-one counseling and be introduced to faculty and staff from across campus. Information regarding summer orientation is sent via email in the March and April previous to your enrollment. Please note it is mandatory that new freshmen attend an orientation program. Students must register for summer orientation via the orientation website. There is a fee for summer orientation.

Students admitted as post-baccalaureates, visitors, readmits, or intra-university transfers are not required to attend an orientation program.

Post-Baccalaureate Admissions

Students who hold at least a bachelor's degree and plan to enroll for undergraduate courses, but are not pursuing a second undergraduate degree are considered to be post-baccalaureate applicants. These students need to submit an official transcript certifying at least a bachelor's degree, an application for admission and any applicable application fee.

Online Courses and Programs

UofL offers approximately 40 degrees, certificates and endorsements fully online and nearly 700 courses from 8 colleges. Last year, more than 8,700 students took at least one online course and more than 1,700 students were enrolled in online programs. Online courses and programs are developed and taught by UofL faculty. In 2019, several of UofL's online programs were highly ranked by U.S. News and World Report. UofL is a military-friendly institution and most online programs offer a special tuition rate to active-duty service members.

University of Louisville's online courses are delivered through a user-friendly online learning platform, Blackboard, which allows students and instructors to interact, network and collaborate on class assignments and team projects, exchange thoughts and ideas, or share experiences.

College Readiness Standards

Foreign Language Placement

The study of a foreign language is encouraged and required by some university majors. Students may choose to begin with the first semester in a new language or may choose to determine placement in language studies.

To determine placement, students may complete an online placement test (<http://louisville.edu/modernlanguages/placement-exam/>) in Spanish, French, German or Russian, available at all times. Language exams can be taken on any computer with an Internet connection.

The Office of Testing Services administers the placement tests for Latin only (louisville.edu/testing/foreign-language-placement (<http://louisville.edu/testing/foreign-language-placement/>)).

First-time, first-year students must take a language exam before May 15 each academic year to register for a language course section during Freshman Summer Orientation. To receive course credit for foreign language, see the Extramural Examinations tab on the Alternative Coursework page (p. 54).

If a student has significant experience in a language other than Spanish, French, German, Russian or Latin, the student should contact the Department of Classical and Modern Languages for information on placement or exemption at (502) 852-6686. Information may also be found online (<http://louisville.edu/modernlanguages/language-waivers/waiver-though-testing/>).

Kentucky Administrative Regulation 13 KAR 2:02 (College Readiness Guidelines)

The Commonwealth of Kentucky has regulations for college readiness standards in writing, college reading, and mathematics. Admitted, degree-seeking students below 24 credit hours, and a GPA of at least a 2.00 on a 4.0 scale, who do not achieve the college readiness standards on the ACT sub-scores in writing, college reading, and mathematics or SAT equivalents or the Next-Gen ACCUPLACER placement exams (reading and mathematics) are required by state mandate to complete interventions during their first college year.

Interventions may include the following:

- Enrollment in ENGL 101 and/or an appointment at the University Writing Center.
- GEN 105, which is a corequisite College Reading course linked to entry-level content courses.
- GEN 103 or GEN 104, intervention mathematics course.
- Supplemented MATH 105 or Supplemented MATH 111.

College Writing Placement

The college readiness standard in writing is an ACT Writing sub-score of 18. Students with ACT Writing sub-scores below college readiness will register for ENGL 101 during their first college year.

If these students experience difficulty during ENGL 101, they will be encouraged to use the resources of the University Writing Center for supplemented support.

College Reading Placement

The state-wide, college readiness standard in college reading is an ACT Reading sub-score of 20. All first-year, degree-seeking students admitted with reading deficiencies are required to participate in placement testing and course registration as determined by their placement test results. Transfer students with 24 or more credit hours at the 100 level or above in general education courses with a 2.0 GPA are exempt from reading placement requirements.

Students with an ACT Reading sub-score of less than 20 (or an SAT Critical Reading score of less than 480) MUST take the Next-Gen ACCUPLACER exam.

GEN 105 provides an intervention for college reading. Students who enroll in this course will receive 2 hours each week of supplemented instruction in college reading, critical thinking, and study strategies. Students receive 2 hours of college credit (elective credit only) for GEN 105.

Mathematics Placement

The college readiness standard in mathematics is an ACT Mathematics sub-score of 19. The university determines placement in all entry-level mathematics based on the highest ACT mathematics sub-score. If a student scores above an ACT Mathematics sub-score of 20 or higher, placement will be in a credit-bearing course.

Otherwise, the following sub-scores in mathematics determine placement:

- Students with ACT sub-score of 0–18 are required to complete the Next-Gen ACCUPLACER exam in mathematics. Placement will result in GEN 103, GEN 104, or an entry-level college mathematics course.
- Students with an ACT sub-score of 19–24, but less than the score required for a desired entry-level mathematics course, should complete the Next-Gen ACCUPLACER exam.
- All Engineering students who score below 27 on the ACT mathematics sub-score are required to take the Next-Gen Accuplacer exam before summer orientation. Placement in the correct level of mathematics is determined by your Accuplacer score. Specific information is available online at <https://engineering.louisville.edu/admissions/undergraduateadmissions/test-optional/>.

Students with ACT sub-score of 25–26 who need MATH 205 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=MATH%20205>) have the following options: enroll in the prerequisite MATH 190 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=MATH%20190>) or complete the CLEP Pre-calculus exam.

Students with ACT sub-score of 21–22 whose majors require MATH 111 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=MATH%20111>) are strongly encouraged by their advisors to enroll in a Supplemented Section of MATH 111 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=MATH%20111>). If a section is unavailable, students are encouraged to enroll in GEN 104 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=GEN%20104>).

Students with ACT sub-score of 19 will initially be placed in Special Topics in College Mathematics, which is GEN 103 (for those needing MATH 105 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=MATH%20105>) for their major) or GEN 104 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=GEN%20104>) (for those needing MATH 109 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=MATH%20109>), MATH 111 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=MATH%20111>), or MATH 151 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=MATH%20151>)). Students may take the Next-Gen ACCUPLACER for possible higher placement. Advisors working with students who have this sub-score are obliged to enroll students in the appropriate intervention course.

Speed School of Engineering Mathematics Placement:

Students admitted into the J.B. Speed School of Engineering are placed in the following math courses based on their ACT Math sub-score:

- Students with an ACT sub-score of less than 27 are required to start their studies in the ENGR 190 course.
- Students with an ACT sub-score 27 or above will start their studies in the ENGR 101 course.

Matriculation

Students are admitted to the College of Arts and Sciences on either a matriculated or non-matriculated basis. High school visitors, visiting students from other institutions, auditors, post-baccalaureate students, and students admitted as special students are considered non-matriculated. All other students are considered matriculated. Students planning to earn degrees from the College of Arts and Sciences must be matriculated in order for the credits they have earned to apply toward their degrees.

Students admitted on a non-matriculated basis will be notified by the Office of Admissions of their status and of the conditions of their enrollment at the time they are accepted. Students admitted on a matriculated basis remain matriculated until they graduate, transfer to another college, or are dismissed.

Transfer students who left their last institution in good standing and who have a standing of at least 2.0 on a 4.0 scale may, upon presentation of transcripts and satisfactory test scores (if applicable), request matriculation at the time of applying for admission.

Entering Arts & Science Freshmen Students

Admission for a normal course load is granted to students meeting the following requirements:

- Graduation from an accredited high school with a grade point average of 2.5 or better, or successful completion of the General Education Development (GED) tests.
- Completion of the State of Kentucky's Pre-College Curriculum (detailed in the Admission section (p. 16) of this catalog).
- A composite ACT score at or above the national mean.

Persons with deficiencies in the above areas may be eligible for admission under certain conditions:

1. Exceptionally gifted students who have completed three years of high school may be admitted by action of the College's Admissions and Appeals Committee, provided recommendations from high school counselors and teachers, previous academic records, test scores, and personal interviews indicate the ability to succeed in college-level work.
2. Students with pre-college curriculum deficiencies are, in general, not admissible if they lack two courses in one area or three courses overall. Exceptions are made if the student has a score of 22 (enhanced) or better on the appropriate ACT subtest. Other exceptions must be approved by the College's Admissions and Appeals Committee. Students admitted by action of the Admissions and Appeals Committee will be required to enroll in courses to remove pre-college curriculum deficiencies. All deficiencies must be removed by the time the student completes twenty-four (24) semester hours of degree credit. Deficiencies may be removed by successfully completing courses outlined in the Pre-College Curriculum detailed in the Admission section (p. 16) of this catalog.
3. Students who have a high school grade point average between 2.25 and 2.49 may be admitted if the composite ACT score is 23 or above.
4. Students who have a composite ACT score of 18-19 may be admitted if the high school grade point average is 3.0-3.25 or above.
5. A student whose ACT College Reading score is lower than 20 or whose SAT I verbal score is lower than 470 must participate in the state-mandated Supplemented Study Program in College Reading. During the first semester of enrollment, such students must register for one section of a non-mathematics Cardinal Core course offered with a supplemented college reading course (GEN 105). Specific courses in the supplemented program vary each semester and will be listed in the Schedule of Courses.
6. Students who graduated from an unaccredited high school may be admitted upon satisfactory completion of such examinations as the College faculty may require. For further information, consult the Admissions Office.

Conditional Admission

Students who do not qualify for automatic admission or who cannot remedy deficiencies as prescribed in 1-5 above may be admitted in conditional status if they meet the university's minimum admission standards.

1. Students admitted in conditional status whose ACT College Reading Scores are 18 or below or whose SAT I Verbal Scores are 430 or below, must participate in the state-mandated Supplemented Study Program in College Reading. During their first semester of enrollment, they must register for one section of a non-mathematics Cardinal Core course offered with supplemented study hours each week. Specific courses in the supplemented program vary each semester and will be listed in the Schedule of Courses.
2. Students admitted in conditional status must register for required developmental courses immediately following matriculation and must continue to do so until all deficiencies have been removed.
3. Students admitted in conditional status may register for a maximum of 14 credit hours of coursework in their first semester and 13 credit hours of coursework each semester thereafter until removed from conditional status. Not all courses are suitable for conditionally-admitted students and enrollment restrictions exist. Students should consult their academic advisor regarding courses for which they are eligible to enroll.
4. Students admitted in conditional status must be advised prior to registration each semester until removed from conditional status.

Students will be removed from conditional status when the following requirements have been met:

1. Successful completion of GEN 100 Student Success Center First Year Experience or GEN 101 Arts & Sciences First Year Experience;
2. Successful completion of all required developmental courses;
3. A grade point average of 2.0 or better on all college level courses; or
4. Completion of 24 degree applicable hours with a GPA of 2.0 or above.

Students not meeting the requirements for admission may be admitted on a non-matriculated basis as special students by consent of the Dean or by action of the Admissions and Appeals Committee. Special students must pay the regular fees. Special students may not become candidates for degrees except by subsequently satisfying the requirements for admission on a matriculated basis.

High School Visitors

The College offers qualified high school students the opportunity to earn college credits by enrolling in selected freshman-level courses (i.e., courses at the 100- or 200-level). The program is open to high school seniors and, in exceptional cases, to juniors. In order to be admitted as a high school visitor, a student must submit an application, a high school transcript showing minimum grade point average of 3.0, test scores on the ACT or SAT in the top 70th percentile, and a recommendation letter from his or her high school counselor or principal. High school visitors may enroll in one or two courses each semester and may earn a maximum of 24 college credits. All grades earned by high school visitors will be recorded on an official university transcript.

Transfer Students

Students who seek admission to the College with credit for work taken at another institution or in another college or school of the University of Louisville are transfer students. Such applicants may be admitted in good standing, admitted in special status, or denied admission.

Admission in good standing requires:

- A grade point average of 2.0 or better on a 4.0 point scale based on all work attempted, excluding developmental courses (see "Transfer Students" in the Admission section (p. 16) of this catalog);
- Good standing at the institution of last attendance, including eligibility to return to that institution;
- Full disclosure of previous attendance in another school or college of this University and/or any other post-secondary institution.

Transfer students with fewer than twenty-four (24) acceptable credits must submit high school transcripts and ACT scores and must meet the requirements for freshmen.

Admission in Special Status

Transfer students not meeting the above criteria may be admitted only in special status by action of the Admissions and Appeals Committee. Such students are subject to the following guidelines:

- Remain in special status with limited load as specified by the Admissions and Appeals Committee for a minimum of 24 semester hours.
- Maintain a minimum 2.0 semester grade point average for the first 24 semester hours attempted in courses applicable to an Arts and Sciences degree.

A student will be removed from special status after 24 semester hours if his/her cumulative grade point average is 2.0 or above.

A transfer student admitted in special status will be suspended if his/her semester grade point average is lower than 2.0 at the end of any semester.

Students ineligible for admission in the College because of disciplinary action in another institution or another school of this University may be ruled eligible for admission to the College by the dean; students who violate the full disclosure requirement will be referred to the Admissions and Appeals Committee for determination of a mandatory withdrawal from the College for a period stipulated by the committee.

Additional Transfer Requirements

To be eligible for a degree from the College of Arts and Sciences, students transferring from a four-year institution must complete at least 30 hours of work applicable to the degree as a student enrolled in the College, including 30 of the final 36 hours and a minimum of 6 credits in the declared major. Students transferring course work from a two-year college are cautioned that a maximum of 60 semester hours of credit from a two-year college may be applied toward the minimum hours required for a baccalaureate degree. The remaining semester hours of the minimum 121 hours required for the baccalaureate degree must be completed at a four-year institution. If a student has earned more than 60 semester hours at a two-year institution, the additional work may, if equivalent, be applied toward fulfillment of general education or other requirements, but will not be applied toward earned hours.

Students must complete at least 50 semester hours of course work numbered 300 or higher. Work from a two-year or community college usually will not apply to this requirement. For this reason, students planning to transfer to this College from a community college or a two-year college are advised to complete the lower-level portion of the College's Cardinal Core requirements and the foreign language series prior to transferring. Courses offered at the 300 level or higher at another institution may not be equivalent to College courses numbered 300 or higher. If a course is accepted in transfer at the 300, 400, or 500 level, however, it will be counted towards the 50 semester hour requirement mentioned above. Students who have transferred to the College should meet with an academic counselor of the Arts and Sciences Advising Center for assistance in evaluating their records for transfer credit.

Transfer Credit Evaluation

The College recognizes appropriate course work done at other accredited universities and colleges and accepts that work according to the principles set forth in the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers Transfer Credit Practices and state law. Transfer work that is college-level, academic in nature, and earned at appropriately accredited institutions will be accepted as credit toward degree, consistent with policies in effect for resident students. Transfer students must be aware that majors and/or programs may require a minimum grade of a C or better for major admission and certain degree requirements.

Work graded on a pass/fail basis as "Pass" will not count toward fulfillment of general education requirements, the language requirement, or requirements specified in the student's major program.

Courses that meet general education requirements may be transferred under course equivalencies established in the Office of Transfer Services. In cases where no equivalency is established, the Office of Transfer Services will direct students to the university academic department, school or college where similar courses are offered for evaluation of transfer credits. Students may also work with advisors in A&S to assist in this process.

Transfer students who wish to major in creative art will be required to submit portfolios before they can take 300-level creative art classes (consult the Department of Fine Arts (<http://louisville.edu/art/Undergraduate/>)).

Foreign Students

Foreign students who have a secondary school record sufficient to predict college success and who demonstrate proficiency in the English language will be admitted to the College of Arts and Sciences. Refer to the Admission section (p. 16) of this catalog for more information about International student admission requirements.

Auditors

Persons not eligible for admission to the College, or not seeking admission for the purpose of taking courses for credit, may receive permission to take courses as auditors. All persons who audit classes must pay the regular fees. Persons whose enrollment in the College was limited to audited courses may not change to a credit basis for any course they are auditing unless they have reapplied for admission to the College and have been admitted prior to the deadline for change of status from audit to credit. Regularly-enrolled students may also enroll in classes as auditors. Permission of instructor is required to enroll as an auditor. Students may not enroll in audit status during the early registration period (See Auditing Courses (p. 58)).

Pre-Unit Students

Students seeking admission to another academic unit of the university who do not satisfy all of that unit's entrance requirements may be admitted to the College of Arts and Sciences as a pre-unit student. Students admitted as pre-unit students are administratively housed in the College until they satisfy all of their intended academic unit's intra-unit transfer requirements. Persons admitted as pre-unit students should consult their desired unit's section of the catalog and/or website for more information about these transfer requirements. Pre-unit students are to be advised in A&S advising in accordance with College policy until they successfully transfer into another unit.

Admission to the College of Business

Students are admitted to the College of Business on either a degree-seeking or non-degree-seeking basis. High school visitors, visiting students from other institutions, auditors, post baccalaureate students, and students admitted as special students are considered non-degree seeking. They will be notified by the Office of Admissions of their status and of the conditions of their enrollment at the time they are accepted. All other students are considered degree-seeking.

Students planning to earn degrees from the College of Business must be degree-seeking in order for the credits they have earned to apply toward their degrees. Students remain in a degree-seeking status until they graduate, transfer to another college or university, or are suspended/dismissed.

Freshman admission to the College of Business BSBA, BSE, or ECON BA programs is granted to those meeting the following requirements:

Either

1. An ACT composite score of 25 or above (SAT 1130 or above), a high school GPA of 3.0 or above, and an ACT Mathematics score of 23 or above (SAT 560 or above)

or

2. An ACT composite score of 22, 23 or 24 (SAT 1020-1120), a high school GPA of 3.3 or above, and an ACT Mathematics score of 23 or above (SAT 560 or above)

ACT composite of 23; ACT Math of 21; High School GPA 2.75

Transfer Students

Students who seek admission to the College with credit for work taken at another institution, or in another college or school in the University of Louisville, are transfer students. Such applicants may be admitted in good standing, in conditional status, or denied admission.

Internal Transfers

Admission in Good Standing

Students with transferable college credit hours must have both:

Earned a 2.8 cumulative GPA (students with an established UofL GPA may not include grades for coursework at another institution in consideration for admission); and completion of MATH 111 College Algebra - QR (or equivalent) or MATH 180 Elements of Calculus - QR for admission to the BSBA, BSE, or ECON BA programs.

Earned a 2.5 cumulative GPA (students with an established UofL GPA may not include grades for coursework at another institution in consideration for admission) for admission to the BBA program.

External Transfers

Admission in Good Standing to the BSBA, BSE, or ECON BA Programs

Students must have the following:

- A grade point average of 2.8 or better on a 4.0 scale based on all work attempted for college credit. (If previously enrolled at UofL, GPA will be calculated only on UofL work attempted for college credit.) (See "Transfer Students" in the Admission section (p. 16) of this catalog);

- Good standing in the institution of last attendance, including eligibility to return to that institution;

- Full disclosure of previous attendance in another school or college of UofL and/or any other post-secondary institution.

Transfer applicants to the College of Business with less than 24 transferable credits from another accredited institution will be required to submit college transcripts, a final high school transcript, and ACT or SAT scores. In addition to meeting the 2.8 transfer college GPA, they must meet all new freshmen requirements for COB applicants with the following exception. Students meeting the high school GPA and composite ACT or SAT requirements, but not meeting the math score requirement can be admitted if they have successfully completed a college math class at the college algebra level or higher.

Transfer applicants to the College of Business with 24 or more transferable credits from accredited institutions must have a 2.8 college GPA and have completed the following course:

MATH 111 College Algebra - QR (or equivalent) or MATH 180 Calculus

Admission in Good Standing to the BBA Program

Students must have the following:

- A grade point average of 2.5 or better on a 4.0 scale based on all work attempted for college credit. (If previously enrolled at UofL, GPA will be calculated only on UofL work attempted for college credit.) (See "Transfer Students" in the Admission section (p. 16) of this catalog);
- Good standing in the institution of last attendance, including eligibility to return to that institution;
- Full disclosure of previous attendance in another school or college of UofL and/or any other post-secondary institution.

Transfer applicants to the College of Business with less than 24 transferable credits from another accredited institution will be required to submit college transcripts, a final high school transcript, and ACT or SAT scores. In addition to meeting the 2.5 transfer college GPA, they must meet all new freshmen requirements for COB applicants.

Other Applicants

Students whose last attendance at UofL resulted in academic suspension must petition for readmission. (See section covering College of Business policy on Academic Status.) Students who were suspended from another institution and/or another fully accredited Business program must petition for admission. Students ineligible for admission in the College because of disciplinary action in another institution or another school of this University may be ruled eligible for admission to the College by petitioning to the College of Business Undergraduate Studies Committee. Students who violate the full disclosure requirement will be referred to the COB Undergraduate Studies Committee for determination of a mandatory withdrawal from the College for a period stipulated by the committee.

Additional Transfer Requirements

To be eligible for a degree from the College of Business, students transferring must:

- Complete at least 30 of the final 36 semester hours applicable to the degree as a student enrolled in the University of Louisville.
- Complete a minimum of 12 credit hours in the declared major at UofL.
- Complete at least 48 hours of coursework numbered 300 or higher. Work from a two-year or community college will not apply to this requirement. For this reason, students planning to transfer to this College from a community college or two-year college are advised to complete only the lower level portion of the College's general education requirements prior to transferring.
- Complete 60 hours at a four-year institution.
- Must earn a 2.0 University GPA and a 2.0 GPA in the major.

Students who have transferred to the College must meet with an academic advisor of the COB Reinhardt Academic Center for assistance in evaluating their records for transfer credit.

The College of Business recognizes appropriate coursework done at other accredited universities and colleges and accepts that work according to the principles set forth in the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers Transfer Credit Practices Guide and state law. Transfer work that is college level, academic in nature, and earned at appropriately accredited institutions will be accepted and posted as credit earned (i.e., with no grade) consistent with policies in effect for resident students. Students must be aware that majors and/or programs may require a minimum of a B-minus or better for certain degree requirements. Students admitted to the COB from other fully accredited institutions will receive credit for academic courses, but the applicability of transfer credit toward a business degree will be determined by the COB Undergraduate Studies Committee. Courses will be evaluated not only based on content but also as to level. Course level is determined by lower division (numbered 100-299) and upper division (numbered 300-499). A transfer business course must have been taken at the same level as the equivalent course at the University of Louisville to meet degree requirements.

Courses that meet general education requirements may be transferred under course equivalencies established in the Office of Transfer Services. In cases where no equivalency is established, the Office of Transfer Services will direct students to the university academic department, school or college where similar courses are offered for evaluation of transfer credits.

Other Admissions

Visiting Students

Visiting students from other institutions who wish to take courses in the College of Business may enroll in non-degree seeking status and must follow the procedure outlined in this catalog (p. 16). Visiting students are not eligible for COB co-ops and must meet all prerequisite requirements.

College of Business students will be allowed to visit other colleges or universities only with written permission of the Reinhardt Academic Center (Frazier Hall, room 024).

Considerations include academic standing (students must be in good academic standing), residency requirement, course equivalency, and number of course credit hours. Total course load cannot exceed 18 hours. Failure to follow these guidelines may result in loss of credit.

Auditors

Persons not eligible for admission to the College, or not seeking admission for the purpose of taking courses for credit, may request permission to take courses as auditors. Permission of the Department Chair is required to enroll as an auditor. All persons who audit classes must pay the regular fees. Persons whose enrollment in the College was limited to audited courses may not change to a credit basis for any course they are auditing. Regularly enrolled students may also enroll in classes as auditors. Students may not enroll in audit status during the early registration period.

Admission Requirements

The School of Dentistry offers the Bachelor of Science in Dental Hygiene.

Admission into the Dental Hygiene program is a tiered process: Lower and Upper Divisions. Students apply to the UofL Lower Division to complete general education and program pre-requisite courses on the Belknap Campus. Students must apply to the Dental School Upper Division to complete the professional component of the Bachelor of Science Dental Hygiene Degree Program on the HSC Campus.

All applicants should refer to the information included in the University of Louisville catalog relative to general admission policies. Admission to the Lower Division does not guarantee admission to the Upper Division. Admission to the Upper Division is competitive.

Visit our website for more information (<http://louisville.edu/dentistry/degrees/hygiene/>). (<http://louisville.edu/dentistry/degrees/hygiene/>)

Admission to the Lower Division

Students may be admitted directly to the UofL Dental Hygiene Program Lower Division (pre-professional) if the minimum admission standards and university deadlines are met. Applications must be submitted to the Office of Undergraduate Admissions and are available online. Students admitted to the Lower Division may also qualify for the program's Guaranteed Early Admission to the Professional Program. Information regarding early admission and general admission standards are found below and online (<http://louisville.edu/dentistry/degrees/hygiene/>).

Admission in Good Standing

To be admitted to the UofL Lower Division in good standing, beginning freshmen and transfer applicants with less than 24 hours must meet the following requirements:

- Graduation from an accredited high school with a grade point average of 2.8 or higher, have a GED, or equivalent by petition (for example, home school education).
- Completion of the pre-college curriculum
- Composite ACT score of not less than 21 or 20 with a GPA of 3.0 or above

University of Louisville Students Changing Majors

Students who have completed at least one semester in another school of the University earning a grade point average of at least 2.8, and have a cumulative grade point average of 2.8 or above for all college coursework may apply to the Lower Division Program in Dental Hygiene. They must complete an online change major application (<https://louisville.edu/provost/iut/>) in ULink.

Students admitted through this process must be advised before registering for courses in their first semester in the dental hygiene lower division pre-professional curriculum.

Transfer Students

Transfer applicants with 24 credit hours or more must have a college cumulative grade point average of 2.8 or higher to be admitted to the Lower Division in good standing. Students transferring into the Lower Division must submit ACT or SAT scores when applying.

Transfer Grade Acceptance

The University of Louisville recognizes appropriate course work completed at other accredited universities and colleges and accepts that work according to the principles set forth in the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers Transfer Credit Practices and state law. Transfer credit hours that are college-level, academic in nature, and earned at appropriately accredited institutions will be accepted and posted as credit hours earned (i.e., with no grade or quality points) and will be accepted as credit toward degree, consistent with program requirements in the Dental Hygiene Program. All graded transfer credit hours, however, will be used for Upper Division admission purposes.

Transfer Equivalency Determination

Courses that meet general education and program requirements may be transferred under course equivalencies established in the Office of Transfer Services. It is the student's responsibility to read the catalog, student handbooks, and official notices (e.g., University of Louisville School of Dentistry Dental Hygiene Program website and emails) to be informed about credits, requirements, and to abide by the regulations of the University and the School of Dentistry.

Early Admission to the Upper Division

Each year, the dental hygiene admissions committee may reserve space in each dental hygiene upper division cohort for offers of early admission. Matriculation is conditional upon the successful completion of program prerequisites and maintenance of specific academic criteria given at time of conditional acceptance. Students must still complete admission requirements of the upper division, including completion of the DHCAS application to the upper division. Students forfeiting their conditional offer of early admission may still apply for admission to the upper division with the traditional competitive applicant pool. Students interested in early admission to the upper division are encouraged to contact the program academic counselor for more details on how to apply.

Admission to the Upper Division

Admission to the Upper Division is competitive. Admission to the Lower Division does not guarantee admission to the Upper Division. To be considered for admission, applicants meeting the below minimum requirements may be eligible to apply. Advising to evaluate applicant readiness is encouraged for all students and required for freshman students. Applicants meeting the minimum academic requirements are not guaranteed admission to the program.

Course Requirements

- Minimum 2.8 cumulative GPA (based on all college courses completed at accredited post-secondary institutions, as listed on all official transcripts).
- Have completed or be in the process of completing 54 credit hours of degree applicable courses, including specified general education and program pre-requisites. Students must have courses completed prior to the start of the professional program. Transfer students are encouraged to review course equivalency for verification.

Additional Admission Requirements

3. UofL DHL students need only submit application through DHCAS.

Upper Division Transfers from Another Dental Hygiene Professional Program

The University of Louisville School of Dentistry considers Upper Division Dental Hygiene transfer students (coming from professional study in another dental hygiene program) on a case-by-case basis. Only individuals who are in good standing at their present dental hygiene school (or were in good standing when they left) are considered to be eligible as a transfer student. Upper Division transfers students will be required to meet with the program director for academic review and recommendation.

Website: louisville.edu/kent (<http://louisville.edu/kent/>)

Admission Requirements

Persons interested in admission to the Raymond A Kent School of Social Work and Family Science should contact the BSW Program. We encourage potential applicants to consult the BSW page on the Kent School website (<http://louisville.edu/kent/academics/bachelor-of-science-in-social-work/>). If you wish to discuss the application process in person, you may contact the BSW Program to make an appointment.

Kent School seeks mature students with a demonstrated ability to work with people, emotional stability, good interpersonal skills, and the ability to perform well academically. To ensure that entering students meet these standards, the faculty has established the following guidelines.

Once students are accepted by University of Louisville's Admission Office and declare a major as Social Work, they are admitted to the University as lower division students. However, admission to lower division does not guarantee admission to the upper division Social Work Program.

Criteria for Admission to the Lower Division Social Work Program Admission in Good Standing

To be admitted to the lower division, beginning freshmen must meet the following requirements:

- Graduate from an accredited high school with a grade point average of 2.5 or higher; have a GED, or equivalent by petition (for example, homeschool education); and
- Completion of the pre-college curriculum; and
- Achieve a composite ACT score of 20 or higher.

Transfer Students

Transfer applicants with 24 hours or more must have a college grade point average of 2.5 or higher to be admitted in good standing. Transfer students without these may apply for conditional admissions.

Change of Major (Intra-University Transfer) Students

Students who have completed at least one semester in another school or college of the University of Louisville and have a grade point average of at least 2.5 and have a cumulative grade point average of 2.8 or above for all college coursework may apply for an intra-university transfer to the lower division of the BSW Program. They must complete an online Change Major form that can be found on Ulink. Students admitted through this process must be advised before registering for courses in their first semester in the lower division curriculum.

After completion of 45 hours of college credit, they may be considered for admission to the Social Work Program. Admission to the upper division Social Work Program is conducted without discrimination on the basis of race, color, gender, age, creed, ethnic or national origin, disability, or sexual orientation. If the students have no para-professional work history, they are encouraged to pursue extensive volunteer experience prior to application.

Criteria for Admission to the Upper Division Social Work Program

Prior to application for admission to the Social Work Program, students must have:

- Earned 45 semester hours of college credit;
- A minimum cumulative GPA of 2.5 on a four-point scale.

Current UofL Students

Current university students must:

- Contact the BSW Program at bswkent@louisville.edu to declare Social Work as a major.
- Supply two letters of reference supporting the student's application and providing information about character, maturity, stability, achievements, interactional skills and special qualities. These letters may come from professors, high school teachers, counselors, supervisors, professional social workers, and other professionals, but not from relatives of the student.
- Submit a 700–1000-word personal statement with the application. The personal statement (double-spaced, 12-point font) should address the following topics: a) your commitment to the goals, purposes, ethics and values of social work; and b) the intellectual and personal qualifications that will enable you to practice social work successfully.

Note: If there are gaps or deficiencies in your academic record, please address these in an addendum to your statement.

- A signed and dated Secondary Application Form including: the Statement of authenticity, Release and Waiver for admissions and student records, Ethical Standard of Behaviors, program plan selection, and if applicable transfer degree information.
- Current resume that includes the following information: any places of employment and volunteer experiences that you have had in the last 2 years including place of employment or volunteer activity, dates of employment or volunteer experience, job title or position held, description of job responsibilities.

If you have been convicted of a felony, please include a description of the circumstances and outcomes of the conviction. Please note that prior convictions for criminal offenses may preclude one's ability to be licensed as a social worker in many states. In addition, many practicum sites require background checks and periodic drug screenings. Any negative findings that affect agency placement may also prevent successful completion of the requirements for the degree. Applicants and students should consider these barriers in their educational planning.

Applications to the upper division are accepted based on the following deadlines:

Online program: Priority Deadline, February 1; Final Deadline, May 1

Submit the above materials to:

If you apply on-line at the above website, you must also pay your application fee on-line with a credit card or check. Note: Paying your application fee with a check will delay the process for 8 days.
- Provide an official academic transcript from each college/university you have attended, including those at which you were enrolled for academic credit as a non-degree student and/or credits, which you transferred to another college. All transcripts must bear the official seal and signature of the institution attended. You must request these transcripts directly from the Registrar or appropriate officer of each institution. UofL transcripts are provided automatically for applicants who have attended UofL. Applicants must have earned 45 semester hours of college credit and have a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.5 on a four point scale.
- The Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) is required for applicants whose native language is not English. A test link to the TOEFL is available at louisville.edu/student/services/testing/index.html (<http://louisville.edu/student/services/testing/>).

- International students may be required to have their transcripts evaluated by a credential evaluation service in the U.S. Two possible services include World Education Services, Inc., at wes.org (<http://www.wes.org>) and Educational Credential Evaluators at ece.org (<https://www.ece.org>). Students may be required to participate in a brief telephone interview as part of the admission process. When completing the I-20, students should note that they will be placed in a practicum as part of their education. Admitted students should visit the International Center when they arrive on campus to obtain the proper immigration documentation necessary to begin the practicum.

Transfer students need to send all of the aforementioned documentation to:

Note: If there are gaps or deficiencies in your academic record, please address these in an addendum to your statement.

Each applicant is required to add the following statement to the beginning of their personal statement accompanied by the applicant's signature and date of the signature:

Academic dishonesty is prohibited at the University of Louisville. In keeping with this policy, I certify the material contained in this application is solely my work and that I have neither cheated nor plagiarized in its creation.

If you have been convicted of a felony, please include a description of the circumstances and outcomes of the conviction. Please note that prior convictions for criminal offenses may preclude one's ability to be licensed as a social worker in many states. In addition, many practicum sites require background checks and periodic drug screenings. Any negative findings that affect agency placement may also prevent successful completion of the requirements for the degree. Applicants and students should consider these barriers in their educational planning.

Admission to the School of Music

School of Music

Louisville, KY 40292

Phone: (502) 852-6907

Email: gomusic@louisville.edu

Website: louisville.edu/music/ (<http://louisville.edu/music/>)

Social: Facebook (<http://www.facebook.com/uoflmusic/>)

Admission Requirements

Every prospective School of Music student must successfully audition and submit the following before a formal admission recommendation is made:

1. A completed application for admission to the University of Louisville, including the application fee
2. A completed School of Music Application for Financial Aid (optional)
3. Official high school/college transcript
4. Scores from the American College Testing (ACT) Program (required for all full-time applicants who have earned fewer than 24 acceptable semester credit hours in a college or university)
5. Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). If English is not your native language, you must verify your English proficiency by submitting official, satisfactory scores (550 or higher for paper-based test, 213 or higher for computer-based test, or 79-80 on the internet-based test), or a score of 6.5 on the IELTS exam, or by successful completion of the Intensive English as a Second Language (IESL) program at the University of Louisville, and
6. Names and contact information of two references, at least one of whom must be a music professional who has taught or directed the student (private teacher, high school teacher, ensemble director, etc.); the other may be another music professional or a high school teacher of a different subject.
7. Although each student must play or sing a performance audition for the School of Music, applicants to the BM program with emphasis in Composition must also submit a portfolio of work that includes the following: three or four samples of original compositions, along with recordings of the same works, if possible. Evidence of experience using various instrumental and/or vocal combinations is helpful.
8. In addition to the instrumental/voice audition, the successful music theory applicant will submit a portfolio containing three items: a) an essay of 500 words or more about a piece of music, which can be an analysis, a set of program notes, or a description of what you like about the piece; and b), one of the following: a composition (either stylistic or original; please send score and recording), a melody harmonization for four voices, a figured bass realization, or a 2-voice mixed species counterpoint example; and c), a short essay (100-200 words) detailing why you want to study music theory. Students who have questions about what to submit in the portfolio should feel free to ask questions before submitting.

9. Because the field of Music Therapy requires the therapist to sing to patients/clients, a demonstration of functional vocal ability must accompany the application of all non-voice principle majors. Applicants must submit a video recording of themselves singing two solo songs of contrasting styles. These songs do not need to be memorized, can be very simple, and may be accompanied by an instrument or sung a cappella. The video must be sent via YouTube for evaluation by the faculty. Please email the YouTube/video links to gomusic@louisville.edu by February 27.

Students admitted on probation/conditionally must be in good standing after one or two semesters (as indicated in the acceptance letter), or they will be dismissed and not allowed to continue pursuing a degree in music.

All recommendations are pending the student meeting minimum admission requirements of the School of Music (2.75 GPA and 21 ACT).

Note: Admission to Teacher Education requires 21 ACT. Students must apply to Teacher Education in the second semester of their sophomore year (February 1 application deadline). Failure to be admitted to Teacher Education will delay a student's ability to take advanced classes in music education and teacher education.

In addition to singing 2 songs, you will be asked to sing at sight a short musical example. There may also be a tonal memory evaluation in which you will sing back a few brief sequences of intervals that have been played on the piano. These are diagnostic exercises that help in assessing your level of musical security and independence. Note: vocal auditions may be video recorded.

Community College Transfer Limits Policy

For bachelors' degrees, students must present at least sixty (60) semester credit hours earned at four-year institutions. Students must also meet residency requirements.

Special Students

Students sixteen years of age or over who have not satisfied the requirements for admission as candidates for degrees may, by special consent of the Dean, be admitted upon payment of the regular fees. Such special students cannot become candidates for degrees until they have satisfied admission requirements for the degree desired.

Re-enrolling Students

If a student has a break in enrollment of two or more calendar years, that student must apply for readmission to the School of Music, and if admitted, will be subject to catalog requirements in effect at the time of readmission. Students who have not taken applied music for one or more calendar years must re-audition in their major applied area. Bachelor of Arts students who have completed their applied music requirements are exempt, unless they plan to continue applied music study.

Students who were not enrolled during the immediate past semester, but were enrolled within the last two calendar years, and who wish to continue in the school and program in which they were last registered, are eligible to re-enroll. They need to complete a re-enrollment form at the School of Music or the Registrar's Office.

Students completing the re-enrollment process are eligible for early registration for the term in which they wish to return. Students whose last enrollment status was visitor, high school visitor, conditional, or who were dismissed, must reapply. Students last enrolled in University College or Transitional Studies must also reapply through the Office of Admissions since those units are no longer in existence.

Transfer Grade Acceptance

The University of Louisville recognizes appropriate course work done at other accredited universities and colleges and accepts that work according to the principles set forth in the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers Transfer Credit Practices and state law.

Transfer work that is college-level, academic in nature, and earned at appropriately accredited institutions will be accepted and posted as credit earned (i.e., with no grade) and will be accepted as credit toward degree, consistent with policies in effect for resident students. Students must be aware that majors and/or programs may require a minimum of a C or better for certain degree requirements. Individual units or programs may set higher standards in accepting transfer grades, which supersede those indicated here.

The School of Music does not accept transfer grades below a C. No credit is transferred for applied music or theory. Advanced standing for applied music may be awarded at a jury. Advanced standing for theory is awarded by examination. Music history credits are evaluated for transfer by the Music History faculty. Recital Attendance credits may be transferred. Principal ensemble credits may be transferred, but not to exceed one per semester. Those with Recital Attendance transfer credits or documented ensemble experiences or courses will be evaluated on an individual basis by the Dean's Office.

Transfer Equivalency Determination

Transfer equivalencies are determined by the instructional unit or the "best fit" unit as determined by the Office of the University Provost. Courses that meet general education requirements may be transferred under course equivalencies established in the Office of Transfer Services. In cases where no equivalency is established, the Office of Transfer Services will direct students to the university academic department, school, or college where similar courses are offered for evaluation of transfer credits.

Admission to the Lower Division

Students may be admitted directly to the School of Nursing's lower division (pre-professional) if the minimum admission standards and university deadlines are met. Admission applications must be submitted to the Office of Undergraduate Admissions. Applications are available on line through the university's website. Admission to the lower division (pre-professional) does not guarantee admission to the upper division (professional curriculum).

University of Louisville Students Changing Majors

Students who have completed at least one semester in another school of the University of Louisville and have a minimum college grade point average of 2.8 may apply to the School of Nursing. They must complete an online change of major form that can be found on the university website. Students admitted through this process must be advised before registering for courses in their first semester in the nursing program.

Admission to the Upper Division

Traditional BSN Degree

Admission to the upper division is selective.

Students that are admitted into the upper division professional nursing curriculum will be required to meet all clinical compliance requirements prior to entering any clinical facilities.

To be considered for admission, applicants must:

- Have completed the lower division (pre-professional) curriculum or be in the last semester of completion (see Degree Programs- Nursing).
- Have earned a minimum cumulative undergraduate grade point average of 2.8. The cumulative grade point average for admission to upper division nursing is calculated based on all course work completed at accredited post-secondary institutions. Transfer credit and transfer GPA is determined by the Office of Transfer Articulation in the Office of Undergraduate Admissions.
- Have earned a minimum lower division (pre-professional) program grade point average of 3.0. The lower division program grade point average is based on required lower division curriculum course work as determined by the nursing faculty.

- Earn a C or higher in required sciences, nutrition, math, English, and nursing courses. Science courses must have been completed within the last 10 years. Students must submit an application for acceptance of sciences taken prior to the last 10 years to the School of Nursing Office of Student Services. Appropriate faculty and/or administrators will review the request. Consideration will only be given to those with experience in the science in which exception is being requested. Transfer credit for science courses taken prior to the last 10 years will be evaluated on an individual basis. There can be no outstanding incomplete grades prior to beginning nursing courses.

Students admitted as a first-time University of Louisville freshman will have 0.2 points added to their program grade point average for ranking during review of upper division applications.

Applying to the Upper Division

To apply to the upper division, a student must:

- Submit a University of Louisville Undergraduate Application if new to UofL or submit an online change of major form if already enrolled in a school other than the School of Nursing at UofL.

- Applications and credentials must be received by the following deadlines:
  - May 1 for Fall admission - traditional program
  - September 15 for Spring admission - traditional program

NOTE: An unsatisfactory background check may prevent a student from being admitted into the program and/or licensed as a registered nurse. Questions regarding licensing should be addressed with the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

The appropriate undergraduate committees must evaluate applicants for acceptance to an upper division clinical cohort. The committee decision will be communicated to the applicant in writing. Admissions are contingent on successful completion of the lower division (pre-professional) curriculum. Accepted students will receive a letter of agreement stating the anticipated start date, the conditions for accepting the space, and consequences of failing to keep the space. The letter of agreement must be signed and returned within 10 working days of receipt to assure a space in the upper division clinical cohort. All qualified students who meet admission criteria but are not accepted into the requested upper division clinical cohort due to space constraints should meet with their advisor.

Additional Transfer Student Information

Awarding of transfer credit

A student may earn college credit through a variety of mechanisms. Therefore, students seeking advanced standing through transfer of credit should seek advice from the Office of Student Services, School of Nursing, as soon as possible. Individual evaluations include:

1. Courses from accredited colleges and universities.
2. Course descriptions and outlines.
3. CLEP examinations.
4. Advanced Placement examinations.
5. Portfolio documentation, RN-BSN program only. Students in the RN-BSN program will receive 30 college credits from the university after successful completion of the portfolio course.

8. Other transfer courses are evaluated on an individual basis for currency and equivalency to required courses in the nursing curriculum. Science, English, and nursing courses taken at another college or university must have been passed with a grade of C or better in order to be transferred into the nursing curriculum. Generally, only courses equivalent to pharmacology and pathophysiology can be transferred into the School of Nursing degree program.

Transfer Policy for Students Transferring from Other Schools of Nursing

Applicants transferring from other schools of nursing will submit complete course syllabi and appropriate supporting documents to the School of Nursing Office of Student Services. These documents must be submitted at least six weeks prior to the application deadline. Syllabi and supporting documents will be reviewed by selected faculty and Office of Student Services staff for the purpose of evaluating course equivalency to University of Louisville courses. Course equivalency must be confirmed prior to admissions. When courses are approved, they become the course of record for that academic year. Nursing courses that have been approved for equivalency will remain equivalent for varying periods of time depending on the course. Nursing courses must be satisfactorily completed at an NLN or CCNE accredited nursing program in order to be considered as equivalent and transfer into the upper division curriculum.

A student who has previously failed two nursing courses at any school of nursing will not be eligible for admission to the Traditional BSN program.

If a student has a previous nursing course failure, it will be considered the first failure by the University of Louisville Traditional BSN program. One additional failure of a nursing course at the University of Louisville will result in dismissal from the program.

Academic Support University Libraries

The extensive library system at the University of Louisville is designed to support undergraduate and graduate research; broad, university scholarship; and student and faculty success.

To these ends, the University Libraries provide services ranging from materials check-outs, research assistance, inter-library loans and course reserves to loans of laptops, camcorders and flash drives. The libraries also provide study spaces, meeting rooms and presentation spaces. They house UofL resources like the Writing Center, the Delphi Center, and the Teaching Innovation Learning Laboratory (TILL). Ultimately, University Libraries serve as academic common spaces for all students, faculty, and staff.

The University Libraries consist of:

- Ekstrom (Main) Library,
- Archives and Special Collections,
- The Margaret Bridwell Art Library,
- The Louis Brandeis Law Library,

- The Dwight Anderson Memorial Music Library, and
- The Kornhauser Health Sciences Library.

The Libraries' collections are extensive. Total holdings exceed 2.2 million printed volumes; subscriptions to both print and electronic journals surpass 90,000. E-books, microfilm, and other formats such as DVDs are also included in the collection. Most of these materials can be found using the library's website (<https://louisville.edu/library/>).

In addition, the Libraries subscribe to over 300 online information databases in a wide variety of subject areas.

ARTS & SCIENCES, HUMANITIES, & MUSIC SUPPORT

The Learning Resource Center (BACB 248 and 250)

Scheduled Tutoring offers students small group tutoring sessions each week for many 100-, 200-, and some 300-level courses. These sessions provide guided study and review of course material. Tutoring sessions are scheduled for 60-minute recurring, weekly sessions. Online tutoring sessions are also available, and scheduled drop-in hours are available for select science lab courses, select languages, and other courses. Find more information on scheduling on the REACH website (<https://reach.louisville.edu/tutoring/tutor-scheduled.html>)

Peer Assisted Learning (PAL) provides weekly class and exam review sessions for specific courses that are historically difficult for students. PAL facilitators work closely with the faculty of these courses to integrate how to learn with what to learn. PAL is voluntary and free, with sessions designed to assist small and large groups of students. Find more information about Peer Assisted Learning (<http://reach.louisville.edu/tutoring/tutor-PAL.html>) on the REACH website

Individual Tutoring is available for students who have documented physical or learning disabilities and need accommodated tutoring sessions. Documentation must be provided to REACH from the Disability Resource Center at the time of a student's request. Students receive individualized tutoring and additional tutoring time in scheduled onsite or online appointments each week. Find more information on tutoring on the REACH website (<http://reach.louisville.edu/tutoring/>)

Language Conversation Tables offer students conversation opportunities for practice in speaking a new language. Tables vary each semester, but may include Spanish, French, Arabic, ASL, German, and others. These sessions offer additional practice to prepare for the classroom and real-world scenarios. Available tables and meeting schedules are available on the REACH website (<https://reach.louisville.edu/tutoring/tutor-conversations.html>).

Academic Coaching helps students who want to improve their academic and self-management skills, such as time management, organization, test taking, study skills, and life skills. Students develop a personalized goals and work with our coaches to develop self-advocacy and become independent, life-long learners. Learn more on our website (<https://reach.louisville.edu/programs/academic-coaching/>).

Special Topics in Supplemented College Reading (GEN 105 ) (BACB 248) helps first-time, first-year, and transfer students with less than 24 credit hours who are admitted to the university with identified college reading deficiencies. Under Kentucky state law, identified students are required to register for a section of GEN 105 (2 credit hours) in their first college semester. Find more information on GEN 105 on the REACH website (<http://reach.louisville.edu/courses/gen105.html>).

The Hackademic Series, available to all UofL students, are 50-minute workshops that help students develop effective academic strategies and skills (e.g., mindset, developing grit, time management, studying smarter, note-taking, textbook reading, test-taking, preparing for finals, and becoming a disciplined student). The Hackademic Series is offered both online and on-site (<https://reach.louisville.edu/workshops/hackademics/>). All first-year students can find these interactive, online modules in their Blackboard Organizations (named the Online Hackademic Series by REACH).

SmartCards provides invaluable, online financial success resources through fun, interactive, and dynamic content. You'll receive a personalized plan with recommendations on content to help you with financial decision making. Explore the wide array of content on our website (<https://reach.louisville.edu/workshops/smartcards/>).

Graduate Exam Preparation Workshops are offered for free through our partnership with The Princeton Review. Workshops and free, full-length practice tests are available for the GRE, GMAT, LSAT, MCAT, DAT, and OAT. Interested students may also receive tutoring for CLEP (<https://louisville.edu/testing/clep/>), a national testing program designed to help students earn college credit for selected general education courses. Workshop registration is required (<https://reach.louisville.edu/workshops/graduateexams/>).

MATHEMATICS SUPPORT

The Math Resource Center (MRC, BACB 241) offers drop-in and online tutoring to students enrolled in most 100- and 200-level university mathematics courses, including Special Topics in College Mathematics courses (GEN 103 and GEN 104). Resources include knowledgeable tutors, a mini-computer lab for mathematics software, and web-based instruction. Find more information on mathematics tutoring on the REACH website (<https://reach.louisville.edu/tutoring/tutor-drop-in.html>).

Special Topics in College Mathematics (GEN 103 and GEN 104) are three credit hour intervention courses in mathematics that are offered through REACH Math Resources. These courses are designed for students who are not eligible to take the mathematics or quantitative reasoning course required for their intended major/program (due to ACT or SAT math sub-scores or math placement test scores). GEN 103 (for non-STEM majors) or GEN 104 (for STEM majors) are computer-based courses that focus on pre-algebra and algebra topics—such as linear equations and factoring—and utilize an online homework, tutorial, and assessment program. Successful completion of GEN 103 and/or GEN 104 is required for students to progress to the mathematics and/or quantitative reasoning courses required for their program. More information on intervention coursework is available on the REACH website. (<http://www.reach.louisville.edu/courses/>)

The Math Xcelerator Program (<https://louisville.edu/reach/summermath/math-xcelerator-overview/>) offers students who place into GEN 103 or GEN 104 a free, four-week intensive review during the summer. Students qualify if their ACT math sub-score is between 0-18, SAT math sub-score is between 0-490, or their Accuplacer score is between 200-262. Successful completion of the program reduces the amount of intervention coursework for the fall semester.

The Speed Calculus Preview Program is a fee-based summer program designed for first-year engineering students. Although students may be referred to this program based on their standardized test scores, it is highly recommended to all admitted engineering students prior to their first fall semester. This program provides an advanced algebra review to help students prepare for calculus in the J.B. Speed School of Engineering.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS & ENGINEERING SUPPORT Computer Resource Centers (First floor Learning Commons-Ekstrom Library and the Academic & Leadership Center, J.B. Speed 107)

The Computer Resources Centers offers scheduled and drop-in tutoring and test reviews for select College of Business courses (Ekstrom Library location) as well as targeted Speed School of Engineering courses (Academic & Leadership Center). Additionally, we help students understand the most common technologies used on campus including Microsoft Office Suite products, Blackboard, ULink, email, and basic computer operations. No appointments needed for drop-in support! More information is available on the REACH website. (<https://reach.louisville.edu/tutoring/crc/>)

Student Resources

Americans with Disabilities Act

The University of Louisville (UofL) is committed to providing equal opportunity for persons with disabilities. This commitment includes complying with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA) and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. UofL strives to maintain a barrier-free, welcoming environment for all qualified persons with disabilities.

The university's ADA Coordinator oversees the University's compliance with the ADA and Section 504, and assists unit heads in meeting their equal opportunity obligations. The ADA coordinator is located in the Dean of Students suite in the SAC:

ADA Coordinator
SAC-W301
(502) 852-5787
titleix@louisville.edu

The Disability Resource Center staff (502-852-6938) will assist the University community by serving as an information resource center and coordinating support services for students with disabilities. No otherwise qualified individual with a disability shall, solely by reason of such disability, be excluded from participation in, be denied benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination in university programs. The President, Board of Trustees, Student Government, Faculty and Staff Senates affirm UofL's long standing and continuing commitment to Equal Opportunity for persons with disabilities.

Formal Student ADA Complaint Procedure

The university has a continuing responsibility to monitor and maintain its compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA) and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 504) and their implementing regulations. Internal student complaints alleging non-compliance with the ADA and/or Section 504 should follow the university's complaint procedure (<https://louisville.edu/disability/students/formal-complaint-procedure/>).

The university's formal complaint procedure provides for prompt and equitable resolution of complaints.

Complaints should be directed to the UofL ADA Coordinator at (502) 852-8757 or titleix@louisville.edu.

Filing a Formal Complaint of Disability Discrimination

A complaint must be filed in writing with the Coordinator. The complaint should contain the name and address of the person filing it and a brief description of the alleged violation. Upon receipt of the written complaint, the Coordinator or his designee shall acknowledge receipt within five workdays.

A complaint should be filed within 180 days after the complainant becomes aware of the alleged violation; however, a complaint filed after that point may be investigated in accordance with this procedure as necessary, in the judgment of the ADA Coordinator, to ensure the university's compliance with the ADA and/or Section 504.

An investigation, as may be appropriate, shall follow a filing of complaint. The Coordinator's office shall conduct the investigation. This University complaint procedure involves an informal but thorough investigation, affording all interested persons and their representatives, if any, an opportunity to submit information relevant to a complaint.

Following completion of the investigation, a written determination as to the validity of the complaint and a description of the resolution, if any, shall be issued by the Coordinator's office and a copy forwarded to the complainant and any individually-named respondent within 60 days of the date the complaint was filed. Should extenuating circumstances (e.g., unavailability of key witnesses, family emergency of investigative staff, etc.) prevent completion of the investigation and determination process within 60 days, the complainant and any individually-named respondents will be timely notified in writing, and will be kept apprised of the status of the Coordinator's handling of the complaint through resolution. In all disputes arising under Section 504 or the ADA the proper standard of proof is preponderance of the information (i.e., more likely than not that the violation alleged in the complaint is true).

The Coordinator's Office shall maintain the files and records relating to the complaints filed.

Requesting Reconsideration of a Determination

The complainant (and any individually named respondent, as appropriate) may request a reconsideration if dissatisfied with the Coordinator's determination. The request for reconsideration should be made in written or electronic form within 15 workdays to the Coordinator's Office.

Requests for reconsideration must present information showing that:

- The original determination applied the incorrect standard or applied the applicable standard incorrectly to the facts of the case; or
- New information that might affect the outcome of the determination but was not available to the Coordinator at the time of the original determination is now available and should be considered.

The Coordinator shall, barring extenuating circumstances that preclude a more timely response (in which case the complainant shall be updated as to the status of the reconsideration request), rule upon the request for reconsideration within 15 workdays after receipt of the request.

An Internal ADA complaint does not preclude other remedies.

The right of a person to a prompt and equitable resolution of the complaint filed hereunder shall not be impaired by the person's pursuit of other remedies such as the filing of a discrimination complaint with the responsible federal department or agency. Use of this complaint procedure is not a prerequisite to the pursuit of other remedies, nor does one's pursuit of outside remedies preclude one's filing a complaint pursuant to this procedure.

These rules shall be construed to protect interested persons, to meet appropriate due process standards, and to assure that the university complies with the ADA, Section 504, and their implementing regulations.

Campus Health Services

Student Medical and Psychiatric Services

The Campus Health Service provides medical and psychiatric services to undergraduate, graduate and professional students. Services include primary care, psychiatric, travel medicine and nutritional consults as well as allergy injections, immunizations, sports physicals and diagnostic testing.

Although all students are encouraged to call for appointments, walk-in and same day appointments are generally available at both locations. Charges for medical services are applied to the student's insurance and/or health fees. Students are responsible for any balance not covered by insurance or fees. ### Health Insurance and Health Fees

All students enrolled for at least six hours are charged the Primary Care Health Fee (PCHF) which can be waived within thirty days of the first day of class with proof of health insurance. The fee entitles students to basic services at the health centers such as examinations and allergy injections. This fee is not health insurance and does not provide for specialty care, hospitalization, x-ray or laboratory services. The PCHF fee can be waived with proof of health insurance or used as a supplement to the student's insurance.

All students enrolled in a program of study that requires them to train in the University's affiliated teaching hospitals such as the MD, DMD, Dental Hygiene, Audiology, and Speech Pathology programs are required to carry major medical insurance and pay a non-waivable Health Professionals Health Fee (HPHF). Students in these programs are charged for the university-sponsored insurance plan but may waive it with proof of alternate coverage.

Drug-Free Schools and Campuses

Drug-Free Schools and Crime Awareness, Campus Security Information Report 1993, and Communities Act Amendments of 1989

Purpose and Goal

The University of Louisville is committed to protecting the safety, health and wellbeing of all students, faculty, and staff and other individuals in our workplace. As a recipient of federal grants and contracts, the university gives this notice to students, faculty, and staff that it is in compliance with the Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988 (Pub. L. 100-690, Title V Subtitle D) and the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Amendment of 1989. Students, faculty and staff are herein notified of the standards of conduct that will be applicable while on university property, business, and/or at university-sponsored activities. This policy is incorporated and is a part of the official University of Louisville Policies and Procedures.

This policy recognizes that student, faculty, and staff involvement with alcohol and other drugs can be very disruptive, adversely affect the quality of work or academic performance of student, faculty, and staff, pose serious health risks to users and others, and have a negative impact on productivity and morale.

As a condition of employment or enrollment, the university requires that students, faculty, and staff adhere to a strict policy regarding the use and possession of drugs and alcohol. The university encourages students, faculty, and staff to voluntarily seek help with drug and alcohol problems.

Prohibited Behaviors

Under university regulations, federal law, state law, and, in some instances, local ordinance, students, faculty, and staff are prohibited from the unlawful possession, use, dispensation, distribution, or manufacture of illicit drugs on university property, on university business and/or at university-sponsored activities. Under this policy, students, faculty and staff are required to abide by state laws concerning alcoholic beverages.

Kentucky law (<https://apps.legislature.ky.gov/>) (KRS 244.085 (<https://apps.legislature.ky.gov/law/statutes/statute.aspx?id=45137>)) states that, if one is under the age of 21, it is unlawful to:

- Possess or consume alcoholic beverages,
- Misrepresent one's age for the purpose of purchasing alcoholic beverages, or
- Use a fake ID in an attempt to purchase alcoholic beverages.

It is unlawful for anyone of any age to:

- Procure any alcoholic beverages for anyone under 21 years of age,
- Drink or be intoxicated in a public place (Public Intoxication KRS 525.100 (<https://apps.legislature.ky.gov/law/statutes/statute.aspx?id=19929>))

University campuses and buildings are considered as public places for purposes of these laws, except for a facility licensed to serve alcoholic beverages, and a facility used as a private residence, unless university regulations state otherwise. Ordinances of the Greater Louisville area parallel the state laws.

The specifically defined standards of conduct, the disciplinary procedures, and the appropriate sanctions are detailed in the Code of Student Conduct (p. 82), Personnel Policies and Procedures (PER-5.01), Staff Handbook (Disciplinary Action, page 8.2) and The Redbook.

In addition, it is a violation of state law to operate a motor vehicle while under the influence of any substance that may impair one's driving ability (drugs or alcoholic beverages).

Prescription and over-the-counter drugs are not prohibited when taken in standard dosage and/or according to a physician's prescription. Any student, faculty, and staff taking prescribed or over-the-counter medications will be responsible for consulting the prescribing physician and/or pharmacist to ascertain whether the medication may interfere with job or academic performance.

The illegal or unauthorized use of prescription drugs is prohibited. It is a violation of our drug-free workplace to intentionally misuse and/or abuse prescription medications. Appropriate disciplinary action will be taken if job or academic performance deterioration and/or other accidents occur.

Consequences for Violating This Policy

Under university regulation, students who violate this standard of conduct are subject to student conduct action from a warning to expulsion from the University. Students who reside in university housing are subject to further conduct action that may vary from a warning to termination of their housing contract.

Notice of Drug-Related Conviction

In compliance with the Federal Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988, any employee shall notify the immediate supervisor if the employee is convicted of a criminal drug offense occurring in the workplace or while on university business within five days of the conviction. The university shall take appropriate sanction and remedies in accordance with its policies. The provisions of this section are applicable to students who are employees of the university. If the employee is under a federal contract or grant, the university shall notify the contracting or granting agency of the conviction and of its actions. This section of this policy is also applicable to students who receive a Pell grant (federal grant).

Health Risks

The scope and impact of health risks from alcohol and drug use are both alarming and well documented, ranging from mood-altering to life-threatening, with consequences that extend beyond the individual to family, organizations and society at large. The university, therefore, conducts regular programs to educate its students, faculty, and staff that consumption and use of drugs may alter behavior, distort perception, impair thinking, impede judgment, and lead to physical or psychological dependence.

Alcohol and/or drug use may lead to the deterioration of physical health by causing or contributing to various health conditions including but not limited to fatigue, nausea, personal injury, insomnia, pathological organ damage, some forms of cancer, pancreatitis, heart attack, respiratory depression, birth defects, convulsions, coma, and even death. Alcohol and drug use may also result in deterioration of mental health by causing or contributing to various conditions such as increased aggression, hallucinations, depression, disorientation, and psychosis.

Alcohol consumption causes a number of marked changes in behavior. Even low doses significantly impair the judgment and coordination required to drive a car safely, increasing the likelihood that the driver will be involved in an accident. Low to moderate doses of alcohol also increases the incidence of a variety of aggressive acts, including spouse and child abuse.

Moderate to high doses of alcohol cause marked impairments in higher mental functions, severely altering a person's ability to learn and remember information. Very high doses cause respiratory depression and death. If combined with other depressants of the central nervous system, much lower doses of alcohol will produce the effects just described. Repeated use of alcohol can lead to dependence. Sudden cessation of alcohol intake is likely to produce withdrawal symptoms, including severe anxiety, tremors, hallucinations, and convulsions. Alcohol withdrawal can be life-threatening. Long-term consumption of large quantities of alcohol, particularly when combined with poor nutrition, can also lead to permanent damage to vital organs such as the brain and the liver.

Mothers who drink alcohol during pregnancy may give birth to infants with fetal alcohol syndrome. These infants have irreversible physical abnormalities and intellectual disabilities. In addition, research indicates that children of alcoholic parents are at greater risk than other children of becoming alcoholics.

Training, Counseling, and Resources

The University of Louisville is committed to the overall health and well-being of students, faculty, and staff and encourages a compassionate university.

Required online sexual assault prevention and alcohol awareness training programs

Consistent with federal law, UofL requires, as a condition of course registration, that all incoming students complete online sexual assault prevention training and, for students who will be under the age of 21 on the "add" deadline in the semester they matriculate at UofL, alcohol awareness training. Emails are sent to each student's UofL email account (beginning about 5 weeks before their first semester begins) to provide specific directions for accessing the training programs.

The sexual assault prevention course and alcohol awareness course are two separate programs. There is no fee for either program.

Kentucky Medical Amnesty Law

KRS 244.992 (<https://apps.legislature.ky.gov/law/statutes/statute.aspx?id=42516>) Medical amnesty for persons reporting an alcohol overdose:

- (1) A person shall be immune from prosecution for the criminal offenses identified in subsection (2) of this section if:
  - (a) A law enforcement officer has contact with the person because the person:
    1. Requests emergency medical assistance for himself or herself or another person;
    2. Acts in concert with another person who requests emergency medical assistance; or
    3. Appears to be in need of emergency medical assistance and is the individual for whom the request is made

See KRS 244.992 for full text.

Good Samaritan Consideration

The health and safety of our students is of the highest priority. At times, students may need immediate medical or other professional assistance. However, students may be reluctant to get help because of concerns that their own behavior may be a violation of the Code of Student Conduct (p. 82). Although policy violations cannot be overlooked, the University will consider the positive impact of reporting an incident when determining the appropriate response for policy violations.

Continuous efforts are made to make students, faculty, and staff aware of programs that provide information and professional services on matters related to the abuse of alcohol and drugs.

The Building Resilience In Campus Community (BRICC) Coalition, Counseling Center, Health Promotion Office, The PEACC Center, and the University of Louisville Police Department provide a number of programs and workshops using a tiered approach: a) primary prevention in the form of awareness, skill-building, and risk-reduction for all students and b) targeted presentations for specific high-risk populations.

The University Counseling Center is committed to assisting students with their mental health, personal development, and academic development. Because substance use is often connected to other personal/psychological issues, students coming to the Counseling Center with alcohol and substance use concerns are provided with support, appropriate therapeutic interventions, and referrals when necessary.

Find Your Fit (FYF)

Find Your Fit (FYF) is designed to support students in "finding their fit" academically and align their goals with a relevant career path. FYF provides customized support for students that do not have a clear and meaningful major choice and career path. FYF is the university's Quality Enhancement Plan (QEP) as required by its accrediting agency, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACSCOC). At the heart of this initiative is the design, implementation, and assessment of a three-credit elective seminar offered through the Department of Counseling and Human Development (ECPY).

This small seminar, offered Spring 2018–Spring 2022, is designed for undergraduate students who are undeclared, are pre-unit majors, or are in transition between majors. Students explore an academic topic or theme of personal interest related to the seminar theme as they engage in a variety of individualized and group activities to assist them in choosing a major and career path. Students will document their journeys and produce an Academic and Personal Plan in which they integrate their new knowledge and insights about the seminar topic, themselves, and their major and career trajectories.

As we help our students "find their fit" academically and align their goals with a career path, UofL's QEP project is poised to have long-term implications for how we support our students inside and outside the classroom.

For more information about FYF and ECPY 302 Seminar on Personal and Academic Inquiry, visit the Find Your Fit website (<https://louisville.edu/findyourfit/>).

Financial Information

Financial Settlement

Continuing Registration

Tuition and fees are due on, or before, the designated due date for the semester. Payment Due Dates are noted on the Bursar website (<http://louisville.edu/bursar/>). Payment may be made by cash, paper check, money order, or financial aid credit. All electronic check (ACH) or Credit Card payments (transaction fee applies) may only be remitted electronically via the web payment portal. Payments also may be made by mail or at the Office of the Bursar.

For Payment Option information visit: louisville.edu/bursar (<http://louisville.edu/bursar/>)

Failure to receive a Statement of Account will not relieve the student of the responsibility for making financial settlement by the designated due date. Registrations which are not financially settled by the designated due date will be placed on financial hold and affected students will not be permitted to add or swap classes until their student account is financially settled.

The due dates are listed in the current Registration Information newspaper and on the Bursar's website (<http://louisville.edu/bursar/>) (Payment Due Dates).

Regular Registration

Students should be prepared to fully settle financial obligations by the last day to drop/add for the semester. Failure to fully settle financial obligations may result in financial penalties.

Financial Settlement Options

Due dates, payment information, payment plan options, and payment plan forms for specific semesters are updated regularly on the Bursar's website (<http://louisville.edu/bursar/>).

Please address your questions to the Bursar's Office by email at bursar@louisville.edu.

Financial Penalties

Students whose accounts are not paid by established semester deadlines may be subject to financial penalties. Students with unpaid account balances will be placed on Financial Hold by the Bursar's Office. Students placed on Financial Hold become ineligible for further registration and transcripts will not be released until the student account is paid in full.

A late payment fee of $100.00 may be assessed when student accounts are not paid by the last day to drop/add.

A student whose payment is not honored by the bank on which it was drawn may be assessed a return payment fee. If restitution is not made within 10 days of notification, the student may be subject to course cancellation and/or legal action.

Debtors who do not make satisfactory payment arrangements on their past due accounts may have their accounts placed with a collection agency. Students will be responsible to reimburse the University for the fees of any collection agency, which may be based on a percentage of the delinquent account balance (to a maximum of 40 percent of the delinquent account balance), and will also be liable for all reasonable attorneys' fees and costs and expenses incurred by the University in its collection efforts. The University of Louisville, or associated vendor partners, may also report to the credit bureau organization(s) any information regarding any unpaid obligation.

Withdrawal Policy

The effective withdrawal date is the date on which the withdrawal is processed in the Student Records System. This date is used in calculating any applicable tuition reduction.

More information on withdrawals can be found in the Course Registration Policies (p. 62) section of the undergraduate catalog.

Tuition Reduction

When a student officially withdraws from the University or from any course, or courses, for which hourly tuition rates apply, tuition and student activity fee charges will be adjusted according to the tuition reduction schedule printed in the Registration Information newspaper. The full amount of tuition/fee charges for the semester will be due unless the withdrawal occurs during the tuition reduction period. The tuition reduction schedule for each semester is available on the Bursar's website (<http://louisville.edu/bursar/>) (Tuition Adjustment Schedule).

This policy applies to all tuition and student activity fees except for nonrefundable deposits. Course fees, special fees, and laboratory fees are reduced only with the 100% adjustment.

Financial Aid Recipients

Determinations regarding refunds of resulting credit balances will be based on regulations governing the financial aid awarded to the student. Federal regulations mandate that students have the right to cancel all or a portion of an EFT loan.

Applications for Change in Residency Status and Appeals

Application for change in residency classification for purpose of tuition and fee assessment by a student enrolled in or an applicant to a program at the University of Louisville ("University") shall be made in writing to the residency appeals officer for initial consideration along with such information forms as the residency appeals officer may specify. The application for a change in residency classification must be filed no later than thirty (30) calendar days after the first day of classes of the academic term for which the change is requested. Appeals of residency determinations shall be based on administrative regulations promulgated by the Kentucky Council on Postsecondary Education. A written appeal of the decision of the residency appeals officer must be postmarked no later than fourteen calendar days from the date of receipt of notification of the residency appeals officer's written decision.

The Residency Review Committee is appointed by the executive vice president and provost (or designee) and shall be composed of four faculty and/or staff members and one student. The chairperson shall be elected by the committee. The faculty and/or staff members normally shall have staggered two-year appointments; the student member shall have a one-year appointment. The committee shall have authority to establish procedural rules and schedule meetings. A quorum shall consist of three members, and a quorum shall be necessary for committee action.

The Residency Review Committee shall consider appeals from applicants whose initial request for change in residency status has been denied by the residency appeals officer based upon the applicant's written appeal and the file in that matter to the extent provided by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, 1974 (FERPA). The applicant shall be notified in writing as to the committee's decision.

If the decision of the committee is adverse to the applicant, the applicant may request a formal hearing by submitting a written request to the executive vice president and provost (or designee). This request must be postmarked no later than fourteen (14) calendar days from the date of receipt of notification of the committee's written decision.

The executive vice president and provost (or designee) shall appoint a hearing officer from outside the University to preside over formal residency hearings. Formal hearings shall be arranged based on a timely request from the applicant. The formal hearing shall provide for due process, including notice of hearing, examination of the information on which the University decision is based, and the right of an applicant to be represented by legal counsel and to present information and testimony in support of a claim of Kentucky residency. Hearing procedures will be consistent with 13 KAR 2:045 (https://apps.legislature.ky.gov/Law/KAR/013/002/045.pdf#xml=https://apps.legislaturekygov/LRCSiteSessionSearch/dtSearch/dtisapi6dll?cmd=getpdfhits&u=1a702ce5&DocId=5428&Index=E%3a%5cProduction%5cDTSearch%5cDTSearchIndex%5cKY\_Administrative\_Reg&HitCount=10&hits=c+d+e+f+10+11+12+13+14+15+&SearchForm=&.pdf).

The hearing officer shall make a report with findings of fact and a recommendation to the executive vice president and provost (or designee) with a copy to the applicant. The executive vice president and provost (or designee) will decide the appeal on the record on behalf of the University and the Board of Trustees and will notify the applicant in writing within thirty days of receipt of the hearing officer's report. In the event the decision of the executive vice president and provost (or designee) is not in accord with the recommendation and findings of the hearing officer's report, a written explanation will be provided to the applicant.

Council on Postsecondary Education Administrative Regulation

Relates to: KRS Chapter 13B, 164.020, 164.030, 164A.330(6).

Necessity, Function, And Conformity

KRS 164.020(8) requires the Council on Postsecondary Education to determine tuition and approve the minimum qualifications for admission to a state-supported postsecondary education institution and authorizes the council to set different tuition amounts for residents of Kentucky and for nonresidents. This administrative regulation establishes the procedure and guidelines for determining the residency status of a student who is seeking admission to, or who is enrolled at, a state-supported post-secondary education institution.

Academic Advising

Academic Advising at the University of Louisville is an on-going, intentional, educational partnership dedicated to student academic success. More information about academic advising can be found within the University-Wide Policies section (p. 49) of this Undergraduate Catalog.

Flight Plan

Flight Plan is a university-wide initiative that assists students in staying on course to graduate in four years or in the timeframe of their choice. Students learn about majors and how they connect to careers and then select a Flight Plan that meets their interests and their level of skills.

Athletic Academic Services

This office provides academic support for all students involved in the University's intercollegiate athletic programs. The academic performance of all student-athletes is monitored during the semester as well as their progress toward graduation. A liaison is maintained with the faculty through close collaboration with the Committee on Academic Performance (CAP) and Faculty Athletic Representative (FAR) – Krista Wallace-Boaz (kwall01@louisville.edu).

Services offered include academic counseling, tutoring, objective based study hall, career services, computer services, accommodative learning services for student-athletes with learning challenges, and referral to other university offices to ensure that student-athletes are informed about other available resources. The office also advises several Registered Student Organizations which provide opportunities for student-athletes to get involved on campus and in the community. Additional information can be found online (<https://gocards.com/?path=acadservices>).

Alternative Coursework

In addition to the traditional course offerings, the University of Louisville may award academic credit through alternative means. Such opportunities do not require the customary classroom attendance and participation and include extramural examinations, conference work, independent studies, internships, cooperative education, field experiences, and clinical rotations. Each of these experiences requires the approval of the enrollment unit and not all are available in every unit, so students should consult with the advising office for availability and requirements. The most common alternatives for earning credit outside of traditional coursework are independent study and internships:

Many units offer independent study courses, which provide the opportunity for the student, under the supervision of a sponsoring faculty member, to pursue individualized study related to research or practice that is not included in regular courses in the curriculum. Students must present a written plan to their department that includes the purpose, rationale, activities planned, and expected learning outcomes, and the plan must be approved by the instructor, department chair, and unit dean and submitted to the registrar. A title for this individualized study course will be assigned by the supervising faculty member and will appear on the student's academic record. Before applying for an independent study, students should have at least 30 semester hours and a 3.0 GPA.

Internships, cooperative education, field experiences, and clinical rotations give students the opportunity to earn academic credit for workplace experiences that support the educational goals of the student's academic discipline, and thus students should consult with their academic advisor to determine the requirements within their units.

Approved opportunities range from full to part-time, temporary to permanent, paid to non-paid. In some programs, internships, cooperative education, field experiences, and clinical rotations are required to satisfy degree requirements.

Auditing Courses

Audited courses do not earn credit, although the transcript will indicate that the course was taken as an audit. Because audit status is offered only on a space available basis, students may not register for a class in an audit status during early registration, nor may a student change from graded to audit status during that period. Students may register for classes in audit status during regular registration and then only with the written approval of the instructor of the course. Not all instructors allow auditors. Work expectations of auditors can vary across courses and instructors, and the specific work expectations that will warrant the audit designation on the transcript should be confirmed with the instructor facilitating the course. Auditors who do not fulfill the work expectations may be withdrawn from the course with a grade of W noted on the transcript.

Students who have registered in audit status will not receive credit for the course unless their registration has been changed officially from audit to credit by the published deadline for such a change. Students are allowed to change from audit to grade status or from grade status to audit status at any time from the beginning of regular registration through the last day to add a class with approval from the course instructor. Students are advised that such approval is the instructor's prerogative, subject to completion of course prerequisites, and that audit status may have implications for financial aid eligibility. Any change of status must be submitted on a Drop/Add and Grade Type Change Form and turned in to the Registrar's Office by the deadline. Students admitted to the unit as Auditors are not eligible to take courses for credit and may not change their class registration from audit to credit.

Students are cautioned that auditing a class cannot substitute for taking the course for credit if that course is part of the credit hour requirement for graduation, including both college-wide and major requirements. Any required course taken as audit must be retaken for credit in order to be counted toward a degree. Students are advised to consult with their academic advisor to determine if registration in audit status is appropriate. Students may enroll for credit in any course which was taken for audit, in a semester subsequent to the semester when the course was audited, provided those students have been admitted to the unit on a basis that confers eligibility to take courses for credit. If students take a course for both audit and credit, the transcript will show both entries.

Course Load

All baccalaureate degree programs require at least 120 credit hours, but more may be required in some programs. A typical schedule in the fall and spring semesters is 15 semester hours, but may vary by semester and program from 12 to 18 hours. Some programs also have planned summer loads.

Students may need to prove full-time/half-time status in order to be eligible for dependent insurance and to defer repayment of some loans, among other reasons. Definitions of full-time/half-time are defined according to federal government regulations for financial aid recipients. Students will be certified as full-time if registered for 12 or more hours in any semester, including summer. Cooperative internships also qualify for full-time status in some units. For half-time status, students must be registered for a minimum of 6 hours during any semester, including summer.

Students in good standing typically may take no more than 18 hours in the fall and spring semesters. Under special circumstances, students who have completed a minimum of 30 hours at UofL and who have a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.0 may request permission through their advising center to take an overload. For the summer semester students are limited to 4 hours in the three-week summer session and 7 hours during each of the five-week summer sessions. Typically, there are no overloads for summer, though overload approvals may vary by unit. Permissions are handled by procedures determined by the Dean's office in each unit, and some units may accept petitions for course overloads above those listed above.

semesters and to a total of 10 semester hours during the summer sessions.

Pass/Fail

Undergraduate students in good academic standing may enroll in one undergraduate course each semester on a pass/fail basis, provided that the course is not used to meet a general education requirement, a programmatic requirement at either the degree program or college level, a prerequisite requirement for admission to a degree program, or a foreign language requirement for a degree program. If the course is letter-graded, the instructor's agreement (signature) must be secured by students for pass/fail grading to be applied to the course, and the student's enrollment unit must approve the request. Courses completed on a pass/fail basis will not be assigned any quality points, but credit will be given if the grade assigned is a P. If the grade assigned is F, it will be calculated as such in the student's grade point average. No changes from letter grade to pass/fail, or vice versa, may be made after the University's deadline to withdraw from a course. No letter-grade equivalent for a P grade will be assigned or reported. This policy will not apply to courses taught only on a pass-fail basis, such as some internship and field experience courses.

Registration

Students may register for courses during the priority early registration period before the beginning of the semester. A student's first opportunity is based on classification and alphabetic rotation. The early registration period is then followed by regular and late registration. The registration calendar for any term is published online by the office of the registrar.

Initial registration and any later registration changes are usually completed by students through the registration link of the ULink online portal.

Initial registration must be completed by the date announced by the registrar, typically the fifth day of classes. Students may make adjustments to their course schedule until the end of the first week for regularly scheduled fall and spring courses. For summer courses and courses with atypical duration, the last date to adjust schedules is specified by the registrar in the official registration calendar. This last day to adjust schedules is referred to as the last day to drop/add.

Students may add courses to their schedules until the last day to drop/add. No signature or other authorization is required if the added course is open for enrollment, if students meet all course prerequisites, and if such additional courses do not raise the students' credit#hours for the term above the maximum allowed by the students' enrollment unit or academic standing. If the addition increases the tuition cost for the semester, the additional payment must be settled with the university bursar by the last day to drop/add.

Students can place their names on the waitlist for a course that is closed.

Students are automatically moved from the waitlist to registration in the course as spaces open until the end of the first week of classes.

Students may add their names to the waitlist until the third day of classes for regularly scheduled fall and spring courses, and the first day of classes for summer courses.

Students may drop a course from their schedule until the last day of drop/add. Courses that are dropped during the regular registration period are not listed on the transcript. Students should consider how dropping a course will affect their Flight Plan status, their progress toward their degree and their financial aid eligibility. Students who stop attending a class but fail to complete the drop process, regardless of the date when they stopped attending the course, will be given the grade of F for the course.

Students who wish to enroll in concurrent courses at another institution should consult their academic advisor before registration to secure a visiting student letter, and to ensure proper enrollment and recording of courses. Students in good standing who have earned a minimum of twelve hours may be able to cross register at other universities in the Kentuckiana Metroversity consortium. Cross registration is permitted on a space-available basis at the discretion of the member institutions. The combined program of work in all institutions may not exceed the maximum course load permitted for students at the University of Louisville. Failure to follow these guidelines may result in loss of credit or ineligibility to transfer the credits from the other schools toward the requirements for graduation.

Repeating Courses

Students are allowed to repeat a course only once, with the most recent grade counting for grade point average calculation and towards degree requirements. Students are advised to weigh carefully the trade-off between 1) possibly improving their academic standing by repeating a course and earning a higher grade, and 2) the investment of time and money in repeating courses.

Students may petition to repeat a course more than once through a process determined by each academic unit.

Although all grades are displayed on the official transcript, repeated courses cannot receive double credit in hours required for the degree and count only once toward graduation.

Students may only receive federal and state financial aid funds one time for retaking previously passed coursework. Students should speak with a financial aid advisor about the impact on financial aid before making the decision to repeat a course that was previously passed.

Undergraduate and Graduate Courses

Students must have completed the proper prerequisites to register for any course. It is the student's responsibility to know the prerequisites for a course by checking the course description section of the online university undergraduate catalog. While some of these courses are open to all students enrolled in the University of Louisville, many are restricted to students in certain programs.

The dean's office in each unit reserves the right to administratively withdraw students from courses based on academic policies.

The units also reserve the right to cancel without prior notice any courses listed in the Schedule of Classes, and to cancel any course that does not have an adequate enrollment at a reasonable time during the registration period for the semester. The university attempts to provide all courses required for graduation frequently enough to ensure that no student's degree will be delayed by course unavailability, but the university cannot guarantee that such delay will not occur.

University of Louisville undergraduate students typically take courses at the 100 through 400 level. Courses numbered below the 100 level are not used in calculations of earned hours or the university grade point average. Courses numbered at the 100 and 200 level are primarily for freshmen and sophomores, and such courses generally contain introductory or basic material. Courses numbered at the 300 and 400 level are primarily for juniors and seniors, and such courses generally contain advanced undergraduate material.

Courses at the 500-level may be open to both advanced undergraduate and graduate students. Courses numbered at the 600-level and above are for graduate students only. Undergraduate students requesting to enroll in a 500-level course for graduate credit or in a 600-level course may do so only with special permission of the instructor in the course and the dean of the student's enrollment unit, be registered for at least one undergraduate course, have earned at least 60 credit hours of coursework at the undergraduate level, and have a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0. A maximum of nine (9) credit hours of graduate coursework may be applied to the undergraduate degree. Such graduate level courses will satisfy requirements toward the undergraduate degree and therefore cannot be used for subsequent graduate credit.

In rare cases, undergraduate students at the University of Louisville who are within six (6) semester hours of completing the baccalaureate requirements and who are enrolled in a graduate course may obtain graduate credit at the University of Louisville. This can only occur if the course has not been used to satisfy part of the baccalaureate requirements, and if the chair of the department involved and the unit dean approve.

Accelerated Bachelor's/Master's Option

Undergraduate students enrolled in accelerated programs are eligible to register for graduate-level coursework. Students must apply for admission to the program no later than the end of their junior year to be eligible enroll in graduate coursework in their final year of the program.

The student may take a maximum of nine (9) credit hours for graduate credit, which will also apply to the requirements for the baccalaureate degree. Those nine (9) credit hours of graduate credit must be transferred to the student's graduate record after the student completes one semester as a graduate student.

See specific degree programs for further requirements.

Withdrawals

Students may withdraw from courses after the drop/add period up until the withdrawal deadline. A grade of W (withdrawal) will be posted to students' transcripts. The hours count as attempted hours but do not count as earned hours, and the grade will have no effect on the students' grade point averages. Students withdraw by using the registration link of the ULink online portal. No signature or other authorization is required if the change is made by the withdrawal deadline, but students should consult with academic and/or financial aid advisors to understand how withdrawing from a course will affect their academic plan status, their progress toward their degree, and their financial aid eligibility.

The withdrawal deadline for each semester is specified in the official registration calendar. The deadline typically occurs shortly after mid-term. Students who stop attending class without withdrawing will be given the grade of F for the course.

Students who make a complete withdrawal from all courses for a particular semester should contact their academic advisor to seek alternative solutions and/or to improve the possibility of returning to the university at a later date. A complete withdrawal must be processed in accordance with the procedures established by the academic unit.

In exceptional circumstances, students may petition for a late withdrawal after the withdrawal deadline. Students who intend to continue in other courses during the semester must petition the course instructional unit (the academic unit in which the course is taught). Students who intend to withdraw from all courses for which they are registered (late complete withdrawal) must petition their enrollment unit (the academic unit in which they are enrolled for their degree work). Proper documentation of the exceptional circumstances must accompany the petition for a late complete withdrawal. The enrollment unit shall request and consider all instructors' recommendations in deciding on the petition for a late complete withdrawal. Students should contact the advising office in the appropriate unit for guidance in the petition process.

Compassionate Withdrawal

Students may request and be considered for a compassionate withdrawal when extraordinary circumstances prevent students from continuing in classes or completing academic requirements. If students are gravely incapacitated, the request may come from the student's spouse, family or legal surrogate. The office of the dean of students will gather necessary documentation to show that the situation is incapacitating. Such situations cover both physical and mental health issues, serious illness or injury, and extraordinary personal reasons. The office of the dean of students will review and evaluate the compassionate withdrawal request and take follow-up action to refer the case to the appropriate officer (e.g., unit dean) for review and decision.

The Office of the Dean of Students will coordinate the process with the unit dean's designee. An academic withdrawal does not remove a student's financial responsibility for his/her educational expenses. Students are responsible for payment of any outstanding charges including, but not limited to tuition, fees, parking, housing and other expenses, after the academic withdrawal is granted. The Office of the Dean of Students will assist with the identification and completion of all necessary business processes.

Withdrawal Effective Date

The effective withdrawal date is the date on which the withdrawal is processed in the student records system. This date is used in calculating any applicable tuition reduction. When students officially withdraw from any course or courses for which hourly rates apply, tuition will be adjusted at the following ratios for regularly scheduled fall and spring classes:

0% charge/100% credit	Drop during first week of semester	100% fees
50% charge/50% credit	Withdrawal during second or third week of semester	0% fees
75% charge/25% credit	Withdrawal during fourth week of semester	0% fees
100% charge/0% credit	Withdrawal after fourth week of the semester	0% fees

Summer courses and some fall and spring semester courses vary in length and the percentage of refunds is modified. Refund deadlines for special terms and courses are listed in the online Registration Information (<https://louisville.edu/registrar/registration/>).

Course fees (as opposed to tuition) are refundable only with 100% credit.

University Policies: Academic Advising

Each undergraduate unit at the university has full-time academic advisors available to assist students in planning the completion of their degree program and in navigating UofL resources. Some of the units at the University offer faculty advising and mentoring as well.

While academic advisors will make every effort to guide students throughout their education, students are ultimately responsible for developing a familiarity with and adhering to university, unit, and departmental policies and procedures. Students are expected to meet regularly with an advisor who will assist them with staying on their four-, five-, or six-year Flight Plan (<http://louisville.edu/flightplan/>) for graduation.

More information about academic advising and resources, including links to the unit advising centers, can be found at the Undergraduate Advising website (<http://louisville.edu/advising/>).

Academic advising assists students with, among other things, the following:

- Choosing a major and developing a four-, five-, or six-year Flight Plan (<http://louisville.edu/flightplan/>) for graduation.
- Selecting appropriate courses and making schedule changes.
- Navigating course repeats and withdrawals.
- Addressing academic difficulties in coursework and issues related to academic standing.
- Advising on campus resources.
- Filing leave of absence requests.
- Processing transfer credit evaluations and degree audits.

Students may not register for classes until their advising requirement has been satisfied. The following categories of students are required to meet with an advisor each semester in order to register for courses:

- Freshmen with less than 24 earned credit hours applicable to the degree.
- Transfer students (external and internal) upon initial admission and in their first semester.
- Students who are on academic warning and probation.
- Students who have a break in enrollment of two or more consecutive years.
- Students who are undecided.
- Students who are seeking admission into another enrollment unit.

- Students who have missed program milestones.
- Students who are required to be advised by individual academic units.

Visiting and post-baccalaureate students are not required to meet with an advisor in order to register for courses in the subsequent semester.

Unit-Specific Policies: Academic Advising

In addition to the university-wide policies regarding Academic Advising, students may be subject to the unit-specific requirements listed below.

More information about academic advising and resources, including links to the unit advising centers, can be found at the Undergraduate Advising website (<http://louisville.edu/advising/>).

College of Arts & Sciences

In addition to the university requirements, academic advising is required for the following students enrolled in the College of Arts & Sciences:

- All students with fewer than 30 earned hours,
- Returning students who have sat out for a period of one semester or longer, and
- Students with 45 or more earned hours who have not formally applied for and been accepted into a major program.

Visiting students and post-baccalaureate students are not subject to the advising requirement. Students for whom advising is required will not be permitted to register for courses until completion of the advising requirement has been entered into the enrollment system.

Students who have been accepted to a major are highly encouraged to meet with faculty in their field of study. The College of Arts & Sciences also provides pre-professional advising for students interested in careers in law and in health-related fields.

College of Business

All business students are recommended to schedule an appointment with their advisor at the Reinhardt Academic Center periodically; Equine majors must contact the advisor within that discipline.

College of Education and Human Development

All students entering degree and/or teacher certification programs must schedule an appointment to meet with an academic counselor in Education Advising and Student Services to have an official program sheet prepared. This includes both internal and external transfer students who have been admitted to the College of Education and Human Development as well as new freshmen.

School of Music

Advising is required for all music students until they have completed all prerequisites for Upper Division courses. (See the Upper Division statement in the School of Music Unit Section and in the music degrees outlined in the undergraduate catalog.) Students will be blocked from registration for classes until the advising requirement has been satisfied.

School of Nursing

Freshmen and transfer students with less than 28 hours are required to be advised prior to registration. All new students are required to be advised regardless of credit hours.

Students who are out of sequence in their upper division program of study must meet with their advisor to revise their program of study and submit a School of Nursing space available form.

School of Public Health and Information Sciences

A student is assigned an academic advisor on matriculation and is required to meet with that advisor every semester. The student is responsible for scheduling these required advisory meetings.

Speed School of Engineering

All BS and MEng students are required to be advised by their academic counselor each semester. Students will be unable to register for classes until cleared by an academic counselor.

Alternative Coursework

University Policies: Alternative Coursework

In addition to the traditional course offerings, the University of Louisville may award academic credit through alternative means. Such opportunities do not require the customary classroom attendance and participation and include extramural examinations, conference work, independent studies, internships, cooperative education, field experiences, and clinical rotations. Each of these experiences requires the approval of the enrollment unit and not all are available in every unit, so students should consult with the advising office for availability and requirements.

The most common alternatives for earning credit outside of traditional coursework are independent study and internships:

Independent Studies

Many units offer independent study courses, which provide the opportunity for the student, under the supervision of a sponsoring faculty member, to pursue individualized study related to research or practice that is not included in regular courses in the curriculum. Students must present a written plan to their department that includes the purpose, rationale, activities planned, and expected learning outcomes, and the plan must be approved by the instructor, department chair, and unit dean and submitted to the registrar. A title for this individualized study course will be assigned by the supervising faculty member and will appear on the student's academic record.

Before applying for an independent study, students should have at least 30 semester hours and a 3.0 GPA.

Internships, Cooperative Education, Field Experiences, Clinical Rotations

These courses give students the opportunity to earn academic credit for workplace experiences that support the educational goals of the student's academic discipline. Students should consult with their academic advisor to determine the requirements within their units.

Approved opportunities range from full- to part-time, temporary to permanent, paid to non-paid.

In some programs, internships, cooperative education, field experiences, and clinical rotations are required to satisfy degree requirements.

Unit-Specific Policies

In addition to the university-wide policies regarding Alternative Coursework, students may be subject to the unit-specific requirements listed below.

Conference Work

Conference work refers to completion of course requirements through satisfactory performance on all regularly scheduled writing assignments and examinations, including the final examination. Students enrolled for conference work are excused from regular class attendance. However, the following requirements apply:

- The instructor excuses the students from all participation except for the writing assignments and examinations;
- The waiver must be given at the beginning of the semester;
- The students must be enrolled for credit in the courses; and
- The students must pay the regular fees for credit courses.

Students who satisfactorily complete the requirements for conference work receive the same semester hours as though they attended the class regularly, and their grade will be determined by performance on the writing assignments and examinations.

Credit by Examination

Extra-curricular examinations allow students to fulfill course requirements by meeting criteria established and evaluated by a special examining committee. These examinations are customarily taken by students whose work outside of college classes has given them knowledge equivalent to that of students who have completed the classes.

The requirements for such an examination are:

- Students must first obtain the approval of the chair of the department in which they propose to earn credit through examination, specifying why credit by examination would be justified in their programs.
- Students must obtain an application for credit by examination from the College Advising Center and return the completed form to the Center.
- Students must pay one half the regular fees for the course.

- A faculty committee must agree to serve as examiners. The committee will consist of a regular instructor for the course, who chairs the committee, and two additional examiners, one of whom must be from outside the Division.
- Students must take both a written and an oral examination.
- Students must submit to the chair of the committee any evidence of achievement, in addition to the written and the oral examinations, which the chair requires.
- Students must be enrolled concurrently in the College for a minimum of 6 semester hours of regular course work.

Credits earned by conference work or by examination are counted in the student's regular load, which must not exceed 17 semester hours per semester. (See Course Load).

Cooperative Internships

The College will award academic credit for eligible work experiences that qualify under the College's Internship Policy. To qualify for enrollment in a cooperative internship course for credit, each student is required to present:

- Either 45 credit hours, including 9 in the unit in which credit is sought, or 60 credit hours, including 6 in the unit in which credit is sought;
- A minimum grade point average of 2.5 for all coursework taken; and
- A completed Application for Enrollment in Cooperative Internship Form.

Transfer students must have completed one full semester of work (i.e., 12 hours) at the University of Louisville.

A maximum of twelve credits of Internship (including hours earned in GEN 301) may apply toward the 121 hours required for the degree.

For information about internships, contact the chair of the department of the major.

Independent Study

Students may, with permission of the Departmental or Divisional Chair and the Dean, register for Independent Study in a particular department. The student must have an overall grade point average of 3.0, a grade point average of 3.5 in the department, and at least 18 semester hours' credit in that department unless otherwise waived by the department. Independent Study consists of a minor research project conducted under the direction of a faculty member. Students obtain forms for Independent Study from their department. The completed forms with required signatures must be turned in at registration. Credits earned through Independent Study are counted in the regular load, which must not exceed 18 credit hours per semester.

College of Business

Awarding of Credit for Non-Traditional Work

The College of Business does not award credit for work experience, noncredit courses or internships, independent studies, or co-ops taken at another academic institution.

Correspondence Courses

The College of Business does not offer courses by correspondence, nor does it grant credit for business courses taken by correspondence. Students who wish to take correspondence courses to fulfill the Arts and Sciences requirements for their program should contact the College of Business, Reinhardt Academic Center.

Cooperative Education

The COB faculty and employers structure individually appropriate practical experiences that build professional competence, apply academic principles, and help evaluate career options.

COB majors may earn either three (3) or six (6) hours of academic credit through the Co-op program, as specified in each major's Degree Program section of this catalog. One hour of academic credit is given for each 75 hours of approved work. Students can be considered full-time during a semester in which they are registered for three (3) Co-op credit hours. Students register for credit during the semester in which the majority of the work takes place. Start dates for COB Co-op are flexible. Co-op evaluations are graded on a Pass/Fail basis. Deadlines for each semester are posted in the COB Ulmer Career Management Center.

Under certain circumstances a student may be eligible to take an approved internship or Co-op for no academic credit. Such an internship or Co-op will appear on the transcript without any academic credit. Contact the Ulmer Career Center for details.

All majors are encouraged to plan in advance for Co-op, which is typically taken during the junior and/or senior years. Computer Information Systems majors register for Co-op as a graduation requirement and usually work full-time for six (6) months prior to graduation.

International students must validate work authorization eligibility through the International Center prior to working with the COB Ulmer Career Management Center.

Approved COB Co-op may be paid or non-paid. Students may work full-time, alternating semesters of Co-op with semesters of campus academics. Or, students may work part-time, in order to parallel workplace and classroom experiences. Employment arrangements are between students and employers while the COB provides structure, guidance, and evaluation for educational components. Program requirements include the following:

- Be enrolled in good standing in the College of Business
- Maintain a 2.0 cumulative university GPA.
- Have completed prerequisite courses established by each major area of study.
- Work in positions that are approved for credit in the educational discipline of the student's major. These positions must be current level-appropriate experiences that can be characterized as new learning and/or new responsibilities. Credit is not given for past employment experience or continuing employment that does not offer new employment challenges.

Apply for COB Co-op on the Ulmer Career Center website: business.louisville.edu/careers (<http://www.business.louisville.edu/careers/>).

Business minors (other than Management) do not have the option for Co-op credit.

Course by Conference

Under certain circumstances, a student may complete a course on an individual basis with an instructor. This is called a course by conference. Course by conference forms are available in the Education Advising and Student Services office. Signatures of the instructor, department chairperson, and dean are required on the form.

Independent Study

Credit may be earned by independent study with the permission of the dean, department chairperson, and instructor. Independent study forms are available in the Education Advising and Student Services office.

Statement on Student Teaching/Field Experience

In all phases of the Developmental Teacher Preparation Model, candidates participating in field and clinical experiences must abide by all policies, rules, and regulations of the University and the assigned school. Failure to abide by standards of conduct and performance established by the faculty may result in removal from the program. Electronic documentation of 200 hours of diverse and approved field experiences is required prior to student teaching.

Student teaching requires a minimum 15-week clinical experience in school setting(s) related to the teaching certificate a teacher candidate is seeking. Teacher candidates work with a cooperating teacher and University supervisor participating in the work of teaching. Evaluation is based on Kentucky Teacher Performance Standards and Professional Code of Ethics.

Speed School of Engineering

Independent Study Courses

Engineering students should have at least 30-semester hours and a 2.5 GPA before applying for an independent study. Students must obtain approval from the instructor, department chair, and Associate Dean for Academic Affairs.

Cooperative Education

The principal purpose of the J.B. Speed School of Engineering is to give the student a thorough, well-balanced training in engineering and applied science as preparation for entry into the profession of engineering. The Engineering Office of Co-op and Career Development assists each student in obtaining a suitable cooperative work assignment in their chosen industry or research field, at locations throughout the US and occasionally abroad. During each co-op assignment, students work full-time and receive a salary from their employer

Engineering Cooperative Education

In order to qualify for the Bachelor of Science degree, students must successfully complete three engineering co-ops.

Eligibility for Co-op

Co-op eligibility is dependent upon the student's admission to an academic department, being in good academic standing within Speed School, and upon completion of pre- and co-requisites for the Co-op Seminar (288) and co-op rotations (289, 389, 489). Students must be enrolled in the Co-op Seminar (288) in a semester preceding their first cooperative work assignment. In addition, transfer students must have completed at least one semester of full-time coursework in Speed School including the Co-op Seminar (288) before their first co-op.

A student may lose their eligibility for co-op for any of the following reasons:

- Academic Warning or Probation,
- Disciplinary Probation,
- Employer Termination,
- Unauthorized Change of Co-op Employer,

- Actions that reflect negatively on the J.B. Speed School of Engineering,
- Unprofessional conduct (not attending scheduled interviews, not responding to Co-op office enquiries, etc.), or
- Unsatisfactory Co-op Employer Performance Review.

If a student loses their Co-op eligibility, they must submit a petition to re-enter Co-op.

Student Responsibilities

Students will alternate Co-ops with semesters of full-time class work.

Students are required to register for the Co-op prior to the beginning of each work term.

Students are expected to work the dates of Co-op designated by the Engineering Office of Co-op and Career Development Office.

Unless specifically approved by the Co-op coordinator, all Co-op work terms will be conducted with the same employer and in alternating semesters.

Students are employees of the company or organization while they are on Co-op and are subject to employer rules and regulations. Students are expected to maintain the highest performance and behavioral standards while on Co-op.

If a student is terminated from cooperative employment or otherwise disciplined for any reason, it must be immediately reported by the student to the Co-op coordinator. A student who is terminated for any reason other than the employer's business conditions will receive an F grade in Co-op and, in addition, may be subject to academic sanctions as well as disciplinary action in accordance with the Code of Student Conduct.

The university is not liable for any accident or injury involving a Co-op student. However, it is the responsibility of the student to see that any serious accident or injury is reported, at the earliest opportunity, to the Co-op coordinator. Students are required to sign and abide by the policies and procedures set forth in the Cooperative Education Student Agreement provided in the Co-op seminar.

Salary

In general, students are classified as temporary full-time employees and are paid on an hourly basis while on Co-op. Pay rates vary according to employer and location.

Length of Employment

In order to be eligible to receive the Bachelor of Science degree, all candidates must have completed three cooperative semesters.

Course Enrollment During Co-op

In general, academic coursework is not allowed during the Co-op work period. In some instances, with approval, a student may enroll for academic coursework not exceeding four semester hours during any Co-op period. Approval will be given only for academic coursework that is taken outside normal working hours (8:00 – 5:00) and which does not interfere with the co-op work assignment. Permission to take a course must be obtained prior to the beginning of the co-op period. Request forms are available from the Engineering Office of Student Success.

Evaluation and Academic Credit

Co-op students are graded on a pass/fail basis and earn one semester hour of credit for each completed co-op, for a total of three semester hours. At the conclusion of a co-op semester, each student is evaluated by the appropriate employer representative. The report will be reviewed and approved by the co-op coordinator and faculty in the student's major department.

Advanced Standing Credit

Advanced Standing credit for co-op may be awarded upon approval of the department chair, the Director of Co-op and Career Development and the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs. Students who performed full-time work of a technical nature before entering Speed School and students who have had military experience are eligible. A letter is required from the employer verifying the dates and the nature of the employment. In the case of military experience, veterans may submit a copy of their separation form in lieu of the employer's letter. Students who participate in ROTC or military summer camp may receive credit for one co-op (1 hour).

Forms for advanced standing credit are available from the Engineering Office of Co-op and Career Development. Part-time work or work performed subsequent to entering Speed School will not qualify for advanced standing credit. If the work, however, was comparable to a co-op assignment and was performed during a semester in which the student was enrolled for no more than four semester hours, then the student may be eligible, upon approval, for back registration. The student must pay tuition for the one credit hour of coursework, as well as the co-op course fee, and will be expected to fulfill normal course requirements for co-op, including submission of a co-op report and employer evaluation.

Employment Opportunities

Securing a co-op position is affected by general economic conditions and particular employer specifications. Therefore, the University cannot guarantee employment. However, every effort will be made to assist students in finding cooperative assignments appropriate to their specialization and personal preference. Students who obtain their own co-op employment must have the approval of the cooperative education coordinator and are subject to the policies and procedures stated herein and the Cooperative Education Student Agreement.

Waiver Policy

When a student experiences extreme difficulty in obtaining a suitable co-op position, that student may seek an administrative waiver from the department chair and the Director of Career Development. Waiver recipients are required to complete a minimum of three semester hours of additional courses for each cooperative period waived. The three semester hours must be in addition to courses required for the baccalaureate degree and must be approved by the department chair.

International Students Exemption

A student who holds a student visa is exempt from the mandatory cooperative education requirement. Student visa holders are required to complete a minimum of three semester hours of additional courses for each co-op. The three semester hours must be in addition to courses required for the baccalaureate degree and must be approved by the department chair.

Graduate Career Employment

Graduating students and alumni should register with the Engineering Co-op and Career Development Office for job search assistance. On-campus interviews, individual counseling, and group information sessions are conducted throughout the year.

Extramural Examinations

Advanced Placement Examinations of the College Board

In accordance with Kentucky Senate Bill 74, the University of Louisville awards credit for scores of 3 on all Advanced Placement Examinations of the College Board. A higher score may be required to receive credit for specific courses within certain disciplines. Elective credit will be awarded for Advanced Placement Examinations not listed or for scores of 3 when a higher score is required for specific course credit. Scores should be submitted to the Office of Admissions as soon as they are available.

Advanced placement scores and course equivalencies (<http://louisville.edu/admissions/apply/test-credit/ap-credit/>) are available from the Office of Admissions.

For more information go to: louisville.edu/admissions/apply/test-credit/ap-credit (<http://louisville.edu/admissions/apply/test-credit/ap-credit/>)

College-Level Examination Program of the College Board

UofL awards credit on the basis of the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) administered by the College Board. CLEP examinations may be taken at any national test center, including the University of Louisville Testing Service. Prior arrangements with the testing center must be made, and there is a fee for the general examination and for each subject examination. A CLEP Bulletin of Information for candidates may be obtained from most testing centers, or by writing the following address:

CLEP
Box 1821
Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

Scores obtained should be sent to the Office of Admissions.

Areas of study, the amount of credit allowed, and minimum scores (<http://louisville.edu/admissions/apply/test-credit/clep-credit/>) are determined by the Office of Admissions. Credit earned through CLEP does not count as credit earned in residence at the University of Louisville. For more information go to louisville.edu/admissions/apply/test-credit/clep-credit (<http://louisville.edu/admissions/apply/test-credit/clep-credit/>)

International Baccalaureate

The university awards academic credit to entering freshmen who have completed the International Baccalaureate (IB) Program. Credit will be awarded for most IB Higher or Standard Level exams completed with a 5 or higher.

Scores and course equivalencies (<http://louisville.edu/admissions/apply/test-credit/ib-credit/>) are available from the Office of Admissions.

For more information go to louisville.edu/admissions/apply/test-credit/ib-credit (<http://louisville.edu/admissions/apply/test-credit/ib-credit/>)

Foreign Language Advanced Standing

Students who wish to continue the study of a foreign language begun in high school must take placement examinations in order to be placed at the appropriate level. To receive university credit for language study completed at the high school level, the placement examination is required before attempting university language study.

The placement exam is administered online and can be completed at modernlanguages.louisville.edu/spanishfrenchexam.php (<http://modernlanguages.louisville.edu/spanishfrenchexam.php>).

The placement tests may not be used to earn credit if the student already has received college- or university-level credit in that language elsewhere or has enrolled in a course in that language at this university.

When a student places into a course numbered higher than 121, credit toward graduation will be awarded for those elementary or intermediate courses by-passed only if the student completes successfully the language class into which s/he is placed.

A student placing in the 300 level will receive 12 hours of P/Pass credit for courses numbered 121, 122, 123, or 221 (depending on the language) upon successful completion of a 300-level class in the language<sup>1</sup>. Any credit earned by placement testing will be posted on the student's record only after completion of a regular semester of full-time study (or 12 semester hours) at the University of Louisville. Students should not enroll for credit in a course they have successfully bypassed through examination.

A student who has earned college credit for work done in high school may choose whether to use that credit -or- the credit earned through the placement examination program described above. These regulations also apply to Metroversity students.

For foreign students whose previous academic work has been in a language other than English, the foreign language requirement for graduation will be waived automatically. No credit will be granted for 100- or 200-level language courses to any student for whom that course is his/her native language. Students may obtain credit for courses in linguistics, culture or literature numbered 300 or above in their native language by extramural examination or by taking the courses.

For information about placement examinations in American Sign Language, contact:

American Sign Language and Interpreting Studies (<https://louisville.edu/languages/american-sign-language/>)
Louisville, KY 40292
(502) 852-4607

<sup>1</sup> Eighteen hours of credit by placement are available in Spanish for students who test into SPAN courses 321, 322, or 355.

Auditing Courses

Audited courses do not earn credit, although the transcript will indicate that the course was taken as an audit. Because audit status is offered only on a space-available basis, students may not register for a class in an audit status during early registration, nor may a student change from graded to audit status during that period.

Students may register for classes in audit status during regular registration and then only with the written approval of the instructor of the course. Not all instructors allow auditors. Work expectations of auditors can vary across courses and instructors, and the specific work expectations that will warrant the audit designation on the transcript should be confirmed with the instructor facilitating the course. Auditors who do not fulfill the work expectations may be withdrawn from the course with a grade of W noted on the transcript.

Students who have registered in audit status will not receive credit for the course unless their registration has been changed officially from audit to credit by the published deadline for such a change. Students are allowed to change from audit to grade status or from grade status to audit status at any time from the beginning of regular registration through the last day to add a class with approval from the course instructor. Students are advised that such approval is the instructor's prerogative, subject to completion of course prerequisites, and that audit status may have implications for financial aid eligibility.

Any change of status must be submitted on a Drop/Add and Grade Type Change Form and turned in to the Registrar's Office by the deadline. Students admitted to the unit as Auditors are not eligible to take courses for credit and may not change their class registration from audit to credit.

Students are cautioned that auditing a class cannot substitute for taking the course for credit if that course is part of the credit hour requirement for graduation, including both college-wide and major requirements. Any required course taken as audit must be retaken for credit in order to be counted toward a degree. Students are advised to consult with their academic advisor to determine if registration in audit status is appropriate. Students may enroll for credit in any course which was taken for audit, in a semester subsequent to the semester when the course was audited, provided those students have been admitted to the unit on a basis that confers eligibility to take courses for credit. If students take a course for both audit and credit, the transcript will show both entries.

Course Load

University Policies: Course Load

All baccalaureate degree programs require at least 120 credit hours, but more may be required in some programs. A typical schedule in the fall and spring semesters is 15 semester hours, but may vary by semester and program from 12 to 18 hours. Some programs also have planned summer loads.

Students may need to prove full-time/half-time status in order to be eligible for dependent insurance and to defer repayment of some loans, among other reasons. Definitions of full-time/half-time are defined according to federal government regulations for financial aid recipients. Students will be certified as full-time if registered for 12 or more hours in any semester, including summer. Cooperative internships also qualify for full-time status in some units. For half-time status, students must be registered for a minimum of 6 hours during any semester, including summer.

Students in good standing typically may take no more than 18 hours in the fall and spring semesters. Under special circumstances, students who have completed a minimum of 30 hours at UofL and who have a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.0 may request permission through their advising center to take an overload. For the summer semester students are limited to 4 hours in the three-week summer session and 7 hours during each of the five-week summer sessions. Typically, there are no overloads for summer, though overload approvals may vary by unit. Permissions are handled by procedures determined by the Dean's office in each unit, and some units may accept petitions for course overloads above those listed above.

Students on academic warning or probation and students admitted in conditional status are limited to 14 hours during the fall and spring semesters and to a total of 10 semester hours during the summer sessions.

Unit-Specific Policies

In addition to the university-wide policies regarding Course Load, students may be subject to the unit-specific requirements listed below.

College of Arts and Sciences

Students with less than 30 hours at UofL and a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.5 may petition to take more than 18 hours. Students with a 3.0 grade point average at the University of Louisville may petition to take up to nine hours in a five-week session, but are still limited to a maximum of 18 hours in the summer semester.

College of Business

Full-time status in the COB can also be met by being registered for 3 credit hours of approved COB Co-op in a given semester. Co-op credit hours count toward the total hours taken. All COB students considering COB Co-op should evaluate course loads in terms of individual needs and plan accordingly with the assistance of an academic advisor. Other academic course load during a Co-op semester should be severely limited. Students should check with their financial aid lending institution when considering the impact of COB Co-op on financial planning for semesters involving co-op work.

Students on academic warning and probation are also restricted to no more than one course per summer term.

Note: The College of Business reserves the right to administratively withdraw students from courses based on academic policies.

College of Education & Human Development

The maximum load for the summer semester is 15 semester hours.

Kent School of Social Work

The maximum load in summer sessions is 3 semester hours for the first term and 6 semester hours in the second and third terms. Students should note that the Kent summer term, if taking social work electives, extends across all three summer terms and should work with their advisor to determine their summer load.

Students on academic warning and probation and students admitted on limited load are limited to 13 hours during the fall and spring semesters and to a total of 12 semester hours during the summer session.

School of Music

Overload students in the School of Music may not exceed 20 credit hours per semester. A petition will be required for each semester of overload request.

School of Music students on probation are limited to a maximum of 14 credit hours per semester and students admitted in conditional status to a maximum of 14 credit hours. No overloads will be approved while a student remains in such status. Summer session enrollments will be limited to a maximum of 4 credit hours for three-week terms and 7 credit hours for five-week terms.

Speed School of Engineering

Students may take a maximum of 18 credit hours each fall and spring semester and 13 credit hours in the summer term. In special circumstances during fall and spring semesters, students may register for 19 credit hours with permission from the Associate Dean for Academic and Student Affairs.

Students on either academic warning or academic probation status are limited to no more than 13 credit hours during fall and spring semesters and 7 credit hours during the summer term.

Pass/Fail

Undergraduate students in good academic standing may enroll in one undergraduate course each semester on a pass/fail basis, provided that the course is not used to meet a general education requirement, a programmatic requirement at either the degree program or college level, a prerequisite requirement for admission to a degree program, or a foreign language requirement for a degree program. If the course is letter-graded, the instructor's agreement (signature) must be secured by students for pass/fail grading to be applied to the course, and the student's enrollment unit must approve the request.

Courses completed on a pass/fail basis will not be assigned any quality points, but credit will be given if the grade assigned is a P. If the grade assigned is F, it will be calculated as such in the student's grade point average. No letter-grade equivalent for a P grade will be assigned or reported.

No changes from letter grade to pass/fail, or vice versa, may be made after the university deadline to withdraw from a course.

This policy will not apply to courses taught only on a pass-fail basis, such as some internship and field experience courses.

Registration

Students may register for courses during the priority early registration period before the beginning of the semester. A student's first opportunity is based on classification and alphabetic rotation. The early registration period is then followed by regular and late registration. The registration calendar for any term is published online by the office of the registrar.

Initial registration and any later registration changes are usually completed by students through the registration link of the ULink online portal (<https://ulink.louisville.edu/>).

Initial registration must be completed by the date announced by the registrar, typically the fifth day of classes. Students may make adjustments to their course schedule until the end of the first week for regularly scheduled fall and spring courses. For summer courses and courses with atypical duration, the last date to adjust schedules is specified by the registrar in the official registration calendar. This last day to adjust schedules is referred to as the last day to drop/add.

Students may add courses to their schedules until the last day to drop/add. No signature or other authorization is required if the added course is open for enrollment, if students meet all course prerequisites, and if such additional courses do not raise the students' credit#hours for the term above the maximum allowed by the students' enrollment unit or academic standing. If the addition increases the tuition cost for the semester, the additional payment must be settled with the university bursar by the last day to drop/add.

Students can place their names on the waitlist for a course that is closed.

Students are automatically moved from the waitlist to registration in the course as spaces open until the end of the first week of classes.

Students may add their names to the waitlist until the third day of classes for regularly scheduled fall and spring courses, and the first day of classes for summer courses.

Students may drop a course from their schedule until the last day of drop/add. Courses that are dropped during the regular registration period are not listed on the transcript. Students should consider how dropping a course will affect their progress toward their degree and their financial aid eligibility. Students who stop attending a class but fail to complete the drop process, regardless of the date when they stopped attending the course, will be given the grade of F for the course.

Students who wish to enroll in concurrent courses at another institution should consult their academic advisor before registration to secure a visiting student letter, and to ensure proper enrollment and recording of courses. Students in good standing who have earned a minimum of twelve hours may be able to cross-register at other universities in the Kentuckiana Metroversity consortium. Cross registration is permitted on a space-available basis at the discretion of the member institutions.

The combined program of work in all institutions may not exceed the maximum course load permitted for students at the University of Louisville. Failure to follow these guidelines may result in loss of credit or in ineligibility to transfer the credits from the other schools toward the requirements for graduation.

Repeating Courses

Students are allowed to repeat a course only once, with the most recent grade counting for grade point average calculation and towards degree requirements. Students are advised to weigh carefully the tradeoff between 1) possibly improving their academic standing by repeating a course and earning a higher grade, and 2) the investment of time and money in repeating courses.

Students may petition to repeat a course more than once through a process determined by each academic unit.

Although all grades are displayed on the official transcript, repeated courses cannot receive double credit in hours required for the degree and count only once toward graduation.

Students may only receive federal and state financial aid funds one time for retaking previously passed coursework. Students should speak with a financial aid advisor about the impact on financial aid before making the decision to repeat a course that was previously passed.

Course Numbering

University of Louisville undergraduate students typically take courses at the 100 through 400 level. Courses numbered below the 100 level are not used in calculations of earned hours or the university grade point average. Courses numbered at the 100 and 200 level are primarily for freshmen and sophomores, and such courses generally contain introductory or basic material. Courses numbered at the 300 and 400 level are primarily for juniors and seniors, and such courses generally contain advanced undergraduate material.

Courses at the 500-level may be open to both advanced undergraduate and graduate students. Courses numbered at the 600-level and above are for graduate students only. Undergraduate students requesting to enroll in a 500-level course for graduate credit or in a 600-level course may do so only with special permission of the instructor in the course and the dean of the student's enrollment unit, be registered for at least one undergraduate course, have earned at least 60 credit hours of coursework at the undergraduate level, and have a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0. A maximum of nine (9) credit hours of graduate coursework may be applied to the undergraduate degree. Such graduate level courses will satisfy requirements toward the undergraduate degree and therefore cannot be used for subsequent graduate credit.

In rare cases, undergraduate students at the University of Louisville who are within six (6) semester hours of completing the baccalaureate requirements and who are enrolled in a graduate course may obtain graduate credit at the University of Louisville. This can only occur if the course has not been used to satisfy part of the baccalaureate requirements, and if the chair of the department involved and the unit dean approve.

Accelerated Bachelor's/Master's Option

Undergraduate students enrolled in accelerated programs are eligible to register for graduate-level coursework. Students must apply for admission to the program no later than the end of their junior year to be eligible enroll in graduate coursework in their final year of the program.

The student may take a maximum of nine (9) credit hours for graduate credit, which will also apply to the requirements for the baccalaureate degree. Those nine (9) credit hours of graduate credit must be transferred to the student's graduate record after the student completes one semester as a graduate student.

See specific degree programs for further requirements.

Prerequisites

Students must have completed the proper prerequisites to register for any course. It is the student's responsibility to know the prerequisites for a course by checking the course description section of the online university undergraduate catalog. While some of these courses are open to all students enrolled in the University of Louisville, many are restricted to students in certain programs.

Administrative Withdrawal and Course Cancellations

The dean's office in each unit reserves the right to administratively withdraw students from courses based on academic policies.

The units also reserve the right to cancel without prior notice any courses listed in the Schedule of Classes, and to cancel any course that does not have an adequate enrollment at a reasonable time during the registration period for the semester. The university attempts to provide all courses required for graduation frequently enough to ensure that no student's degree will be delayed by course unavailability, but the university cannot guarantee that such delay will not occur.

Withdrawals

Students may withdraw from courses after the drop/add period up until the withdrawal deadline. A grade of W (withdrawal) will be posted to students' transcripts. The hours count as attempted hours but do not count as earned hours, and the grade will have no effect on the students' grade point averages. Students withdraw by using the registration link of the ULink online portal. No signature or other authorization is required if the change is made by the withdrawal deadline, but students should consult with academic and/or financial aid advisors to understand how withdrawing from a course will affect their academic plan status, their progress toward their degree, and their financial aid eligibility.

The withdrawal deadline for each semester is specified in the official registration calendar. The deadline typically occurs shortly after mid-term.

Students who stop attending class without withdrawing will be given the grade of F for the course.

Students who make a complete withdrawal from all courses for a particular semester should contact their academic advisor to seek alternative solutions and/or to improve the possibility of returning to the university at a later date. A complete withdrawal must be processed in accordance with the procedures established by the academic unit.

In exceptional circumstances, students may petition for a late withdrawal after the withdrawal deadline. Students who intend to continue in other courses during the semester must petition the course instructional unit (the academic unit in which the course is taught). Students who intend to withdraw from all courses for which they are registered (late complete withdrawal) must petition their enrollment unit (the academic unit in which they are enrolled for their degree work). Proper documentation of the exceptional circumstances must accompany the petition for a late complete withdrawal. The enrollment unit shall request and consider all instructors' recommendations in deciding on the petition for a late complete withdrawal. Students should contact the advising office in the appropriate unit for guidance in the petition process.

Compassionate Withdrawal

Students may request and be considered for a compassionate withdrawal when extraordinary circumstances prevent students from continuing in classes or completing academic requirements. If students are gravely incapacitated, the request may come from the student's spouse, family or legal surrogate. The office of the dean of students will gather necessary documentation to show that the situation is incapacitating. Such situations cover both physical and mental health issues, serious illness or injury, and extraordinary personal reasons. The office of the dean of students will review and evaluate the compassionate withdrawal request and take follow-up action to refer the case to the appropriate officer (e.g., unit dean) for review and decision.

The Office of the Dean of Students will coordinate the process with the unit dean's designee. An academic withdrawal does not remove a student's financial responsibility for his/her educational expenses. Students are responsible for payment of any outstanding charges including, but not limited to tuition, fees, parking, housing and other expenses, after the academic withdrawal is granted. The Office of the Dean of Students will assist with the identification and completion of all necessary business processes.

Withdrawal Effective Date

The effective withdrawal date is the date on which the withdrawal is processed in the student records system. This date is used in calculating any applicable tuition reduction. When students officially withdraw from any course or courses for which hourly rates apply, tuition will be adjusted at the following ratios for regularly scheduled fall and spring classes:

Tuition Charge/Credit	Withdrawal Date	Fees Refunded
0% charge/100% credit	Drop during first week of semester	100% fees
50% charge/50% credit	Withdrawal during second or third week of semester	0% fees
75% charge/25% credit	Withdrawal during fourth week of semester	0% fees
100% charge/0% credit	Withdrawal after fourth week of the semester	0% fees

Summer courses and some fall and spring semester courses vary in length and the percentage of refunds is modified. Refund deadlines for special terms and courses are listed in the online Registration Information (<https://louisville.edu/registrar/registration/>).

Course fees (as opposed to tuition) are refundable only with 100% credit.

Academic Forgiveness

Academic Forgiveness allows currently enrolled students or students who are eligible to re-enroll without seeking readmission to request the adjustment of their records for one or more continuous entire semesters of previous college work. If the appropriate committee within the students' enrollment unit or the unit in which they seek to re-enroll finds there are extenuating circumstances that warrant such action, the committee may rule the students eligible for academic forgiveness. The committee will approve petitions only if future academic success seems plausible, with the expectation that such forgiveness should typically have a positive effect on persistence toward eventual graduation.

Forgiveness will only be applied to the record after the successful completion of at least 12 hours after the last term for which forgiveness is to be requested. The 12 hours should be in degree applicable courses with the necessary semester grade point average designated by their enrollment unit. After these 12 hours have been attempted, students may petition the appropriate committee for academic forgiveness, designating the semester or consecutive sequence of semesters to which the forgiveness process is to apply. If approved, all course grades and credit hours for the forgiven semesters will be voided. Students may not be granted academic forgiveness more than once.

The voided grades and credit hours will not be considered for degree requirements or quality-point computations, but will remain on the students' transcript. Academic actions, such as probation or dismissal, recorded at the end of the voided terms, will also remain. While forgiven course grades are removed from the calculation, the course work does remain a part of the students' permanent record and the forgiven work may be considered for financial aid, NCAA purposes, and may be evaluated if applying for honors or graduate study.

Academic forgiveness is an internal policy. The University of Louisville cannot guarantee how the work will be viewed by another university should students choose to transfer. Students considering this option are strongly encouraged to consult with their academic advisor for guidance.

Academic Fresh Start

Students who are re-admitted to the university after an absence of two or more years may request a Fresh Start. Students must take at least 30 hours of course work at the University after re#admission and before graduation for Fresh Start to be applicable. Students are eligible for only one Fresh Start. Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from the University are not eligible for Fresh Start.

If the Fresh Start is approved by the university, students resume an academic program with no cumulative grade point average from the prior enrollment. All courses taken remain on the permanent record. Courses with passing grades are counted for credit and may be used to satisfy program requirements.

Students may be required to retake courses from academic terms covered by Fresh Start if the content-currency or major-GPA rules of a degree program, department or unit so dictate. Students will be notified at the time of application for the Fresh Start of any additional requirements to be fulfilled in remedying these conditions.

Although Fresh Start affects cumulative grade point average, it has no impact on earned and attempted hours. All courses taken at the university will still be used for financial aid. Financial aid recipients will still have to adhere to the Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) policy administered by the Student Financial Aid Office. Students who are granted a Fresh Start are not automatically cleared of any SAP issues. If interested in submitting a SAP appeal, students should contact the Student Financial Aid Office.

Courses taken under the repeat-to-replace option during the period covered by a Fresh Start will be subject to the university repeat policy. Financial aid for repeat courses is calculated according to federal regulations.

For the purposes of scholastic action and advising, students are initially assigned to the same academic standing as when they last attended the university. Thereafter, students are subject to the conditions of probation, suspension and dismissal that govern all students. GPA calculations for graduation honors follow the rules established by the students' enrollment unit.

While the UGPA calculation restarts after Fresh Start is applied, all previous course work remains a part of the students' permanent record and may be considered for financial aid, or NCAA purposes, and may be evaluated if applying for honors or graduate study.

Fresh Start is an internal policy. The University of Louisville cannot guarantee how the work will be viewed by another university should students choose to transfer. Students considering this option are strongly encouraged to consult with their academic advisor for guidance.

Academic Standing

Decisions involving academic warning, probation, suspension, dismissal and readmission are made by each academic unit. These decisions are based on the university's undergraduate grade point average (UGPA) and the program grade point average (PGPA). The unit notifies students after the end of each semester if their status changes. Notifications of such academic actions are officially made through the student's university email account.

Undergraduate students are in good standing when they have a cumulative UGPA of at least 2.00 and a cumulative PGPA greater than the program requirement. Each unit determines their own program requirements.

After the first 12 degree-applicable semester hours at the University, students who have either a cumulative UGPA below 2.00, or a cumulative PGPA below the program requirement, will be placed on academic warning. Such students will be notified and strongly encouraged to seek assistance from their advising center.

In any semester subsequent to an academic warning, students whose cumulative UGPA falls below 2.00, or cumulative PGPA falls below the program requirement, will be placed on academic probation for the next semester of enrollment. Academic probation is considered a serious warning that students are making unsatisfactory progress toward completion of the academic requirements for a particular degree program. Students on academic probation may be ineligible to hold office in campus organizations, to go out on co-op, internship, or clinical assignments, or to represent the school or the University in any official capacity.

Students on academic probation shall be removed from that standing at the end of the first subsequent semester in which they achieve a cumulative UGPA of at least 2.00 and a cumulative PGPA greater than the program requirement. Such students will return to good standing. Students on academic probation shall be placed on academic suspension at the end of the first subsequent semester in which their semester UGPA falls below 2.00, or semester PGPA falls below the program requirement.

Students on academic suspension are not permitted to enroll for at least one program semester. During this period, individuals should seriously reexamine their previous accomplishments in terms of their chosen career objectives. After one semester, students who believe that a reasonable opportunity for future successful performance exists may petition the unit's committee for re-admittance. The petition must be received no later than July 1 for readmission for the fall semester, November 1 for the spring semester, and May 1 for the summer terms. Students who are granted reinstatement will be readmitted on academic probation. Readmission of suspended students is not guaranteed.

Students will not be reinstated more than twice; the third suspension is an academic dismissal. Students academically dismissed can only return through special permission from the enrollment unit. Students who are suspended or dismissed are eligible to apply for admission to another unit and may be admitted if they meet minimum unit admission standards. Students admitted to another unit may not enroll in any courses in the unit from which they were dismissed, with the exception of courses needed to complete general education or other degree requirements offered only by the unit from which they were dismissed.

Class Attendance

The academy requires student participation in the learning process, measurement of student progress, and the fulfillment of basic course requirements. Faculty members will provide students in their classes with clear syllabi, including attendance requirements and dates for required measurements or field experiences. Attendance policies should allow excused absences for university-sanctioned events. Although each college, school, or academic unit of the University of Louisville creates its own regulations concerning class attendance, all units hold students responsible for materials covered, lectures given, papers due, exams scheduled, or other evaluative measures administered.

Because the university recognizes that educational experiences extend beyond the classroom and campus, faculty must be flexible with students acting as official representatives of the university or participating in university-sanctioned events or activities that require absence from class. A university sanctioned event or activity shall be one in which a student represents the university to external constituencies in academic or extra-curricular activities. These include but are not limited to student government congresses, intercollegiate athletic and debate contests, music competitions, academic meetings, and conferences. The deans, the student government association, or faculty sponsors of recognized student organizations may petition the provost to designate other specific events as university-sanctioned.

When students' participation in university-sanctioned events or activities requires them to be absent from a class (or classes) during which an examination or other measurement of academic progress is scheduled, faculty will provide students with opportunities to be evaluated at other times and by comparable alternative evaluation methods within a reasonable period of time before or after the absence. Students are responsible for material covered or work assigned in any class for which they have been provided an excused absence.

Dean's List and Scholars

Students who complete twelve or more graded credits in one semester are eligible for the Dean's List and designation as a Dean's Scholar. The following distinctions are made:

Dean's List: UGPA 3.5 and above, with no grades of I, X, U, or C-minus or below

Dean's Scholar: UGPA = 4.0, with no grades of I, X, or U

Developmental courses (courses below 100 level) and grades of P are not prohibited in Dean's List or Dean's Scholar qualifications but cannot be used to meet the graded-credits minimum requirement. Any petitions arising from unusual circumstances (such as part-time status) should be filed with the students' advising center within two weeks of the beginning of the next term of enrollment.

Final Examinations

Comprehensive final examinations may be administered only on the date and time prescribed in the online university final exam schedule. Comprehensive examinations may not be given on the last regular day of class or during the reading period. Examinations which cover a limited portion of the course work may be given during the last regular class period. Students must be notified of the type of examinations to be given in the course as well as each examination's percentage of the course grade. This information, along with scheduled dates and times, should be included in the course syllabus.

The comprehensive final examination in a course should be given as scheduled and not at other times, even if the faculty member and all students in a course agree to such a change. However, students who have more than two exams in one calendar day, or two examinations at the same time, may reschedule. Students should contact the instructors as early in the semester as possible, no less than one week prior to the last class meeting, to resolve any scheduling issues. If a resolution cannot be reached, students should contact their advising center. The dean's office is responsible for enforcing the final exam policy and resolving any conflicts or issues.

Grading

The university awards letter grades that are translated into quality points to determine a grade point average. The "+/-" ("plus/minus") grading system may be used by instructors to help students understand their performance more accurately. Under this system, quality points are assigned as follows:

A+ = 4.0	A = 4.0	A- = 3.7
B+ = 3.3	B = 3.0	B- = 2.7
C+ = 2.3	C = 2.0	C- = 1.7
D+ = 1.3	D = 1.0	D- = 0.7
F = 0.0

The grade A+ is given for extraordinary work and appears on the transcript with the "plus" qualification, but it awards no additional quality points.

The grade F means not passing and earns neither semester hours toward graduation nor quality points; however, the number of semester hours attempted is computed into the point standing, so that an F has a negative effect on the point standing. All missing grades change to failing grades one year after the completion of the semester in which the course was taken.

Other letter grades, all of which do not enter into the point standing, include the following:

AU means Audit.

I means Incomplete Work.

P means Passing.

S and U mean Satisfactory and Unsatisfactory.

W means Withdrew.

X means No Basis for Grade.

For a course taken on a pass-fail basis a grade P is given for achievement equivalent to the standards for the grades A through D in the same course and earns the designated number of semester hours toward graduation. For courses using S and U, an S will earn semester hours, but those hours may not be counted toward the minimum number of hours required for graduation or a degree. The grade X is available only for graduate level courses for which the work is not yet finished due to the nature of the study.

The university's undergraduate grade point average (UGPA) is determined by dividing the total number of quality points earned by the total number of semester hours attempted with earned grades. The UGPA takes into account all undergraduate course work taken at the university, except that courses numbered below the 100 level will not be used in the earned hours or UGPA calculations. Grades and quality points earned at other institutions are also not incorporated into the UGPA.

A program GPA is calculated by including only those courses used to satisfy degree requirements. Courses for which transfer credit has been awarded are not included in the calculation. The program GPA is used for determination of honors and satisfaction of degree requirements.

Incompletes

Students unable to complete course work because of conditions beyond their control may be granted the grade I, which stands for Incomplete, so that the work can be completed after the end of the semester. Such conditions include hospitalizations, death in immediate family, and prolonged sickness. The grade I may not be used solely to extend the available time in a semester for students who fall behind for reasons under their control.

The grade I may be assigned at the discretion of the course instructor if all of the following conditions are met:

The majority of the course work was completed prior to the end of the semester;

The student is in good standing to pass the course upon successful completion of the remaining work;

The final portion of the course work could not be completed for reasons beyond the student's control.

If requested to do so, the student must supply the instructor with documentation of the extenuating circumstances. The instructor is encouraged to provide to the student a written statement of the expectations and requirements for completing the course work.

Students must complete the course work no later than the last day of classes for the next regular fall or spring semester. If the work is completed by the deadline, the instructor submits a change of grade from I to the letter grade earned. The change of grade form must be submitted by the instructor to the registrar's office by the last day to submit grades for the semester when the student's completed coursework was due. Failure of the student to complete the work by the deadline will result in an automatic change of grade from I to F unless the dean's office grants an extension.

Students may not graduate with an I grade on the transcript. Students with an incomplete should not register again for the course. An I carries no quality points until it is changed to a letter grade.

Academic Forgiveness

Academic Forgiveness allows currently enrolled students or students who are eligible to re-enroll without seeking readmission to request the adjustment of their records for one or more continuous entire semesters of previous college work. If the appropriate committee within the students' enrollment unit or the unit in which they seek to re-enroll finds there are extenuating circumstances that warrant such action, the committee may rule the students eligible for academic forgiveness. The committee will approve petitions only if future academic success seems plausible, with the expectation that such forgiveness should typically have a positive effect on persistence toward eventual graduation.

Forgiveness will only be applied to the record after the successful completion of at least 12 hours after the last term for which forgiveness is to be requested. The 12 hours should be in degree applicable courses with the necessary semester grade point average designated by their enrollment unit. After these 12 hours have been attempted, students may petition the appropriate committee for academic forgiveness, designating the semester or consecutive sequence of semesters to which the forgiveness process is to apply. If approved, all course grades and credit hours for the forgiven semesters will be voided. Students may not be granted academic forgiveness more than once.

The voided grades and credit hours will not be considered for degree requirements or quality-point computations, but will remain on the students' transcript. Academic actions, such as probation or dismissal, recorded at the end of the voided terms, will also remain. While forgiven course grades are removed from the calculation, the course work does remain a part of the students' permanent record and the forgiven work may be considered for financial aid, NCAA purposes, and may be evaluated if applying for honors or graduate study.

Academic forgiveness is an internal policy. The University of Louisville cannot guarantee how the work will be viewed by another university should students choose to transfer. Students considering this option are strongly encouraged to consult with their academic advisor for guidance.

Academic Fresh Start

Students who are re-admitted to the university after an absence of two or more years may apply for a Fresh Start (<http://louisville.edu/admissions/apply/transfer/admissions/app-resources/fresh-start-application/>), i.e., may request that the university reset the student's cumulative grade point average during the period of previous residency.

If the Fresh Start is approved by the university, students resume an academic program with no cumulative grade point average from the prior enrollment. All courses taken remain on the permanent record. Courses with passing grades are counted for credit and may be used to satisfy program requirements.

Students must take at least 30 hours of coursework at the University after re#admission and before graduation for Fresh Start to remain on their official transcript. Students are eligible for only one Fresh Start. Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from the University are not eligible for Fresh Start.

Students may be required to retake courses from academic terms covered by Fresh Start if the content-currency or major-GPA rules of a degree program, department or unit so dictate. Students should consult the Undergraduate Catalog and their advisor at the time of readmission for any possible additional requirements to be fulfilled in remedying these conditions.

Although Fresh Start affects cumulative grade point average, it has no impact on earned and attempted hours. All courses taken at the university will still be used for financial aid. Financial aid recipients will still have to adhere to the Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) policy administered by the Student Financial Aid Office. Students who are granted a Fresh Start are not automatically cleared of any SAP issues. If interested in submitting a SAP appeal, students should contact the Student Financial Aid Office.

Courses taken under the repeat-to-replace option during the period covered by a Fresh Start will not be counted against the repeats allowed under university policy. Financial aid for repeat courses is calculated according to federal regulations.

For the purposes of scholastic action and advising, students are initially assigned to the same academic standing as when they last attended the university. Thereafter, students are subject to the conditions of probation, suspension and dismissal that govern all students. GPA calculations for graduation honors follow the rules established by the students' enrollment unit.

Academic Standing

University Policies: Academic Standing

Decisions involving academic warning, probation, suspension, dismissal and readmission are made by each academic unit. These decisions are based on the university's undergraduate grade point average (UGPA) and the program grade point average (PGPA). The unit notifies students after the end of each semester if their status changes. Notifications of such academic actions are officially made through the student's university email account.

Undergraduate students are in good standing when they have a cumulative UGPA of at least 2.00 and a cumulative PGPA greater than the program requirement. Each unit determines their own program requirements.

Academic Warning, Academic Probation, and Academic Suspension

After the first 12 degree-applicable semester hours at the University, students who have either a cumulative UGPA below 2.00, or a cumulative PGPA below the program requirement, will be placed on academic warning. Such students will be notified and strongly encouraged to seek assistance from their advising center.

In any semester subsequent to an academic warning, students whose cumulative UGPA falls below 2.00, or cumulative PGPA falls below the program requirement, will be placed on academic probation for the next semester of enrollment. Academic probation is considered a serious warning that students are making unsatisfactory progress toward completion of the academic requirements for a particular degree program. Students on academic probation may be ineligible to hold office in campus organizations, to go out on co-op, internship, or clinical assignments, or to represent the school or the University in any official capacity.

Students on academic probation shall be removed from that standing at the end of the first subsequent semester in which they achieve a cumulative UGPA of at least 2.00 and a cumulative PGPA greater than the program requirement. Such students will return to good standing. Students on academic probation shall be placed on academic suspension at the end of the first subsequent semester in which their semester UGPA falls below 2.00, or semester PGPA falls below the program requirement.

Students on academic suspension are not permitted to enroll for at least one program semester and must withdraw from any courses for the semester in which the suspension is applied. During this period, individuals should seriously reexamine their previous accomplishments in terms of their chosen career objectives and seek help to improve their academic performance.

Readmission/Reinstatement

After one semester, students who believe that a reasonable opportunity for future successful performance exists may petition the unit's committee for re-admittance. The petition must be received no later than published deadline in their unit. Students who are granted reinstatement will be readmitted on academic probation. Readmission of suspended students is not guaranteed.

Students will not be reinstated more than twice; the third suspension is an academic dismissal. Students academically dismissed can only return through special permission from the enrollment unit.

Students who are suspended or dismissed are eligible to apply for admission to another unit and may be admitted if they meet minimum unit admission standards. Students admitted to another unit may not enroll in any courses in the unit from which they were dismissed, with the exception of courses needed to complete general education or other degree requirements offered only by the unit from which they were dismissed.

Unit-Specific Policies

In addition to the university-wide policies regarding Academic Standing, students may be subject to the unit-specific requirements listed below.

Warning, Probation, Suspension, and Readmission

Students on Academic Warning are limited to enrollment for 13 credit hours in a fall or spring semester and 10 credit hours for the summer terms.

The enrollment of students on Academic Probation will continue to be limited to a maximum of 13 semester hours in a fall or spring semester and 10 credit hours for the summer terms. Students on probation also may be subject to specified course registration requirements, or other actions deemed appropriate by the College. Students who are admitted to the College conditionally who have a grade point average below 2.0 at the end of their first semester of enrollment at the University of Louisville will be placed on Academic Probation.

Students on Academic Suspension and will be required to sit out at least one semester. Students suspended after a fall semester must sit out the following spring semester; students suspended after a spring semester must sit out the following summer and fall semesters; and students suspended after a summer semester must sit out the following fall semester. Students must sit out at least one calendar year after any subsequent suspension.

Warning, Probation, Suspension, Dismissal, and Readmission

College of Business students on academic warning or probation are subject to load limitations (see the Course Load section of this catalog) or other actions deemed appropriate by the COB. The records of students on Academic Probation will be evaluated at the end of the probationary semester with one of the following outcomes:

1. Students whose GPA for the probationary semester is 2.5 or above, but whose University GPA remains below 2.0 will be retained on Probation.
2. Students whose University GPA is still below 2.0 and who earned a semester grade point average below 2.5 will be placed on Academic Suspension and will be suspended from the COB. Suspended students are withdrawn from all 300- and 400-level COB courses.
3. Readmission of suspended students into the COB is not guaranteed.

For readmission, students must submit a written petition addressed to the College of Business Undergraduate Studies Committee and an academic plan form.

College of Education and Human Development

Academic Warning, Probation, Suspension, Dismissal and Readmission

CEHD students on Academic Warning may enroll in no more than 14 hours in a semester (10 hours during the summer).

CEHD students on Academic Probation will continue to be limited to enroll in no more than 14 semester hours in a semester (10 hours during the summer). Students on Academic Probation must earn a 2.5 grade point average in the academic probation semester to continue on Academic Probation.

Students on Academic Probation whose cumulative grade point average is below 2.25 and who earn a semester grade point average below 2.5 will be placed on Academic Suspension and will be required to sit out from the CEHD at least one semester. The student may apply to another unit. Students suspended after a spring semester must sit out the following summer and fall semesters.

Students who are suspended the third time from the College of Education and Human Development are academically dismissed. A student who has been dismissed from the College of Education and Human Development may apply for readmission after one full year.

Readmission of suspended or dismissed students is not guaranteed. Conditions of readmission will be up to the discretion of the College of Education Standards and Admissions Committee.

Kent School of Social Work

Lower Division: A cumulative GPA of 2.5 or above is required to remain in Good Standing. If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 2.5, then the student will be given a warning and will be required to meet with the BSW Advising Team for planning and oversight. If in the following semester the student's cumulative GPA remains less than a 2.5, the student will be placed on probation and an academic review will be required. A cumulative GPA of 2.5 or above in the following semester will be required to return to Good Standing.

Students will be placed on suspension following probation if the cumulative GPA remains below 2.5. Students must sit out at least one semester excluding summer when suspended. The student may apply to another unit. No student will be reinstated more than once with Kent School and no more than twice with UofL. A third suspension is an academic dismissal from UofL. A written petition is required for readmission, which is not guaranteed.

Upper Division: A failing grade in an upper division social work foundation/core course will result in an academic review. The BSW Program Manager will inform the BSW Director of the need for this review and the process for an academic review will follow. Students may also be referred for an academic review if they are in jeopardy of dismissal from the program for any other reason.

A cumulative GPA of 2.5 or above is required to remain in Good Standing.

If a student's cumulative GPA falls below 2.5, then the student will be given a warning and will be required to meet with the BSW Program Manager for planning and oversight. If in the following semester the student's cumulative GPA remains less than a 2.5, the student will be placed on probation and an academic review will be required. A cumulative GPA of 2.5 or above in the following semester will be required to return to Good Standing.

Students will be placed on suspension following probation if cumulative GPA remains below 2.5 for three consecutive semesters. Students must sit out at least one semester excluding summer when suspended.

Students may apply to another unit. No student will be reinstated more than once with Kent School and no more than twice with UofL. A third suspension is an academic dismissal from UofL. A written petition is required for readmission, which is not guaranteed.

The Academic Advisory Committee is intended to assist the Associate Dean of Academic Affairs in conducting academic reviews for BSW and MSSW students. The Academic Advisory Committee shall consist of full time MSSW and/or BSW faculty members recruited by the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and elected by the full-time faculty. The Academic Advisory Committee is intended to insure that the context surrounding the incidents that lead to the academic review are well understood before any recommendations are made.

The BSW Program will notify students at the end of each semester if academic reviews are needed, based on their GPA. Apart from reviews based on GPA, any faculty person may recommend a review for any students who are perceived to be in academic difficulty or who appear to have engaged in inappropriate conduct in violation of the National Association of Social Workers Code of Ethics, or the Code of Students Rights and Responsibilities.

School of Music

The School of Music follows university-wide policies, except that students are in good standing when they have a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.5.

Undergraduate students on Academic Probation are:

- limited to fourteen (14) semester hours,
- may have specified course registration requirements, and
- may require intrusive advising interventions as deemed appropriate by their enrollment unit.

A student on probation whose cumulative grade point average is still below 2.5 and who earned a semester grade point average below 2.5 may petition for continuation of probation. The petition describing the student's plan of action to return to good standing must be submitted to the Associate Dean of the School of Music.

Students who are conditionally admitted enter the university on Academic Warning and are limited during their first semester to a fourteen-hour credit load. Their admission letter will indicate whether they have one or two semesters to achieve academic good standing. A one-semester conditional period will require students to achieve no less than a 2.5 cumulative GPA by the end of the first semester, or they will be suspended from the School of Music. A two-semester conditional period will require students to achieve no less than a 2.5 cumulative GPA at the end of the first semester, or they will be placed on Academic Probation. If they do not achieve academic good standing by the end of the first year (i.e., end of the second semester) they will be suspended from the School of Music.

School of Nursing

Lower Division Progression

For Lower Division Traditional BSN program students, the School of Nursing follows university-wide policies, except that students are in good standing when they have a minimum university cumulative grade point average of 2.8.

Pathophysiology and Pharmacology

Students in the Traditional BSN Program must satisfactorily complete NURS 338 Lifespan Pathophysiology and NURS 395 Nursing Pharmacotherapeutics with a grade of C or better in order to progress to the upper division clinical cohort. If students do not satisfactorily complete both NURS 338 and NURS 395 they must retake them to be eligible to reapply to upper division to compete for an upper division clinical space.

Failure to satisfactorily complete both courses results in dismissal from the program.

Students enrolled in the Traditional Bachelor of Science in Nursing program must earn a grade of "C" or above in the courses (or their equivalents) listed below. These courses may be repeated one time.

Students who do not pass the course on a second attempt will be dismissed from the nursing program.

Code	Title	Hours
ENGL 101	Introduction to College Writing - WC	3
ENGL 102	Intermediate College Writing - WC	3
BIOL 257	Introduction to Microbiology - S	3
BIOL 258	Introduction to Microbiology Laboratory - SL	1
BIOL 260	Human Anatomy & Physiology I	3
BIOL 261	Human Anatomy & Physiology II	3
BIOL 262	Human Anatomy & Physiology Lab	1
CHEM 105	Chemistry for Health Professionals - S	4
HSS 303	Human Nutrition	3
MATH 111	College Algebra - QR	3
NURS 338	Lifespan Pathophysiology	4
NURS 395	Nursing Pharmacotherapeutics	3

Upper Division Progression

Students admitted to the Upper Division of Nursing must earn a C or above in all nursing courses. Good standing in the Upper Division for the Traditional BSN program is a minimum cumulative university GPA of 2.5. RN-BSN students must maintain a minimum cumulative university GPA of 2.0.

Students admitted to the Upper Division are allowed to repeat a nursing course only one time. Students who earn a grade below C in two Nursing (NURS) courses numbered 300 or above, or a second attempt at a nursing course will be dismissed from the program. This includes the required Pharmacology and Pathophysiology courses taken in Lower Division. For example, if a student fails NURS 338 in lower division and then fails an additional course numbered 300 or higher in upper division, this is two nursing failures and the student will be dismissed from the program.

A student who wishes to repeat a nursing course should submit a Permit to Repeat Course form to the Office of Student Services, School of Nursing for approval. Once permission is granted, the student will be allowed to repeat the course on a space available basis.

If suspended from the program, students must meet with their advisor to revise their program of study, determine remediation, request re-enrollment on a space available basis, and plan to submit an Admissions Petition and official UofL Undergraduate application to the Office of Admissions in accordance with University guidelines. Re-admission is not guaranteed.

If dismissed from the program, the student has the right to file a petition to be allowed to remain in the program. If the petition to be allowed to remain in the program is denied, dismissal from the program is permanent. For petition deadlines please call the Office of Student Services at (502) 852-1196.

Speed School of Engineering

A program GPA is calculated by including only those courses used to satisfy degree requirements. Courses for which transfer credit has been awarded are not included in either GPA calculation.

Students have the responsibility to know their current status. The University routinely notifies students when their status changes, but such notification may not be possible before the beginning of the semester.

Good Standing

The Speed School of Engineering follows university-wide policies, except that students are in good standing when they have a minimum cumulative university GPA and PGPA of 2.25.

Academic Warning

Students on Academic Warning are limited to enrollment for 13 credit hours (7 credit hours during the Speed School summer term). A student placed on Academic Warning will have the following semester to raise the cumulative university GPA to at least 2.25. If that does not occur, the student will then be placed on Academic Probation.

Academic Probation

In any semester subsequent to that described in Academic Warning above, an undergraduate student who has less than a 2.25 cumulative university GPA will be placed on Academic Probation for the next semester in which the student enrolls. Students on Academic Probation are notified that their achievement is below expectations and are subject to course and/or credit hour limitations. During a semester on Academic Probation, no student may enroll in more than 13 credit hours (7 credit hours during the Speed School summer term). Students on Academic Probation will have their records evaluated at the end of the probationary semester with one of the following outcomes:

- Students whose cumulative university GPA and semester GPA are both at or above 2.25 will be restored to good standing in the Speed School.

- Students whose cumulative university GPA is still below 2.25 but who earned a semester GPA of at least 2.5 will be maintained on probation.
- Students whose cumulative university GPA is still below 2.25, and who earned a semester GPA at or above 2.25 but below 2.5, may petition for continuation on probation. The petition describing the student's plan of action to return to good standing must be submitted to the school's Standards and Admissions Committee. Students who do not submit a petition will be placed on Academic Suspension.
- Students whose cumulative university GPA and semester GPA are both below 2.25 will be placed on Academic Suspension and will be required to sit out at least one semester.

Class Attendance

The academy requires student participation in the learning process, measurement of student progress, and the fulfillment of basic course requirements. Faculty members will provide students in their classes with clear syllabi, including attendance requirements and dates for required measurements or field experiences. Attendance policies should allow excused absences for university-sanctioned events. Although each college, school, or academic unit of the University of Louisville creates its own regulations concerning class attendance, all units hold students responsible for materials covered, lectures given, papers due, exams scheduled, or other evaluative measures administered.

Because the university recognizes that educational experiences extend beyond the classroom and campus, faculty must be flexible with students acting as official representatives of the university or participating in university-sanctioned events or activities that require absence from class. A university sanctioned event or activity shall be one in which a student represents the university to external constituencies in academic or extra-curricular activities. These include but are not limited to student government congresses, intercollegiate athletic and debate contests, music competitions, academic meetings, and conferences. The deans, the student government association, or faculty sponsors of recognized student organizations may petition the provost to designate other specific events as university-sanctioned.

When students' participation in university-sanctioned events or activities requires them to be absent from a class (or classes) during which an examination or other measurement of academic progress is scheduled, faculty will provide students with opportunities to be evaluated at other times and by comparable alternative evaluation methods within a reasonable period of time before or after the absence. Students are responsible for material covered or work assigned in any class for which they have been provided an excused absence.

Dean's List and Scholars

Students who complete twelve or more graded credits in one semester are eligible for the Dean's List and designation as a Dean's Scholar.

The following distinctions are made:

- Dean's List: UGPA of 3.5 and above, with no grades of I, X, U, or C-minus or below
- Dean's Scholar: UGPA equal to 4.0, with no grades of I, X, or U

Developmental courses (courses below 100 level) and grades of P are not prohibited in Dean's List or Dean's Scholar qualifications but cannot be used to meet the graded-credits minimum requirement. Any petitions arising from unusual circumstances (such as part-time status) should be filed with the students' advising center within two weeks of the beginning of the next term of enrollment.

Final Examinations

Comprehensive final examinations may be administered only on the date and time prescribed in the online university final exam schedule.

Comprehensive examinations may not be given on the last regular day of class or during the reading period. No mandatory activities or assessments of any kind may be scheduled during the reading period. Examinations which cover a limited portion of the coursework may be given during the last regular class period. Students must be notified of the type of examinations to be given in the course as well as each examination's percentage of the course grade. This information, along with scheduled dates and times, should be included in the course syllabus.

The comprehensive final examination in a course should be given as scheduled and not at other times, even if the faculty member and all students in a course agree to such a change. However, students who have more than two exams in one calendar day, or two examinations at the same time, may reschedule. Students should contact the instructors as early in the semester as possible, no less than one week prior to the last class meeting, to resolve any scheduling issues.

If a resolution cannot be reached, students should contact their advising center. The dean's office is responsible for enforcing the final exam policy and resolving any conflicts or issues.

Grading

The university awards letter grades that are translated into quality points to determine a grade point average. The "+/-" ("plus/minus") grading system may be used by instructors to help students understand their performance more accurately. Under this system, quality points are assigned as follows:

Grades	Quality Points
A+	4.0 (see below)
A	4.0
A-	3.7
B+	3.3
B	3.0
B-	2.7
C+	2.3
C	2.0
C-	1.7
D+	1.3
D	1.0
F	0.0 (see below)

The grade A+ is given for extraordinary work and appears on the transcript with the "plus" qualification, but it awards no additional quality points.

The grade F means not passing and earns neither semester hours toward graduation nor quality points; however, the number of semester hours attempted is computed into the point standing, so that an F has a negative effect on the point standing. All missing grades change to failing grades one year after the completion of the semester in which the course was taken.

Other letter grades, all of which do not enter into the point standing, include the following:

AU means Audit.

I means Incomplete Work.

P means Passing.

S and U mean Satisfactory and Unsatisfactory.

W means Withdrew.

X means No Basis for Grade.

For a course taken on a pass-fail basis a grade P is given for achievement equivalent to the standards for the grades A through D in the same course and earns the designated number of semester hours toward graduation. For courses using S and U, an S will earn semester hours, but those hours may not be counted toward the minimum number of hours required for graduation or a degree. The grade X is available only for graduate level courses for which the work is not yet finished due to the nature of the study.

The university's undergraduate grade point average (UGPA) is determined by dividing the total number of quality points earned by the total number of semester hours attempted with earned grades. The UGPA takes into account all undergraduate course work taken at the university, except that courses numbered below the 100 level will not be used in the earned hours or UGPA calculations. Grades and quality points earned at other institutions are also not incorporated into the UGPA.

A program GPA is calculated by including only those courses used to satisfy degree requirements. Courses for which transfer credit has been awarded are not included in the calculation. The program GPA is used for determination of honors and satisfaction of degree requirements.

Incompletes

Students unable to complete course work because of conditions beyond their control may request the grade I, which stands for Incomplete, so that the work can be completed after the end of the semester. Such conditions include hospitalizations, death in immediate family, and prolonged sickness. The grade I may not be used solely to extend the available time in a semester for students who fall behind for reasons under their control.

The grade I may be assigned at the discretion of the course instructor if all of the following conditions are met:

- The majority of the course work was completed prior to the end of the semester;
- The student is in good standing to pass the course upon successful completion of the remaining work;
- The final portion of the course work could not be completed for reasons beyond the student's control.

If requested to do so, the student must supply the instructor with documentation of the extenuating circumstances. The instructor is encouraged to provide to the student a written statement of the expectations and requirements for completing the course work.

Students must complete the course work no later than the last day of classes for the next semester. If the work is completed by the deadline, the instructor submits a change of grade from I to the letter grade earned. The change of grade form must be submitted by the instructor to the registrar's office by the last day to submit grades for the semester when the student's completed coursework was due. Failure of the student to complete the work by the deadline will result in an automatic change of grade from I to F unless the dean's office grants an extension.

Students may not graduate with an I grade on the transcript. Students with an incomplete should not register again for the course. An I carries no quality points until it is changed to a letter grade.

Graduation Policies

Information on policies related to degree requirements and graduation at the University of Louisville can be found on this page or by clicking on the following links to topic-specific pages:

- Catalog Year (p. 73)
- General Education: Cardinal Core Requirements (p. 73)
- Graduation and Degree Requirements (p. 76)
- Graduation with Academic Honors (p. 78)
- Residency Requirements (p. 80)

These policies are effective for Academic Year 2021-2022 (Summer 2021 semester). Students enrolled in a term before this effective semester should consult with an advisor in their enrollment unit (<http://louisville.edu/advising/centers/>) if they feel that they are disadvantaged by any change from previous policies.

Previous catalogs are available via the archive page of this catalog (p. 958).

Catalog Year

The university issues a catalog annually in conjunction with the start of the summer term, and the degree requirements stated in the annual issue apply to all students who matriculate during that year. These requirements constitute the “catalog year” for those students and set their degree requirements as long as they are enrolled without a break of more than two calendar years. In other cases, a student may elect to follow the requirements of a later catalog year. The student’s advisor will assist in identifying the need and benefit of such an election. The advisor must record this election in the student’s permanent record.

Students may petition for a variance from the stated degree requirements of their catalog year. Any variance must be approved by the dean or unit advising director (for unit and major degree requirements) or the provost (for General Education or Cardinal Core requirements).

Students readmitted after an absence of two or more calendar years must reapply for admission. If readmitted, they are subject to the catalog year requirements in force at the time of their readmission.

General Education: Cardinal Core Requirements

Beginning in summer 2018, all students are required to meet the requirements of the Cardinal Core general education program. Students who matriculated to the university before summer 2018 should consult with their advisors about transitioning from the previous general education program to Cardinal Core.

The Cardinal Core program at the University of Louisville prepares students to do the advanced work needed for their baccalaureate degrees and prepares them to contribute to society throughout their lives through their professional work and civic engagement. The program emphasizes the development of key intellectual skills relevant to any career path: critical thinking, quantitative reasoning, effective communication, and the understanding of historical, social, and cultural diversity. Students will develop skills and acquire knowledge in the content areas of arts and humanities, historical perspectives, oral communication, quantitative reasoning, social and behavioral sciences, natural sciences, written communication, and the competency area of diversity in the United States and globally. Upon completion of the program, students will be prepared to analyze complex problems and evaluate possible courses of action in an environment characterized by diversity and the need for sustainable solutions.

For detailed information, please refer to the General Education: Cardinal Core (<http://catalog.louisville.edu/undergraduate/general-education-requirements/>) page in this catalog.

Graduation and Degree Requirements

The conferring of degrees by the University of Louisville is conditional upon completion of all requirements in the opinion of the unit faculty and dean, regardless of the students’ participation in commencement.

Students are strongly urged to run preliminary degree audits on a regular basis so that possible deficiencies in degree requirements can be identified early.

The baccalaureate degree (Bachelor’s of Arts, Fine Arts, Music, or Science) is the undergraduate degree offered by UofL. It is awarded to students who have completed both university-wide requirements and the requirements of the selected degree program. The following university-wide requirements apply to all baccalaureate degrees; the student must:

- Complete an online degree application by the specified date at the beginning of the semester of graduation.
- Complete an application for and be accepted for admission into a major program.
- Satisfy all Cardinal Core requirements.
- Complete all required courses and program requirements listed in the degree program section of this catalog.
- Have a cumulative university GPA of at least 2.00, or higher if specified by the program.
- Have a cumulative program GPA of at least 2.00, or higher if specified by the program.
- Complete a minimum of 120 hours applicable to the program, or more if required by the program.
- Complete at least 60 hours at an accredited four-year institution.
- Complete at least 25-percent of the total credit hours required for the degree in residence at the University of Louisville.
- Complete 30 of the last 36 hours in residence at the University of Louisville.
- Have neither missing nor outstanding I or X grades.
- Satisfy any additional requirements specified by the major program and unit.
- Be discharged of all financial obligations to the University.

- Be formally recommended for the baccalaureate degree by the unit faculty and dean and approved by the Board of Trustees.

To be awarded a second bachelor's degree, students must earn a minimum of thirty additional semester hours in the program. For students pursuing two degrees simultaneously, these thirty hours will be added to the minimum total of semester hours needed for the degree requiring the least number of hours.

Students who want to take a minor must apply for admission to the minor program after acceptance into a major program. The coursework requirements for a minor are prescribed by a department or unit and consist of at least 18 semester hours. Satisfactory completion of coursework required for a minor will be certified as completion of the minor, and will be shown on the student's transcript only if the student's application has been accepted by the department or program offering the minor. Most minor programs are open to students from all units.

Graduation with Academic Honors

Baccalaureate degree students who have earned a minimum of 60 hours of degree credit in residence at the University of Louisville will be eligible for consideration to graduate with honors. Students who have re-entered the university under the fresh-start policy must have earned at least 60 credit hours since their return to be considered for academic honors.

Commencement programs will list eligible students as a Candidate for Honors based on their having earned both undergraduate and program grade point averages of 3.5 or higher prior to the semester preceding graduation. Final determination of a student's eligibility to graduate with academic honors will be based on the student's standing upon completion of the degree. The name of the honor is decided by the unit.

Minimum criteria for honors are as follows:

- Cum Laude or Honors: 3.50 undergraduate and program grade point averages
- Magna Cum Laude or High Honors: 3.75 undergraduate and program grade point averages
- Summa Cum Laude or Highest Honors: 3.90 undergraduate and program grade point averages

In addition to these minimum criteria, units may specify additional requirements for grade point averages and additional work such as honors projects or honors theses. Students should consult their advisor concerning eligibility and requirements for graduation with academic honors. The dean's office will make any final decisions concerning eligibility.

Students who were admitted to the University Honors program may be eligible to graduate as an Honors Scholar. Students who complete the necessary coursework with the required GPA will earn the designation of University Honors Scholar on both their transcript and diploma. Students who earn this distinction are awarded a medal and recognized at an awards ceremony prior to university commencement.

Residency Requirements

Students earning baccalaureate degrees are required to complete at least 25 percent of the total credit hours required for the degree (including Cardinal Core credit hours) at the University of Louisville. Students earning baccalaureate degrees are also required to complete 30 of their last 36 semester hours at the University of Louisville. Students earning associate degrees are required to complete a minimum of 15 of their last 18 semester hours at the University of Louisville. Additionally, transfer students must take a minimum of 12 credit hours in their major at the University.

Catalog Year

The university issues a catalog annually in conjunction with the start of the summer term, and the degree requirements stated in the annual issue apply to all students who matriculate during that year. These requirements constitute the "catalog year" for those students and set their degree requirements as long as they are enrolled without a break of more than two calendar years. In other cases, a student may elect to follow the requirements of a later catalog year. The student's advisor will assist in identifying the need and benefit of such an election. The advisor must record this election in the student's permanent record.

Students may petition for a variance from the stated degree requirements of their catalog year. Any variance must be approved by the dean or unit advising director (for unit and major degree requirements) or the provost (for General Education or Cardinal Core requirements).

Students readmitted after an absence of two or more calendar years must reapply for admission. If readmitted, they are subject to the catalog year requirements in force at the time of their readmission.

General Education: Cardinal Core Requirements

Cardinal Core Purpose

Through the Cardinal Core program you will explore multiple areas of knowledge in new ways and develop core skills that will enable you to succeed in any degree program and prepare you to live and work in a dynamic, global society.

Cardinal Core Overview

The Cardinal Core program at the University of Louisville prepares students to do the advanced work needed for their baccalaureate degrees and prepares them to contribute to society throughout their lives through their professional work and civic engagement. The program emphasizes the development of key intellectual skills relevant to any career path: critical thinking, quantitative reasoning, effective communication, and the understanding of historical, social, and cultural diversity.

Students develop skills and acquire knowledge in the content areas of arts and humanities, historical perspectives, oral communication, quantitative reasoning, social and behavioral sciences, natural sciences, written communication, and the competency area of diversity in the United States and globally. Upon completion of the program, students are prepared to analyze complex problems and evaluate possible courses of action in an environment characterized by diversity and the need for sustainable solutions.

Students should demonstrate proficiency (through coursework or external credit) in the three skills areas (written communication, oral communication, and quantitative reasoning) before completing the first 30 degree-applicable credit hours earned at the University of Louisville. Within 60 hours, the student should have completed 21 hours of Cardinal Core courses.

The Cardinal Core program requires a minimum of 31 credit hours from approved course categories as outlined in the table below. Students must complete a minimum of 12 hours in the skills courses, a minimum of 19 hours in the disciplinary perspectives courses, and within the 31 hours, students must accumulate 6 hours in diversity credit.

Academic advisors can guide students in the selection of courses.

Cardinal Core Content Areas and Required Credit Hours

Area	Hours
Skills
Written Communication (WC)	6
Oral Communication (OC)	3
Quantitative Reasoning (QR)	3
Disciplinary Perspectives
Social & Behavioral Sciences (SB)/Historical Perspective (SBH) <sup>2</sup>	6
Diversity
U.S. Diversity (D1), 3 hours
Global Diversity (D2), 3 hours
The Diversity requirement does not add hours to the total Cardinal Core Program. Diversity requirements will be met by taking courses in other Cardinal Core categories that also carry the D1 or D2 designation.

NOTE: Students may take only one dual content area course (OC, WC, QR, SB, SBH, AH, S, SL, B). Diversity attributes (D1, D2) are not included in this restriction. Taking a dual content course allows a student to meet two Cardinal Core distribution requirements while only earning 4 hours toward the overall Cardinal Core required total of 31 hours. These students will need to take an additional Cardinal Core elective in any category to bring their total overall Cardinal Core course credits up to 31 hours.

For a list of approved Cardinal Core courses, please visit the Cardinal Core website (<http://louisville.edu/provost/ger/>).

Cardinal Core Content Areas

Written Communication

Written communication is the ability to develop and express ideas, opinions, and information in appropriate written forms. To fulfill this requirement, students will complete a substantial amount of writing, including several texts that go through the writing process.

Requirement: 6 hours (WC). The first 3 hours must be a writing course in or credit approved by the Department of English.

Oral Communication

Oral communication is the ability to convey ideas, emotions, and information through speech.

Requirement: 3 hours (OC)

Quantitative Reasoning

Quantitative reasoning is concerned with solving real-world problems through mathematical methods.

Disability Resource Center Assistance with QR Requirement

A student who believes that his or her inability to complete a course that fulfills the quantitative reasoning Cardinal Core requirement is a result of a disability should contact the Disability Resource Center (DRC), which will outline the process for documenting such a disability, explain what courses can be substituted if a disability is diagnosed, and will make clear to the student that such a substitution will make it impossible to take classes for which Cardinal Core quantitative reasoning courses are prerequisite, thus greatly limiting the majors the student can elect. All such courses of action must be approved by the provost.

Arts and Humanities

Arts and humanities are concerned with understanding of art, music, theatre, literature, philosophy, and religious thought.

Requirement: 6 hours in the arts and/or humanities (AH), with at least two courses from different disciplines.

Social and Behavioral Sciences

Social and behavioral sciences are concerned with understanding human behavior, human interactions, human environment, and the related social structures and forms.

Historical perspective (SBH) is concerned with understanding change over time. Courses addressing this requirement cover a broad body of historical knowledge and compare different societies and cultures.

Requirement: 6 hours (SB): At least two courses from different disciplines and 3 hours must be in Historical Perspective (SBH).

Natural Sciences

Natural sciences are concerned with understanding the laws of nature and the physical world.

Requirement: 7 hours: lecture (S) and lab (SL) or combined lecture and lab (B) in a single discipline; an additional 3 hours in a second discipline.

Competency in Diversity

Diversity refers to the difference that differences make. All courses in diversity will examine the ways in which components of identity and social and material stratification positively or negatively affect life experiences, opportunities, and sense of belonging in national or global contexts.

Students must take 6 hours in diversity, with 3 hours in U.S. diversity (D1) and 3 hours in global diversity (D2). The diversity requirements will be met by taking courses in other Cardinal Core categories that also carry the D1 or D2 designation. This requirement, therefore, does not add hours to the total Cardinal Core program.

- U.S. Diversity

Courses in U.S. diversity (D1) will broaden students' understanding of how the experiences and opportunities of individuals and groups in the United States are shaped by the various historical, cultural and social structures and processes of stratification. These courses will center on race, socio-economic status, and gender, and/or their interactions with other social demographics.

Requirement: 3 hours

- Global Diversity

Courses in global diversity (D2) will broaden students' understanding of how the experiences and opportunities of individuals and/or groups in non-U.S. societies are shaped by the various historical, cultural and social structures and processes of stratification locally or globally.

Requirement: 3 hours

Petitions for Diversity (D) Credit

Diversity (D) Credit for Study Abroad Courses

Students may petition for diversity (D) credit for coursework undertaken as part of a study-abroad program prior to participation. Courses not previously approved for Cardinal Core credit will not be accepted for diversity (D) credit even if they are part of a university-approved study-abroad program. Petitions must be submitted to the committee through the Cardinal Core website.

Detailed instructions are available on the Cardinal Core website (<http://louisville.edu/provost/ger/diversity/>).

Diversity (D) Credit for Transfer Courses

A student may petition the Cardinal Core Curriculum Committee to evaluate transfer courses identified by the Admissions Office as not equivalent to any existing approved diversity (D) course. The student requesting the evaluation must provide a catalog course description and a syllabus of the course.

Information on submitting a petition for transfer credit is available on the Cardinal Core website (<http://louisville.edu/provost/ger/diversity/>).

Diversity (D) Credit for Military Experience

A student may petition for diversity (D) credit based on military experience. The petition must include an essay identifying which form of diversity (D) credit is requested, describing and explaining how the experience met the learning outcomes of the diversity (D) competency.

Petitions must be submitted to the committee. Detailed instructions (including specifications of the essay, criteria for assessment of the essay, submission deadlines, and limits on the petition period) are available on the Cardinal Core website (<http://louisville.edu/provost/ger/diversity/>).

Only one diversity credit (D1 or D2) may be earned by petition.

Cardinal Core Guidelines

These rules provide guidelines and available options for student course selection for completion of the Cardinal Core (general education) requirements (effective summer 2018). In alignment with university policy, the requirements, rules, policies, and the associated course listing for Cardinal Core in this catalog are for summer 2020 through spring 2021 and apply to all students enrolled in the university during this period.

Questions concerning these guidelines can be addressed to gecc@louisville.edu for the consideration of the committee.

Course Substitutions and Appeals

Students, departments, and units may not attempt to substitute for a Cardinal Core approved course any University of Louisville course not on the Cardinal Core approved list. The Cardinal Core Curriculum Committee will not accept any appeal for such consideration.

Transfer Students and Cardinal Core

Kentucky General Education Transfer Policy

Students who transfer between Kentucky's public institutions of higher education may qualify for certification of coursework meeting the Kentucky General Education Transfer Policy.

General Education Category Certified

Students who have completed some but not all of the five categories in the core component will be "category certified" for purposes of transfer. Individuals in this situation must fulfill all of the remaining general education requirements of the receiving institution that have not been satisfied through category certification. Students will still be required to complete 6 hours in courses designated diversity (D), with 3 hours in U.S. diversity (D1) and 3 hours in global diversity (D2).

Statewide General Education Core Categories

General Education Core Certified

Students who have completed all of the categories – the core component – with a minimum of 30 unduplicated credit hours will be "core certified" for purposes of transfer. A student admitted to the university as core certified is considered to have met all general education requirements of the institution with the exception of the Diversity competency. Students will still be required to complete 6 hours in courses designated diversity (D), with 3 hours in U.S. diversity (D1) and 3 hours in global diversity (D2).

General Education Fully Certified

Students who have completed a general education program, with a minimum of 30 unduplicated semester credit hours or the equivalent

(may include an approved SACSCOC justification for fewer hours) which includes the core component and all additional institutional-specific general education courses, will be "General Education Fully Certified" for purposes of transfer. If the receiving institution's general education program requires a sum of hours that is less than the total the student has taken at the sending institution, the excess hours will be accepted for transfer by the receiving institution and evaluated for application toward degree requirements. There may be graduation requirements beyond general education requirements that a student will need to complete (e.g., senior year capstone experiences).

AA/AS Credit for General Education

Students who graduate from Kentucky public institutions with AA or AS degrees will be deemed to be General Education Fully Certified. Other students who present the transcript for an AA (Associate of Arts) and/or an AS (Associate of Science) degree from a regionally-accredited institution (not included in the Kentucky Public Transfer Policy) will be considered for General Education Core Certification. Transcripts for such consideration must show completion of at least one transferable course in each of the Cardinal Core content areas at the University of Louisville: Written Communication, Oral Communication, Quantitative Reasoning, Arts and Humanities, Social and Behavioral Sciences (including Historical Perspective), and Natural Sciences.

General Education Requirements for Second-degree Students

For students already holding a baccalaureate degree but in residence to complete a second baccalaureate, the Cardinal Core requirements shall be considered fulfilled by the first baccalaureate degree.

Cardinal Core Assessment

Assessment of student learning outcomes is a national expectation in higher education and the expectations are calls for increased accountability. The Cardinal Core Curriculum Committee (CCCC) will conduct a systematic assessment of the Cardinal Core program for achievement of the student learning outcomes. In particular, the university-wide general education assessment program evaluates student performance in the key intellectual skills of the Cardinal Core program: critical thinking, quantitative reasoning, effective communication, and the understanding of historical, social, and cultural diversity. This process evaluates the effectiveness of the general education program and recommends changes for its improvement, as required by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools' (SACSCOC) accreditation principles.

Graduation and Degree Requirements

University Policies: Graduation and Degree Requirements

The conferring of degrees by the University of Louisville is conditional upon completion of all requirements in the opinion of the unit faculty and dean, regardless of the students' participation in commencement.

Students are strongly urged to run preliminary degree audits on a regular basis so that possible deficiencies in degree requirements can be identified early.

Bachelor's Degree Requirements

The baccalaureate degree (arts, fine arts, and science) is the undergraduate degree offered by the university. It is awarded to students who have completed both university-wide requirements and the requirements of the selected degree program. The following university-wide requirements apply to all baccalaureate degrees. The student must:

- Complete an online degree application by the specified date at the beginning of the semester of graduation.
- Complete an application for and be accepted for admission into a major program.
- Satisfy all Cardinal Core requirements.
- Complete all required courses and program requirements listed in the degree program section of this catalog.
- Have a cumulative university GPA of at least 2.00, or higher if specified by the program.
- Have a cumulative program GPA of at least 2.00, or higher if specified by the program.
- Complete a minimum of 120 hours applicable to the program, or more if required by the program.
- Complete at least 60 hours at an accredited four-year institution.
- Complete at least 25% of the total credit hours required for the degree in residence at the University of Louisville.

- Have neither missing nor outstanding I or X grades.
- Satisfy any additional requirements specified by the major program and unit.
- Be formally recommended for the baccalaureate degree by the unit faculty and dean and approved by the Board of Trustees.

Second Baccalaureates

To be awarded a second bachelor's degree, students must earn a minimum of thirty additional semester hours in the program. For students pursuing two degrees simultaneously, these thirty hours will be added to the minimum total of semester hours needed for the degree requiring the least number of hours.

Minors

Students who want to take a minor must apply for admission to the minor program after acceptance into a major program. The course work requirements for a minor are prescribed by a department or unit and consist of at least 18 semester hours. Most minor programs are open to students from all units.

Satisfactory completion of course work required for a minor will be certified as completion of the minor, and will be shown on the student's transcript only if the student's application has been accepted by the department or program offering the minor.

Unit-Specific Policies

In addition to the university-wide policies regarding Graduation and Degree Requirements, students may be subject to the unit-specific requirements listed below.

Minimum Hours

Each student must earn a minimum of 121 semester hours of credit (unless a higher minimum is specified in a program of study). At least 50 of the total semester hours, whether required or elective, must be earned in courses numbered 300 or higher. A student who earns duplicate credit for courses will be required to complete more hours.

Maximum Hours in Major

No more than 40 hours of courses that count in the major field may be applied toward graduation by candidates for the BA degree. No more than 60 hours in the major field may be applied toward graduation by candidates for the BS degree. No more than 80 hours in Fine Art (courses designated ART and ARTH) may be applied toward the BFA in Fine Arts.

Departmental Learning Outcomes Assessment

Completion of a baccalaureate degree also requires students to submit work to the department of the major for the department's Learning Outcomes Measurement. Details about the specific requirements and deadlines of an individual department are available in the department office. Students are advised to make themselves aware of these requirements as early as possible in their academic careers.

Requirements for Minors

The course work requirements for a minor consist of 18-23 semester hours. A maximum of 3 hours of pass-fail work may be applied. Students may elect a major and a minor in the same department only if there is more than one degree program in that department and if the major and minor are in two different programs of the department. Students who elect a minor and a major in the same department are cautioned that no more than 40 hours of courses with the same departmental designation that count in the major may be applied toward the 121 hours minimum for a BA degree and no more than 60 hours with the same departmental designation may be applied toward the 121 hours minimum for a BS degree. Students also are cautioned that completion of the major, which is required for all degrees, and completion of the minor, which is optional, may require the student to complete more than the 121 semester hours minimum required for a baccalaureate degree. Courses required for the minor may be used to fulfill other degree requirements.

Upper-Level Hours

At least 48 of the total semester hours, whether required or elective, must be earned in courses numbered 300 or higher. Note that the number of the course, not the student's classification, determines whether or not a course is senior-level.

Kent students participating in commencement will receive a generic letter stating that they have met the requirements of the BSW degree. This letter is an official letter that can be given to employers, for possible employment benefits. Students not attending commencement will NOT receive such a letter. Official degrees take up to six weeks to show on student transcripts. No personal letters for licensure or employment purposes can be given to students. These letters can also not be given before commencement due to specific university restrictions. Students should plan licensure exams or employment dates to accommodate this six-week delay after commencement to get an official transcript showing a degree.

University Policies: Graduation with Academic Honors

Baccalaureate degree students who have earned a minimum of 60 hours of letter-graded (i.e., not Pass/Fail) degree credit in residence at the University of Louisville will be eligible for consideration to graduate with honors. Students who have re-entered the university under the fresh-start policy must have earned at least 60 letter-graded credit hours since their return to be considered for academic honors.

Commencement programs will list eligible students as "Candidates for Honors" based on their having earned both undergraduate and program grade point averages of 3.5 or higher prior to the semester preceding graduation. Final determination of a student's eligibility to graduate with academic honors will be based on the student's standing upon completion of the degree. The name of the honor is decided by the unit.

Minimum criteria for honors are as follows:

- Cum Laude or Honors: 3.50 undergraduate and program grade point averages
- Magna Cum Laude or High Honors: 3.75 undergraduate and program grade point averages
- Summa Cum Laude or Highest Honors: 3.90 undergraduate and program grade point averages.

In addition to these minimum criteria, units may specify additional requirements for grade point averages and additional work such as honors projects or honors theses. Students should consult their advisor concerning eligibility and requirements for graduation with academic honors. The dean's office will make any final decisions concerning eligibility.

Students who were admitted to the University Honors program may be eligible to graduate as an Honors Scholar. Students who complete the necessary coursework with the required GPA will earn the designation of University Honors Scholar on both their transcript and diploma. Students who earn this distinction are awarded a medal and recognized at an awards ceremony prior to university commencement.

Unit-Specific Policies

In addition to the university-wide policies regarding Graduation with Academic Honors, students may be subject to the unit-specific requirements listed below.

College of Arts & Sciences

In determining eligibility for graduation with College Honors, the College takes into consideration not only the university cumulative grade point average (which must be at least 3.5), but also an "expanded cumulative grade point average" which is calculated only for the purpose of determining eligibility for graduation with College Honors.

The "expanded grade point average" is calculated based on grades earned in all college-level work. In the case of repeated courses, both the original grade and credit hours and the replacement grade and credit hours will be included in the calculation. Similarly, grades and credit hours excluded from the university grade point average through application of the academic bankruptcy provision and the Fresh Start program will be included in determining a student's expanded grade point average. In the case of work done at other institutions, all grades and credit hours in all degree-applicable courses will be included in determining a student's expanded grade point average.

Students should consult their advisor with any questions concerning eligibility and requirements for graduation with College Honors.

The minimum grade point average requirements for graduation with College Honors are:

Cum Laude: 3.50

Magna Cum Laude: 3.75 with no College honors thesis; 3.65 with College honors thesis

Summa Cum Laude: 3.75 with College honors thesis

All senior honors theses must be approved by the College of Arts & Sciences' Honors Thesis Committee.

Further information about the requirements to graduate magna cum laude or summa cum laude—including eligibility, deadlines for the proposal, the completed project, and the defense of the project—can be found on the University Honors Program website (<http://louisville.edu/honors/>).

College of Business

Students pursuing a double major must have the appropriate minimum GPAs in both majors to receive their degree with honors, high honors, or highest honors.

Alternatively, students may graduate with Highest Honors with a thesis project and the following GPA requirements: 1) a minimum of 3.75 University and program GPA at the beginning of the semester in which the student plans to graduate, and 2) the 3.75 minimum university and program GPA must be maintained through the final semester prior to graduation. With this path, students must write a thesis in their major, according to the following procedures:

1. Prior to the beginning of the student's final semester, he or she must contact the discipline Department Chair and initiate a request to be a candidate for graduation with highest honors.
2. The Chair will establish an Honors Committee of three faculty members. In consultation with the Honors Committee, the Chair will prepare a schedule of activities to help the candidate complete the thesis in a timely manner.
3. The Honors Committee will consult with the candidate and agree on a topic. The candidate will prepare the thesis according to the general requirements set up by the Honors Committee.
4. The candidate will submit the final draft of the thesis by the deadline set out in the initial schedule of activities. The Honors Committee will review the thesis on the basis of grammatical accuracy, substantive contribution, and response to the Committee's input. If the Committee chooses, it may conduct an oral examination of the candidate.
5. After reviewing the thesis, the Honors Committee will forward a positive or negative recommendation and a copy of the thesis to the Chair. To be acceptable, the thesis must be approved by all three members of the Honors Committee with the concurrence of the Chair. A candidate may appeal a negative decision to the COB Undergraduate Studies Committee. The thesis, along with the recommendations of the Honors Committee and Chair, will be forwarded to the Associate Dean for Undergraduate Programs no less than three weeks before the end of the semester in which the candidate is to graduate. It will be retained there in either a public or confidential file, as designated by the candidate. The discipline advisor will also be notified of the decision as the responsible party for notifying the Registrar's Office.

Honors Scholar in Business

To graduate as an Honors Scholar in Business, a COB student must complete at least 24 hours of honors courses with at least 18 hours in the COB; at least 12 hours at the 300 level or above; and at least two upper-level seminar courses (or one seminar plus a senior thesis), at least one of which must be non-business. The student's final university GPA must be 3.5 or higher.

Student Rights and Responsibilities

Academic Grievances

The academic grievance procedure is designed to provide fair means of dealing with student complaints regarding a specific action or decision made by the faculty or a faculty member.

"Students who believe they have been treated unfairly, discriminated against, or have had their rights abridged may initiate a grievance"
(The Redbook, Section 6.8.1).

Detailed information on how to submit and pursue a grievance can be found on the Office of the Provost website (<https://www.louisville.edu/provost/redbook/>).

Code of Student Conduct

The University's Code of Student Conduct is the University's policy regarding non-academic discipline of students and student organizations. Academic discipline of students is not covered by the Code, but rather falls within the authority of the individual academic units of the University.

Students are responsible for reading and abiding by the Code of Student Conduct.

The Code of Student Conduct can be found on the Dean of Students website (<https://louisville.edu/dos/students/studentrightsandresponsibilities/>).

Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities

The Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities is set forth in writing to provide students general notice of their rights and responsibilities at the University of Louisville. Further rights and responsibilities are set forth in other University rules and policies, including the Code of Student Conduct, Student Handbook, Residence Hall contracts, graduate and undergraduate catalogs and academic unit websites. It is the students' responsibility to be aware of all University rules and policies; students should check with the Dean of Students Office and with their academic units if they have any questions about the purposes or intent of these policies.

The Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities contains statements regarding the following:

- Admission and Financial Aid
- Class Rights and Responsibilities
- Academic Dishonesty
- Discipline Procedures for Academic Dishonesty
- Freedom of Expression
- Student Press
- University Facilities
- Use of University Name and Insignia
- Campus Residence Facilities
- FERPA/Privacy Guidelines
- Recognized Student Organizations
- Promulgation of University Rules Affecting Students

Work-Restricted Religious Observances/Holy Days

Federal law and university policy prohibit discrimination on the basis of religious belief. It is the policy of the University of Louisville to accommodate students, faculty, and staff who observe religious work-restricted holy days.

Students who observe work-restricted religious holy days must be allowed to do so without jeopardizing their academic standing in any course. Faculty are obliged to accommodate students' request(s) for adjustments in coursework on the grounds of religious observance, provided that the student(s) make such request(s) in writing two (2) weeks prior to the anticipated absence.

Deans and department chairs must investigate and resolve student complaints arising from alleged faculty failure to make reasonable accommodations under these guidelines.

Faculty and staff supervisors are directed to accommodate requests for absence for work-restricted religious holy days, unless it would cause an undue hardship. Further, whether the holy days are work-restricted or not, supervisors of faculty and staff should be sensitive to requests for accommodations.

Definition of Religious Observance/Work-restricted Holy Day

A recognized denominational sacred or holy day that is observed by persons or groups who are required—through a set or system of religious beliefs, laws/doctrines, tenets, canons or theology—to restrict or limit work and/or physical or mental activity directed toward the production or accomplishment of something; toil; labor.

This definition may include academic endeavors (e.g., examinations, classroom activities and research, or out-of-classroom learning experiences).

There is a distinction between religious holy days, sectarian holidays, and ethnic holidays and festivals which are routinely celebrated in the United States of America—e.g., Christmas, Thanksgiving, New Year's Day—and religious work-restricted holy days which are based upon religious tenets, laws, and/or doctrine—e.g., Yom Kippur, portions of Ramadan, or a work-restricted Sabbath.

Individuals who observe and/or follow these religious work-restricted holy days are not permitted to engage in day-to-day occupations, work, or attend school, including taking examinations or performing other routine commitments. Observances/practices vary from culture to culture within and across denominations.

While there are no work-restricted holy days within the Christian faith by tenet, Easter and Christmas often are considered to be non-work days by custom.

Student Records

Privacy of Student Records (FERPA)

The University of Louisville hereby notifies students concerning the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974. ## Code of Student Conduct

Code of Student Conduct

The university's Code of Student Conduct (<https://louisville.edu/dos/students/codeofconduct/>) ("The Code") is the University's policy regarding non-academic discipline of students and student organizations. Academic dishonesty is not covered by this Code, but rather falls within the authority of the individual academic units of the University. Students have the responsibility to follow all regulations outlined in this policy.

The primary purpose for the Code in the university setting is to respond to incidents of non-academic misconduct in a way that is developmentally sound and which creates an environment in which all members of the academic community can live, work, and learn together. The Code is designed to provide educational guidance to those choosing to develop into good citizens and, at the same time, to respond appropriately to behavior which may be inconsistent with university policies.

Criminal and civil codes are undesirable models for student conduct codes. Unlike society, the University of Louisville is a voluntary association of scholars who demand and deserve a positive and special learning environment, as well as an approach for enforcing the community's standards. The University of Louisville is a community dedicated to the principles of free expression in which diverse views are encouraged and embraced. Opinions that may be unpopular and/or contrary to the University's values and objectives, but do not otherwise violate policy, will not result in sanctions from the University.

The university's Code of Student Conduct is set forth in writing in order to give students general notice of non-academic prohibited conduct. The Code should be read broadly and is not designed to define non-academic misconduct in exhaustive terms. The Vice Provost for Student Affairs (VPSA) or designee is the final authority in defining and interpreting the Code of Student Conduct and conduct procedures. The university reserves the right to amend the Code of Student Conduct at any time.

The Code can be found at the Dean of Students website (<https://louisville.edu/dos/students/codeofconduct/>) or by contacting the Dean of Students Office in SAC W301 or by phone at (502) 852-5787.

Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities

Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities

The Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities is set forth in writing to provide students with general notice of their rights and responsibilities at the University of Louisville. Further rights and responsibilities are set forth in other University rules and policies, including the Code of Student Conduct, Student Handbook, Residence Hall contracts, graduate and undergraduate catalogs, and academic unit websites. It is the students' responsibility to be aware of all University rules and policies; students should check with the Dean of Students Office and with their academic units if they have any questions about the purposes or intent of these policies.

The Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities (<http://louisville.edu/dos/students/studentrightsandresponsibilities/>) is located on the Dean of Students website (<https://louisville.edu/dos/>).

Student Handbook

Other policies and information for students can be found in the online Student Handbook (<http://louisville.edu/dos/students/studentpoliciesandprocedures/student-handbook/>).

Student Advocacy and Support

The Student Advocate helps students navigate educational, personal, and other campus obstacles that impact successful completion of their academic goals. The Student Advocate links students with appropriate university and community resources and follows through to assist with student concerns while collaborating with faculty and staff in the best interest of the students.

At times, students may experience a variety of issues that impact their ability to be academically successful, such as illness, death of an immediate family member, accident, critical issues such as sexual assault, harassment, domestic violence, or other emergency situations. The Student Advocate works with students and their families to resolve issues by identifying options and strategies and offering information and guidance. During difficult times, students should be empowered with the resources to make informed decisions and take a proactive role in the problem resolution process.

The Student Advocate is located in the Dean of Students Office, SAC W301. For assistance, please contact the Student Advocate at advocate@louisville.edu or call (502) 852-5787 to schedule an appointment.

Student Grievance Officer

Students who have complaints, grievances, or concerns regarding courses taken at the University of Louisville or other university policies or services should contact the Student Grievance Officer to have the issues resolved in an expeditious, fair, and amicable manner. Students should first seek to resolve their complaints through informal discussion and administrative channels. The same resources are provided to on-campus and off-campus students.

The Student Grievance Officer (<https://louisville.edu/dos/students/studentpoliciesandprocedures/student-grievance/>) is responsible for informing students of their rights and obligations under the university's Student Grievance Procedures (<http://louisville.edu/provost/redbook/contents.html/chap6.html#ART68>). The Student Grievance Officer will seek to resolve informally as many grievances as possible. For assistance, please contact Dr. Joy Hart at joy.hart@louisville.edu.

Religious Days and Observances

Work-Restricted Religious Observances/Holy Days

Federal law and university policy prohibit discrimination on the basis of religious belief. It is the policy of the University of Louisville to accommodate students, faculty, and staff who observe religious work-restricted holy days.

Students who observe work-restricted religious holy days must be allowed to do so without jeopardizing their academic standing in any course. Faculty are obliged to accommodate students' request(s) for adjustments in coursework on the grounds of religious observance, provided that the student(s) make such request(s) in writing two (2) weeks prior to the anticipated absence.

Deans and department chairs must investigate and resolve student complaints arising from alleged faculty failure to make reasonable accommodations under these guidelines.

Faculty and staff supervisors are directed to accommodate requests for absence for work-restricted religious holy days, unless it would cause an undue hardship. Further, whether the holy days are work-restricted or not, supervisors of faculty and staff should be sensitive to requests for accommodations.

Definition of Religious Observance/Work-restricted Holy Day

A recognized denominational sacred or holy day that is observed by persons or groups who are required—through a set or system of religious beliefs, laws/doctrines, tenets, canons or theology—to restrict or limit work and/or physical or mental activity directed toward the production or accomplishment of something; toil; labor.

This definition may include academic endeavors (e.g., examinations, classroom activities and research, or out-of-classroom learning experiences).

There is a distinction between religious holy days, sectarian holidays, and ethnic holidays and festivals which are routinely celebrated in the United States of America—e.g., Christmas, Thanksgiving, New Year's Day—and religious work-restricted holy days which are based upon religious tenets, laws, and/or doctrine—e.g., Yom Kippur, portions of Ramadan, or a work-restricted Sabbath.

Individuals who observe and/or follow these religious work-restricted holy days are not permitted to engage in day-to-day occupations, work, or attend school, including taking examinations or performing other routine commitments. Observances/practices vary from culture to culture within and across denominations.

While there are no work-restricted holy days within the Christian faith by tenet, Easter and Christmas often are considered to be non-work days by custom.

Privacy of Student Records (FERPA)

The University of Louisville hereby notifies students concerning the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974. This act, with which the institution intends to comply fully, was designed to protect the privacy of educational records, to establish the right of students to inspect and review their educational records and to provide guidelines for the correction of inaccurate or misleading information. Students also have the right to file complaints with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act Office, Department of Education, concerning alleged failures by the institution to comply with the act.

The University has adopted a policy which explains the procedures to be used by the university for compliance with the provisions of the act and the regulations adopted pursuant thereto. Copies of the policy and other FERPA information can be obtained online at louisville.edu/library/archives/stupriv (<https://library.louisville.edu/archives/ferpa/>).

Questions concerning the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act may be referred to the Director, University Archives and Records Center, Ekstrom Library.

Student Information System

The Student Information System (SIS) is the electronic system that is used to register students and record their grades. It is from this system that transcripts are produced for students completing coursework at the university beginning with the 1982 fall semester.

Change of Address

Students requiring address changes during and between terms can make the adjustments via the web through Ulink. Under the heading "Personal Information," select "home and mailing addresses," then select "edit."

Students may also go directly to the registrar's office, room 31, Houchens building, and submit their new address in person. Address changes will also be accepted by calling the registrar's office at (502) 852-6522. Verification of student personal identification number will be required.

Email Notification

The university will use the university email system to remind students of some academic and financial deadlines as well as notification of cancelled courses. Students are expected to check campus email

About the College

A college of arts and sciences is central to the fulfillment of the purposes of higher education. Undergraduate study in a liberal arts college is designed to develop the whole person through the free inquiry that trains the mind for critical analysis and aesthetic appreciation. A liberal education begins with introductory studies in the natural sciences, social sciences, and humanities; its end is the development of the intellect to its full potential. Liberal education is a lifelong endeavor, and the goal of a college of arts and sciences is to ensure that the opportunities exist for a substantial beginning to this process.

The College of Arts and Sciences (<http://louisville.edu/a-s/>) of the University of Louisville is founded on these traditional principles, interwoven with the special role of an urban university. As the college which offers the most comprehensive undergraduate programs and several graduate programs, the College of Arts and Sciences has an integral role in the fulfillment of the university's mission by integrating urban-related courses within the foundation of a liberal education.

The theoretical and practical knowledge in the College's baccalaureate programs is generally regarded as excellent preparation for many careers that do not require professional or advanced degrees and is the academic foundation for most students who enter master's and doctoral graduate programs. The College also provides the liberal arts academic base for students who later attend the professional schools. In addition to the undergraduate curriculum, most departments in the College offer programs leading to the master's degree and eleven departments offer doctoral degrees.

A university is expected to advance the theories and application of knowledge. This expectation is fulfilled primarily by the creative research of its faculty. This creativity is related directly to the role of teacher, for it ensures that the College's students learn from enthusiastic and excellent faculty members who advocate the principle of lifelong inquiry.

The College's allegiance to the traditions of a liberal education does not end with the preservation of its history or its traditional programs. The vitality of the College is found in its continuing re-examination of itself, and in its willingness to change when change would further the welfare of its students, its faculty, and its community.

Structure

The College of Arts and Sciences has a division of humanities, a division of natural sciences, and a division of social sciences. These divisions represent the disciplines which collectively make up the liberal arts and sciences. Each division contains departments which offer programs in specific disciplines. In addition to these departments, the College has a number of interdisciplinary programs which involve faculty and coursework from several disciplines.

Information for Students

Academic Bankruptcy and Forgiveness & Fresh Start

Academic Bankruptcy and Forgiveness (p. 66) policies allow students who are returning to college after an absence of two or more years to request the adjustment of their records for one or more entire semesters of previous college work, provided certain criteria are met. View information on Academic Bankruptcy and Forgiveness (p. 66) and the Fresh Start (p. 66) policy.

Student Discipline and Grievance Policies

It is the student's responsibility to read the catalog and official announcements, to be informed about his/her own grades, credits, degree requirements, and quality points, and to abide by the regulations of the University and the College.

Official Notices

All students must respond to official notices issued by administrative officers and instructors, whether these notices be posted on official bulletin boards or sent through electronic or postal mail. Failure to comply with this regulation may lead to suspension from the College.

Academic Grievance Procedure

The College of Arts and Sciences follows the procedures for academic grievance as stated in this catalog and as published in The Redbook, Chapter 6, Article 8 (<http://louisville.edu/provost/redbook/chap6.html#ART68>). Any student considering filing such a grievance must consult with the Arts & Sciences Advising Center (<http://louisville.edu/artsandsciences/advising/>) for advice and information.

Statement of Academic Discipline

In accordance with The Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities (<http://louisville.edu/dos/students/code-of-student-conduct.html>), academic dishonesty is prohibited at the University of Louisville. Both faculty and students thought it important to express clearly, in advance, the standards to which the College adheres. The Statement of Academic Discipline printed below is the result of their effort and serves as the College's official statement.

Questions which do arise are reviewed by a joint student-faculty committee, which advises the student and faculty concerned. The student's rights to review and appeal are scrupulously observed, and minutes of all meetings are confidential.

I. Introduction

As members of the academic community, both students and faculty are expected to recognize and to uphold standards of intellectual integrity. The College assumes as a minimum standard of conduct in academic matters that the student is honest; credit for courses is given and received on the assumption and condition that all work submitted represents the student's own efforts.

Unfortunately, cheating and plagiarism do occur. The pressure for grades is often great, and opportunities for dishonesty exist. Nevertheless, both the ideals of scholarship and the need for practices which are fair to all students demand that all dishonest work be rejected as a basis for academic credit. The definitions and guidelines given below are intended to clarify the standards by which academic work is to be measured.

II. Definitions

Cheating on examinations consists of any of the following: 1) borrowing someone's answers; 2) providing answers to someone; 3) using unauthorized materials during the examinations.

Except when otherwise explicitly stated by the instructor, examination questions shall become public property after they have been given.

Plagiarism, in submitting individual work for academic evaluation, means simply to borrow someone's ideas without citing the source, and to use them as one's own. It is a particular type of cheating. Plagiarism in this sense is not limited to the use of direct quotations without citation; a paraphrase is indebted to the author's ideas just as a direct quotation is. Nor is plagiarism limited to the use of published materials; borrowing from the written or oral work of others without citation is equally dishonest. On the other hand, in every area of learning there is a body of knowledge which belongs to the public domain. Guidance and experience may be necessary in order to distinguish where the requirement to cite a source no longer applies. The instructor or perhaps a style manual may be helpful in resolving questions about what should be cited.

III. Guidelines for Instructors

Instructors have at least two roles to play in maintaining proper standards of academic conduct: to assist their students in recognizing the way in which general standards apply in the context of a particular course or discipline, and to take practical steps to prevent cheating and detect it when it occurs. Specific guidelines should be followed:

- That instructors take the time to inform students of the standards of conduct expected of them with regard to assignments and examinations.
- That practical measures be taken to minimize opportunities for dishonesty; e.g., adequate proctoring, the use of alternate forms of an examination if seating is crowded.
- The practice of giving identical examinations to different classes, whether separated in time by ten minutes or by a semester, invites cheating. When there are good reasons for such repetition, appropriate security precautions should be taken.
- The repeated assignment of the same material for papers or homework invites plagiarism. When assignments are repeated, students should be informed that the unauthorized reliance on earlier papers is forbidden and that the instructor has effective means of detecting same.
- That the instructor specifies with regard to assignments the degree to which students may confer and cooperate in achieving answers.

- The College does not operate on an honor system. If within a particular class an instructor wishes to institute such a system, the students should be clearly informed of their responsibilities.

IV. Guidelines for Students

Recognizing his/her responsibility as a member of the academic community, the student should strive to maintain intrinsically honest academic conduct. The student must seek to avoid any action which would compromise academic integrity. To ensure both the fact and the appearance of proper conduct, the student should follow these basic guidelines:

- During examinations, the student must be careful to do nothing that can be construed as cheating. The student shall follow carefully all directions given by the instructor with regard to taking tests and completing assignments.
- The instructor's request to keep test questions private shall be honored by the student.
- If the student is aware of practices by the instructor which are conducive to cheating, or of acts of cheating by students, he/she may convey this information either to any member of the student-faculty review committee (see section "V. Procedures") or directly to the instructor.
- Learning the proper methods of documentation and scholarship is also the student's responsibility. Such knowledge will help avoid committing plagiarism unwittingly.

V. Procedures

As evidence of the seriousness with which the College regards these matters, a student-faculty review committee, the Student Grievance and Academic Discipline Committee, has been established to assist in dealing with violators. The Student Grievance and Academic Discipline Committee also exists to protect the student's right to a fair and impartial hearing. To ensure its effectiveness, the faculty should view it as the primary channel through which such problems can be resolved. The faculty member who believes a problem of cheating or plagiarism exists should first confront the student or students involved and attempt to resolve the matter. A report of the facts of the case and any decision which was made should be sent by the professor to the Dean or his/her designee. During this initial encounter the faculty member should inform the student of his/her right to appeal an unfavorable decision to the committee. The faculty member has the authority to address and sanction dishonest acts as most appropriate for the course and type of dishonesty that occurred. If it is determined during the reporting process that the student has previously violated this policy, the committee will be convened to review the incident and a statement from the student. The committee will then recommend to the Dean whether the faculty member has issued a fair sanction, further disciplinary action should occur, or if a hearing with the individual student should be held. Subsequent offenses may result in a recommendation to the Dean to suspend or dismiss the individual from the College. All final actions taken by the Dean that result from faculty or committee recommendations shall be entered in the student's record. This committee is comprised of three students, selected by a nominating committee of the Student Council and/or of the Graduate Network in Arts and Sciences; three faculty members, representing the three divisions of the College, elected by the faculty; and a representative of the Office of the Dean of the College, ex officio.

Written statements shall be made by both parties and made available to both parties and the committee prior to any oral testimony. Any refutations may be made in writing or orally at the hearing. Evidence not submitted in the original written statements will not normally be accepted at the oral hearing.

All evidence in writing before the committee in a case shall be available to the principals. The committee shall hear such cases as come before it and allow the student to speak on his or her own behalf and to present evidence and witnesses. Further, the burden of proof rests with the person making the charge.

The committee may adopt additional principles or procedures as seem appropriate. Such changes, however, should be presented to the faculty for approval.

Any student who believes the processing or final disposition of a charge of academic dishonesty was unfair may initiate a grievance under the Academic Grievance Procedure as outlined in this catalog.

Students should be aware that all recorded instances of Academic Misconduct are retained by the Dean's Office for five years after the time the student separates from the university. Should it be requested, this information will be provided to any graduate or professional school to which the student applies.

Code of Faculty Responsibilities

1.0 Applicability

This code shall apply to all faculty members associated with the College of Arts and Sciences of the University of Louisville and to all graduate students and other personnel having teaching or research assignments in that school, hereinafter referred to as the teaching and research personnel.

2.0 Responsibilities

The teaching and research personnel of the College of Arts and Sciences hereby subscribe to the following specific responsibilities:

2.1 General Relations

2.11. The teaching and research personnel shall respect the rights of all members of the University community to pursue their academic and administrative activities, provided these activities do not contravene academic freedom. They retain the right to criticize and seek revision of these activities.

2.12. They shall respect the rights of all members of the University community to free and orderly expression.

2.13. They shall respect the right of any member of the University community to privacy and confidentiality. This right guarantees freedom against violation without consent of assigned physical premises, such as carrels and office space; and also against nonphysical transgressions, such as the unwarranted, improper or false disclosure of a person's political, religious or social views or activities.

2.14. They shall respect the student's right of confidentiality regarding grades.

2.15. They shall respect the rights of all persons of the University community to be free from sexual harassment.*

2.2 Student Relations

2.21. The teaching and research personnel shall uphold the student academic rights as set forth in the Student Bill of Rights adopted by the College on March 1, 1971.

2.22. They shall make known, in writing, as soon as possible during the first week of instruction, their expectations for the course as to assignments, methods of evaluation, and student course participation.

2.23. They shall present the subject matter of a course as published in the catalog, and shall avoid the persistent intrusion of material which has no relation to the subject.

2.24. They shall meet classes as scheduled in accordance with university regulations. Absences caused by illness, emergencies, personal responsibilities, or religious observances are excusable but must be reported to the Department Chair, in advance, if possible. Absences owing to professional obligations such as attendance at scholarly meetings or occasional professional service are excusable absences which nevertheless require prior notification of the Department Chair. In the case of anticipated absences, a qualified substitute, or provisions for additional assignments or alternate activity should be arranged.

2.25. They shall make themselves available for advising students by observing posted office hours, and by allowing students to arrange for appointments at other mutually convenient times.

2.26. They shall learn the academic requirements and various degree programs of the University affecting students whom they advise.

2.27. They shall arrange for appropriate interaction and communication with graduate students in the direction of their theses.

2.28. They shall provide students with an evaluation of their completed work within a reasonable period of time, and allow them access to their own papers, quizzes, and examinations.

2.29. They shall give final examinations, when these are required as part of the evaluation of the student, in accordance with schedules and procedures adopted by the College.

2.30. They shall give due acknowledgement to students who contribute to faculty efforts toward professional or personal advancement.

2.31. They shall respect the student's right to decline participation as a research subject in, or to withdraw from, a particular experiment without prejudice to his/her grade. Alternate experiences or exercises shall be provided to assure the equivalent in educational value to those students who wish not to participate as research subjects. Departments which use human subjects in experiments shall adhere to such code of ethics as are established within their respective professions.

Specifically:

2.31.1. Experimenters shall inform human subjects about the nature of each particular experiment so that they can make an informed choice to participate or not.

2.31.2. Experimenters shall keep the results of an experiment and the identity of the human subjects, who participate in it, separate, and the latter, confidential.

2.32. Teaching and research personnel shall respect the rights of all students to be free from sexual harassment.*

About

The College of Business was founded in 1953. Our business degree programs are accredited by AACSB International - The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business. Our accountancy program is one of a select group with additional AACSB accreditation. Our equine industry program is the only one in the world housed in an AACSB accredited college. Our Global MBA, offered in partnership with Akademie Wuerth Business School in Germany, is accredited by the Foundation for International Business Administration Accreditation (FIBAA).

Louisville is a great place to study business, because it's where most business in Kentucky happens. Our students, graduates and faculty interact with businesses in Louisville, elsewhere in Kentucky and the United States, as well as in Europe, Asia-Pacific and Central America—all regions where we have graduates. Our Louisville campus includes students from more than 100 countries, almost all 50 states and all 120 Kentucky counties.

Each year we serve approximately 1900 undergraduate students and 300 graduate students with about 80 full-time faculty. We are nationally recognized as a metropolitan research institution and the leading entrepreneurial business college in the region.

We educate future corporate, public and non-profit sector leaders, and entrepreneurs determined to start their own business or help re-invent an existing corporation. Many of our graduates stay in this region and help it prosper; others are spread across the nation and the world.

Our students have access to a great variety of grants, scholarships and financial aid, including scholarships for international travel.

To enhance teaching and learning, our students and faculty also have access to highly sophisticated university-based telecommunications and computer information systems.

The modern, well-furnished College of Business building is located on the University of Louisville's Belknap Campus near the downtown business district. It houses comfortable, technologically advanced classrooms, a large auditorium, a variety of attractive meeting rooms, advising services housed in the Reinhardt Academic Center, and the Ulmer Career Management Center, which provides advanced career services to College of Business students and alumni for life.

Many of our graduate and undergraduate programs are highly ranked in national and international listings of excellence. See the current rankings at the College of Business website (<http://business.louisville.edu/rankings/>).

About the Program

Advising Services

The College of Business employs a staff of professional advisors in the Reinhardt Academic Center (<http://louisville.edu/advising/centers/business/>) to assist students in the development of meaningful educational plans. We take our mission very seriously. We are committed to helping you in the development of a rewarding program of study and a challenging educational plan.

We encourage you to take responsibility for your own learning, and are available to assist you in appropriate course selection, interpreting policies and procedures and monitoring your academic performance and progress toward degree completion. At the end of your coursework, we will conduct a degree check verifying that all program requirements have been completed—and then on to graduation! The academic counselors at the advising center are also available to refer you to appropriate university resources including tutoring, counseling and career services.

Academic Forgiveness & Fresh Start

Academic Forgiveness and Fresh Start policies allow students to request the adjustment of their records for one or more entire semesters of previous college work, provided certain criteria are met. Students should see the Academic Forgiveness and the Fresh Start (p. 66) policy.

Student Academic Rights and Responsibilities

Every student is expected to be thoroughly familiar with the University's Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities and Student Conduct (p. 80).

Every student is responsible for reading the academic policies in the Undergraduate Catalog and official announcements of the College of Business and for abiding by such regulations. Specifically, every student is responsible for knowing the grade point averages and program requirements needed for graduation. Students are encouraged to see a COB academic advisor to clarify any questions or concerns.

Along with preparing for and attending class, each student has the responsibility to promote high academic standards. Students are expected to cooperate in all classes with faculty members to achieve an optimal learning environment. Inappropriate classroom behavior may result in the student being withdrawn from the course, and potentially assigned academic penalties. Inappropriate classroom behavior will be dealt with in the same manner as academic dishonesty.

Academic Dishonesty

The COB has a strong policy of academic discipline for action against students who commit academic dishonesty or conduct themselves inappropriately in the classroom. A proven case of academic dishonesty will normally result in the student being denied admission to or dismissed from the COB.

Academic dishonesty is defined by the Code of Student Conduct. Its definition pertains to but is not limited to cheating, fabrication, falsification, multiple submission, plagiarism, and complicity. It is the student's responsibility to maintain high standards of ethical conduct, and intellectual integrity and to be familiar with the definition of academic dishonesty.

As evidence of the seriousness with which the COB regards these matters, academic dishonesty allegations are handled in accordance with COB Procedures for Dealing with Academic Dishonesty.

Procedures for Dealing with Academic Dishonesty

1. When an academically dishonest event is discovered, it is the faculty member's responsibility to determine the appropriate course of action, the associated academic penalty, and to inform the student in a timely fashion of the academic dishonesty allegation. It is the faculty member's responsibility to determine the academic penalty and if an informal or a formal course of action is required. Academic penalties are imposed by the faculty member. The severity of academic penalty is commensurate with the academically dishonest event, and include penalties such as:
  - a. Resubmission of an alternative assignment or test
  - b. F grade on the assignment/test
  - c. F for the course grade
2. In cases where an academically dishonest event is deemed inadvertent or inconsequential, the faculty member may choose to resolve the academically dishonest event informally with the student. The informal discourse between the faculty member and the student should address the seriousness in how the COB views academic dishonesty, inform the student that it is their responsibility to know what constitutes academic dishonesty, and inform the student that any future academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. Academic penalties in this case should not have a material impact on the student's final grade in the class.
3. In cases where an academically dishonest event requires a material academic penalty, such as assigning an F for a major assignment/test, the faculty member may resolve the matter directly with the student. In this case within a timely and reasonable period, the faculty member must inform the student of the academic dishonesty allegation and present to the student a letter stating the allegation, documenting any associated evidence, and detailing the academic penalty. The faculty member must inform the student that the letter will be placed on permanent file in the COB's Dean's Office, and that any subsequent academic dishonesty will likely result in administrative penalties, (see 4f). If the student agrees to the terms of the letter as evidenced by the student's signature on the letter, the faculty member shall forward a copy of the letter to the Department Chair. The Department Chair shall deliver the letter to the Dean's Office and review the academic dishonesty file to determine if the student has committed any previous acts that may require further administrative penalties. The Department Chair shall report to the Dean of the COB if further action is needed.

4. When procedures outlined in the preceding paragraph are inappropriate, insufficient or unacceptable to either the faculty member or the student the following formal procedures provide due process.
  - a. Except under extraordinary circumstances, within ten school days of informing the student of the alleged academic dishonesty event, the faculty member will prepare a written statement that describes and documents the academic dishonesty allegation. The statement must include all supporting evidence, and the faculty member's recommended academic penalties. The faculty member's statement is to be submitted to the Faculty Co-Chair of the Undergraduate Studies Committee, (hereafter referred to as Co-Chair).
  - b. Except under extraordinary circumstances, within fifteen school days of receiving the faculty member's statement, the Co-chair will provide to the student through registered mail a letter detailing the academic dishonesty allegation. This correspondence will include notice that a hearing to investigate the academic dishonesty allegation is to be scheduled at the earliest possible convenience for all persons involved.
  - c. The hearing will be organized and administered by the Co-chair. The Co-chair will appoint a hearing committee, which will consist of the Co-chair plus two COB faculty members that are currently serving on the Undergraduate Studies Committee. The student may be assisted at the hearing by an academic student advisor of his/her choosing. A request for student advisor assistance must be made through written communication to the Co-chair.
  - d. The student may waive the right to the hearing by admitting to the charge of academic dishonesty in a signed written statement delivered to the Co-chair of the Undergraduate Studies Committee prior to the date of the hearing.
  - e. At the hearing, the faculty member and the student will each be provided an opportunity to present oral testimony, written evidence, and any other evidence. The burden of establishing the student's guilt is the responsibility of the faculty member making the allegation.
  - f. Except under extraordinary circumstances, within fifteen school days of the hearing, the hearing committee will render a decision on the academic dishonesty allegation and produce a written report of its findings. The Co-chair will notify the student and faculty member in writing of the hearing committee's findings. If the student is found to be guilty of the allegation, academic penalties will be imposed, and if appropriate, administrative penalties will be recommended. The hearing committee's decisions on academic penalties are final. All guilty findings will be placed on file under academic dishonesty events with the COB Dean's Office. In the case of a guilty finding the Co-chair will review the file of academic dishonesty events to determine if this is a first or a repeat offense. A repeat offense will likely result in a recommendation for administrative penalties. Administrative penalties in the case of suspension or expulsion from the COB are imposed by the Dean of the COB, or by the Provost in the case of suspension or expulsion from the University.

- g. In the case of recommended administrative penalties, the Dean of the COB shall review the hearing committee's report and issue a decision regarding imposing COB administrative penalties and whether any University-wide penalties will be recommended to the Provost. Except under extraordinary circumstances, within 15 school days of receiving the hearing committee's report, the Dean of the COB shall notify the student, the faculty member originating the academic dishonesty allegation, and the Co-chair of the hearing committee of its decision. The Dean of the COB shall forward any recommended University-wide penalties to the Provost.
- h. If the student fails to appear before the hearing committee, the hearing will be held in the student's absence and a final decision rendered. If the faculty member making the allegation of academic dishonesty fails to appear, the charges will be dropped. Unforeseen and uncontrollable events that prevent an individual's appearance at the hearing will be considered prior to making a final decision.
  - i. In the case where multiple students are involved with the academic dishonesty allegation, each student will be dealt with individually, but the composition of the hearing committee will remain the same for all students involved with the alleged event.
  - j. Any student who believes the processing or final disposition of a charge of academic dishonesty was unfair may initiate a grievance under the Academic Grievance Procedure as defined in the Academic Policies and Procedures of the Undergraduate Catalog.

Student Grievances

Students who wish to pursue grievances of any kind may consult with the Student Grievance Officer or the Associate Dean for Undergraduate Programs in the College of Business who will apprise the student of the policies and procedures regarding grievances. Detailed information on how to submit and pursue a grievance can be found on the Dean of Students website (<http://louisville.edu/dos/help/studentgrievance/>).

About the College

The College of Education and Human Development (CEHD), established in 1968 as the School of Education, is a college whose mission is to promote and strengthen the professional development of individuals concerned with education and human resource development in a variety of urban settings such as schools, colleges and universities, private and corporate organizations, and government agencies. This is done by conducting research, providing service, and preparing teachers, administrators, training and development specialists, and professionals in sport management, mental and physical health, and student affairs. In 2000, the name was changed to the College of Education and Human Development, to more accurately reflect the College's mission and programs. As an urban institution, the College is particularly concerned with improving the education and quality of life for persons of all ethnic and cultural backgrounds. The administration, faculty, and staff are committed to working with other university personnel and practitioners in carrying out this mission.

As one of five Commonwealth Centers of Excellence and the only one in education, the College of Education and Human Development offers programs, which are:

- Based upon established knowledge bases that incorporate urban and global perspectives as well as current understanding of best professional practice;
- Consistent with the philosophical standards and ethical practices of relevant professional associations;
- Available to qualified individuals without regard to ethnicity, age, religion, gender, sexual orientation, disability, or national origin;
- Future oriented and open to change on the basis of inquiry and experimentation as well as the needs and expectations of those we serve;
- Rooted in the assumption that members of our faculty and staff are continuing learners who model the practices they teach, including the use of current information technologies; focused upon collaborative approaches to address the concerns of those we serve.

Structure

The College of Education and Human Development provides courses and other experiences designed to prepare professionals in school and non-school settings. It offers curricula leading to the Bachelor of Science degree in Early Elementary Education, Middle and Secondary Education, Health and Human Performance, Sport Administration, and Organizational Leadership and Learning.

The College of Education and Human Development also offers minors in Exercise Science, Sport Administration, Healthcare Leadership, and Leadership and Talent Development to support the degree programs of students both within the College of Education and Human Development and those pursuing a degree through another college/school at the University. Undergraduate Certificates are also offered in Healthcare Leadership and Human Resource Leadership, which are open to both those in other degree programs at the university, or can be pursued in a non-degree status, for those only seeking a certificate.

About the Programs

Academic Grievance Procedure

The College of Education and Human Development follows the procedures for academic grievances (p. 82) found in this catalog and as published in The Redbook, Chapter 6, Article 8. Any student considering filing such a grievance should consult with the Student Grievance Officer or the Associate Dean for Student Success and Academic Affairs in the College of Education and Human Development, who will apprise the student of the policies and procedures regarding grievances.

Students of the College of Education & Human Development can contact Associate Dean for Student Success and Academic Affairs, Dr. Meg Hancock (mghanc01@louisville.edu), (502) 852-3237, for questions, concerns, and reports of student conduct, complaints, and grievances.

Statement of Policy and Procedures with Respect to Academic Integrity

A primary goal of the College of Education and Human Development is to educate men and women who will serve the education community with competence and integrity. To this end, the faculty considers academic honesty on the part of students of paramount importance. At another level, the trust existing between faculty and students must not be tainted with suspicion of dishonesty. Academic dishonesty is defined in the Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities. In the event that a student believes the following procedures for handling allegations of academic dishonesty have resulted in an injustice, that student may seek counsel from the Student Grievance Officer.

Procedures for Dealing with Breaches of Academic Integrity

1. A faculty member who believes that a student has committed an act of academic dishonesty shall, after checking with the clearinghouse to determine if the student has been found guilty of such acts previously, prepare a written statement that specifies the charge and that proposes the penalties to be imposed on the student. The proposed penalties shall be described as either:

- a. Academic penalties, which are penalties associated with the class in question, such as resubmission of or alternate assignments, F on the assignment, F for the course, etc.; or
  - b. Administrative penalties, which are suggested penalties to be imposed by the Dean or Provost, such as suspension or expulsion from the College of Education and Human Development or the University.
2. The faculty member shall meet with the student in person and in private, at which time the faculty member shall:
    - a. Explain the basis for the allegation;
    - b. Give the student a copy of the written statement of the charge and proposed penalties; and
    - c. Give the student a copy of these procedures.
  3. The student shall either admit or deny the charge of academic dishonesty in writing no later than one week after the meeting with the faculty member. If the student does not meet this deadline, the student will be deemed to have denied the charge.
  4. If the student admits the charge, any proposed academic penalties shall be implemented by the faculty member. The faculty member shall then forward the Statement of Charges and proposed administrative penalties, if any, the student's admission of guilt, and a statement of the academic penalties imposed, if any, to the Dean.

The Dean shall review the documents and shall issue a decision, within 15 school days, regarding whether any administrative sanctions shall be imposed on the student by the College of Education and Human Development, and whether any University-wide administrative sanctions will be recommended to the Provost. The Dean shall notify the student, the faculty member, the department chair, and the Associate Dean of this decision. The Dean shall forward any recommended University-wide administrative sanctions to the Provost.

5. If the student denies the charge, the faculty member shall forward the statement of the charge and proposed penalties to the department chair, or, if the department chair is the faculty member making the allegation, to the Associate Dean. The department chair or the Associate Dean shall schedule a hearing.

Notice of the hearing shall either be hand-delivered or sent by Registered U.S. Postal Service to the student, at the address listed with the Registrar's Office, and to the faculty member via inter-office mail. The notice should be sent at least 10 school days prior to the hearing. The notice should state the time, date and place of the hearing and contain a copy of the original statement of the allegations.

At the hearing, the professor and the student will each be provided an opportunity to present oral testimony and written evidence. The burden of establishing the student's guilt rests with the professor, who must do so by a preponderance of the evidence. A student may be assisted at the hearing by an advisor of his/her choosing. However, that person will not be permitted to speak on behalf of the student at the hearing. If the student fails to appear after proper notice, the hearing will be held in the student's absence and a final decision rendered.

After the hearing, the chair or the Associate Dean, as appropriate, will render a decision. Decisions of academic penalties will be final. Additional administrative penalties recommended will be forwarded to the Dean with all materials submitted at the hearing, including a brief, written statement of reasons for the finding.

The Dean will consider the recommendation. Within 10 school days, the Dean will make a decision and notify the student, the professor, and the department chair or Associate Dean of the final action taken in the case. Notice of the decision will also be sent to the Office of the Provost. If the Dean's decision is not timely, the recommendation is voided and the action is dismissed.

Instructional Modification

Students with disabilities, who need reasonable modifications to complete assignments successfully and otherwise satisfy course criteria, are encouraged to meet with the instructor as early in the course as possible to identify and plan specific accommodations. Students may be asked to supply a letter from the Disability Resource Center or other documentation, which will assist in planning modifications.

Diversity

Diversity is a shared vision for our efforts in preparing teachers, administrators, school counselors and other professionals. Students will be encouraged to investigate and gain a current perspective of diversity issues (race, ethnicity, language, religion, culture, socioeconomic status, gender, sexual identity, disability, ability, age, national origin, geographic location, military status, etc.) related to their chosen fields. Students will also have the opportunity to examine critically how diversity issues apply to and affect philosophical positions, sociological issues, and current events in a variety of areas. Students will examine their belief systems and be encouraged to reexamine and develop more grounded beliefs and practices regarding diversity.

Student Teaching/Field Experiences

In all phases of the Developmental Teacher Preparation Model, candidates participating in field and clinical experiences must abide by all policies, rules, and regulations of the University and the assigned school. Failure to abide by standards of conduct and performance established by the faculty may result in the removal from the program. Student teaching requires a minimum 15-week clinical experience in school setting(s) related to the teaching certificate a teacher candidate is seeking. Teacher candidates work with a cooperating teacher and University Supervisor participating in the work of teaching. Placement in student teaching is contingent upon the applicant's successful completion of required program coursework and assessments, and faculty recommendation. Evaluation is based on Kentucky Teacher Standards and Professional Code of Ethics.

Academic Forgiveness & Fresh Start

Academic Forgiveness policies allow students to request the adjustment of their records for one or more continuous semesters of previous college work, provided certain criteria are met. Additional information on Academic Forgiveness and Fresh Start policies can be found in this catalog (p. 63).

Continuing Studies

About the Program

Continuing Studies is a non-degree granting unit that admits adult students who want to take courses on a part-time basis for personal enrichment or professional development. Students can earn college credit, but are not admitted into a degree program.

Continuing Studies students may enroll for a maximum of 8 hours in any semester or summer session. Students are required to maintain a 2.0 grade point average. Continuing Studies students are not eligible to receive state or federal financial aid.

Students may remain in Continuing Studies until they accumulate 24 credit hours. Students with 24 credit hours must apply for admission and be accepted by a degree-granting unit of the university if they wish to continue their course work.

Admissions Policies

In order to be admitted to Continuing Studies, applicants must complete an Application for Undergraduate Admission and submit an application fee. Transcripts and ACT scores are not required. However, post-baccalaureate students who wish to take prerequisite courses for a graduate-level program will need to submit a transcript to verify their status.

Continuing Studies students must meet the following criteria unless they petition the Continuing Studies Office for exception:

- Applicants must be at least 22 years old, unless the applicant will be on active military duty.
- Applicants must self-report that they have a high school diploma or high school equivalency certificate issued by the State Department of Education.
- Applicants with previous college work must self-report that they have not been dismissed from their last attended institution of higher education.
- Applicants for whom English is a second language must offer proof of English proficiency.

Placement Tests

Continuing Studies students may take placement tests to determine the correct level of coursework. Placement tests are available in Math and Foreign Language. CLEP (College Level Examination Program) exams may be used to gain course credit.

The placement tests and CLEP exams are scheduled through:

The Testing Center
310 Davidson Hall
(502) 852-6606

Students with learning or other disabilities that may interfere with placement test accuracy should contact the Disability Resource Center (502) 852-6938.

Transfer Credits

Transfer credits are formally evaluated only when students are accepted into a degree-granting unit.

Enrollment

Students must be admitted to UofL and registered for classes by the end of the first day of classes. Continuing Studies students may enroll for a maximum of 8 hours in any semester or summer session. Students must have a grade point average of 2.0 or better to remain in good standing. Students may enroll in undergraduate classes for which they have completed the prerequisites or by faculty permission.

Students with 24 credit hours must apply for admission and be accepted by a degree-granting unit if they wish to continue their course work. Units will determine which of a student's previously earned credits will apply to a particular degree or major.

Students who wish to audit courses can register for classes before the deadline and then have the audit form signed by the professor and taken directly to the Registrar's office to change the class from graded to audit.

Post-Baccalaureate students who wish to take a graduate class must get approval from the School of Interdisciplinary and Graduate Studies; interested individuals should call (502) 852-6495 for details.

University Grade Point Average

The University of Louisville calculates a University Grade Point Average, which becomes the standard measure of performance and the official university calculation upon which academic decisions are made. The University Grade Point Average is determined at the undergraduate level, and is based upon all undergraduate course work taken at the University of Louisville.

Courses numbered below the 100 level (000-099) will not be used in the earned hours or University Grade Point Average calculation.<sup>1</sup>

Continuing Studies students must follow the instructional unit's policies concerning adding or withdrawing from classes, pass/fail grading, incompletes, and audits.

Academic bankruptcy is not available to Continuing Studies students.

Academic Standing

Students in good standing must maintain a 2.0 cumulative Grade Point Average (GPA) in all coursework taken while enrolled in Continuing Studies.

Failure to attain a 2.0 GPA after the first semester results in Academic Warning and a restriction to an enrollment of 6 semester hours. Failure to attain a 2.0 GPA after two semesters results in Academic Probation and a restriction to an enrollment of 3 semester hours. Academic support is available for students on Academic Probation.

In any subsequent semester, a student whose Grade Point Average falls below 2.0 will be suspended from Continuing Studies.

Period Out

Students suspended from Continuing Studies after a fall semester must sit out the following spring semester; students suspended after a spring semester must sit out the following summer and fall semesters; and students suspended after a summer semester must sit out the following fall semester.

Readmission

Students suspended from Continuing Studies may appeal to the Office of Admissions for readmission after the appropriate period out.

Readmission may also require assessment of the student's academic potential and readiness to return.

To apply for readmission, students must complete both an application for admission and a petition form, available on the Office of Admissions website. High school credentials and college transcripts may also be requested for review. The forms must be returned to the office at least one month before the first day of classes for the semester for which readmission is requested.

Note: Courses taken at another institution while suspended from Continuing Studies may not be accepted for transfer credit.

Normal and Maximum Course Loads

The maximum load for each semester is 8 credit hours. Students with superior scholastic records and/or extenuating situations (e.g., Vocational Rehabilitation, 4C's, or Military/GI Bill) may petition for an overload permission to take additional hours.

Federal Veterans Educational Benefits

Students are eligible for benefits while enrolled in Continuing Studies. Contact the Veteran Affairs Coordinator in the Registrar's Office at (502) 852-0998 for details.

Financial Aid

Continuing Studies students are not eligible for State or Federal Financial Aid.

About

The mission of the J.B. Speed School of Engineering is to serve the university, the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and the engineering profession by providing high-quality educational programs to all students; engaging in research and scholarship that will extend knowledge; and assisting the economic development of the regional, state, and national economies through technology transfer.

The Speed Scientific School was established as part of the University of Louisville in September 1924 as a result of a $250,000 endowment from the James Breckenridge Speed Foundation. James Breckenridge Speed (1844–1912) was a descendant of the prominent Speed family and an industrial pioneer in the City of Louisville. An illustrious business leader, he oversaw the establishment of Louisville's street railway system, developed and operated large coal interests in Kentucky and was president of the Louisville Cement Company and the Ohio Valley Telephone Company. These industries, in which he maintained an active interest until his death in 1912, were a nucleus around which the City of Louisville and its greater metropolitan area grew to their present industrial stature. It is fitting that his memory be perpetuated in an engineering school bearing his name.

A pioneer class of 72 students started in Fall 1925 in chemical, civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering. The newly renovated Brigman Hall served as the main engineering building until 1942. Upon its inception, the Speed Scientific School offered a four-year Bachelor of Science degree based on a quarter plan, with alternating quarters of coursework and cooperative industry experience in the sophomore and junior years. To this day, the cooperative education program has been a mainstay of the curriculum and Speed School remains as one of the few engineering schools with a mandatory program.

The engineering campus continued to grow through the generosity of Dr. William S. Speed and Mrs. Olive Speed Sackett, the children of James Breckenridge Speed and benefactors of his foundation, and Mrs. Virginia Speed, his wife. They made additional grants toward the erection of the James B. Speed Building (1942), Frederic M. Sackett Hall (1948), and William S. Speed Hall (1958). The Institute of Industrial Research (1946) was also constructed during this period and was later renovated to become the Laura Kersey Library, named after the first Speed School librarian. Kersey Library was again renovated in 2009 and is now the Dutchie Center for Engineering.

The Speed School campus continued its growth on the south side of Eastern Parkway. The Chemical Engineering Building was built in 1967 and renamed in 1975 to honor Robert C. Ernst, who served as the third Dean of Speed School. The Vogt Building, a computerized engineering design center, was built in 1989 to honor Henry Vogt, whose family continues to play an important role in Speed School. Speed School then spread to the other side of Eastern Parkway with the construction of the New Academic Building in 1996. This building was later dedicated to Paul B. Lutz, an outstanding engineering faculty member and benefactor. Lutz Hall houses several research labs and centers and is home to the bioengineering program, the newest of the degree programs. In the 1970s the school had also added degree programs in computer engineering and industrial engineering. The newest addition to the Speed campus is the Shumaker Research Building (2006), housing a world-class cleanroom facility and numerous engineering research efforts.

In 2004, the J.B. Speed Scientific School officially changed its name to the J.B. Speed School of Engineering, reflecting its emphasis on engineering. It is also simply referred to as Speed School by those familiar with the school.

A formal definition of engineering was approved in 1979 by the Engineers Council for Professional Development, now known as the Engineering Accreditation Commission of ABET (<https://www.abet.org>), the accrediting board for engineering and technology programs. This definition still applies today:

"Engineering is the profession in which knowledge of the mathematical and natural sciences gained by study, experience, and practice is applied with judgment to develop ways to utilize, economically, the materials and forces of nature for the benefit of mankind."

Students of engineering should graduate with knowledge of engineering sciences and design, experience working in teams, have strong written and oral communication skills, and be well-versed on the impact of solutions in a global, economic, environmental, and social context. In particular, engineers have a duty to society to understand and abide by their discipline's Codes of Ethics. The preamble of the National Society of Professional Engineers (NSPE) Code of Ethics for Engineers states:

"Engineering is an important and learned profession. As members of this profession, engineers are expected to exhibit the highest standards of honesty and integrity."

Engineering has a direct and vital impact on the quality of life for all people. Accordingly, the services provided by engineers require honesty, impartiality, fairness, and equity, and must be dedicated to the protection of the public health, safety, and welfare. Engineers must perform under a standard of professional behavior that requires adherence to the highest principles of ethical conduct."

Structure

The engineering programs are structured such that students will complete a program consisting of a combined eleven semesters (eight academic work and three co-operative internships) in Departmental Studies to complete the Bachelor of Science degree, followed by a fifth year in Graduate Studies for the Master of Engineering degree. To complete the program in five years, Speed School students have a full course load during the summer semesters. The curriculum is designed as an integrated five-year program, with a cooperative education component, culminating in the Master of Engineering (MEng) degree. The Bachelor of Science and Master of Engineering programs are both accredited by the Engineering Accreditation Commission (EAC) of ABET (<http://www.abet.org/>). Additionally, both BS CSE and MEng CSE degrees are also accredited by the Computing Accreditation Commission (CAC) of ABET (<https://www.abet.org/>).

The Engineering Fundamentals Department teaches engineering mathematics courses and other introductory engineering courses. The department focuses on creating a positive and supportive environment that helps students succeed in their studies and finalize their selection of engineering major. Departmental faculty strive to achieve excellence in teaching while introducing students to the engineering profession and providing them with fundamental engineering skills through a common set of core courses that begin in the freshman year. The department houses Speed School's Center for Teaching and Learning Engineering (CTLE) that fosters the development, evaluation and adoption of innovative teaching methods, both traditional and technology enabled.

The Bachelor of Arts in Computer Science (BA CS) program is structured to include eight semesters of academic work and two semesters of internship experience (during Summer semesters). Included within the planned hours of the program, are 30 credit hours designated as "Other Area of Study". These hours allow BA CS students a high degree of flexibility to pursue other interests, but it is highly encouraged that some or all of these hours be used toward the completion of a Minor.

Faculty and Departmental Information

The complete and up-to-date lists of departments (<http://engineering.louisville.edu/academics/departments/>) and faculty also are located on the Speed School website.

Advising Services

Upon admittance to the J.B. Speed School of Engineering, students will be assigned an academic counselor. The academic counselors introduce students to a range of services provided by the J.B. Speed School of Engineering and will guide and support students as they advance through the engineering curriculum.

The J.B. Speed School of Engineering staffs professional academic counselors dedicated to:

- Assisting students in selecting appropriate required and elective courses
- Helping students determine choice of major
- Assisting students who are experiencing academic difficulties in their courses
- Maintaining complete and accurate files on each advisee in order to monitor progress toward career goals
- Assisting students to identify opportunities for engagement

All BS and MEng students are required to be advised by their academic counselor each semester. Students will be unable to register for classes until cleared by their academic counselor. Academic counselors are located in the Engineering Office of Student Success, located in the lower level of the J.B. Speed Building.

For further information about academic advising in the School of Engineering, call (502) 852-8084 or email the Advising Office (<http://louisville.edu/cgi-bin/uofl.mail?name=ssadvise>).

About the Programs

Engineering Programs

The engineering programs of the University of Louisville are offered through the J.B. Speed School of Engineering. The typical undergraduate program of study covers a period of four calendar years spanning eleven semesters, which includes three summer semesters. Study includes both academic course work and three semesters of cooperative work experience with industry, wherein a student is provided with conditions similar to those encountered in engineering practice.

Upon successful completion of undergraduate study and cooperative education, the student receives the Bachelor of Science degree in one of seven areas of specialization (see Programs of Study tab).

Students completing requirements for the Bachelor of Science degree at the J.B. Speed School of Engineering and achieving the required grade point average are encouraged to complete the requirements for the Master of Engineering (MEng) degree if the professional practice of engineering is a career objective. The five-year MEng program at the University of Louisville includes one year of graduate study beyond the four years of undergraduate studies.

Additionally, the Kentucky State Board of Licensure for Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors allows a student of the J.B. Speed School of Engineering who has completed 105 semester hours in an engineering curriculum to sit for the Fundamentals of Engineering examination as part of the requirements for registration as a Professional Engineer in Kentucky. The Bachelor of Science and Master of Engineering programs are both accredited by the Engineering Accreditation Commission (EAC) of ABET (<http://www.abet.org/>). Additionally, both BS CSE and MEng CSE degrees are also accredited by the Computing Accreditation Commission (CAC) of ABET (<https://www.abet.org/>).

Students with a Bachelor of Science degree from another accredited program who come to the J.B. Speed School of Engineering to pursue an advanced degree normally enter into a Master of Science (MS) or doctoral (PhD) program. In addition to the previously mentioned seven areas of specialization, a master's program in Engineering Management is also offered by the Industrial Engineering Department. The Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy degrees are available in all areas of specialization except for bioengineering which offers a PhD in Interdisciplinary Studies: Specialization in Translational Bioengineering. Information about these degrees and other advanced degrees awarded by the University of Louisville may be obtained from the Graduate Catalog (<http://catalog.louisville.edu/graduate/programs-study/>).

The conferring of degrees by the University of Louisville is conditioned upon timely completion of all requirements in the opinion of the Dean and faculty and issuance of appropriate formal documents by the Registrar, regardless of participation in commencement.

Applied Science Programs

The J.B. Speed School of Engineering currently offers one Applied Science Program, the Bachelor of Arts in Computer Science (BA CS). The BA CS program includes eight semesters of academic work and two semesters of internship experience (during Summer semesters). Included within the planned hours of the program, are 30 credit hours designated as "Other Area of Study". These hours allow BA CS students a high degree of flexibility to pursue other interests, but it is highly encouraged that some or all of these hours be used toward the completion of a Minor. Many sectors are currently in need of workers who both possess Computer Science skills and have expertise related to the field of application. The BA CS program, with an accompanying Minor in such fields, is designed to fulfill this need.

Accreditation

The agency responsible for the accreditation of educational programs leading to degrees in engineering is the Engineering Accreditation Commission (EAC) of ABET (<https://www.abet.org>). The purpose of accreditation is to identify those institutions which offer professional programs in engineering and demonstrate that the programs meet specified criteria. Accreditation of engineering programs began in 1932 and the University of Louisville's engineering programs have been continuously accredited from this time.

The program must have documented student outcomes that support the program educational objectives. Attainment of these outcomes prepares graduates to enter the professional practice of engineering. Student outcomes are outcomes (1) through (7), plus any additional outcomes that may be articulated by the program.

1. an ability to identify, formulate, and solve complex engineering problems by applying principles of engineering, science, and mathematics
2. an ability to apply engineering design to produce solutions that meet specified needs with consideration of public health, safety, and welfare, as well as global, cultural, social, environmental, and economic factors
3. an ability to communicate effectively with a range of audiences
4. an ability to recognize ethical and professional responsibilities in engineering situations and make informed judgments, which must consider the impact of engineering solutions in global, economic, environmental, and societal contexts
5. an ability to function effectively on a team whose members together provide leadership, create a collaborative and inclusive environment, establish goals, plan tasks, and meet objectives
6. an ability to develop and conduct appropriate experimentation, analyze and interpret data, and use engineering judgment to draw conclusions
7. an ability to acquire and apply new knowledge as needed, using appropriate learning strategies.

All undergraduate Speed School programs demonstrate that these outcomes are attained through an assessment process documented with the Engineering Accreditation Commission (EAC) of ABET (<https://www.abet.org>). The BS CSE degree program is also accredited by the Computing Accreditation Commission (CAC) of ABET (<https://www.abet.org>).

The Engineering Accreditation Commission (EAC) of ABET (<https://www.abet.org>) accredits programs at either the basic or advanced level. The curriculum requirements specify subject areas appropriate to engineering but do not prescribe specific courses. The program curriculum must provide adequate content for each area, consistent with the student outcomes and program educational objectives, to ensure that students are prepared to enter the practice of engineering. The general basic (baccalaureate) level curricular content:

- a minimum of 30 semester credit hours (or equivalent) of a combination of college-level mathematics and basic sciences with experimental experience appropriate to the program.
- a minimum of 45 semester credit hours (or equivalent) of engineering topics appropriate to the program, consisting of engineering and computer sciences and engineering design, and utilizing modern engineering tools.
- a broad education component that complements the technical content of the curriculum and is consistent with the program educational objectives.
- a culminating major engineering design experience that 1) incorporates appropriate engineering standards and multiple constraints, and 2) is based on the knowledge and skills acquired in earlier course work.

The general criteria for advanced level (master's) programs are:

- Fulfillment of basic level (baccalaureate) criteria.
- Fulfillment of program criteria appropriate to the masters level specialization area.
- One year of study beyond the basic level.

The University of Louisville is currently the only university in the country with programs having both baccalaureate- and master's-level accreditation. The accredited programs are the Bachelor of Science (BS) and Master of Engineering (MEng) programs in Bioengineering, Chemical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Computer Science and Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Mechanical Engineering.

Code of Student Conduct

The Code of Student Conduct is the University's policy regarding non-academic discipline of students. The general responsibility for non-academic discipline of all students enrolled in the University of Louisville shall be vested in the Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs. The Dean of Students Office has been delegated the responsibility of administering the Code of Student Conduct. The Code of Student Conduct is available online (<http://louisville.edu/dos/students/codeofconduct/>).

Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities

The Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities is set forth in writing in order to give students general notice of certain of their rights and responsibilities at the University of Louisville. Further rights and responsibilities are set forth in other University rules and policies, including the Code of Student Conduct and academic unit bulletins. The Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities is available online (<http://louisville.edu/dos/students/studentrightsandresponsibilities/>).

Student Classroom Conduct

Students are expected to cooperate with all instructors to achieve an optimal learning environment. Conduct that disrupts such an environment will be dealt with and may result in the student being withdrawn from the course and/or facing additional academic penalties.

Academic Dishonesty

A primary goal of the School of Engineering is to educate people who will serve the engineering community with competence and integrity. Academic dishonesty is a serious offense at the J.B. Speed School of Engineering (SSoE) because it undermines the bonds of trust and honesty between members of the community and defrauds those who may eventually depend upon our knowledge and integrity. Students are expected to recognize and to uphold standards of intellectual integrity. The School of Engineering assumes, as a minimum standard of conduct in academic matters, that the student is honest; credit for courses is given and received on the assumption and condition that all work submitted represents the student's own efforts. Academic dishonesty is defined in the Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities. It is the student's responsibility to become familiar with the Code.

In accordance with the Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities, academic dishonesty is prohibited at the University of Louisville.

1. An instructor who believes a student has committed an act of academic dishonesty will notify the student. This notification will include an explanation of the basis for the allegation and the academic penalties. Academic penalties are penalties associated with the class in question, such as re-submission of alternate assignment, F on the assignment, F for the course, etc. The student will have 10 school days to notify the instructor whether the student accepts or does not accept the academic penalties. Failure to notify the instructor within 10 school days will be interpreted as an acceptance of the academic penalty.

2. If the student accepts the instructor's academic penalties the following actions will occur:

- The instructor implements the academic penalties.
- The instructor notifies the department chair and SSoE Associate Dean of Academic Affairs of the incident and imposed penalties within 10 school days of receiving the student's notification of accepting the penalties.
- The SSoE Associate Dean for Academic Affairs will review the documents within 10 school days of receipt and issue a decision regarding whether any administrative sanctions will be imposed on the student by the J.B. Speed School of Engineering, and whether any University-wide sanctions will be recommended to the Provost. Administrative penalties may include suspension or expulsion from the J.B. Speed School of Engineering or the University of Louisville. The Dean will notify the student, the instructor and the Department Chair of this decision. The Dean will forward any recommended University-wide sanctions to the Provost.

3. If the student does not accept the instructor's academic penalties, the following actions will occur:

- The department chair, or, if the department chair is the instructor making the allegation, the SSoE Associate Dean of Academic Affairs will meet with the student in a timely manner.
- At the meeting, the student will be provided an opportunity to present oral testimony and written evidence. The burden of establishing the student's guilt rests with the instructor, who must do so by a preponderance of the evidence. After the meeting, the department chair or the Associate Dean, as appropriate, will render a decision within 10 school days of meeting with the student and submit written documentation of the incident and decision to the SSoE Associate Dean of Academic Affairs.
- If the student fails to appear at the meeting a final decision will be rendered by the department chair or SSoE Associate Dean of Academic Affairs.
- The SSoE Associate Dean for Academic Affairs will review the documents within 10 school days of receipt and issue a decision regarding whether any administrative sanctions will be imposed on the student by the J.B. Speed School of Engineering, and whether any University-wide sanctions will be recommended to the Provost. Administrative penalties are penalties may include suspension or expulsion from the J.B. Speed School of Engineering or the University of Louisville. The Dean will notify the student, the instructor and the Department Chair of this decision. The Dean will forward any recommended University-wide sanctions to the Provost.

As per the University of Louisville Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities (<http://louisville.edu/dos/students/studentrightsandresponsibilities/>), an academic unit that determines that a student is guilty of academic dishonesty may impose any academic punishment on the student that it sees fit, including suspension or expulsion from the academic unit. A student has no right to appeal the final decision of an academic unit. However, a student who believes that they has been treated unfairly, have been discriminated against, or have had their rights abridged by the academic unit may file a grievance with the University Student Grievance Committee. The University of Louisville Student Complaint and Grievance Procedures are detailed here (<http://louisville.edu/provost/redbook/contents.html/chap6.html#ART68>). An academic unit that suspends or expels a student from the academic unit because the student has been found guilty of academic dishonesty may recommend to the University Provost in writing that the student also be suspended or expelled from all other programs and academic units of the University. Neither the student nor the academic unit shall have the right to appeal the Provost's decision. However, a student who believes that they have been treated unfairly, has been discriminated against, or has had their rights abridged by the issuance of a decision by the Provost may file a grievance with the University Student Grievance Committee.

Student Complaints

If a student has a complaint about courses, grades, deficiencies, or decisions made by faculty members, advisors, department chairs, directors, etc., they should use the procedure outlined below.

- The student should first discuss the matter with the person involved and attempt to resolve the complaint through informal discussion.
- If there is no resolution, the student should discuss the matter with that person's supervisor or immediate superior in the department or office, who should attempt to mediate a resolution.
- If there is no resolution as the result of these discussions, the student should write to the appropriate department chair or director specifying the nature of the concern, with a copy of the letter to the Associate Dean for Academic and Student Affairs.
- If the student is unable to obtain a resolution through these procedures, he or she may request the Student Grievance Office to attempt informal mediation of the problem.

A student wishing to file a formal complaint should do so with the Dean of Students Office. See procedure here: louisville.edu/dos/help/student-complaint-procedure (<http://louisville.edu/dos/help/student-complaint-procedure/>).

About the School

The Kent School of Social Work seeks to prepare well-qualified social workers who practice from a strong professional value base to serve the metropolitan mission of the university. Our graduates promote social justice through their practices with diverse client systems. In the context of a research institution, Kent School is committed to knowledge development that informs social work practice, recognizing the importance of interdisciplinary collaboration to solve complex social problems.

Social work is a profession concerned with the prevention and amelioration of social problems and the enhancement of the quality of human life. Social workers achieve these goals through direct practice with individuals, families, groups, and community organizations; advocacy; social planning; social policy analysis and formulation; research; and administration. Social work practice helps people mobilize their resources to deal with present circumstances and to enlarge their prospects for the future. Since problems of meaningful way in isolation from the broad social and community context in which they occur, social work also takes a leadership role in bringing about institutional and social change.

Structure

The School provides a broad-based education for college or university graduates wishing to continue their studies and for professionals returning to school to enhance their skills. The Bachelor of Social Work (BSW) degree program is designed to prepare students for entry into the profession as generalist practitioners. The Master of Science in Social Work (MSSW) degree program is designed to help students achieve their maximum potential through a carefully structured curriculum of foundation and advanced course work. Preparation for leadership in advanced professional practice is a vital part of the School's curriculum.

Bachelors of social work programs, under the accreditation banner of the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE), are directed in matters of curriculum to promote the knowledge, values and skills of the profession. At the baccalaureate level, students are prepared for entry into the profession as generalist practitioners. Guided by program mission and goals, the generalist model is built upon a conceptual framework that includes relevant theories and knowledge to build practice skills. The professional level courses at the junior and senior year level are grounded in the liberal arts and carefully integrate that knowledge into the learning of professional content. The Educational Policy and Accreditation Standards of CSWE establish the base of program learning expectations.

Goal I (Curriculum)

To ensure that graduates will be prepared at the foundation level to practice social work that is framed by a generalist practice base, and an ability to understand social problems at multiple levels.

The program objectives derive directly from the Educational Policy (3.0) of CSWE in preparing students for practice at the generalist level and also for providing a firm foundation for those who seek graduate educational opportunities in social work. To meet those requirements, the Kent School has established the following program objectives that will frame the assessment of learning that obtains to the BSW Program.

Students who graduate from the BSW Program will demonstrate the ability to:

- Objective 1: Apply critical thinking skills within the context of professional social work practice.
- Objective 2: Understand the value base of the profession and its ethical standards and principles, and practice accordingly.
- Objective 3: Practice without discrimination and with respect, knowledge, and skills related to clients' age, class, color, culture, disability, ethnicity, family structure, gender, marital status, national origin, race, religion, sex, and sexual orientation.
- Objective 4: Understand the forms and mechanisms of oppression and discrimination and apply strategies of advocacy and social change that advance social and economic justice.
- Objective 5: Understand and interpret the history of the social work profession and its contemporary structures and issues.
- Objective 6: Apply the knowledge and skills of a generalist social work practice with systems of all sizes.
- Objective 7: Use theoretical frameworks supported by empirical evidence to understand individual development and behavior across the life span and the interactions among individuals and between individuals and families, groups, organizations, and communities.
- Objective 8: Analyze, formulate, and influence social policies.
- Objective 9: Evaluate research studies, apply research findings to practice, and evaluate their own practice interventions.
- Objective 10: Use communication skills differentially across client populations, colleagues, and communities.
- Objective 11: Use supervision and consultation appropriate to social work practice.
- Objective 12: Function within the structure of organizations and service delivery systems and seek necessary organizational change.

Goal II (Curriculum)

To prepare students for advanced graduate work in social work.

- Objective: The Kent School will prepare students with a quality education that will support their admission to and successful completion of graduate social work degrees.

Goal III (School's relationship with the community)

To build collaboration and partnerships for community building and problem solving:

- Objective: The Kent School will provide professional expertise in the community in partnership with agencies and institutions to build a stronger community in the metropolitan region of Louisville.

Goal IV (Overall program goal)

To contribute to the development of new social work knowledge through scholarship and research.

- Objective: The Kent School will develop research and scholarship that adds to the knowledge base of the social work profession.

About the Programs

The Kent School Curriculum is designed to enhance students' ability to help them and the diverse client systems they work with to make decisions that contribute to the quality and health of these client systems and that will promote social justice. It is designed to graduate social workers who think critically about what they do, why they do it, and what outcomes they hope will result from the social work practice they do.

Critical thinking is defined as "the intellectual disciplined process of actively and skillfully conceptualizing, applying, analyzing, synthesizing, and/or evaluating information gathered from, or generated by, observation, experience, reflection, reasoning, or communication, as a guide to belief or action" (Scriven & Paul, 2004). Critical thinking includes specific skills such as problem-solving and the ability to integrate knowledge from multiple disciplines and theories of human behavior. Throughout the curriculum, there is an emphasis on critical reflection, or appraisal of various points of view no matter what the source. The curriculum draws heavily on social science knowledge and integrates this with problem-solving phases such as assessment, intervention, and evaluation. In this respect, the curriculum is designed to teach students to access, integrate, and assess practice and policy related research to solve social problems and to work towards social justice. When critical thinking skills are used effectively, it leads to transparency and promotes social change, particularly with and on behalf of vulnerable and oppressed individuals and groups of people.

In the foundation curriculum, students are introduced to critical thinking. They are guided by faculty to develop critical thinking skills throughout all the foundation level courses. The BSW curriculum promotes a generalist perspective in which the simultaneous impact of many systemic levels (individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities) on clients' lives is critically analyzed and recognized. The curriculum builds upon a liberal arts base that fosters an understanding of society as a complex organization of diverse people and ideas. Social problems are understood as occurring within the nexus of culture, conflict, development, ecology, and systems and as such, efforts to help or intervene must include consideration of these forces. Students will be able to critically identify and assess social problems, specifically attending to 1) how such problems are maintained, 2) how they impact the quality of people's life, 3) cultural sensitivity and appreciation of marginalized people, and 4) how to actively promote social and economic justice. In the foundation year, the focus is on the development of critical thinking skills in all the areas mentioned. The BSW curriculum is to prepare students for generalist practice; that is to develop knowledge and skills for entry level professional social work practice that recognizes the importance of multi-level systemic intervention.

Academic Misconduct

It is expected that a student in the Kent School of Social Work will refrain from plagiarism and cheating. Plagiarism and cheating are serious breaches of academic conduct and may result in permanent dismissal. Each student is advised to become familiar with the various forms of academic dishonesty as explained in the Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities. A plea of ignorance is not acceptable as a defense against the charge of academic dishonesty.

Multiple Submission

The submission of substantial portions of the same academic work, including oral reports, for credit more than once may be considered plagiarism without prior authorization by the teacher.

Student Conduct Policies

Students entering the Kent School of Social Work, by their formal acceptance into the School, agree to abide by The Code of Ethics of the National Association of Social Workers (<https://www.socialworkers.org/About/Ethics/Code-of-Ethics/Code-of-Ethics-English/>) and the Code of Student Conduct of the University of Louisville.

The NASW Code of Ethics provides guidelines for the professional conduct of social workers. Since the profession is directed by a commitment to core values, the Code provides for conduct related to principles of service, social justice, dignity and worth of the individual, the importance of human relationships, integrity, and competence. These values and the standards inherent in them provide a context for expected behavior during the period of enrollment in the educational programs of the Kent School of Social Work, and for the development of lifelong professional standards. Issues of concern related to this area are referred to the Academic and Professional Standards Review Committee.

Dismissed Students

If the Academic and Professional Standards Review Committee decide to dismiss a student from Kent School and if this dismissal is approved by the Dean, students will only be allowed to return to Kent School in rare cases. Students who wish to return must write an appeal letter to the BSW Director, stating their reasons why they think they can return to Kent School to complete their studies.

About the School of Dentistry

Offering outstanding clinical education with state-of-the-art simulation education and technology, and leading biomedical research, the University of Louisville School of Dentistry (ULSD) continues to provide quality education and unique opportunities.

The School of Dentistry is a state-supported institution located in the Louisville metropolitan area. The three-story School of Dentistry building occupies almost 200,000 square feet at the Health Sciences Center downtown campus. The recently renovated clinical and laboratory facilities with state-of-the-art equipment create an environment similar to a private practice setting. Clinical areas in the School of Dentistry are built out in a secure containment cubicle system. In the cubicle, the student conducts his or her practice in an atmosphere of privacy and safety which enhances efficiency and self-confidence for patient-centered care.

The School of Dentistry offers degree programs at the undergraduate, graduate and professional levels. The undergraduate Bachelor of Science in Dental Hygiene program offers students opportunities to learn alongside their future peers in the dental profession.

About the Dental Hygiene Program

The Office of Dental Student Affairs is available to assist students in planning their academic program and to provide students with information regarding policies, procedures, and general information.

It is the student's responsibility to be knowledgeable of the policies and procedures, and to take the initiative in seeking help and advice. Students are encouraged to contact the office whenever they have a question, a problem, concern.

Name/Address Changes

It is the student's responsibility to update any change in name, address, or telephone number. The student must complete a name/address change through ULink available from the UofL website.

Minimum Technical Standards

The University of Louisville School of Dentistry embraces diversity. Admission to the School is open to all qualified individuals and complies with section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act (1993).

The School recognizes the award of a Bachelor of Science in Dental Hygiene degree confirms the graduate is competent to practice dentistry. Our graduates are prepared and, upon state licensure, permitted to practice in the dental profession. Students become partners in learning as they acquire the knowledge and skills needed to meet today's challenges in the dental profession. Students rely upon their cognitive and technical skills to successfully negotiate the curriculum.

The School is aware of the unique nature of the dental curriculum. Applicants must possess the skills and abilities that will allow them to successfully complete the course of study and receive the full benefit of the education. This includes the completion of safe patient treatment. With this in mind, the student must be able to meet the following technical standards with or without accommodation:

- Fine Motor Skills
- Sensory/Observation
- Communication
- Cognitive
- Behavioral
- Immunizations

Disability Statement

Students with disabilities who need reasonable modifications to successfully complete assignments and satisfy other course criteria are encouraged to meet with the course instructor as early as possible to identify and plan specific accommodations. Students may be asked to supply a letter from the Disability Resource Center or other documentation which will assist in modification planning.

Student Conduct Policies

The University of Louisville expects its students and student organizations to conduct themselves according to generally accepted moral and social standards and to respect the rights and privileges of others. Students who enroll in the University of Louisville dental hygiene program are subject to the rules and regulations of the University.

The dental hygiene program requires high ethical standards. As future professionals, students must exhibit appropriate professional ethical behavior in all academic and clinical matters.

The School of Dentistry may terminate attendance of any student at any time, or remove from the list of degree candidates any student whom the Dean determines is or will not be able to satisfy the professional standards required of all candidates for Bachelor of Science in Dental Hygiene degree.

Drug Use Prohibited

In accordance with the statutes of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, the possession, use or distribution of hallucinogenic and/or illegal drugs will not be tolerated on University property. Infractions will result in disciplinary action by the University which may lead to suspension or dismissal.

Student Rights

Students who believe they have been treated unfairly, discriminated against, or have had their rights abridged may initiate a grievance in accordance with procedures established in the University's Redbook. Students would first seek to have the matter resolved through informal discussion and through administrative channels. Information about the grievance process should be obtained from the Associate Dean of Academic Affairs, and is found in the Student Handbook available through the student Blackboard organization.

Student Health Policy

Each student must comply with the current health policy of the School of Dentistry. Because of contractual agreements with agencies and the changing needs of society, this policy is updated periodically. The current health policies are published in the School of Dentistry Dental Hygiene Student Handbook available in the student organization on Blackboard.

If faculty or an agency deem that any student creates a health or safety risk, the student may be excluded from the clinical experience and/or dismissed from the program.

Liability and Health Insurance

All upper division dental hygiene students are required to submit proof of health insurance coverage. Students may elect coverage through the University's student health insurance coverage. If students carry their own coverage, they can waive the University student health coverage by completing the online waiver form and providing evidence of coverage.

Liability/malpractice insurance is provided for all ULSD upper division students during their intern and extern experiences.

Immunization Requirements

All students are to comply with the University of Louisville Health Sciences Center immunizations requirements. Those requirements are distributed to students prior to matriculation.

Policies and procedures for immunization, testing, and post exposure incidents have been developed to comply with Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), Centers for Disease Control (CDC), American Dental Association (ADA), American Dental Hygienists' Association (ADHA), and extramural site recommendations or policies. Dental hygiene students, in the course of their clinical responsibilities, have exposure to blood, blood products, tissue, secretions, or body fluids of patients potentially containing hepatitis B (HBV) and are at risk for HBV as well as other infectious diseases. The following immunizations require documentation prior to matriculation and must be submitted on the Immunization Reporting Form to the Office of Clinical Affairs prior to the first day of class: measles, mumps, rubella, tetanus-diphtheria-pertussis, varicella, hepatitis-B (series must be initiated-first and second doses), and tuberculosis skin test. A tuberculosis skin test is required on a yearly basis for all students. All students must maintain compliance with the University of Louisville Health Sciences immunization and testing requirements. Students must be in compliance with immunization and testing prior to contact with patients in the clinical areas. Any student not in compliance will not be allowed in the clinical areas.

Students are strongly advised to consider latex allergy testing prior to matriculation if there is a medical history indicating latex sensitivity.

Transportation

Students are responsible for providing their own transportation to and from clinical sites as needed. Students are not allowed to provide transportation for patients.

Policy on Clinical Attire

The University of Louisville School of Dentistry expects the student entering the professional clinical/academic program to present a neat, clean, and professional attired appearance. The current policy is published in the School of Dentistry Student Clinic Manual and is updated periodically. All students must maintain compliance with the current policy. Final evaluation of student compliance with the dress code will rest with the Office of Clinic Affairs and the program faculty and director.

Academic Achievement Committee

The Dental Hygiene Academic Achievement Committee Guidelines (DH-AAC Guidelines) have been developed by the dental hygiene faculty of the School of Dentistry to provide students and faculty with pertinent information about the academic and professional standards of the School and about the process and procedures used to review student performance. Admitted upper division students are provided these guidelines, updated annually, via Blackboard.

Academic bankruptcy and forgiveness policies allow students who are returning to college after an absence of two or more years to request the adjustment of their records for one or more entire semesters of previous college work, provided certain criteria are met. View information on academic bankruptcy and forgiveness and the new Fresh Start policy in the academic policies section of this undergraduate catalog.

Advising Services

Lower Division Advising

All dental hygiene students are encouraged to meet with an advisor to seek support and referral information as needed. The academic counselor for the dental hygiene program has office hours on both the Belknap and HSC campuses. Students may call (502) 852-5081 for an appointment on either campus.

Freshmen students and transfers with less than 30 credit hours earned are required to be advised prior to registration. Students on conditional, warning or probationary status must also be advised prior to registering for courses. Students who are out of sequence in their program of study must meet with their advisor to revise their program of study.

Upper Division Advising

Academic advising is available to upper division students through the program director, program faculty, and the School of Dentistry Student Success Counselor. Support is available through the Office of Student Affairs and the Office of Academic Affairs, which work together to provide assistance including student counseling, tutor assignment, or course director discussion.

About the School of Music

The University of Louisville School of Music offers the serious student of music an opportunity to study with distinguished faculty and to participate in a wide range of musical activities, both within the School and the community. Historically and philosophically, the School has had a profound impact on the cultural life of Louisville; its faculty and administration have provided much of the leadership and talent for such groups as the Louisville Orchestra, the Kentucky Opera Association, the Louisville Bach Society, and the Chamber Music Society.

The goals of the School of Music are to train students for careers in music and to enhance the quality of life for the University and larger public through performances, compositions, research, and instruction. While pursuing their studies, students are exposed to a full schedule of concerts and recitals by world-renowned artists and performers.

The School of Music, founded in 1932, has been located on the Belknap Campus since 1980 in a building which was designed and built specifically for music. It contains two recital halls, a 15,000 square-foot music library, 44 teaching studios, 76 practice rooms, and three dance studios.

Music Administration

The complete and up-to-date list of Music leadership is located on the School of Music website (<https://louisville.edu/music/about/>).

Faculty & Departmental Information

The complete and up-to-date lists of departments and faculty (<http://louisville.edu/music/faculty-staff/>) also are located on the School of Music website.

Advising Services

All School of Music students are advised by the Academic Counselor who assists with registration, monitors progress in courses required for their major, and reviews progress made toward completion of Upper Division course prerequisites.

Advising is required for all music students until they have completed all prerequisites for Upper Division courses (see the Upper Division Assessment on the following section of this document; the Upper Division Assessment can also be found in each degree plan in the degree section of the catalog). Students will be blocked from registration for classes until the advising requirement has been satisfied. Students on Academic Warning or Probation music be advised.

About the Program

A complete listing of all policies and procedures specific to the School of Music in support of the music degree requirements may be found in the School of Music Undergraduate Student Handbook.

The officials and instructors of the School of Music do not assume the responsibility of notifying students concerning the regulations of the School of Music or their particular status in regard to credits, requirements, or quality points. They are more than willing to inform them at any time they request the information. It is the responsibility of students to inform themselves in regard to grades, credits, requirements, quality points, and the regulations applying to students in the School of Music. The schedules, fees, and regulations specified are subject to change without notice. Any email communication with students will be on their university email only. Students must be responsible and check their university email on a daily basis.

Enrollment

In order to take music courses, students must be enrolled in the School of Music or have permission of the instructor.

Official Notices

Students must respond to official notices issued by administrative boards or sent by individual letters. Failure to comply may lead to suspension from the school. During the semester, an instructor will notify each student whose work is below the grade of C and will report his/her name to the Dean.

Music Fees

All School of Music majors are charged a Student Music Fee each semester, pro-rated for part-time students. This fee helps to offset expenditures exclusively related to music majors including, but not limited to accompanists, technology and infrastructure, student activities, and student tickets to concerts. In direct support of the students' success in the program, the fee provides free access to four one-hour services each semester with a staff piano accompanist, the option of free half-hour secondary instrument applied music lessons for up to four semesters dependent on space available/permission of secondary and major teachers, and free tickets provided to Louisville Ballet, Chamber Music Society, Kentucky Opera, Speed Concert Series, and Louisville Orchestra Classics events. Music minors and non-music majors approved to take applied lessons within the School of Music will be charged a Non-Music Major Applied Lesson Fee.

Music Requirements

Applied Music Lesson Credit

All full-time students pursuing a professional degree in music (with the exception of Music Therapy and Composition majors) will receive a one-hour private lesson per week in their major applied music subject, regardless of the number of credit hours allowed for the course. Music Therapy majors are required to take 8 credits of study on their principal instrument. This can be done in 4 semesters of 1 hour lessons at 2 credits each or 8 semesters of ½-hour lessons at 1 credit each, or a combination of the two. Composition majors take 4 semesters of 2-credit lessons and 4 semesters of 1-credit lessons. Students enrolled in the BA degree program will receive a minimum of a half hour lesson per week in applied music for four semesters. In general, applied music courses require one hour of daily practice for each hour of credit.

Applied Music Teacher Assignment

Each entering student will be assigned to an applied music instructor. If the student prefers to choose his/her own teacher, every effort will be made to accommodate those students who wish to choose their own teachers. If, for any reason, a student desires to change applied music teachers, the student's request will be considered by the Concentration Coordinator in consultation with the Department Chair. In the event that the Concentration Coordinator is the student's current applied teacher, the Department Chair will appoint another faculty member from the Concentration to consider the request.

Applied Music Grade Requirements

A student pursuing a degree in music who does not receive a grade of C-minus or above on their instrument or voice at the end of any semester must repeat that level. If a grade of C-minus or above is not received at the end of the next semester's study, the student will not be allowed to continue study in the School of Music. Exceptions to this rule must be by written notice of faculty action.

Student Performance Requirement

Students taking applied lessons for 2 or 4 credit hours must perform at least once per semester in a public forum after receiving credit for their first semester of applied study.

Applied Music Jury Examinations

Students requesting credit for applied music study, with the exception of Functional Study, shall be examined by a committee of the faculty at the end of each grading period. The means of assessment for Functional Study will be determined by the applied faculty member and clearly indicated in the syllabus. Students registered for MUS 202, MUS 204, MUS 206, MUS 212, or MUS 214 take the Sophomore Evaluation Applied Examination. Faculty may grade their own students on all applied exams, including the sophomore evaluation applied examination.

Advanced-Standing Credit

Advanced-standing credit in any applied music subject (piano, voice, organ, guitar, band, or orchestral instruments) or in music theory will be granted only by examination, and then only after the student has satisfactorily pursued advanced work in that subject for one semester.

Upper Division Assessment

All students enrolled in a music degree program will be reviewed at the approximate midpoint of the selected program in order for students to achieve Upper Division status. Students must meet the standards of this review to register for 400-level courses in music. Both the elements and standards of the review are established by the faculty and include credit for Theory IV (MUS 242) or Analysis (MUS 347 for BA General;

MUS 349 for BA Jazz Studies; MUS 350 for BA Music and New Media;) MUS 361-01 Music Literature; 4 semesters of Applied Instrument at the course numbers required for the degree; Piano Proficiency Examination; MUS 97 Recital Attendance, with "S" for 4 semesters; Ensemble Participation; cumulative 2.5 GPA (good standing); minimum of 48 credit hours completed; pass ENGL 101 or ENGL 105 and 3 additional General Education/Cardinal Core courses (<https://louisville.edu/provost/ger/>).

Specific degree requirements are determined by the concentration and area faculties and are outlined in the Undergraduate Student Handbook.

Participation in Ensembles

The following are the guidelines by which undergraduate music students participate in ensembles:

1. All full-time undergraduate music majors are required to participate each semester in the principal ensemble designated for their primary instrument:
  - a. Strings: Symphony Orchestra
  - b. Woodwind, brass, or percussion: Symphonic Band, Concert Band, Wind Ensemble, Wind Symphony, Marching Band *
  - c. Voice: Collegiate Chorale, University Chorus *
  - d. Keyboard/Guitar: Any of the above dependent upon qualifications and/or interests. *
  - e. Jazz: Jazz Ensemble, Jazz Lab, Jazz Repertory Ensemble, Vocal Jazz Ensemble*

* Specific ensemble assignment is solely dependent on the result of the ensemble audition.

Note: The principal ensemble is the only ensemble that can fulfill the ensemble requirement for each degree program.

Full-time students who fail to enroll for a major ensemble each semester will be in violation of the catalog and subject to academic action. A student who fails to register for the appropriate ensemble during a semester will be placed on immediate Academic Warning. If the student has failed to resolve the ensemble registration by the end of the semester, the student will be placed on Academic Probation. A student who fails to register for the appropriate ensemble in a second consecutive semester will, if the ensemble has not been added by the end of the first week of classes, be placed on immediate Academic Suspension.

2. For all part-time students, participation in a principal ensemble must keep pace with the number of hours accumulated. For each 15 hours completed, at least one credit hour must be in ensemble.
3. Full-time non-degree (special) students must participate in an appropriate principal ensemble. Part-time non-degree students are not required to do so.
4. Music Therapy equivalency students holding a degree in music (or with a bachelor's degree in a different field, but whose transcripts indicate that they have taken eight ensembles), are not required to take an ensemble.
5. Under no circumstances will participation in amateur, semiprofessional, or professional organizations outside the University be substituted for the University requirement.
6. After achieving Upper Division status, the student may petition to have a different major ensemble substituted for the designated principal ensemble. The petition must be made prior to the ensemble auditions for the semester during which the substitution will take place. Petitions for Fall semester substitutions will be due by April 21st of the preceding semester. Petitions for Spring semester substitutions will be due by October 21st of the preceding semester. The petition will be considered by the Ensemble Directors' Committee, and the student will be notified of the committee's decision prior to ensemble auditions. The committee will consider the following criteria, among others:

- a. Student's degree program
- b. Needs of the ensembles

Note: Substitution for principal ensembles is considered an exception to the guidelines for ensemble participation. Petitions must be submitted for each semester of substitution.

7. Wind/brass/percussion principals enrolled in the Bachelor of Music (Pre-Certification-Instrumental) or Bachelor of Music in Music Education degree programs are required to fulfill two years of ensemble performance in the Marching Band. Entering students will be expected to fulfill this requirement during the freshman and sophomore years. Transfer students will be required to fulfill a minimum of one year. A second year may be required based upon evaluation of the transcript. Woodwind, brass and percussion principals are also recommended to complete one semester of a major jazz ensemble.

Recital Attendance Requirements

All undergraduate music students must enroll in and complete four semesters of MUS 97 Recital Attendance. To receive the grade of S/ Satisfactory for this required non-credit course, each undergraduate student must attend a minimum of twelve (12) convocations or recitals for each of the six enrollments in MUS 97.

The grade will be determined as follows:

- Attend 12 or more = S (Satisfactory)
- Attend 9-11 = I (Incomplete)
- Attend less than 9 = U (Unsatisfactory)

The grade of I (Incomplete) must be made up the following semester by attending double the number of recitals/concerts missed to attain the grade of S (Satisfactory). If the Incomplete is not made up the following semester, the Incomplete will lapse to the grade of U (Unsatisfactory) and the entire semester of Recital Attendance must be repeated to earn the required credit. No petitions will be considered.

Students may not receive recital attendance credit for convocations or other performances in which they participate as a performer.

Public Recitals

School of Music students may schedule recitals any day when the recital halls are free and the building is open, provided they have the approval of their instructor and the necessary signatures of appropriate faculty for grading when applicable. Please see the Undergraduate Student Handbook for recital guidelines. Additionally, students may refer to the Recital Guidelines Packets available in the Dean's Office or at the School of Music website (<https://louisville.edu/music/resources/current-students/recital-form-packets/>) for recital-related procedures including date/hall reservations, deadlines, hearing and recital committee personnel, and recital fees.

Academic Bankruptcy & Forgiveness & Fresh Start

Academic Bankruptcy and Forgiveness (p. 66) policies allow students who are returning to college after an absence of two or more years to request the adjustment of their records for one or more entire semesters of previous college work, provided certain criteria are met. View information on Academic Bankruptcy and Forgiveness (p. 66) and the new Fresh Start (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/undergraduate/university-wide-unit-specific-policies/fresh-start/>) policy.

About the School of Nursing

The University of Louisville's School of Nursing is an essential partner of a research intensive academic health science center in a nationally recognized University serving a metropolitan community.

The School of Nursing is a community in which faculty, staff and students collaborate to promote excellence in the profession of nursing. This is accomplished through research and scholarship that inform undergraduate and graduate education, support evidence-based practice and foster advances in nursing science. Students are prepared to demonstrate excellence in nursing science, practice and leadership in a variety of settings for the benefit of clients across the lifespan and to meet the evolving health care needs of society. As a citizen of the larger community, the emphasis of the School of Nursing is to address the complex health needs of diverse and dynamic populations through nursing education, research, scholarship and service.

Structure

As you enter our school lobby in the K building on the first floor, you will be welcomed into a renovated three-floor school occupied by very talented and dedicated nursing faculty, staff and students. The second floor includes two renovated classrooms and our Red and Black student lounge. Students can take advantage of wireless capability throughout the building.

The third floor is the administrative suite, undergraduate and practice faculty offices. It houses five clinical practice suites that use state-of-the-art technology to capture both video and audio student learning on high fidelity patient simulators and electronic health records. It is a site where graduate nurse practitioner students learn to conduct a thorough health assessment to better identify systemic diseases. These students are definitely job ready through digital and inter-professional learning.

The fourth floor houses a well-staffed Research Office through our graduate research assistants, a doctoral student lounge and offices for graduate faculty; those who work in this area are developing the school's research engine in nursing care of disease management and life transitions. The top floor of the school includes a 155-seat auditorium created to provide a venue to broadcast throughout the state as well as national and regional nursing leaders' presentations.

This handbook is available to students upon admission to the Upper Division and is updated annually.

Removal from Clinical

A student may not participate in clinical sections assigned to nursing units or small agencies where the student currently works or previously has worked for pay, or in which the student has been hospitalized, without permission from the appropriate instructor. Any student participating in a clinical section addressed by this policy may be removed from that section at the request of the agency or the instructor. Every effort will be made to accommodate the student in other clinical sections of the courses. A student who is unsafe in the clinical area may be dismissed from the program.

Returning to Clinicals following an Absence

Students who are not enrolled in nursing clinical courses for two or more consecutive semesters will need to have an Administrative Program Review to determine their currency of content and skills prior to returning to the clinical setting. The program review will be conducted by the Dean's designee.

Health Services Fee

On April 26, 1999, the University of Louisville's Board of Trustees approved a Health Services Fee. Every HSC student will be assessed the Health Services Fee each semester. Service provided by the fee:

Transportation

Students are individually responsible for arranging their own transportation to the clinical sites or other outside clinical experiences. Absence from class or scheduled clinical experiences due to transportation problems is not acceptable. Carpool arrangements will not be part of the decision making process when clinical assignments are made.

Student Paper and Assignments

Student papers/assignments may be displayed as student examples for course files and accreditation purposes. Identifying student information will be removed in the event of such usage. Student work used for any other purposes will require permission from the student(s) prior to faculty use.

Technical Standards for Performance

Technical standards, distinguished from academic standards, consists of the minimum physical, cognitive, and emotional requirements for the full participation in the nursing educational programs. The nature of professional nursing education is to prepare practitioners to interact with clients and provide safe, competent nursing care. It is the responsibility of the faculty to regularly assess all individual student performance and abilities in relation to both the academic and technical standards of the program. Fitness for the profession will be based on an individualized assessment of the student's abilities to achieve an array of competencies essential for safe nursing practice.

Physical attributes

Students must have functional use of the somatic senses and the senses of vision and hearing. Students must have the ability to observe through visual, auditory, and somatic senses. Students must have adequate motor capabilities to safely perform required diagnostic and therapeutic maneuvers and procedures.

Communication Skills

Students must possess basic communication skills upon which to base the development of client oriented professional communication.

Cognitive Functioning

Students must possess the cognitive abilities required to receive information, categorize, analyze, and manipulate data essential to the care of clients. Students must have the ability to make decisions quickly, and to function effectively on a regular and predictable schedule.

Social and Behavioral Functioning

Students must possess social patterns of behavior consistent with safe and ethical practice with individual clients, families and groups of people. Students must have the mental control to handle emotions that might affect practice performance.

Minimum Grade Requirements

Anatomy and Physiology Completion Requirement

The School of Nursing highly recommends that students complete the two semesters of anatomy and physiology with a lab at the same institution prior to admission into the upper division curriculum (BIOL 260, BIOL 261, BIOL 262). Transfer courses must be officially evaluated and determined equivalent to the University of Louisville's anatomy and physiology courses.

Student Grievance Policies

Representatives from administration and faculty serve on the School of Nursing's BSN/MSN Academic Affairs Committee. This committee reviews academic policies related to undergraduate nursing students. Student representatives have full voting rights except on confidential matters involving other students; in these cases the student representatives are excused. Students wishing to petition a School of Nursing policy should contact an Academic Advisor concerning procedure, students' rights and responsibilities, and appropriate steps to take for resolution within the unit. University of Louisville also has a Student Academic Grievance Policy designed to provide fair means of dealing with student complaints regarding a specific action or decision made by the faculty as a whole, a faculty member, or the unit. Students who believe they have been treated unfairly, discriminated against, or have had their rights abridged may initiate a grievance which shall be processed in accordance with the Student Academic Grievance Procedure (p. 82) pursuant to The Redbook. (See University of Louisville Student Handbook for more information.)

Student Petitions

Any student wanting to be exempted from a School of Nursing policy should make an appointment with an academic advisor and, if necessary, to file a petition. The academic advisor will submit the request to the Dean or dean's designee who will make the decision or determine if an appropriate undergraduate faculty committee should hear the petition.

After hearing the petition, the committee makes a recommendation to the dean, who makes the final decision. A student may not petition to a committee for a change of grade in a course. However, the student may petition to the Committee regarding the fairness in which a grade was calculated. The Committee does not have the authority to recommend grade changes.

Academic Dishonesty Policy

The term “academic dishonesty” means obtaining or seeking to obtain an unfair academic advantage for oneself or for any other student; it includes lying, cheating, stealing, or engaging in otherwise dishonest conduct in the course of or related to any academic exercise (Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities, University of Louisville). According to the Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities at the University of Louisville, academic dishonesty is prohibited at the University. Academic dishonesty is a serious offense because it diminishes the quality of scholarship, makes accurate evaluation of student progress impossible, and defrauds those in society who must ultimately depend upon the knowledge and integrity of the institution and its students and faculty. Academic dishonesty includes, but is not limited to, cheating, fabrication, falsification, plagiarism, multiple submission, and complicity in academic dishonesty (Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities).

After identifying suspected academic dishonesty occurring in any academic program at the University of Louisville School of Nursing, the following steps will be taken:

1. A meeting to discuss the suspected academic dishonesty will occur with the faculty member, the course coordinator/leader, and the student(s). This meeting should take place, if possible, within 10 working days after identification of the suspected academic dishonesty.
2. The faculty member in collaboration with the course coordinator/leader will provide a letter to the Dean or his/her designee, if possible, within five working days of completion of investigation of the academic dishonesty. The faculty member's letter shall include
  - a. A detailed description of the academic dishonesty;
  - b. Copies of supportive material; and
  - c. A recommendation commensurate with the seriousness and circumstances of the academic dishonesty.
3. The Dean or his/her designee will schedule a meeting with the involved parties prior to making a decision.
4. The Dean or his/her designee will respond in writing to the faculty member by accepting or modifying the recommendation, if possible, within five working days of receipt of the recommendation.
5. The Dean or his/her designee will send a letter to the student(s) regarding the outcomes of the investigation and/or consequences, if possible, within five working days of notifying the faculty member of his/her written recommendation. Copies of this letter will be sent to the student's Office of Student Services advisor and the Dean of the School of Nursing. The letter to the student(s) shall include a copy of this procedure.

All records and documents obtained, prepared or related to the investigation and disposition of a charge of academic dishonesty will be maintained in the student's Office of Student Services file.

Disability Statement

Students with disabilities, who need reasonable modifications to successfully complete assignments and otherwise satisfy course criteria, are encouraged to meet with the instructor as early as possible to identify and plan specific accommodations. If determined necessary, students will be directed to the Disability Resource Center. Any identified modification(s) deemed necessary must be documented in writing by the Disability Resource Center and provided to the School of Nursing. ## About

The School of Public Health and Information Sciences (SPHIS) officially reopened as a University of Louisville unit in September 2002. In December 2008, the school moved to its newly renovated home on East Gray Street across from the Louisville Metro Department of Public Health and Wellness.

The original School of Public Health at University of Louisville was formed in 1919, making it one of the first schools of public health in the United States. Funding for the development of the school came from a $30,000 contribution by the Kentucky State Board of Health. The school was housed on the third floor of the Kentucky Board of Health Building at the corner of 6th and Main Streets. The primary focus of the school was the training of health officers and public health nurses to deal with welfare work in poor communities. The school was deactivated in 1924.

The School of Public Health and Information Sciences is a distinctive school of public health, positioned to protect the public's health in the 21st century by identifying emerging health threats and risks, monitoring health factors and status, understanding how people seek and respond to health information and preparing responses to events that can affect the public's health.

While we embrace the traditional tasks and roles of public health specialists, we recognize that protecting the public's health today requires much more. It requires a new approach that integrates how information about the public's health is acquired, evaluated, acted on and disseminated, and how these affect the public and its health. It requires preparing our students for careers in the 21st century by using 21st century knowledge and techniques.

Unit: College of Arts and Sciences (AS) (<http://www.louisville.edu/a-s/>)
Department: Anthropology (<http://louisville.edu/anthropology/>)
Academic Plan Code(s): ANTHBS

Program Information

Anthropology is the study of what it means to be human: from the study of culture and social relations, to human biology and evolution, to languages, to music, art and architecture, and to vestiges of human habitation. It considers such fascinating questions as how peoples' behaviors changes over time, how people move about the world, why and how people from distant parts of the world and dissimilar cultures are different and the same, how the human species has evolved over millions of years, and how individuals understand and operate successfully in distinct cultural settings.

The Bachelor of Science degree in Anthropology will allow students to develop skills to understand and critically evaluate numerical data. The degree will strengthen the students' major, preparing them for graduate research and the job market.

Program Information

The Department of Fine Arts and the Hite Art Institute offers the Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) degree, which is primarily intended for professionally oriented art students and those planning to pursue graduate work in studio arts. The BFA provides the opportunity for students to go into more depth in a chosen area. There are three tracks in the BFA Program:

- Graphic Design (<http://louisville.edu/art/Undergraduate/bfa-in-art-or-design/cad.html>)
- Interior Design (<http://louisville.edu/art/Undergraduate/bfa-in-art-or-design/bfa-in-interior-design/>)

	Program/Major Requirements <sup>1,2</sup>	27-30
	Supporting Courses	20
	Track Requirements	30-33
Minimum Total Hours		121

<sup>1</sup> Some credit hours from the General Education Requirements may be satisfied by courses defined by the program, in which case additional electives will be required to complete the minimum hours for the degree. See the Degree Requirements tab for specific coursework.

<sup>2</sup> To complete the degree in the minimum number of hours listed for all tracks, some hours from the General Education Requirements may be satisfied by courses defined by the unit and/or program. Using other courses to satisfy General Education requirements will require additional hours to complete the degree requirements.

Specific coursework information can be found on the Degree Requirements tab.

Departmental Admission Requirements

The BFA degree is primarily intended for professionally oriented art students and for those planning to pursue graduate work in the studio arts.

Admission is selective, and enrollments may be limited. Enrolled University of Louisville students may apply for admission to the BFA program upon completion of the Foundation Program and the introductory course to the area of track, with a minimum grade point average of 3.0 in department (studio art and art history) courses and a cumulative grade point average of 2.5. Once admitted, students must maintain an overall grade point average of 2.5 or above and a 3.0 or above in department courses to remain enrolled in the BFA program.

Students who do not meet the GPA requirements will be placed on departmental probation and given one semester in which to raise their GPA. If unable to meet the GPA requirements within that time frame, students will be returned to the BA program in Studio Art. If removed, students may reapply to the BFA program once the GPA requirements have been met.

Upon admission to the BFA Program, students and faculty will complete and sign a BFA Student/Mentor Contract outlining the progress expected toward completion of the degree. If at any point during the student's study the mentor deems the student's progress and/or ability to meet his/her obligations as a student in the BFA program unsatisfactory that mentor has the right to resign his/her post as mentor. In this instance a student must seek another mentor or transfer back into the BA program in studio art. If a student requests a different mentor and no faculty agrees to work with them the student will be returned to the BA program in Studio Art.

Completion of this degree requires work to be submitted for the department's Learning Outcomes Measurement. For the BFA candidate in 2D or 3D studios, this includes a committee review of the candidate's work one semester prior to graduation and participation in the BFA exhibition held during the semester of graduation. For the BFA candidate in Graphic Design or Interior Design, this includes participation in the professional portfolio review at the end of their professional practice course.

Accelerated BA/MA in Art History

Art History majors who are considering pursuing a master's degree (MA) in Art History can speed up the process by applying some of their undergraduate credit hours toward a master's degree. Students accepted into the Accelerated BA/MA program take three graduate courses (9 credit hours) as an undergraduate that apply toward both the bachelor's degree and the eventual master's degree.

Interested students should apply to the program during their Junior year (i.e., when they have accumulated 60-90 hours of credit). Students must have at least a 3.0 university grade point average when they apply and must maintain a 3.0 once accepted.

Departmental Admission Requirements

All students wishing to major in Art History must complete and submit a separate Application for Admission form to the department. Enrolled University of Louisville students may obtain an application and apply through the department's offices. Incoming and transfer students must be accepted by the University first, and then apply for admission to the department.

Accelerated BA/MA in Art History

Interested students apply to the accelerated program no later than the end of Junior year (i.e., before completing 90 hours of credit). To be considered for admission, a student must:

- Have a minimum university GPA of 3.0
- Complete an application for admission to the graduate program
- Supply GRE scores, transcripts, a statement of purpose, writing sample, and two (2) letters of recommendation

Bioengineering (BS)

This program was approved for students entering the university in the Summer 2021–Spring 2022 catalog year. For more information about catalog year, go to Catalog Year Information (p. 73).

Bachelor of Science in Bioengineering

Unit: Speed School of Engineering (<http://engineering.louisville.edu/>) (SS)
 Department: Bioengineering (<https://engineering.louisville.edu/bioengineering/>)
 Academic Plan Code(s): BE_ _BBE

Program Information

Bioengineering is a relatively new engineering discipline when compared to the long-standing traditions of other fields of engineering. A bioengineer uses traditional engineering skills and tools to analyze and solve problems in biology and medicine. Bioengineers interact with biologists, biochemists, physicians, physiologists, and therapists to design, develop and manufacture instruments, devices, and software, or to develop new procedures to solve clinical problems.

The Bachelor of Science in Bioengineering degree is designed to provide students with a rigorous education grounded in basic mathematics and sciences traditional to all engineering programs, but focuses additionally on chemistry, biology and physiology, and the opportunity to gain practical experience within the biomedical or bioengineering industry. In the early part of their academic program, students are exposed to fundamentals of engineering and design in mechanical and electrical engineering before proceeding to core Bioengineering classes.

The Bachelor of Science in Bioengineering degree program is accredited by the Engineering Accreditation Commission (EAC) of ABET, www.abet.org (<http://www.abet.org>). The Master of Engineering in Bioengineering degree program is accredited by the Engineering Accreditation Commission (EAC) of ABET, www.abet.org (<http://www.abet.org>).

Culminating Undergraduate Experience (Graduation requirement)

BE 497	Bioengineering Design Project - CUE
--------	-------------------------------------

- This course is a General Education requirement for the program; see louisville.edu/provost/ger/ (<http://www.louisville.edu/provost/ger/>) for the listing, by academic year, of AH/D1/D2/SB/SBH Electives which satisfy the University-wide General Education requirements. Note that the 12-hour total for the AH/D1/D2/SB/SBH electives assumes the use of double counting of D1/D2 with another category.
- Students completing ENGL 105 in lieu of ENGL 101 or ENGL 102 satisfy the General Education and Engineering Fundamentals requirements for Written Communication. However, an additional 3-hr Writing (WR) course or honors Written Communication (WC) course may be needed to satisfy program credit hour requirements.
- A student is allowed to accumulate no more than two D+ or lower grades in BE prefixed courses (including BE approved elective courses) to graduate with a baccalaureate degree. If a student accumulates any D+ or lower grade, it is strongly recommended that the course be repeated to earn a better grade before proceeding to the next course in the sequence. If a student accumulates a third D+ or lower grade, the student is required to repeat the course to earn a better grade.
- A maximum of one non-BE course can be taken as an elective. Students must meet all course prerequisites. The courses chosen to fulfill this elective requirement cannot be used to satisfy any other program or degree requirements.

The Bachelor of Science in Bioengineering (BE BBE) program prepares students to meet the requirements for certification and/or licensure. If you plan to pursue professional licensure or certification you should first determine your state's criteria for examination and licensure to see how/if our program meets those requirements prior to enrollment. We recommend that you also contact your state's licensing board directly to verify that the requirements have not changed recently and to answer any questions especially those regarding additional requirements beyond the degree.

More information about certification or licensure is available at the following website: <https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information> (<https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information/>) (you may search by school or by the name of the program then click on 'View Details' to display the information).

For programs with an online option, more information about certification or licensure is available here: <http://louisville.edu/online/About-Us> (<http://louisville.edu/online/About-Us/>) (please scroll down near the bottom of the page and click on the licensing disclosures tab).

Biology (BA)

Bachelor of Arts in Biology

Unit: College of Arts and Sciences (<https://louisville.edu/artsandsciences/intro/>) (AS) Department: Biology (<http://louisville.edu/biology/>)
Academic Plan Code(s): BIOLBA

Program Information

There are two undergraduate degree programs offered in the Biology Department, a Bachelor of Arts in Biology and a Bachelor of Science in Biology.

The BA degree is a more general degree than the BS. It is a liberal arts degree designed for those students who desire a broad education in a variety of disciplines. This degree requires more foreign language and social science and/or humanities courses than the BS degree. It is a good degree for students interested in taking a diversity of courses outside the sciences. This degree is also suitable for someone planning to be a teacher. A student planning on applying to professional schools can do so with this degree, as long as the student takes all the prerequisites for admission to the desired program.

Completion of this degree requires work to be submitted for the department's Learning Outcomes Measurement. For details, contact the department.

Specific coursework information can be found on the Degree Requirements tab.

Accelerated BA-BS/MS in Biology

Biology majors who are considering pursuing a non-thesis master's degree (MS) in Biology can speed up the process by applying some of their undergraduate credit hours toward a master's degree. Students accepted into the Accelerated BA-BS/MS program take three graduate courses (9 credit hours) as an undergraduate that apply toward both the bachelor's degree and the eventual master's degree.

Early Start Program (Jointly with the College of Education and Human Development)

The Master of Arts in Teaching program in conjunction with the undergraduate programs in Chemistry, Biology, and Mathematics offers a comprehensive and professionally-focused program leading to an additional degree of MAT Middle or Secondary Education. This early start program enables superior students to receive two degrees within five years. A total of 148 credits are required for the dual degrees: 121 credits of coursework devoted toward the baccalaureate degree and 36 credits toward the MAT, with nine hours double-counted. This program will be available for students who are entering their junior year. They may take graduate level courses in the College of Education and Human Development (CEHD) in their 4th year of study.

The current qualifications for the joint degree program have been agreed upon by discipline faculty from the Colleges of Arts and Sciences and Education and Human Development. The criteria vary by discipline. Students enrolling in the accelerated program will be non-thesis students and must adhere to all policies pertaining to Graduate Students. All interested students must submit an application to the College of Education and Human Development (CEHD) MAT program and meet the admission criteria.

Departmental Admission Requirements

Admission to the BA in Biology requires completion of BIOL 240, BIOL 241, BIOL 242, and BIOL 243 with a grade of C or better; completion of MATH 111 with a grade of C or better OR placement into a mathematics course above the level of MATH 111 on the basis of either the University of Louisville mathematics placement examination or ACT/SAT score; and a minimum overall grade point average of 2.0.

The Application for Major form can be found on the Arts & Sciences Advising Center website (<http://louisville.edu/artsandsciences/advising/apply/>).

 Departmental Website: Biology (<http://www.louisville.edu/a-s/biology/>)
 Academic Plan Codes: See Track Requirements tab.

Program Information

There are two undergraduate degree programs offered in the Biology Department, a Bachelor of Arts (BA) in Biology and a Bachelor of Science (BS) in Biology.

Bachelor of Science degrees are designed so that students get a particularly strong background in their area of interest in biology, cell/physiology, or ecology, but still have some flexibility to take courses of interest. Compared to the BA degree, the BS degree requires more science, both in biology and in another field (physics or geosciences), a specific calculus course, and one less course in a foreign language.

Each of the tracks in the BS degree also requires courses specific to the field of interest. BS degrees are valuable for students wanting to find employment in a biological field without further formal education, for students planning to attend graduate or professional school, and for students who hope to become teachers.

Completion of this degree requires work to be submitted for the department's Learning Outcomes Measurement. For details, email the department.

CHE 300-level or higher non-required CHE course

- <sup>1</sup> This course is a General Education requirement for the program; see louisville.edu/provost/ger/ (<http://www.louisville.edu/provost/ger/>) for the listing, by academic year, of AH/D1/D2/SB/SBH Electives which satisfy the University-wide General Education requirements.
- <sup>2</sup> Students completing ENGL 105 in lieu of ENGL 101 or ENGL 102 satisfy the General Education and Engineering Fundamentals requirements for Written Communication. However, an additional 3-hr Writing (WR) course or honors Written Communication (WC) course may be needed to satisfy program credit hour requirements.
- <sup>3</sup> In order to meet departmental graduation requirements a student may accumulate no more than two D grades in CHE-prefixed courses. Any additional D grades beyond two must be repeated, in accordance with policies on course repetition. If a student accumulates more than one D in any one year of the program, it is strongly recommended that one or more of those courses be repeated to earn a better grade before proceeding to the next course in the sequence. For this policy, grades of D-minus, D or D+ are all considered to be D grades. Note also a student who accumulates more than one D in a ChE course will not be permitted to enter Graduate Studies to pursue the MEng degree program until any courses with D grades in excess of one are repeated and a better grade earned.

<sup>4</sup> An undergraduate student must receive permission from the department chair in order to enroll in a 600-level course. The course chosen to fulfill this elective requirement cannot be used to satisfy any other program or degree requirements. Note that while some courses are acceptable as either Science or Advanced Chemistry Electives, a single course cannot be used to meet both requirements as the curriculum requires that these two electives constitute a combined total of six (6) credit hours.

<sup>5</sup> The course chosen to fulfill this elective requirement cannot be used to satisfy other program or degree requirements. Note that while some courses are acceptable as either Science or Advanced Chemistry Electives, a single course cannot be used to meet both requirements as the curriculum requires that these two electives constitute a combined total of six (6) credit hours.

Early Start Program (Jointly with the College of Education and Human Development)

The Master of Arts in Teaching program in conjunction with the undergraduate programs in Chemistry, Biology, and Mathematics offers a comprehensive and professionally-focused program leading to an additional degree of MAT Middle or Secondary Education. This early start program enables superior students to receive two degrees within five years. A total of 148 credits are required for the dual degrees: 121 credits of coursework devoted toward the baccalaureate degree and 36 credits toward the MAT, with nine hours double-counted. This program will be available for students who are entering their junior year. They may take graduate level courses in the College of Education and Human Development (CEHD) in their 4th year of study.

The current qualifications for the joint degree program have been agreed upon by discipline faculty from the Colleges of Arts and Sciences and Education and Human Development. The criteria vary by discipline. Students enrolling in the accelerated program will be non-thesis students and must adhere to all policies pertaining to Graduate Students. All interested students must submit an application to the College of Education and Human Development (CEHD) MAT program and meet the admission criteria.

Departmental Admission Requirements

Admission to the major in Chemistry requires completion of CHEM 202 (or equivalent course from another institution) with a grade of C or better.

Early Start Program (Jointly with the College of Education and Human Development)

The Master of Arts in Teaching program in conjunction with the undergraduate programs in Chemistry, Biology, and Mathematics offers a comprehensive and professionally-focused program leading to an additional degree of MAT Middle or Secondary Education. This early start program enables superior students to receive two degrees within five years. A total of 148 credits are required for the dual degrees: 121 credits of coursework devoted toward the baccalaureate degree and 36 credits toward the MAT, with nine hours double-counted. This program will be available for students who are entering their junior year. They may take graduate level courses in the College of Education and Human Development (CEHD) in their 4th year of study.

The current qualifications for the joint degree program have been agreed upon by discipline faculty from the Colleges of Arts and Sciences and Education and Human Development. The criteria vary by discipline. Students enrolling in the accelerated program will be non-thesis students and must adhere to all policies pertaining to Graduate Students. All interested students must submit an application to the College of Education and Human Development (CEHD) MAT program and meet the admission criteria.

Departmental Admission Requirements

Admission to the major in Chemistry requires completion of CHEM 202 (or equivalent course from another institution) with a grade of C or better.

Degree Audit Report

Degree Audit reports illustrate how your completed courses fulfill the requirements of your academic plan. What-if reports allow you to compare the courses you have completed in your current academic plan to the courses required in another academic plan. Should you have questions about either report, please consult with your academic advisor.

To create either report:

1. Log into your ULink account.
2. Click on the Academic Progress tile.
3. Next, click on "View my Degree Audit" to run a Degree Audit report in the Undergraduate Advising area.
4. To create a What-if report, click on "Create a What-if Advisement Report."

Flight Planner

Based on your major, the Flight Planner tool may be available for you to create a personalized Flight Plan. The Flight Planner can be found in the ULink Student Center. Consult with your advisor for assistance with the Flight Planner.

The Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering (CE BCE) program prepares students to meet the requirements for certification and/or licensure. If you plan to pursue professional licensure or certification you should first determine your state's criteria for examination and licensure to see how/if our program meets those requirements prior to enrollment. We recommend that you also contact your state's licensing board directly to verify that the requirements have not changed recently and to answer any questions especially those regarding additional requirements beyond the degree.

More information about certification or licensure is available at the following website: <https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information> (<https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information/>) (you may search by school or by the name of the program then click on 'View Details' to display the information).

For programs with an online option, more information about certification or licensure is available here: <http://louisville.edu/online/About-Us> (<http://louisville.edu/online/About-Us/>) (please scroll down near the bottom of the page and click on the licensing disclosures tab).

Bachelor of Arts in Communication

Unit: College of Arts and Sciences (AS) (<http://www.louisville.edu/a-s/>)
Department: Communication (<http://comm.louisville.edu/department/>)
Academic Plan Code(s): COMMBA, COMMBA_O

Program Information

This program can be completed in a traditional classroom format or entirely online (<http://louisville.edu/online/programs/bachelors/online-bachelor-of-arts-or-science-in-communication/>).

The Department of Communication offers both a Bachelor of Arts and a Bachelor of Science degree in Communication.

A Bachelor of Arts degree and a Bachelor of Science degree are equally valued. Both offer the students who earn them the opportunity to continue their education at the master's degree level if they are so inclined. But, the two tracks do tend to hone different strengths. The coursework required for a Bachelor of Arts degree generally allows students to sharpen their oral and written communication skills. The demands of a Bachelor of Science degree include sharpening basic Communication skills as well as developing analytical skills relevant to Communication in a more in-depth manner.

Completion of this degree requires work to be submitted for the department's Learning Outcomes Measurement. For details, contact the department.

Accelerated BS-MS in Criminal Justice

Criminal Justice majors who are considering pursuing a master's degree (MS) in Criminal Justice can speed up the process by applying some of their undergraduate credit hours toward a master's degree. Students accepted into the Accelerated BS-MS program take three graduate courses (9 credit hours) as an undergraduate that apply toward both the bachelor's degree and the eventual master's degree.

Interested students should apply to the program during their Junior year (i.e., when they have accumulated 60-90 hours of credit). Applicants must have at least a 3.0 GPA at the time of application.

The accelerated program is not available for completion by online-only students.

Departmental Admission Requirements

There are no specific admission requirements for this degree plan.

The application for major form can be found on the A&S Advising Center website (<http://louisville.edu/artsandsciences/advising/apply/>).

Accelerated BS-MS in Criminal Justice

Students apply during the first or second semester of their Junior year (usually when they have earned between 60-75 hours), and must have a 3.0 GPA at the time of application.

Applicants must submit the following to the Department of Criminal Justice:

- An application to the Accelerated MS CJ degree program, available in the Department of Criminal Justice, Brigman Hall 205 or online at: louisville.edu/justice (<http://louisville.edu/justice/>)
- Two (2) letters of recommendation from individuals who can speak to the applicant's academic capabilities
- An original essay identifying the applicant's background, professional interest and goals and the applicant's motivation and potential for graduate work.

Upon approval, the successful applicant will be required to submit an application to the Graduate School (<http://louisville.edu/graduate/futurestudents/apply-materials/application/>).

Criminal Justice with a 3+3 Track to Law (BS)

This program was approved for students entering the university in the Summer 2021–Spring 2022 catalog year. For more information about catalog year, go to Catalog Year Information (p. 73).

Bachelor of Science in Criminal Justice with a 3+3 Track in Law

Unit: College of Arts and Sciences (AS) (<http://www.louisville.edu/a-s/>)

Department: Criminal Justice (<http://louisville.edu/justice/>)

Academic Plan Code(s): JA _ _BS_3+3

Program Information

The College of Arts & Sciences and the Louis D. Brandeis School of Law have joined forces to create 3+3 Accelerated Law programs that allow eligible students in the College of Arts & Sciences to begin law school in their senior year of undergraduate study. Students substitute undergraduate major and elective requirements with the first 30 hours of law school, earning an undergraduate degree after their first year of law school and a Juris Doctor (JD) degree two years later. Students must have completed three years (6 semesters) of undergraduate course work, including transfer credit and credit earned in summers, prior to enrollment at Brandeis.

Completion of this degree requires work to be submitted for the department's Learning Outcomes Measurement. For details, contact the department.

Specific coursework information can be found on the Degree Requirements tab.

Departmental Admission Requirements

There are no specific admission requirements for this degree plan, however a 3.5 GPA is recommended by the Brandeis School of Law (see below).

Admission to Law School

Admission to the 3+3 track does not guarantee admission to the Brandeis School of Law. Students seeking admission to our law school must complete a law school application and satisfy all of Brandeis' admissions requirements, including its median GPA and LSAT expectations.

The law school requires that students seeking admission through the 3+3 program have completed three years of undergraduate course work, including transfer credit and credit earned in summer. It is recommended that students planning to pursue this track have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.5.

For more information on Brandeis and its admissions requirements, please contact Brandeis School of Law, Office of Admissions (<http://louisville.edu/law/admissions/>). Their office can also arrange for you to visit the law school.

The Dental Hygiene (DHU_BS) program

The Program prepares students to meet the requirements for state licensure. If you plan to pursue professional licensure, first determine the state's criteria for examination and licensure to better understand how UofL's program meets those requirements prior to enrollment. We recommend that you also contact the state's licensing board directly to verify that the requirements have not changed and determine if there are additional requirements beyond the degree.

More information about licensure is available at the following website: <https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information> (<https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information/>) (you may search by school or by the name of the program then click on 'View Details' to display the information).

For programs with an online option, more information about certification or licensure is available here: <http://louisville.edu/online/About-Us> (<http://louisville.edu/online/About-Us/>) (please scroll down near the bottom of the page and click on the licensing disclosures tab).

Culminating Undergraduate Experience (Graduation requirement)
ECE 497	Capstone Design in ECE - CUE

- This course is a General Education requirement for the program; see louisville.edu/provost/ger/ (<http://www.louisville.edu/provost/ger/>) for the listing, by academic year, of AH/D1/D2/SB/SBH Electives which satisfy the University-wide General Education requirements. Note that the 12-hour total for the AH/D1/D2/SB/SBH electives assumes the use of double counting of D1/D2 with another category. The Department recommends COMM 112 over COMM 111.
- Students completing ENGL 105 in lieu of ENGL 101 or ENGL 102 satisfy the General Education and Engineering Fundamentals requirements for Written Communication. However, an additional 3-hr Writing (WR) course or honors Written Communication (WC) course may be needed to satisfy program credit hour requirements. ENGL 303 or ENGL 306 is recommended as the additional course for EE students.
- Students must take 3 hours of CSE/Mathematics/Science Electives and 3 hours of Engineering Science Electives. Some students may wish to use these electives toward satisfying the requirements for a minor in Mathematics or Physics; additional information is available in the Department. 6 additional hours must be taken of either CSE/Mathematics/Science Electives or ECE Electives.

Degree Audit Report

Degree Audit reports illustrate how your completed courses fulfill the requirements of your academic plan. What-if reports allow you to compare the courses you have completed in your current academic plan to the courses required in another academic plan. Should you have questions about either report, please consult with your academic advisor.

To create either report:

1. Log into your ULink account.
2. Click on the Academic Progress tile.
3. Next, click on "View my Degree Audit" to run a Degree Audit report in the Undergraduate Advising area.
4. To create a What-if report, click on "Create a What-if Advisement Report."

Flight Planner

Based on your major, the Flight Planner tool may be available for you to create a personalized Flight Plan. The Flight Planner can be found in the ULink Student Center. Consult with your advisor for assistance with the Flight Planner.

The Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering (EE BEE) program prepares students to meet the requirements for certification and/or licensure. If you plan to pursue professional licensure or certification you should first determine your state's criteria for examination and licensure to see how/if our program meets those requirements prior to enrollment. We recommend that you also contact your state's licensing board directly to verify that the requirements have not changed recently and to answer any questions especially those regarding additional requirements beyond the degree.

More information about certification or licensure is available at the following website: <https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information> (<https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information/>) (you may search by school or by the name of the program then click on 'View Details' to display the information).

For programs with an online option, more information about certification or licensure is available here: <http://louisville.edu/online/About-Us> (<http://louisville.edu/online/About-Us/>) (please scroll down near the bottom of the page and click on the licensing disclosures tab).

Bachelor of Science in Applied Geography

Unit: College of Arts and Sciences (AS) (<http://www.louisville.edu/a-s/>)
Department: Geograph (<http://louisville.edu/geography/>)ic and Environmental Sciences

Program Information

Geographers investigate the character and possible associations between a subject and its environment. The Department of Geographic and Environmental Sciences educates students to view the world in a spatial and time-dependent context to determine relationships between people and their immediate and global environment.

The department offers Bachelor of Science degrees in four different concentrations:

- Environmental Analysis: designed for students who are interested in the environment and environmental sustainability.
- Geospatial Technologies: designed for students who are interested in developing geospatial technologies like GIS and remote sensing.
- Human and Cultural Dynamics: designed for students interested in the forces that shape human environments like population trends, sustainable development, ethnic and racial segregation, globalization and geopolitics.
- Meteorology: designed for students interested in operational meteorology and meets NOAA requirements to work for the National Weather Service.
- Urban Analysis: designed for students interested in the various processes that shape urban environments.

Completion of this degree requires work to be submitted for the department's Learning Outcomes Measurement. For details, contact the department.

Accelerated BA/MA in History Program

History majors who are considering pursuing a master's degree (MA) in History can speed up the process by applying some of their undergraduate credit hours toward a master's degree. Students accepted into the Accelerated BA-MA take three graduate courses (9 credit hours) as an undergraduate that apply toward both the bachelor's degree and the eventual master's degree.

Interested students should apply to the program during their Junior year (i.e., when they have accumulated 60-90 hours of credit). Applicants must have a minimum overall GPA of 3.35, a History GPA of 3.35, and meet all other requirements for admission to the History Department's Master of Arts program (including at least 21 hours of history courses).

Students must retain a 3.35 GPA in history during their senior year to remain in the program.

Departmental Admission Requirements

Admission to the BA in History requires a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.0 and a minimum grade point average of 2.0 on courses in the major.

The Application for Major form can be found on the Arts & Sciences Advising Center website (<http://louisville.edu/artsandsciences/advising/apply/>).

Accelerated BA/MA in History Program

Interested students should apply for entry into the accelerated program no later than the end of their Junior year.

Interested students should:

1. Complete an application for admission to the History Department's Master of Arts program (including GRE scores, transcripts, two letters of recommendation, and a statement of purpose) no later than the end of their junior year.
2. Have a minimum overall grade point average (GPA) of 3.35, a history GPA of 3.35, and meet all other requirements for admission to the History Department's Master of Arts program (including at least 21 hours of history courses).

History with 3+3 Track to Law (BA)

This program was approved for students entering the university in the Summer 2021–Spring 2022 catalog year. For more information about catalog year, go to Catalog Year Information (p. 73).

Bachelor of Arts in History with a 3+3 Track to Law

Unit: College of Arts and Sciences (AS) (<http://www.louisville.edu/a-s/>)
Department: History (<http://louisville.edu/history/>)
Academic Plan Code(s): HISTBA_3+3

Program Information

The College of Arts & Sciences and the Louis D. Brandeis School of Law have joined forces to create 3+3 Accelerated Law programs that allow eligible students in the College of Arts & Sciences to begin law school in their senior year of undergraduate study. Students substitute undergraduate major requirements with the first 30 hours of law school, earning an undergraduate degree after their first year of law school and a Juris Doctor (JD) degree two years later. Students must have completed three years (6 semesters) of undergraduate course work, including transfer credit and credit earned in summers, prior to enrollment at Brandeis.

Completion of this degree requires work to be submitted for the department's Learning Outcomes Measurement. For details, contact the department.

Degree Summary

Code	Title	Hours
	General Education Requirements ( http://catalog.louisville.edu/undergraduate/general-education-requirements/ ) <sup>1</sup>	31
	College/School Requirements	22
	Law School Courses	30
	Minimum Total Hours	122

<sup>1</sup> Some credit hours from the General Education Requirements may be satisfied by courses defined by the program, in which case additional electives will be required to complete the minimum hours for the degree. See the Degree Requirements tab for specific coursework.

Specific coursework information can be found on the Degree Requirements tab.

Departmental Admission Requirements

Admission to the BA in History requires a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.0 and a minimum grade point average of 2.0 on courses in the major. A 3.5 GPA is recommended by the School of Law (see below).

The Application for Major form can be found on the Arts & Sciences Advising Center website (<http://louisville.edu/artsandsciences/advising/apply/>).

Admission to Law School

Admission to the 3+3 track does not guarantee admission to the law school. Students seeking admission to law school must complete a law school application and satisfy all of Brandeis' admissions requirements, including its median GPA and LSAT expectations.

The law school requires that students seeking admission through the 3+3 program have completed three years of undergraduate course work, including transfer credit and credit earned in summer. It is recommended that students planning to pursue this track have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.5.

For more information on Brandeis and its admissions requirements, please contact the Brandeis School of Law Office of Admissions (<http://louisville.edu/law/admissions/>). The office can also arrange for you to visit the law school and to sit in on a class.

Department: Comparative Humanities (<http://louisville.edu/humanities/>)
Academic Plan Code(s): See Track Requirements tab.

Completion of this degree requires work to be submitted for the department's Learning Outcomes Measurement. For details, contact the department.

Program Information

The Department of Comparative Humanities explores the question, what does it mean to be human? Using many humanities disciplines such as literature, religion, Jewish Studies, film, philosophy, theatre, music, visual arts, and linguistics, our courses and our major invite students to explore the answers to this question from global, historical, and contemporary viewpoints.

Students are challenged to develop critical reading, writing, and thinking skills, but they are also challenged through project-based assignments that inspire them to apply what they have learned in creative and complex ways.

As a result, the degree provides flexible, transferable skills that prepare our graduates for the dynamic contemporary job market.

Completion of this degree requires work to be submitted for the department's Learning Outcomes Measurement. For details, contact the department.

Accelerated BA/MA in Humanities

Humanities majors who are considering pursuing a master's degree (MA) in Humanities can speed up the process by applying some of their undergraduate credit hours toward a master's degree. Students accepted into the Accelerated BA-MA take three graduate courses (9 credit hours) as an undergraduate that apply toward both the bachelor's degree and the eventual master's degree.

Interested students must apply to the program during their Junior year (i.e., when they have accumulated 60-90 hours of credit). Applicants must have a minimum overall grade point average and major grade point average of 3.35 for admission to and for retention in the program.

The accelerated BA/MA in Humanities will be offered for the Interdisciplinary Humanities Concentration and for the Linguistics Concentration, but not for the Concentration in Humanities and Civic Leadership.

Departmental Admission Requirements

Admission to the BA in Humanities requires completion of 15 semester hours and a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.0.

Accelerated BA/MA in Humanities

- Students must apply no later than the end of the junior year for admission to the accelerated program by submitting the Humanities Division application for the accelerated BA/MA in Humanities.
- A minimum overall grade point average and major grade point average of 3.35 will be required for admission to and for retention in the program.

Accelerated Program Participants

Students accepted into an Accelerated Pathway may substitute select Graduate-level courses for equivalent Undergraduate courses as discussed with their Graduate Program Advisor.

Accelerated BS-MSIE and BS-MEEMO Pathways

Industrial Engineering majors that are interested in pursuing and MS IE or MEng EM (Online) can consider an Accelerated Pathway. The Accelerated Pathway allows 12 credit hours of Graduate Coursework to be counted towards both degrees, speeding up the timeline for overall completion.

Students may apply as early as Summer 2 of the BS IE given they meet the following criteria:

- Completion of 60+ credit hours towards BS IE degree
- Completion of 10+ credit hours in IE coursework
- Current enrollment in, or previous completion of IE 360
- GPA of 3.3 or above

Applications are available in the Department of Industrial Engineering, JB Speed Building Room 304, or online at <https://engineering.louisville.edu/academics/departments/industrial/>.

Students who are admitted to the Accelerated Pathway and wish to complete the MSIE or MEEMO degree, should formally submit an application for the Master's Program of their choosing, to the Graduate School when they are nearing completion of the BSIE degree.

The Bachelor of Science in Industrial Engineering (IE BIE) program prepares students to meet the requirements for certification and/or licensure. If you plan to pursue professional licensure or certification you should first determine your state's criteria for examination and licensure to see how/if our program meets those requirements prior to enrollment. We recommend that you also contact your state's licensing board directly to verify that the requirements have not changed recently and to answer any questions especially those regarding additional requirements beyond the degree.

More information about certification or licensure is available at the following website: <https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information> (<https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information/>) (you may search by school or by the name of the program then click on 'View Details' to display the information).

For programs with an online option, more information about certification or licensure is available here: <http://louisville.edu/online/About-Us> (<http://louisville.edu/online/About-Us/>) (please scroll down near the bottom of the page and click on the licensing disclosures tab).

Applicants must have completed MATH 205, MATH 206, MATH 301, and MATH 325, or equivalent courses, prior to application. Applicants must have a minimum overall GPA of 3.5, and minimum GPA of 3.66 in mathematics courses.

Early Start Program (Jointly with the College of Education and Human Development)

The Master of Arts in Teaching program in conjunction with the undergraduate programs in Chemistry, Biology, and Mathematics offers a comprehensive and professionally-focused program leading to an additional degree of MAT Middle or Secondary Education. This early start program enables superior students to receive two degrees within five years. A total of 148 credits are required for the dual degrees: 121 credits of coursework devoted toward the baccalaureate degree and 36 credits toward the MAT, with nine hours double-counted. This program will be available for students who are entering their junior year. They may take graduate level courses in the College of Education and Human Development (CEHD) in their 4th year of study.

The current qualifications for the joint degree program have been agreed upon by discipline faculty from the Colleges of Arts and Sciences and Education and Human Development. The criteria vary by discipline. Students enrolling in the accelerated program will be non-thesis students and must adhere to all policies pertaining to Graduate Students. ### Accelerated BA-BS/MA Option in Mathematics

Mathematics majors who are considering pursuing a master's degree (MA) in Mathematics can speed up the process by applying some of their undergraduate credit hours toward a master's degree. Students accepted into the Accelerated BA-BS/MA take three graduate courses (9 credit hours) as an undergraduate that apply toward both the bachelor's degree and the eventual master's degree.

Interested students must apply to the program during their Junior year (i.e., when they have accumulated 60-90 hours of credit). Applicants must have completed MATH 205, MATH 206, MATH 301, and MATH 325, or equivalent courses, prior to application. Applicants must have a minimum overall GPA of 3.5, and minimum GPA of 3.66 in mathematics courses.

Early Start Program (Jointly with the College of Education and Human Development)

The Master of Arts in Teaching program in conjunction with the undergraduate programs in Chemistry, Biology, and Mathematics offers a comprehensive and professionally-focused program leading to an additional degree of MAT Middle or Secondary Education. This early start program enables superior students to receive two degrees within five years. A total of 149-152 credits are required for the dual degrees: 122-125 credits of coursework devoted toward the baccalaureate degree and 36 credits toward the MAT, with nine hours double-counted. This program will be available for students who are entering their junior year. They may take graduate level courses in the College of Education and Human Development (CEHD) in their 4th year of study.

The current qualifications for the joint degree program have been agreed upon by discipline faculty from the Colleges of Arts and Sciences and Education and Human Development. The criteria vary by discipline. Students enrolling in the accelerated program will be non-thesis students and must adhere to all policies pertaining to Graduate Students. All interested students must submit an application to the College of Education and Human Development (CEHD) MAT program and meet the admission criteria.

Departmental Admission Requirements

Admission to the BS in Mathematics requires enrollment in a mathematics course beyond MATH 205; a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.0; and a minimum grade point average of 2.0 on all courses in the major.

Accelerated BA/BS-MA Option in Mathematics

Students must apply for admission to the program no later than the end of the junior year and must have completed MATH 205 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=MATH%20205>), MATH 206 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=MATH%20206>), MATH 301 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=MATH%20301>), and MATH 325 (<https://catalog.louisville.edu/search/?P=MATH%20325>), or equivalent courses, prior to application.

Applicants must have a minimum overall GPA of 3.5, and minimum GPA of 3.66 in mathematics courses.

The Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering (ME BMC) program prepares students to meet the requirements for certification and/or licensure. If you plan to pursue professional licensure or certification you should first determine your state's criteria for examination and licensure to see how/if our program meets those requirements prior to enrollment. We recommend that you also contact your state's licensing board directly to verify that the requirements have not changed recently and to answer any questions especially those regarding additional requirements beyond the degree.

More information about certification or licensure is available at the following website: <https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information> (<https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information/>) (you may search by school or by the name of the program then click on 'View Details' to display the information).

For programs with an online option, more information about certification or licensure is available here: <http://louisville.edu/online/About-Us> (<http://louisville.edu/online/About-Us/>) (please scroll down near the bottom of the page and click on the licensing disclosures tab).

Upper Division Assessment

All students enrolled in a music degree program will be reviewed at the approximate midpoint of the selected program in order for students to achieve Upper Division status. Students must meet the standards of this review to register for 400-level courses in music. Both the elements and standards of the review are established by the faculty and include credit for MUS 242 Theory IV or (MUS 347 Analysis I for BA General, MUS 349 Jazz Analysis for BA Jazz Studies, MUS 350 Analysis of Electronic Media for BA Music & New Media); MUS 361 Music Literature I (1000-1750); 4 semesters of Applied Instrument at the course numbers required for the degree; Piano Proficiency Examination; MUS 97 Recital Attendance, with a grade of S for 4 semesters; Ensemble participation; cumulative 2.5 GPA (good standing); minimum of 48 credit hours completed; pass ENGL 101 or ENGL 105; and 3 additional General Education/Cardinal Core courses.

Additional specific elements and standards appropriate to specific degree programs in jazz studies (including jazz performance, music education and music therapy with tracks in jazz studies, and the BA in jazz studies), music composition, music education, music history, instrumental and vocal performance, pedagogy, music theory, and music therapy are required of students in order to achieve Upper Division status and to continue in the degree program. Specific degree requirements are determined by the concentration and area faculties and are outlined in the Undergraduate Student Handbook.

- Students are required to take PAS 214 African-American Music - AH, D1 and ANTH 205 Music in World Cultures - D2, SB.
- MUH courses may not be taken to fulfill any General Education requirement.
- Students who do not pass the computer-based Fundamentals Test prior to beginning of the fall semester are required to enroll in MUS 91 Fundamentals of Music I for 0 credit concurrently with MUS 141 Theory I. Students who do not pass Theory I (MUS 141), and students who enter the School of Music in January and do not place into MUS 142 Theory II, must enroll in MUS 92 Musicianship I for the spring semester. Credits for MUS 92 do not count toward the degree.
- Strings take section 01, others solely dependent on the ensemble audition.
- Contingent on interest and audition.
- The Piano Proficiency Examination is required for applied piano and organ majors.
- If the applied area is piano or organ, Piano Class is replaced with 2 hours of music electives. The Piano Proficiency Examination may be taken in lieu of two semesters of Piano Class.
- Students must pass the complete Piano Proficiency Examination before receiving credit for the final semester of the piano requirement. Students must be enrolled continuously in Piano Class until their piano requirement has been completed. Those who pass the Piano Proficiency Exam before the end of the second semester of Piano Class may replace the requirement with electives or with secondary piano if faculty load permits.
- Music electives in any Bachelor of Music degree should be chosen from courses in Music History, Music Theory/Composition, Music Education, Music Literature, Music Pedagogy, Music Therapy, Jazz, a secondary applied area, or a non-required ensemble. Courses beyond the degree requirement in the student's major applied area or in the required major ensemble(s) are not appropriate. For the Bachelor of Arts degree, in addition to the electives listed for the Bachelor of Music, applied music courses beyond the required four semesters are acceptable as music electives. MUH courses will not be accepted as music electives.

<sup>10</sup> Non-music electives which include 18 hours in one area of concentration. At least nine (9) hours in the area of concentration, and a total of 12 of the 23 hours, must be at the 300-level or above.

The student may choose to pursue a second major or take a minor in a non-music area. School of Music students may count up to two one-hour Physical Education courses toward the general elective requirement.

Upper Division Assessment

All students enrolled in a music degree program will be reviewed at the approximate midpoint of the selected program in order for students to achieve Upper Division status. Students must meet the standards of this review to register for 400-level courses in music. Both the elements and standards of the review are established by the faculty and include credit for MUS 242 Theory IV or Analysis (MUS 347 for BA General; MUS 349 for BA Jazz Studies; MUS 350 for BA Music & New Media); MUS 361 Music Literature I; 4 semesters of Applied Instrument at the course numbers required for the degree; Piano Proficiency Examination; MUS 97 Recital Attendance, with a grade S for 4 semesters; Ensemble participation; cumulative 2.5 GPA (good standing); minimum of 48 credit hours completed; pass ENGL 101 or ENGL 105; and 3 additional General Education/Cardinal Core courses.

Additional specific elements and standards appropriate to specific degree programs in jazz studies (including jazz performance, music education and music therapy with tracks in jazz studies, and the BA in jazz studies), music composition, music education, music history, instrumental and vocal performance, pedagogy, music theory, and music therapy are required of students in order to achieve Upper Division status and to continue in the degree program. Specific degree requirements are determined by the concentration and area faculties and are outlined in the Undergraduate Student Handbook.

Code	Title	Hours
Culminating Undergraduate Experience (Graduation requirement)
Requirement fulfilled by completing:
MUS 497	Senior Recital - CUE

- Students are required to take PAS 214 African-American Music - AH, D1 and ANTH 205 Music in World Cultures - D2, SB.
- MUH courses may not be taken to fulfill any General Education requirement.
- Students who do not pass the computer-based Fundamentals Test prior to the beginning of the fall semester are required to enroll in MUS 91 Fundamentals of Music I for 0 credit concurrently with MUS 141 Theory I. Students who do not pass MUS 141, and students who enter the School of Music in January and do not place into MUS 142 Theory II, must enroll in MUS 92 for the spring semester. Credits for MUS 92 do not count toward the degree.
- Strings take section 01, others solely dependent on the ensemble audition.
- If applied principal is piano, Piano Class is replaced with 3 hours of electives. For students with a piano background, three semesters of MUS 121-MUS 221 (Secondary Piano) may be substituted.
- Students will take the Piano Proficiency Examination at the end of MUS 231. Any student not completing the Piano Proficiency Examination will be required to take MUS 232 until the proficiency exam requirement is complete. Students must be enrolled continuously in Piano Class until their requirement has been completed. Those who pass the Piano Proficiency Examination before the end of the third semester of Piano Class may replace the requirement with electives or with secondary piano if faculty load permits. Entering students who have a background in piano may register for Piano Proficiency MUS 297 for one semester with approval of the Keyboard Area.
- Students may choose either the applied principal (non-jazz) lesson sequence (MUS 111, MUS 112, MUS 211, MUS 212, MUS 325, MUS 326, MUS 425, MUS 426) or applied jazz lesson sequence (MUS 105, MUS 106, MUS 205, MUS 206, MUS 325, MUS 326, MUS 425, MUS 426). Except upon petition and approval, students will be locked in to the entire sequence of either applied principal (non-jazz) or applied jazz lessons. Only instrumentalists with corresponding jazz instructors at UofL may opt for the applied jazz lesson sequence.
- Undergraduate composition majors enrolled in MUS 243–MUS 444 are required to present public performances of their original works to average at least eight minutes of music per semester. The senior recital does not count toward these averages, but does fulfill the requirement for the semester in which it is given.
- Students must present a recital of original works.
- Music electives in any Bachelor of Music degree should be chosen from courses in Music History, Music Theory/Composition, Music Education, Music Literature, Music Pedagogy, Music Therapy, Jazz, a secondary applied area, or a non-required ensemble. Courses beyond the degree requirement in the student's major applied area or in the required major ensemble(s) are not appropriate. MUH courses will not be accepted as music electives. School of Music students may count up to two one-hour Physical Education courses toward the general elective requirement.

- <sup>2</sup> Students who do not pass the computer-based Fundamentals Test prior to the beginning of the fall semester are required to enroll in MUS 91 Fundamentals of Music I for 0 credit concurrently with MUS 141 Theory I. Students who do not pass MUS 141, and students who enter the School of Music in January and do not place into MUS 142, must enroll in MUS 92 for the spring semester. Credits for MUS 92 do not count toward the degree.
- <sup>3</sup> Strings take section 01, others solely dependent on the ensemble audition. Music Education students who are woodwind, brass, or percussion principals are required to fulfill two years of ensemble performance in the Marching Band. Entering students will be expected to fulfill this requirement during the freshman and sophomore years. Transfer students will be required to fulfill a minimum of one year. A second year may be required based upon evaluation of the transcript. Woodwind, brass, or percussion principals are also recommended to complete one semester of a Principal Jazz Ensemble.
- <sup>4</sup> Piano Principals will replace Piano Class with Functional Voice Study MUS 133, MUS 134, and MUS 233. Students must be enrolled continuously in Piano Class until their requirement has been completed. Students will take the Piano Proficiency Examination at the end of MUS 231. Any student not completing the Piano Proficiency Examination will be required to take MUS 232 until the Piano Proficiency Examination requirement is complete. Students in the Tracks in Jazz Studies who are not required to take MUS 231 will take the Piano Proficiency Examination at the end of MUS 132. Those who pass the Piano Proficiency Examination before the end of the third semester of Piano Class may replace the requirement with electives or with Secondary Piano if faculty load permits. ### Upper Division Assessment

All students enrolled in a music degree program will be reviewed at the approximate midpoint of the selected program in order for students to achieve Upper Division status. Students must meet the standards of this review to register for 400-level courses in music. Both the elements and standards of the review are established by the faculty and include credit for MUS 242 Theory IV; MUS 361; 4 semesters of Applied Instrument at the course numbers required for the degree; Piano Proficiency Examination; MUS 97 Recital Attendance, with a grade of S, for 4 semesters; Ensemble Participation; cumulative 2.5 GPA (good standing); minimum of 48 credit hours completed; pass ENGL 101 or ENGL 105 and 3 additional General Education/Cardinal Core courses.

Additional specific elements and standards appropriate to specific degree programs in jazz studies (including jazz performance, music education and music therapy with tracks in jazz studies, and the BA in jazz studies), music composition, music education, music history, instrumental and vocal performance, pedagogy, music theory, and music therapy are required of students in order to achieve Upper Division status and to continue in the degree program. Specific degree requirements are determined by the concentration and area faculties and are outlined in the Undergraduate Student Handbook.

Upper Division Assessment

All students enrolled in a music degree program will be reviewed at the approximate midpoint of the selected program in order for students to achieve Upper Division status. Students must meet the standards of this review to register for 400-level courses in music. Both the elements and standards of the review are established by the faculty and include credit for MUS 242 Theory IV or Analysis (MUS 347 Analysis I for BA General, MUS 349 Jazz Analysis for BA Jazz Studies, MUS 350 Analysis of Electronic Media for BA Music & New Media); MUS 361; 4 semesters of Applied Instrument at the course numbers required for the degree; Piano Proficiency Examination; MUS 97 Recital Attendance, with a grade of S for 4 semesters; Ensemble participation; cumulative 2.5 GPA (good standing); minimum of 48 credit hours completed; pass ENGL 101 or ENGL 105; and 3 additional General Education/Cardinal Core courses.

Additional specific elements and standards appropriate to specific degree programs in jazz studies (including jazz performance, music education and music therapy with tracks in jazz studies, and the BA in jazz studies), music composition, music education, music history, instrumental and vocal performance, pedagogy, music theory, and music therapy are required of students in order to achieve Upper Division status and to continue in the degree program. Specific degree requirements are determined by the concentration and area faculties and are outlined in the Undergraduate Student Handbook.

Code	Title	Hours
Culminating Undergraduate Experience (Graduation requirement)

Requirement fulfilled by completing:

MUS 496	BA Capstone Project
---------	---------------------

- Students are required to take PAS 214 and ANTH 205 Music in World Cultures - D2, SB.
- MUH courses may not be taken to fulfill any General Education requirement.
- Students who do not pass the computer-based Fundamentals Test prior to the beginning of the fall semester are required to enroll in MUS 91 Fundamentals of Music I for 0 credit concurrently with MUS 141 Theory I. Students who do not pass Theory I, and students who enter the School of Music in January and do not place into MUS 142 Theory II, must enroll in MUS 92 for the spring semester. Credits for MUS 92 do not count toward the degree.

- <sup>4</sup> Strings take section 01, others solely dependent on the ensemble audition
- <sup>5</sup> The Piano Proficiency Examination is required for applied piano and organ majors.
- <sup>6</sup> If the applied area is piano or organ, Piano Class is replaced with 2 hours of music electives. The Piano Proficiency Examination may be taken in lieu of two semesters of Piano Class.
- <sup>7</sup> Students must pass the complete Piano Proficiency Examination before receiving credit for the final semester of the piano requirement. Students must be enrolled continuously in Piano Class until their piano requirement has been completed. Those who pass the Piano Proficiency Exam before the end of the second semester of Piano Class may replace the requirement with electives or with secondary piano if faculty load permits.
- <sup>8</sup> 12 hours of music electives if MUS 242 Theory IV is chosen; 14 hours of music electives if MUS 347 Analysis I is chosen. Music electives in any Bachelor of Music degree should be chosen from courses in Music History, Music Theory/Composition, Music Education, Music Literature, Music Pedagogy, Music Therapy, Jazz, a secondary applied area, or a non-required ensemble. Courses beyond the degree requirement in the student's major applied area or in the required major ensemble(s) are not appropriate. For the Bachelor of Arts degree, in addition to the electives listed for the Bachelor of Music, applied music courses beyond the required four semesters are acceptable as music electives. MUH courses will not be accepted as music electives.
- <sup>9</sup> Non-music electives which include 18 hours in one area of concentration. At least 9 hours in the area of concentration, and a total of 12 of the 34 hours, must be at the 300-level or above. The student may choose to pursue a second major or take a minor in a non-music area. School of Music students may count up to two one-hour Physical Education courses toward the general elective requirement.

Unit: Music (<http://www.louisville.edu/music/>)
Academic Plan Code(s): MUSIBM_MH

Program Information

The School of Music offers the Bachelor of Music and the Master of Music degrees in Music History.

The music history faculty at the University of Louisville represent a wide range of teaching and research disciplines. Part-time faculty bring expertise in cognate areas such as popular music, country music, history of rock and roll, world music, dance music, and music of the theater.

Undergraduate music history majors complete a senior research project under faculty supervision, concluding with a formal presentation and discussion with the panel of music history faculty. Graduate students in music history undertake a series of seminars and complete a thesis under faculty supervision, as well as satisfy a foreign language requirement and a final oral examination.

Past graduates in music history from the University of Louisville have made careers as musicologists, music librarians, arts administrators, and music critics.

Music Instrumental Performance (BM)

This program was approved for students entering the university in the Summer 2021–Spring 2022 catalog year. For more information about catalog year, go to Catalog Year Information (p. 73).

Bachelor of Music with Emphasis in Instrumental Performance

Academic Plan Code(s): MUSIBM_INS

Program Information

The Bachelor of Music in Instrumental Performance degree is appropriate for students who wish to prepare for a career in music performance and related fields. Among the particular career emphases for which the BM in Instrumental Performance is an appropriate preparation are professional performer, university teacher, private music studio teacher, or pre-professional preparation for music teacher certification study. Since it is unlikely that graduates of the program will have developed all the requisite skills to enter the professional ranks of performers or university teachers, most graduates will continue to develop their skills through further study. Students who have completed the BM in Instrumental Performance at UofL typically do very well in gaining admission to strong graduate programs nationwide.

Unit: Music (<http://www.louisville.edu/music/>)
Academic Plan Code(s): MUSIBM_JAZ

Program Information

The Bachelor of Music in Jazz Performance degree is appropriate for students who wish to prepare for a career in music performance and related fields. The Bachelor of Music degree with an Emphasis in Jazz Performance is intended to prepare students with the skills needed to perform, compose and arrange within the jazz idiom. Among the goals of the degree are to prepare students to be skilled in the art of jazz improvisation, be well versed in a variety of performance techniques, be able to compose and arrange within the jazz idiom, and to have an understanding and appreciation of the jazz tradition through the study of and performance with jazz masters. Among the particular career emphases for which the BM in Jazz Performance is an appropriate preparation are professional performer, music arranger or composer, or teacher. Since it is unlikely that graduates of the program will have developed all the requisite skills to enter the professional ranks of performers or university teachers, most graduates will continue to develop their skills through additional study.

Music Organ Performance (BM)

This program was approved for students entering the university in the Summer 2021–Spring 2022 catalog year. For more information about catalog year, go to Catalog Year Information (p. 73).

Bachelor of Music with Emphasis in Organ Performance

Program Information

The Bachelor of Music in Performance degree is appropriate for students who wish to prepare for a career in music performance and related fields. Among the particular career emphases for which the BM in Performance is an appropriate preparation are professional performer, university teacher, private music studio teacher, or pre-professional preparation for music teacher certification study. Since it is unlikely that graduates of the program will have developed all the requisite skills to enter the professional ranks of performers or university teachers, most graduates will continue to develop their skills through further study.

The 560-seat Margaret Comstock Concert Hall at UofL houses three Steinway and a Bösendorfer “Imperial” concert grand pianos as well as a 64-rank Steiner-Reck organ, the largest of its kind in the Midwest. Also available to students are a number of practice organs.

Upper Division Assessment

All students enrolled in a music degree program will be reviewed at the approximate midpoint of the selected program in order for students to achieve Upper Division status. Students must meet the standards of this review to register for 400-level courses in music. Both the elements and standards of the review are established by the faculty and include credit for MUS 242 or Analysis (MUS 347 for BA, General; MUS 349 for BA General, Jazz Studies; MUS 350 for BA, Music & New Media); MUS 361; 4 semesters of Applied Instrument at the course numbers required for the degree; Piano Proficiency Examination; MUS 97, with a grade of S for 4 semesters; Ensemble participation; cumulative 2.5 GPA (good standing); minimum of 48 credit hours completed; pass ENGL 101 or ENGL 105; and 3 additional General Education courses.

Additional specific elements and standards appropriate to specific degree programs in jazz studies, music composition, music education, music history, instrumental and vocal performance, pedagogy, music theory, and music therapy are required of students in order to achieve Upper Division status and to continue in the degree program. Specific degree requirements are determined by the division and area faculties and are outlined in the Music Student Handbook and the various Division handbooks.

Requirement fulfilled by completing:
MUS 497	Senior Recital - CUE

- Students are required to take PAS 214 African-American Music - AH, D1 and ANTH 205 Music in World Cultures - D2, SB.
- MUH courses may not be taken to fulfill any General Education requirement.
- Students who do not pass the computer-based Fundamentals Test prior to the beginning of the fall semester are required to enroll in MUS 91 for 0 credit concurrently with MUS 141. Students who do not pass MUS 141, and students who enter the School of Music in January and do not place into MUS 142, must enroll in MUS 92 for the spring semester. Credits for MUS 92 do not count toward the degree.
- Solely dependent on the ensemble audition.
- Junior and Senior Recitals for all performance degrees are public recitals.
- Music electives in any Bachelor of Music degree should be chosen from courses in Music History, Music Theory/Composition, Music Education, Music Literature, Music Pedagogy, Music Therapy, Jazz, a secondary applied area, or a non-required ensemble. Courses beyond the degree requirement in the student's major applied area or in the required major ensemble(s) are not appropriate. MUH courses will not be accepted as music electives. School of Music students may count up to two one-hour Physical Education courses toward the general elective requirement.
- For the Track in Piano Pedagogy, the Senior Recital may be presented before the area faculty. A Junior Recital is strongly recommended for Pedagogy Majors.
- Piano Pedagogy students are strongly encouraged to take a course in Educational Psychology or Child Development and to include one course in Music Entrepreneurship, Orff Schulwerk, or study on a secondary or functional instrument.

Bachelor of Music with Emphasis in Music Theory

Academic Plan Code(s): MUSIBM_MUT

Program Information

The Bachelor of Music in Theory degree is designed for students interested in understanding and eventually teaching music theory. Many of the graduates of this degree will pursue graduate studies in music theory. In addition to those goals common to all professional baccalaureate degrees in music, students in music theory develop an advanced capability for music analysis, including sophisticated communication skills about analysis and the ability to analyze a musical work from multiple perspectives. Students also develop a sophisticated knowledge of the relationship between music theory and music composition, including the ability to compose music with acoustic and digital sources, and with a degree of technical mastery of music notation, arranging, and computer notation. Theory majors use the tools of music analysis and theoretical research, including keyboard, knowledge of foreign languages, and bibliographic tools. Research techniques and effective written and oral communication skills must be demonstrated by the development and presentation of a senior paper.

Music Therapy (BM)

This program was approved for students entering the university in the Summer 2021–Spring 2022 catalog year. For more information about catalog year, go to Catalog Year Information (p. 73).

Bachelor of Music with Emphasis in Music Therapy

Program Information

The music therapy program is designed for students who want to provide therapeutic services to people using music. Students must be strong musicians and find satisfaction in using music to help with non-music areas and skills, rather than as a goal in itself. Students' music skills will expand during their music therapy course work from performing on their principal instrument to also including functional piano, guitar, and voice skills, using other accompanying instruments such as the Q-chord and autoharp, and developing skill in using percussion instruments. The music therapy program requires good intellectual skills as music therapists are required to use analytical skills in determining clinical goals and writing skills in documentation.

Music therapy majors may work with any age group and with people with a variety of disabilities. As a member of a therapeutic team or private practitioner, the music therapist participates in the analysis of individual problems and the establishment of treatment goals before planning and carrying out music-related treatment. Music therapists may also do administration in various health-related settings and, with advanced degrees, may become university faculty.

Specific coursework information can be found on the Degree Requirements tab.

Departmental Admission Requirements

Students in this unit are admitted directly into their degree program.

Degree Requirements

The Music Therapy curriculum meets the competency requirements of the American Music Therapy Association (AMTA). Students must complete a minimum of 1200 hours of clinical training which includes at least 180 hours in pre-internship experiences and at least 900 hours in internship experiences. Students completing the Music Therapy curriculum are eligible to take the examination to become a Board Certified Music Therapist, offered by the Certification Board for Music Therapists.

A person who already has a bachelor's degree from an accredited institution and who wishes to become a music therapist may take the courses not already taken that are required for music therapy certification, known as "equivalency" courses since they provide the equivalent of an undergraduate degree. The music therapy equivalency program leads to eligibility to apply to become a Board Certified Music Therapist but does not lead to a degree. Specific course requirements, based on the student's transcript and experiences, are determined in conjunction with the Director of Music Therapy.

Students must demonstrate experience and competence in the use of percussion instruments and in the use of computers and music as appropriate for music therapists.

- <sup>2</sup> MUH courses may not be taken to fulfill any General Education requirement.
- <sup>3</sup> Students who do not pass the computer-based Fundamentals Test prior to the beginning of the fall semester are required to enroll in MUS 91 Fundamentals of Music I for 0 credit concurrently with MUS 141 Theory I. Students who do not pass MUS 141, and students who enter the School of Music in January and do not place into MUS 142 Theory II, must enroll in MUS 92 Musicianship I for the spring semester. Credits for MUS 92 do not count toward the degree.
- <sup>4</sup> Strings take Section 01, others solely dependent on the ensemble audition. Jazz Studies track students take six 1-hour courses of Jazz Ensemble plus two 1-hour courses of other Major Ensemble.
- <sup>5</sup> If the Applied Principal is piano, Piano Class is replaced with 3 hours of electives.
- <sup>6</sup> Students will take the Piano Proficiency Examination at the end of MUS 231. Any student not completing the Piano Proficiency Examination will be required to take MUS 232 until the proficiency exam requirement is complete. Students must be enrolled continuously in Piano Class until their requirement has been completed. Those who pass the Piano Proficiency Examination before the end of the third semester of Piano Class may replace the requirement with electives or with secondary piano if faculty load permits. Entering students who have a background in piano may register for MUS 297 Piano Proficiency for one semester with approval of the Keyboard Area.
- <sup>7</sup> The internship is done after all other music therapy course work has been completed. The American Music Therapy Association requires that a student receive a grade of C- or better in all music therapy courses in order to be eligible for the internship. It must be completed within 24 months of completion of music therapy course work. However, the School of Music will not accept work below a C (not a C-minus) in a major subject.
- <sup>8</sup> Music Therapy students will require a C (not C-minus) grade in order to pass Supportive Area courses.
- <sup>9</sup> Music Therapy degree students may substitute Voice study at the functional level, MUS 133, for MUS 227 Voice Class at the discretion of the voice faculty.
- <sup>10</sup> MUS 123 Diction is required for all applied voice students.

The Bachelor of Music Therapy (BM) program

prepares students to meet the requirements for certification and/or licensure. If you plan to pursue professional licensure or certification you should first determine your state's criteria for examination and licensure to see how/if our program meets those requirements prior to enrollment. We recommend that you also contact your state's licensing board directly to verify that the requirements have not changed recently and to answer any questions especially those regarding additional requirements beyond the degree.

More information about certification or licensure is available at the following website: <https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information>

(<https://louisville.edu/oapa/licensure-information/>) (you may search by school or by the name of the program then click on 'View Details' to display the information).

The Bachelor of Science in Organizational Leadership and Learning with a focus on Healthcare Leadership allows healthcare professionals to capitalize on existing knowledge and experience, and earn a bachelor's degree that can further enhance your skills in leadership, organizational change, workplace development and performance and attain higher-level positions in your organization.

UofL's OnTrack program is the first of its kind in the state and region, with a curriculum based on the National Center for Healthcare Leadership's (NCHL.org) competency model, which is one of the leading industry standard models for healthcare executive competencies development.

This program is essential for individuals who have acquired experience in the healthcare field, but are missing the proper credentials for promotions within their organization, increased pay, or management and leadership roles.

College/School Requirements		0
Program/Major Requirements		77
Track Requirements		12
Minimum Total Hours		120

Specific coursework information can be found on the Degree Requirements tab.

The program is offered in two distinct enrollment pathways: Flex Option and Term Option.

Flex Option: This is the current pathway for students wishing to pursue the Competency-Based Education model (CBE). In Flex Option, students have 32 weeks to move through the program materials at their own pace. Many students value this level of flexibility. This path places the responsibility on the student to set and maintain their own pace to finish the materials on time. Students may enroll in additional CBE courses as soon as all previously enrolled courses are completed to expedite program completion. Financial Aid is dependent on timely completion.

Students may start the program on the first Tuesday of every month (except December). Students in this program will register for all major and track courses with their assigned Success Coach. All tuition and fees for CBE courses are non-refundable when a student begins a CBE course.

The CBE course term begins with enrollment and the onset of academic activity. Flex Option/CBE courses are student self-paced, but students must complete enrolled CBE courses within 32 weeks. A student cannot withdraw from a CBE course once started.

Term Option: In this pathway, students enroll in half-term courses and complete each course within a predetermined time frame. This option is for students who wish to follow a more structured and traditional university schedule while taking advantage of accelerated sessions. Two half-term sessions will be available in Fall and Spring and multiple sessions will be available in the Summer.

Students may start the program at the beginning of the first half of the Fall or Spring terms, or at the beginning of the second half of the Fall or Spring terms; students may also begin at the start of one of multiple offerings in the summer term. This allows students to start the Term Option program several times per year, and enroll in half-term session courses. All coursework in the Term-Option Pathway must be completed within the half-term period. Tuition and fees in Term-Option enrollments may be refunded in accordance with normal university policies.

Additional Information: For more information on the Healthcare Leadership program, please go to louisville.edu/online/programs/competency-based-degree-programs/healthcare-leadership-cbe (<http://>

louisville.edu/online/programs/competency-based-degree-programs/healthcare-leadership-cbe/

UofL also offers non-CBE BS programs in Organizational Leadership and Learning (p. 386) with tracks in Career and Technical Education and Leadership, Training and Organizational Development (LTOD).

Departmental Admission Requirements

Applicants to the BS in Organizational Leadership and Learning with a track in Healthcare Leadership must have a 2.7 cumulative GPA in college level courses and at least 2,000 hours (approximately one year) of healthcare experience across a wide variety of organizational settings.

Department: Pan-African Studies (<http://louisville.edu/panafricanstudies/>)

Academic Plan Code(s): PAS_BA

Completion of this degree requires work to be submitted for the department's Learning Outcomes Measurement. For details, contact the department.

Program Information

The Department of Pan-African Studies (PAS) has developed a Bachelor of Arts and a Bachelor of Science degree. This provides an opportunity for structured undergraduate study in the multi-disciplinary field of Pan-

PAS majors have career options quite similar to those of students with baccalaureate degrees in the humanities and social sciences and a PAS minor often enhances the employability of students who major in other fields.

Increasingly, PAS majors are also finding career opportunities specific to the discipline itself. Such opportunities are most common in social, cultural and educational agencies/organizations, and in business and international affairs initiatives that concern people of color. Other PAS graduates choose to pursue graduate degrees.

Program Information

Philosophy department courses and programs enable students at all levels to think deeply and critically about some of the most fundamental questions of human life as great thinkers have raised them across time and space, and in the traditions of Europe, America, Africa, and Asia. With particular strengths in areas of overlap between philosophy and other disciplines – politics, health sciences, psychology, literature and the arts, economics, Pan-African Studies, and beyond – Philosophy at the University of Louisville is a keystone that unifies a broad undergraduate education and prepares graduates for an unpredictable world ahead. Philosophy also houses the minor in Philosophy, Politics, and Economics (PPE) as well as the graduate MA in Interdisciplinary Studies - Health Care Ethics. The Department's faculty has achieved exceptional research productivity and prides itself on outstandingly high student evaluations.

Completion of the Philosophy degree requires work to be submitted for the program's Learning Outcomes Measurement. For details, contact the department.

Degree Audit Report

Degree Audit reports illustrate how your completed courses fulfill the requirements of your academic plan. What-if reports allow you to compare the courses you have completed in your current academic plan to the courses required in another academic plan. Should you have questions about either report, please consult with your academic advisor.

To create either report:

1. Log into your ULink account.
2. Click on the Academic Progress tile.
3. Next, click on "View my Degree Audit" to run a Degree Audit report in the Undergraduate Advising area.

- To create a What-if report, click on "Create a What-if Advisement Report."

Unit: College of Arts and Sciences (AS) (<http://www.louisville.edu/a-s/>)
Department: Political Science (<http://louisville.edu/politicalscience/>)
Academic Plan Code(s): See Track Requirements tab.

Program Information

This program can be completed in a traditional classroom format or entirely online (<https://louisville.edu/online/programs/bachelors/online-bachelor-of-arts-in-political-science/>).

Bachelor of Arts in Political Science program at UofL cultivates an understanding of policy, politics and governments in the United States and around the globe. We offer a wide range of courses including campaigns and elections, the Presidency and Congress, social movements and civil rights, terrorism and war, constitutional law, environmental policy, religious politics, urban politics and poverty, and international politics. The department is a particularly inviting environment for students, with small class sizes, our own building, a computer lab, and options to specialize via several tracks in our major.

Political Science majors at the University of Louisville have been extremely successful in earning prestigious scholarships and fellowships. The roster of recent successes includes numerous Fulbright Award winners and multiple Truman Scholars. Since 2010, three of our students have won the annual Mary Churchill Humphrey scholarship, often described as UofL's Rhodes Scholarship because it supports graduate study in Great Britain. Many of our majors go on to have successful careers in government, international affairs, nongovernmental organizations, business, academia, and media.

Completion of this degree requires work to be submitted for the department's Learning Outcomes Measurement. For details, contact the department.

Bachelor of Science in Political Science

Unit: College of Arts and Sciences (AS) (<http://www.louisville.edu/a-s/>)
Department: Political Science (<http://louisville.edu/politicalscience/>)
Academic Plan Code(s): POLSBS_LP.

Program Information

Bachelor of Science in Political Science program at UofL cultivates an understanding of policy, politics and governments in the United States and around the globe. We offer a wide range of courses including campaigns and elections, the Presidency and Congress, social movements and civil rights, terrorism and war, constitutional law, environmental policy, religious politics, urban politics and poverty, and international politics. The department is a particularly inviting environment for students, with small class sizes, our own building, a computer lab, and options to specialize via several tracks in our major.

Political Science majors at the University of Louisville have been extremely successful in earning prestigious scholarships and fellowships. The roster of recent successes includes numerous Fulbright Award winners and multiple Truman Scholars. Since 2010, three of our students have won the annual Mary Churchill Humphrey scholarship, often described as UofL's Rhodes Scholarship because it supports graduate study in Great Britain. Many of our majors go on to have successful careers in government, international affairs, nongovernmental organizations, business, academia, and media.

Completion of this degree requires work to be submitted for the department's Learning Outcomes Measurement. For details, contact the department.

Political Science majors who are considering pursuing a master's degree (MA) in Political Science can speed up the process by applying some of their undergraduate credit hours toward a master's degree. Students accepted into the Accelerated BA-BS/MA take three graduate courses (9 credit hours) as an undergraduate that apply toward both the bachelor's degree and the eventual master's degree.

Interested students must apply for admission to the program in the first semester of the senior year (i.e., after completing 90 hours). Applicants must meet the general requirements for admission to the Graduate School and must submit an application to the Department of Political Science. Applicants should have an undergraduate major or minor in social science or have sufficient alternative preparation in the social sciences.

Bachelor of Arts in Public Health

Unit: Public Health and Information Sciences (<http://louisville.edu/sphis/>)

Academic Plan Code(s): PH_ _BA

Program Information

The School of Public Health and Information Sciences (SPHIS) offers two undergraduate degree options: Bachelor of Science in Public Health for students focused on public health practice and Bachelor of Arts in Public Health for liberal studies.

A degree in public health provides students with the skills they need to improve the health of populations and communities, as well as alleviate suffering caused by disease, injuries and health disparities. Public Health majors learn how to inquire, challenge and explore options that promote the health and well-being of the community.

A BA in Public Health prepares students for positions in specific sectors of public health, health services, and public policy, with career opportunities in health education, health care administration, health research, environmental health, and more. Examples of job settings could include colleges and universities, federal and state health agencies, and community and international organizations. Both degrees prepare students for advanced degrees in public health, law, and clinical health professions (i.e., PA, PT, Nursing, Pharmacy, Medicine, and Dentistry).

Accelerated BA-MPH in Public Health

The accelerated degree program allows a student to complete the Bachelor of Arts in Public Health (BA) and the Master of Public Health (MPH) over a five year period. The first four years consist of undergraduate studies, including five core public health graduate level courses (15 credit hours) taken during the senior year, culminating in the award of the Bachelors of Arts in Public Health degree.

The fifth year, including the summer following graduation with a bachelor's degree, consists of graduate coursework in public health, leading to completion of the Master of Public Health (MPH) degree. The Master of Public Health (MPH) degree program is designed to provide students with training in foundational MPH competencies as well as a specific area of concentration. MPH concentrations currently available for the accelerated program are:

- Epidemiology
- Health Policy
- Health Promotion and Behavior
- Global Public Health with an emphasis in Maternal and Child Health

MPH graduates are prepared for positions in the public health work force, health-related industries, academic organizations, or for further professional or academic education.

The accelerated curriculum allows students to take up to 15 credit hours of the Master of Public Health core course work during their undergraduate studies. The 15 graduate credits referred to below will count towards the completion of both the BA and MPH degrees and will substitute for required undergraduate courses as follows:

Fall Curriculum, all concentrations:

- Undergraduate course: PHST 301 Quantitative Methods in Public Health
MPH replacement course: PHST 500 Introduction to Biostatistics for Health Sciences I
- Undergraduate course: PHPB 300 Social and Behavioral Foundations of Public Health
MPH replacement course: PHPB 501 Introduction to Public Health Behavior
- Undergraduate course: PHEP 341 Epidemiological Concepts and Methods for Public Health
MPH replacement course: PHEP 501 Introduction to Epidemiology
- Undergraduate course: PHMS 301 Introduction to the U.S. Healthcare Delivery Systems
MPH replacement course: PHMS 501 Introduction to Public Health Practice and Administration

Spring Curriculum Based on Concentration:

- Undergraduate course: PHEH 301 Public Health and Our Environment
MPH replacement course: PHEH 500 Introduction to Environmental and Occupational Health Sciences

OR

- Undergraduate course: 300+ level General Elective (3.0 credit hours)
MPH replacement course: PHST 501 Introduction to Biostatistics for Health Sciences II

For more information on the accelerated program click here (<http://louisville.edu/sphis/current-students/accelerated-mph-program/>).

Accelerated BA-MPH in Public Health Admissions Process

Pre-Enrollment

Undergraduates who will have earned a minimum of 75 credit hours and a cumulative GPA of 3.25 may pursue the accelerated degree program option. Eligible students who complete the following by February 1st of the student's sixth undergraduate semester can receive permission to enroll in MPH graduate level courses from the director of the MPH program:

- Submit an online program-petition (<http://louisville.edu/sphis/current-students/accelerated-mph-program-petition-form/>)
- Submit resume
- Submit a letter of recommendation, preferably from a UofL faculty member, that speaks to their academic abilities, to Academic Coordinator Rachel Quick at rachel.quick@louisville.edu

Pre-Admission & Concentration Declaration

Students granted permission to enroll in graduate-level courses will need to declare a concentration for the Master of Public Health graduate degree by November 15 of the student's seventh undergraduate semester. The concentration options for an accelerated student are Epidemiology, Global Public Health with an emphasis in Maternal and Child Health, Health Promotion and Behavioral Sciences, and Health Policy. Students applying to the epidemiology concentration will be required to have a strong quantitative background. ACT score, math placement score, and MATH 111 or higher course will be considered. A representative from the desired concentration will schedule an interview with the student to determine provisional admission and approval of concentration declaration for the students accelerated program.

Provisional Admission

Once approved to declare a concentration, the student is now provisionally admitted to the MPH accelerated program and must complete the following steps no later than the final year of their undergraduate studies to formally apply to the MPH program:

- Submit a complete UofL Graduate School Application (<https://louisville.edu/graduate/futurestudents/apply-materials/application/>) no later than March 1st and apply for the Summer term unless the student is pursuing the Health Promotion & Behavioral Sciences concentration, in which case that student should apply for the Fall term.
  - Accelerated MPH students DO NOT submit a SOPHAS Application
- Submit two letters of recommendation written within the last twelve months (one from a faculty member of the undergraduate UofL public health program).
- Overall GPA for the undergraduate degree (including the core courses) must be a minimum of 3.0, and students must have made a grade of B or better in each of the following MPH core courses:
  - PHST 500 Introduction to Biostatistics for Health Sciences I
  - PHPB 501 Introduction to Public Health Behavior
  - PHEP 501 Introduction to Epidemiology
  - PHMS 501 Introduction to Public Health Practice and Administration
  - PHST 501 Introduction to Biostatistics for Health Sciences II (if applicable to concentration)
  - PHEH 500 Introduction to Environmental and Occupational Health Sciences (if applicable to concentration)
- Official transcripts of all degrees or course work completed at UofL and any coursework completed from other institutions prior to matriculation at UofL.
- One-page personal statement written by the applicant that is a clear, substantive description of his or her goals in public health, noting any professional or research experience.
- Resume/CV
